MEMORIAL UNION CONTRACT LET

Senators Attain League Title After 40-Year Effort

Washington Now Is 21-2 Games Ahead of Yanks

Walter Johnson Rewarded In 18th Season

Washington People Celebrate Event In Heavy Rain

CHICAGO, Sept. 29—President Ban Johnson of the American league selected Tom Conolly and William Dineen as the American league umpires in the world series, starting in Washington next Saturday. Connolly, a veteran of twenty-four years has officiated in six world's series.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29— Washington today clinched the first pennant it has had since breaking into the big league baseball exactly 40 years ago, and, as the flag bearer of the American league, will fight it out with the New York Giants. four-times National league champions, in the world's series starting next Saturday at the capitol city.

New York is Second

By defeating the Boston Red Sox this afternoon, the Senators brought to a climax one of the most spectacular diamond campaigns in history, and accomplished the downfall of the New York Yankees, once proud world's champions, who tonight repose in second place, 2 1-2 games behind the leaders.

The Yankees have two games to play with Philadelphia tomorrow, while Washington has once more with the Red Sox, but regardless of the outcome of these, Miller Huggins must step off the American league throne after a three-year reign in favor of Stanley Harris, pilot of the Senators and the youngest manager who ever led a major league club to victory.

Washingtons rise this year under the aggressive leadership of 28-year old Harris, a major leaguer only five years and experiencing his first managerial test, is one of the most dramatic achievements in base ball annals. This fighting youngster will meet one of the greatest strategists of the game when he takes the field against John McGraw, gray haired "master mind" of the Giants.

Johnson in 18th Year

Sharing the glory of Washington's triumph with Harris are Walter Johnson, one of the greatest pitchers of all time, and Clark Griffith, now president and former manager of the club. In his 18th season, Johnson has been the mainstay of the team's twirling corps and now will realize a life-long ambition to pitch in a world's series. Griffith, the "old fox," is credited with being the "man behind the gun" in the Senators campaign, and having had much to do with the club's successful strategy.

Washington's first flag in the twenty-four seasons the club has been in the American league was won after a terrific closing fight in which Harris and his men came through to victory on foreign grounds.

It is taking no credit from the Senator's victory, however, to say that they were in friendly hands.

Boston fans, during the series there, were loud in their calls for a Washington victory.

Washington Cheers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 — Delighted Washington celebrated tonight in main street fashion its first American league pennant. A driving rain could not drown out enthusiasm. Water-soaked street urchins were no more excited than dignified government officials.

Word of today's victory flew over the city.

Mrs. Coolidge was one of the first to hear it at the White House and gave tidings to the president. The telegram from the executive mansions which was signed by C. Bascom Slemp, secretary to the president, and addressed to manager Harris, read:

"Heartiest congratulations to you and your team in bringing Washington its first pennant. We of Washington are proud of you and

Brookhart Still Silent on Politics

Expected To Disclose Whom He'll Support Thursday

DES MOINES, Sept. 29—(AP)—U. S. Senator Smith W. Brookhart left here tonight for Camp Perry, Ohio, still declining to discuss politics for publication.

The senator will attend a meeting of the executive committee of the national rifle association Wednesday, returning to Iowa Thursday for his initial campaign speech at Emmetsburg the following day.

This speech, it is expected, will disclose whether the senator will actively campaign for Senator LaFollette, in defiance of statements by republican leaders that such a course would "definitely eliminate him from the republican party in Iowa."

The senator prepared the speech today, following conferences here with his political advisers.

Wheeler O. K.'s Democrat Adams; Makes 3 Speeches

Straightens 3rd Party Tangles In Colorado 3 Groups Will Name Wheeler-La Follette Electors

By the Associated Press

DENVER, COLO. Sept. 29—Besides taking steps to straighten out third ticket electorial tangles in Colorado, Senator Wheeler, independent vice presidential candidate, made three speeches today in Denver. In the third principal one, delivered tonight at a downtown auditorium, he conferred an indorsement upon Senator Adams, democrat, who contesting the Colorado seat now held by Senator Phipps, republican, and assailed Senator Phipps' legislative record.

Identical LaFollette-Wheeler electors will be named by three different groups in Colorado, Senator Wheeler announced after his conferences with leaders of divisions supporting that ticket. The compromise, which he said was satisfactory to local elements and the national management, will give the same electors party classifications as socialit farmer-labor and progessive. State tickets which maybe filed along with the electors, he stated in beginning his nights peech, would have no indorsement from the national organization.

"Senator Phipps," he said, "by his very speech and vote has shown that he considers himself the representative of his own private business and the agent of the Pennsylvania steel mills and the steel trust in the senate."

Citing Senator Phipps' vote to republican, Michigan, in the senate, the candidate predicted his defeat, "because of those who so vited, only two have escaped with their political lives."

"You have sent another senator to Washington who is not betraying your interests. For his service in helping unearth the fraud upon the people represented by the Teapot Dome steal, he should have the everlasting gratitude of his own state.

"I believe you will see that Alva Adams remains in the senate.

"Two Denver newspapers had so much inside influence cocerning the Teapot steal that you must have been kept fully informed. Since one of them received 125,000 for his information and another received 90,000 for which he new they must have kept their readers advised of that particular episode.

"Ma" Ferguson Is Legally Justified, Says Texas Judge

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 29—(AP)—Brushing aside all the lod common law barriers against the right of women to hold office, Judge George C. Calhoun today ruled that Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson is legally qualified to be governor of Texas. In an opinion which Mrs. Ferguson's lawyers said was a thorough exposition of the law and a complete vindication of the position of the first woman nominee for governor, Judge Calhoun declared that neither the constitution of the state nor the statues of the legislature bar women.

Oh Girls C'm'on Over Quick! The Prince Is Coming---Maybe!

Hey, Girls, the Prince of Wales is coming!

Maybe!

Campus shieks may meet strenuous opposition!

Coach Charles Kenett, University golf instructor, knows the prince very well and probably will invite him to Iowa City.

During the war, Coach Kenett served in the king's company of the grenadier guards of which the Prince of Wales was captain. Mr. Kenett says of his captain that he is a real democrat and a fine fellow.

So the great prince, renowned for his powers as a would-be horseman, for his many polo matches, and the hearts he has broken in America, may appear here at last.

Mr. Kennett, while serving in the British army under the Prince won three medals issued by the British government, the 14-15 star, the general service medal, and the Victory medal. In addition, he was given the king's certificate when gas finally put him out of it.

With a great deal of persuasion, Mr. Kenett gave out some more interesting information.

He confessed he has given golf lessons to many in the nobility. Among these were Prince Albert of Holstein, the famous Dostor Jamison, and the Grand Duke Michael of the Russian guards, and Countess Torby, his wife.

Coach even helped Horace Hutchinson, the great British amateur, write his book on golf; and has also played with him a great deal.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 29—(AP)—Plans were being made tonight by six United States army lieutenants, who completed the first circum navigation of the globe here yesterday, to leave Seattle at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning to attend the Pultizer airplanes race at Dayton, Ohio. A program of addresse concluded with a dedicatory talk by U. S. Senator Wesley L. Jones, preceded the unveiling of a monument today at San Point erected in commemoration of the first around the world airplane flight. The monument was unveiled by Mrs. Francois Cole of Spokane, Wash., sister of Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold, mechanic for Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, commander of the flight.

Mrs. Cora Arnold, mother of Lieutenant Arnold, was present at the ceremony. The polished granite column is fifteen feet high, three feet in wide at the base and tapers to two feet in width at the top. The bronze wings on the top of a model of the globe symbolizes a bird alighting at the end of a long flight.

Sentiment Swings To Japan; Entrust Problem to Three

Delegates Rest After Day of Immense Strain

Hope to Please All World Parliaments And Japan

By The Associated Press

GENEVA, Sept. 29—The swing of sentiment to Japan was the outstanding feature of the critical situation in Geneva tonight. After laboring without cessation throughout the entire day, the leaders had to confess that they had not yet discovered the miraculous formula, which, while satisfying the aspirations of the Japanese, would keep the proposed protocol of arbitration and security strong enough to win not only the support of the delegations assembled at Geneva, but, what is more important, the ratifications of the world parliaments.

While no solutions were found, various channels of settlement have been explored and prominent delegates said tonight that there was an earnest expectation or reaching some accord. There is, however, no weakening in evidence among the Japanese, who say they have unequivocal directions from Tokio to maintain their attitude of opposition to any protocal plan which would make Japan an aggresor if she fail ed to abide by a world court decision based upon the interpretations of matters supposed to be within the exclusive jurisdiction of other parties to the dispute.

The entire Japanese difficulty was threshed out today at a private meeting of the league council when Viscount Ishii, at the request of the council, made a frank exposition of the Japanese viewpoint. This council exposition was followed throughout the day by repeated private conference between the principal delegates.

Eventually the problem was entrusted to the study of three men, Sir Cecil Hurst, of England, M. Loucheur, France, and Signor Sciaioia, Italy, the first and last named being celebrated international jurist, and M. Louncheur being one of the most prominent industrialists of France, owner of newspapers and a former cabinet minister. This committee will meet tomorrow.

Everybody connected with the affair is so worn out and excited by the suddenness and gravity of the issue that by unanimous consent all decided to pass the night in quiet reflection.

An Account of Memorial Union Ideal, and How Eventually Realized

By Claude E. Puffer

Early in the spring of 1919, a small group of alumni and members of the nstructional staff of the University of Iowa arranged a series of meetings to discuss the possibilities of a memorial to Iowa soldiers. This was the origin of the Iowa Memorial Union. In this group were President Jessup, Professor Weller, Dean Raymond, Mrs. Graec P. Smith, and Professor Ensign, who served as acting secretary of the University of Iowa association. At these meetings, there was much discussion in regard to the idea of a building to serve as a meeting place for students and alumni of Iowa and at the same time be worthy of the soldiers.

A more formal meeting was held June 1, 1919. There were present President Jessup, Professor Weller, Colonel Mumma, Dean Raymond, Charles M. Dutcher, Arthur G. Cox, Mrs. Grace P. Smith, and Professor Ensign. Mrs. Smith acted as secretary. This group decided to recommend to the executive committee of the University of Iowa association, plans for a memorial building. They also recommended that it should feature the idea of a students union. And they further selected from the prominent alumni, a group of seven men with whom immediate correspondence was opened in order to secure their judgment of the general scheme. Part of these men were members of the executive committee of th Univrsity of Iowa association, and this group, so important later in organizing the Memorial Union, is referred to in the early minutes as the "Board of Seven." This latter informal committee went so far as to secure through University architects, a rough outline of plans for a suitable building.

Executives Detail Plans

At a meeting of the executive committee of the association, plans were considered in minute detail, and it was decided to recommend to the association at the annual business meeting the creation of a Memorial Union, with a definite board of trustees. The association at the commencement of 1919 approved the suggestion, and the Iowa Memorial association was launched.

The newly elected board of trustees met in Des Moines July 17, 1919, there being present at this meeting the president of the union, Fred Sargent, attorney for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, William H. Bremner, of the Minneapolis and St. Louis railway, Rush C. Butler, attorney in Chicago, Charles M. Dutcher, W. O. Finkbine of the Green Bay Lumber company, John M. Grimm, of Cedar Rapids, and Carl F. Kuehnle of Denison.

Present, but not members of the board, were Judge Martin J. Wade, and Professors Cuming, Weller, and Ensign. At this meeting steps were taken to incorporate the union, and tentative plans were laid for financing its construction.

First Plan Inadequate

At first a $500,000 building was planned, but it was seen that this would be inadequate and a goal of $1,000,000 was set. A whirlwind campaign was planned for the fall of 1919 and elaborate preparations were made to canvass every county in the state and every important city in the country. Unfortunately, the memorable coal strike occurred. labor was disorganized, and the financial situation developed in such a way that only a few thousand dollars were secured in the initial drive.

Now More than $600,000

The story of subsequent campaigns is well known to most of the students on the campus. The fact that total subscriptions have now passed the $600,000 mark with enough cash on hand to warrant the contract for the first unit is tribute to the persistence of those back of the project and the fine spirit of the students of Iowa.

Applicants will be examined by a committee from the student council on October 9 and elections will take place October 15.

'Avoid Alliances With Girls and Jobs,' Stewart

"Treat your vocation as you would a girl," advised Dr. Craig Stewart of Evanston, Ill., in an interview here Sunday. "Take them all out but avoid entangling alliances until your senior year, and don't forget that no matter what career you choose, no matter what opportunities it may seem to have, it is by your own personality that you can make your work rich, that you can develop those opportunities.

"Of course young people want a good time, and it is only right that they should get it. They must taste experience to the full for how else are they going to establish a background whereby they may judge life?

"There are three things for which a student comes to the University," Dr. Stewart declared. "These are: a social time, athletics, and study.

He gets a social time through his fraternity, other organizations, and through his contacts outside of his own particular group.

Socialization is the greatest power for development of a personality and for adaptation. Athletics might be called a cause which binds together all students in a common interest. And study is the development of mental life.

If one of these three things is developed at the expense of the others, one's soul is not well rounded. One must not over emphasize the silly things of life and forget the important ones. Don't live on the fringe of things.

"So religion," he concluded, "is that force in you, the God in you, which makes the background which helps to horizon your life."

Green Cap Party Set For Nov. 22

Council Sets Dates For Social Functions Of Year

Dates of the freshman class party and the University class formals were fixed yesterday afternoon by the student council when it met for the first time this year.

The green cap party which will head the social schedule as arranged by the council which will be held on November 22 and will be the only one of the four big class parties to be held on Saturday night. The Sophomore cotillion will follow three weeks on December 12, which is the Friday preceding vacation time for the Christmas holidays.

The Junior Prom and the Senior Hop have been reserved for the second semester social events, the junior promenade to be held on Friday, February 20, and the seniors society debout to be held on Friday, March 20. In accordance with the precedent established last year, members of the student council will furnish student chaperons for each of the four parties.

Arrangements for the nominations and elections of class officers were also completed at the council meeting when it was decided that applications for the offices should be in the hands of George Gibbs, A4 of Alton, president of the council, not later than October 8.

To Break Ground For First Unit Within Ten Days

Will Finish Building In Year, Terms Of Contract

Contains Lounge And Banquet Halls; Room For Sports

Ground for the memorial union building on the Iowa river will be broken in ten days.

The first unit of the building will be entirely complete by next September 1, if the contract signed last night is carried out by the contractor, Theodore Stark and company of Cedar Rapids.

In an ecstasy of joy that the ambition of all supporters of Iowa is at last to be realized, President Jessup said last night:

"This move marks the first step in the building of the memorial union and it means that the union will finally be a reality. With the building of the first unit settled, we should all look forward to the early starting of the second unit and the final completion of the building as originally outlined."

In order to facilitate speedy construction, the University has promised to aid the contractors in every way possible. All the property is to be cleared immediately.

Looking over the plans for the unit number one soon to be built, it appears that the building committee has strained every nerve to accommodate all the students in all branches of social life, as nearly as it's possible.

Committee Sign Contract

The contract was let in the offices of Senator Charles M. Dutcher, Iowa City attorney and chairman of the building committee, with President Walter A. Jessup, and Attornel John M. Grimm of Cedar Rapids, Senator Dutcher and H. J. Moore of Des Moines, architect for the memorial union.

There is a place for dancing, for lounging, for parties, and for banquets. Winter sports and summer sports alike can be carried on in season inside the structure. In addition, are office spaces and rooms for special meetings.

The present unit is to be the center of the three ultimate units. And when the campus later on appears in reality, as it now looms in the minds of the building committee, these combined buildings on the north below Old Capitol will be balanced by a similar structure where the engineer shops now stand.

Below is a detailed account of unit number one:

The main hall of the first unit of the memorial union will be somewhat larger than the present floor of the men's gymnasium. This spacious room is to serve as a student lounge, but will also serve for the large student gatherings and parties. During homecoming and commencement weeks the hall will be used by alumni for their banquets and other social functions.

Pleasing features of the main lounge are the four fireplaces, two on the north and two on the south, with the beamed ceiling harmonizing effectively with them.

To the extreme south-east corner of the room will be located a large kitchen from which banqueters can be served. Adjacent to the kitchen on the west will be a tier of three dining rooms, about about 15 by 25 feet, opening into the main lounge.

Six Committee Rooms

Bordering the main lounge on the north and east are located six committee rooms and offices, a coat room for men, and another for women.

Opening off from and surrounding the main lounge is a sun porch, 150 by 21 feet, with terrazzo floor, brick walls, and a beamed ceiling.

Basement for Sports

Just as the main lounge of the first unit will feature University banquets and parties, so the main hall of the basements will give prominence to sports. This will be divided into four compartments. The main sports room, 40 by 90 feet, will be used for water sports in the spring and fall and ice sports in winter. The two locker rooms will occupy the central section of the basement floor with a large storage room to the back. Several small rooms on the east and north are to be used for various purposes.

A promenade will surround the sports room, bearing the same location relationship to the basement floor as the sun porch does to the main lounge of the first floor.

Dreams Come True

WHOEVER dreamed the dream of an Iowa Memorial Union must have whispered it before breakfast. That telling dreams at that mystic hour makes them come true is quite as generally accepted as the black cat bugaboo and the broken mirror terror. And there are those who unhesitatingly walk beneath a ladder who would refrain from the fragrant soup of the southern bean until the perfectly gorgeous dream has been confided to some sympathetic soul.

The Union was a gorgeous dream, possessed of that dynamic quality which once alive moves of its own force. And now that the first unit of the Union is about to be realized who of the ranks of pure reason dares to contend that the original dreamer, were it day dream or night dream, was so unmoved as to prosaically contemplate breakfast until he had started the inspiration on its way. And the seed of his enthusiasm sown at that past day has taken root and flourished wherever Iowa's sons and daughters are to be found. The yield is sometimes as uncertain as the next year's crop of Iowa corn, but the quality of the spirit runs as true as the golden grain.

To the newer members of the University community the coming true may be without import. To the senior class which three years ago hoped to be the first to enjoy the privileges of its stately halls; to the freshman class of three years ago which struggled to fittingly express in a freshman theme how much the Memorial Union might mean to the University there is something of magic in the fulfillment.

The Flower of Fidelity

IN a recent talk to the new members of the faculty, Dean Kay plucked the flower of fidelity from the grave of Dean Samuel Calvin, and held it up that all might view its beauty and inhale its fragrance.

Dean Calvin, to whom Dean Kay was assistant for several years, had an absolute fidelity to his students. It was his custom, as a preparation for lecturing to them, to spend fifteen minutes immediately before class in considering how he could best present his material to them, how he could best serve them. He observed this "silent session" rigorously, and it was a rule that during it he must not be disturbed.

Such a spirit of fidelity to the students, of wanting to help them do their best, is strong among the University faculty today, and is being fostered among them. "The first great care of a member of the University faculty is to do his whole duty to his students," said Dean Kay in his address, which endeavored to bring the "spirit of Iowa" to new faculty members.

To a real craftsman, beyond all other pleasures, excepting that only which lies in his own work, there is the pleasure of the feeling that he has aided in shaping the beauty of the work of a fellow craftsman, his protege. But the protege must do his part. The instructor is is faithful to the student; and equal fidelity on the part of the student is only a fair thing to expect if the student is to gain anything worth while in his work.

This incentive to intellectual achievement, and a feeling of cooperation, are two of the finest things which a student may hope to obtain from his education.

WAR boasts no hero more worthy of decoration than Raymond Steinmetz, Kansas motorist who snatched a little girl from certain death before an on-rushing locomotive. Driving at thirty miles an hour while he stood on the running board and guided the car with one hand, he reached for the child and drew her to safety as the thundering engine grazed the fenders of his machine in passing. It is refreshing to find this story on a page full of disheartening tragedy.

The incident is merely a cross section of normal life. The average man is made a hero by the call of need. The indifference of man to the needs of his less fortunate peoples and races and individuals is not due to a lack of sympathy but to failure to get the picture of their need.

But once let him get the picture of it, he will arise to the emergency of bringing relief. He does not believe with Falstaff that "the better part of valor is discretion." He has left the brute too far behind to be unmindful of his fellows. There is reason for believing that we can make progress toward peace and helpfulness. The spirit of this act is the spirit of a world making its way toward a better day.

What would you have done in a case like that?

Would you have saved the child?

Probably you do not know?

Rochefoucauld says no man can tell how much he has of courage or valor until he has been in danger.

Lovely Labors Lost

REVERSION

The Column's turned to doggerel
Since I was in it last;
We used to like our old Vers Libre
But I guess them days is past.

Maybe it's 'cause this Column Ed
Don't like the bloomin' stuff
And maybe to the Column Hounds
It's like readin' in the rough.

So I am writin' jingles
Like when I was a kid
To see if I can't make the "Lost"
Like once the "Board" I did.

That's the way I juggle words
To make two rhyme with four.
But if the Ed and Column Hounds
Want more I'll give 'em more.

We are in receipt (we used to write business letters before we were humbled) of some contributions which we should like to use but the perpetrator of the poignantly powerful poetry failed to provide a pen name. That is a responsibility than we cannot assume. If the contributor who inquired after our little Quads will committ itself to a nom de plume (that's the word we've been trying for) we will relate to our readers the tragedy of the tuxedo. But you mustn't call us 'Em"—only our enemies call us by our first name. To the great minority we are Mr. (or is it Miss?) Quad.

We have often wondered what we would do when the stern world calls upon us to do something useful. We have just decided that there is no greater service we can render than the raising of the literary style of beauty advertisements. Just to show you what we can do in this line, we have dashed off a little sample.

Use Smith's Beauty Bundle—the Concentrate of Handsomeness.

You Furnish the Face—We Furnish the Beauty. Carry it around with yuo, Fits neatly and compactly into a steamer trunk.

When the iceman's fingers touch you as he presents his ice bill, does his hand linger lovingly over yours—or does he shrink from you in disgust because your skin is coarse? Gentlemen will love to touch your skin if you follow the directions accompanying Smith's Beauty Bundle. Try it for cauliflower ears, distorted features, sandy complexion, and cross eyes. Your own mirror won't know you.

Run over the face with a tough curry comb, This soothes and invigorates the skin and opens the pores. Rub in a half cup of Smith's Beauty Grease with the finger tips and run a piece of cold ice over the face. Repeat. Douse the head in boiling water until you feel the skin scorching. Take out head. Splash Smith's Beauty Lotion liberally on the face. Dust with a salt shaker containing Smith's Beauty Soot. Soak the head again in hot water. Soak in cold water. Repeat.

Wash the neck and face with Smith's Beauty Soap which is a special preparation made from the hoofs of our own cows, reared in our own laboratories and scientifically brought up. Run over the face with a piece of coarse sandpaper. A nutmeg grater will do. Pour on Smith's Beauty Gasoline. In case this leaves the face smarting, apply Smith's Soothifier, which frequently causes the cheeks to glisten. To remove the glist, apply Smith's Beauty Cream with a butter spreader.

Soak the face in water heated to 89 degrees. Put aside to dry. If face is too red, apply Smith's Beauty Talc. If face is too white, use Smith's Beauty Mud, splashing liberally on face until completely covered. Let stand for half an hour and remove (the mud). Care should be exercised not to cover the nose while applying the mud, as when the substance is removed it carries everything away with it.

Next apply Smith's Absorbent, squirting on face from a seltzer bottle. A light application of Smith's Beauty Oil comes next, followed by Smith's Skidbumps to eradicate skin imperfections. A drop of Skidbumps if placed at the foot of Pike's Peak would eliminate the entire mountain range.

The treatment is concluded by polishing the face. Now repeat the process from two to three times.

Last night we were treated to the perfect paradox: Two men encircling a superlatively substantial dinner while denying the existence of things.

AARON'S ROD.
D. H. Lawrence.
Reviewed by John Byron Long.

Civilization has outgrown the power of its perpetuators to cope with it. It has made man the slave of woman by chaining him to the industrial machine. A man labors each day and each night returns to the same woman—a monotony almost equal to death. Is it anything to wonder at if a man tires of this sort of thing? Is it any wonder if some revolt and others succumb?

This briefly, is the theme of D. H. Lawrence's novel, "Aaron's Rod". Aaron Sisson is a man of the laboring class, working in a Scotch colliery. At the end of nine years of married life he has become thoroughly disillusioned and has lost his ambition and love for his wife. His youthful ambitions have been frustrated by his early marriage and he has developed an exaggerated egoism. His artistic nature requires that he leaves his wife stranded with their three children, while he practises his one accomplishment which is playing the flute. In London his musical talent brings him in contact with a group of artists and near artists and the rest of the story is a record of his amours among them and their friends on the continent. He is a Don Juan, never satisfied with one woman, but forever playing the game, knowing he will be beaten. In one of the chapters a mob is formed and a bomb is thrown. Besides this there is little action. the greater part of the book consisting of conversation, the remainder being pages of words, some strung together, some thrown together. The bombing incident has no bearing on the story except that in the fracus Aaron's rod, his flute, is broken. The scene shifts from London to Florence and then to Venice, where the story ends with a dialogue between the central and a minor character.

There is nothing of the technician in Lawrence. He is a disappointed man who is capable, at times, of beautiful expression and who, at other times is only dull. But even through the dullest portions of his book, the enlightened reader can discern an effort on his part, to establish the proper relation between his ideas and the facts of reality. It is, with him, always the idea; the act matters little. And it is this disregard which he has for objective circumstances that results in a tendency toward introvertiveness. This tendency can be illustrated by some of the speeches of his characters. For example this:

"Goals", says this character, "are goals." Then he continues: "I didn't make life and society. I can only go my way. The grinding millstones of love and God is what ails us. Forget the very words religion, and God, and love. Then have a shot at a new mode."

Having thus lightly disposed of love and religion, both of which are phases of the same thing, if we believe him—"both attributes, incomprehensiblle guestures of the human soul"—the author would put the urge to power in their place. There are, he says, two dynamic urges: love and power, the union of which would constitute the "new mode" which he advocates. This category, I take it, approximates the Freudian concept of the libido. But love alone means submission, unless reenforced by the power urge. Mr. Lawrence finds in the social and economic developments of late modern ism, a hindrance to this complete expression of the individual. It is plain that two influences have affected him strongly: the war and the feminist movement. He concedes that under the present day conditions of life it is easy enough to gratify the love urge. It is too easy, at least for Aaron Sisson. His wife loved him but she loved him too much for his masculinity and with not enough subtlety. In America her type is known as "the cornfed. But Mr. Lawrence does an injustice to himself and to some women by attributing this status to all women. The world has its Messalinas just as it has its Don Juans and just as it has more noble types, both male and female. The fact remains that Mr. Lawrence has shown a weakness in our civilization. And he has also stated a beautiful truth,

"You are your own tree of life, roots and limbs and trunk. Somewhere within the wholeness of the tree lies the very self, the quick: its own innate Holy Ghost. And this Holy Ghost puts forth new buds and pushes past old limits and shakes off a whole body of dying leaves. And the old limits hate being empassed and the old leaves hate to fall. But they must if the tree soul says so . . . . "

The regular price of a tin of 100 Lucky Strikes is 85c
You pay the dealer only 55c
We pay the Federal Tax of 30c

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

WE call particular attention to the statements made in the advertisement adjoining this editorial column.

This advertisement, the purpose of which is to win new friends for Lucky Strike cigarettes, incidentally emphasizes the matter of high taxes on cigarettes.

To those who are intimate with such matters there is, of course, no surprising statement made.

To the general public, though, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

So nearly fifty cents out of every dollar you spend for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last (fiscal) year it amounted to $309,014,050.84.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,715,735.93, or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

The immediately important point of the foregoing is the following: We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public generally appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins New Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it sensationally generous so as to attract attention.

We are not giving money away for the offer accomplishes its purposes: Lucky Strike "Wins New Friends." Our volume increases.

Super-quality

It is only by immense volume that we can produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly, extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobaccos that are used in Lucky Strikes.

We urge you to participate in this offer—we want you to get acquainted with Lucky Strikes.

We know a trial will make you a permanent customer of ours.

Work Will Begin Wednesday On Second Play of the Season

One of James M. Barrie's best known comedies, "Alice-Sit-By-The-Fire," will be the second play of the theatre season. It will be produced November 19 and 20 by members of the Erodelphian Literary Society and Irving Institute, and will be the first play to be presented by literary societies this year.

Tryouts will begin on Wednesday, October 1, at 4 o'clock in the natural science auditorium. Copies of the play will be on reserve at the central desk in the main library of the natural science building. By beginning rehearsals at the end of the week, an unusual opportunity for an artistic production is given.

Miss Helen Langworthy, who is directing the play, said that it contained some excellent characterizations. She wishes to emphasize the fact that even the lesser parts are good and offer opportunity for some very good acting. An idea of the type of characters is given in the following summary:

Alice Grey—the charming young wife of the colonel. Barrie, in the delightful way he has of describing his characters, says of her, "It is odd to think of the belle of the Punjaub as the mother of a big girl. Amy will never be so pretty as her mother; Cosmo will never be so gay; and it will be years before either of them is as young."

Colonel Grey—A grizzled veteran whose life has been spent trying to understand Alice. Barrie says of him, "Alice is this man's one joke. Some of the furrows in his brain have come from trying to understand her. He owes his agility of mind to trying to keep up with her, the luxurious twist in his mouth is the result of chuckling over her."

Steven Rollo — A friend of the Grey's who had been under the colonel's command in India.

Amy—The Grey's elder daughter who can no longer be regarded as a little girl. At present her life consists of attending theatres and writing in her diary.

Cosmo—The fourteen year old son of the Grey's. He is a cadet at Osborne and very proud of his station.

Ginevra — Amy's dearest friend. Barrie in speaking of the devotion of the two says, "Amy and Ginevra look into each other's eyes. They always do this when they meet, though they meet several times a day, and it is worth doing for what they see in those pellucid pools is love eternal. Thus they loved a school and thus they will love til the grave encloses them."

Richardson — The slave who brings Steve his meals.

The Nurse—Who has taken care of Molly for seventeen months.

Molly—The colonel's two year old daughter.

Fanny—The Grey's maid.

"Children of the Moon," the first play of the University theatre, will be given October 29 and 30. "Alice-Sit-By-The-Fire" will be presented on November 19 and 20.

Council Retreat Nets Full Slate Of Y. Activities

University Mixer And Hello Day Come This Week

Year's Program Outline Is Made by Members of Council

The Y. W. council held its annual retreat Sunday, September 24, at Black Springs. The purpose of the retreat was to outline plans for the current year, and to decide the attitude to be taken by the Y. W. toward various campus problems.

The retreat marked the opening of the Y. W. work for the coming year. Plans for the week are outlined as follows:

Tuesday 7-9 in liberal arts drawing room, a joint meeting of the advisory board and the cabinet to outline the finances and make plans for this year's finance campaign.

Wednesday — Weekly vespers. Plans to be announced later.

Thursday—4 p. m. in liberal arts drawing room a meeting of last year's freshman commission to outline plans for the election of the commission for this year.

Friday—Hello Day and University mixer.

Special guests of the cabinet at the retreat were members of the advisory board of the Y. W.: Miss Estella Boot, Mrs. J. A. Yoder, Mrs. W. A. Jessup, Mrs. A. L. Burge, Mrs. W. C. Shafer, Mrs. Philip C. Clapp, Mrs. Earl S. Smith, and Mrs. A. C. Trowbridge.

Maude Dewitt N3 of Knoxville and Vera Caldwell N3 of Boone were also special guests of the council at the retreat. Miss Dewitt and Miss Caldwell attended the annual summer conference of the Y. W. C. A. at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, the past summer and are co-operating with the cabinet in their work of linking the various organizations of the campus.

Gail De Wolf A4 of Spencer led the opening worship by telling of her conception of the purposes of the retreat and of the work of the Y. W. in general. Miss De Wolf said in effect that the religious and campus life of the student should not be separate and distinct but that the two should be fused.

Marguerite Horning M3 of McGregor led a discussion of the various ideas brought out in Miss De Wolf's talk. The general subject of the discussion was how Jesus' teachings could be practiced in our campus problems. The idea of democracy on the campus also entered into the discussion.

Miss Nelle Sumners, general secretary of the Y. W. closed the discussion by reading a passage of Jesus' laws of love from "An Unknown Disciple," and bringing out the thought that our daily life should portray our religion. This last was brought out in corroboration of Miss De Wolf's talk.

The afternoon was devoted in the outlining of the general plans for the current year, and in discussions as to how the graduate women could aid in the work of the association and how the local organization could aid in the work of the National Y. W. C. A.

VARSITY ELEVEN IN LIGHT DRILL AS FIRST GAME APPROACHES

Ingwersen Drills Hawkeye Regulars In Passing Game

Fisher Still Out of Game; Wes Fry Is Given Rest

The Iowa football candidates started drill this week in preparation for the opening game against Southeastern Teachers, Saturday.

The varsity was on the offense during the light scrimmage, and the snap and drive was characteristic of old Hawkeye teams as the men charged and blocked men on the seconds.

Darrel Fisher has not yet returned to practice, nor did Galloway, the dusky candidate for the tackle position, report in uniform tonight. Wesley Fry, backfield candidate, was watching things from the sidelines. Hogan and Graham practiced booting the ball while the others warmed up.

With the varsity on offense, the seconds were kept busy breaking up a barrage of passes that the first string men were attempting. Otte and Hancock were receiving, Otte, especially, being fortunate in nabbing them. Hogan, for the seconds at quarter, broke up many heaves that would have been good for touchdowns.

The varsity used the same men that gave the freshman a hard battle Saturday, with the exception that Ingwersen had Hines on the seconds and Scantlebury at fullback on the first string. Hancock and Otte were the wing men. Krususki and Romey were opening holes in the second team working at tackles, Fleckenstein and Olson were at guard while Griffen, at center, held the center of the line intact against the seconds. Parkin directed the plays. "Dutch" Dauber and Graham worked the halves, with Scantlebury at fullback.

For the seconds, Rice was used at right end and Smith the other; Raffensburger and Voltmer were doing the tackle assignments; at guards, Ingwersen had McIntyre and Rinden. Daniels, who was detained from practice, took Rinden's place at right guard. Lindsay seems to have the center position a security as Cantello is still out with his injured hand. Schirmer and Boydson had the halfback positions. Hines was shifted from the first to the seconds at fullback. Hogan was at quarter.

Charles Brookins was not used during the scrimmage yet it is possible that he might be in the game Saturday.

Last Thursday Mrs. George Anlong entertained the Iowa Club at her home on 521 East Johnson street. The keynote of white and yellow was well carried out in the decorations and the refreshments which followed the business meeting.

Advanced Swimming Course Open to Men

Coach D. A. Armbuster issues the information for persons wanting to take up swimming for gym credit: "All men registered in the University that are required to take physical training are eligible for the advanced course in swimming. Freshman that have not passed their swimming tests, however, are required to remain in freshman swimming classes. The requirement for all other eligible men is to swim five lengths of the pool.

Classes are being held on Monday and Wednesday at 3 and Tuesday and Thursday at 3.

Little Hawk Team Is Hit By Illness; Two Runners Out

Chances of the University high school to repeat the cross country championship won last year took a turn for the worse recently when two of the regular members of the team, Stutzsman and Reilly were were counted out because of illness. This leaves practically only one man on the team with any degree of experience Carl Campbell.

It is probable that the two regulars will be well enough to participate in the annual meet. Five men of less experience, Rebas, White, McCrae, another White, and Campbell will be relied upon.

Preps Show Pep After First Game

High School Gridders Indulge in Light Work Out

The Iowa City High School eleven went through light signal practice last night, fully recuperated from their last game, and making preparations for Marion next Saturday.

Marengo proved to be no inconquerable adversary and with much substituting the team was in no worse condition than it would have been after a hard scrimage.

One great improvement was wrought on the team by encountering an actual antagonist. The team has finally awakened. All last week practice was dull and discouraging. The cool weather may have helped to speed up the eleven. In the light practice last night the men were full of enthusiasm and ran through the signals with vim and vigor. By frequent calls of encouragement and fast field work they showed a fighting spirit.

The backs of the Red and White still have one great fault to overcome—fumbling. This was noticeable in Saturday's game and in last night's practice repeated fumbling spoiled an otherwise good rehearsal.

A feature of last night's practice was a scrimmage between the second and third string men The seconds experienced no dificulties in steadily advancing the ball down the field. Some good fighting was done by both teams and all the third team got in on every play. Iowa City has some wonderful material to work with, and Coach Souchek is assured of a working basis for next year's team.

Hawk Gridmen Pitted Against Indian Eleven

Southeastern Boasts 7 Full-Blooded Red Fen

The Southeastern Teacher's eleven of Durant, Okla. which invades Iowa City Saturday for the opening game of the season, boasts seven full blooded Indians. The Savages, coache by P. D. Godfrey, captured the southeastern grid championship last fall and have practically the same team back this season.

The college though one of the smaller colleges in Oklahoma, has the best football team in years. Every man on the team is either a full blooded Indian or claims to be part Indian.

Coach Godfrey has a three-sp-ort man at Carleton college of Northfield, Minn., winning letters in football, basket ball and baseball. After graduating he coached two high schools and amilitary academy before accepting a position on the academic staff of the University of California, where he learned the famous football coaching system used by Andy Smith, California menter. He has introduced the system very successfully at Southeastern Teachers' during the four years that he has been at that school. At present he is the youngest coach in the football champions. Durant, where the college is located, is the center of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian tribes.

Nearly all the men are Indian or part Indian. Capt. Frank Farmer, whose nickname is "Smoke", which he earned by his baseball pitching, is the center and also all-state man at that position. He weighs but 145 pounds, yet according to all advance information, he has never been outplayed by any opposing center. He is a Choctaw Indian and a three sport man in basketball, track and football.

Fait Elins, another genuine full-blooded Indian, is a half back and triple-threat man. He is one of the greatest stars that the Savages have ever had. He is an all-around man having won letters in football, basket ball, track, boxing, wrestling, and baseball. And is a wonderful punter, avreaging close to 606 yards.

Harlin Fannin, another Indian, is an open-field runner and accurate passer. He was captain of the 1923-24 basketball team which was between 6 ft. 1 and 6 ft. 5 in. in height and averaged 185 pounds.

The quarterback, whose name is Brennen Witt, is six-feet five inches in height and weighs 175 pounds. He has another year left to play and was all state quarter in 1923.

Alvin Boyett, White, all state tackle has another year to play. Last year he was the choice of the South for the tackle berth.

Left tackle, Luis Stricklin, White man, was captain in 1922, but was out of school last year. He also was an all state man.

Boice d'Arc Beams, a two hundred pounder, is slated to play against Olson. Because of his aggressiveness he has been shifted to the line position, formerly being a backfield man.

At left end Catfish Harris is slated to catch the passes. He is reputed to be a ten second man in the century dash.

Oklahoma enjoyed a very prosperous year last season, winning from the Oklahoma A&M the same team that Iowa played in its opening game in 1923. The Savages won ten of their eleven scheduled games. In two games scores of 50 points were run up. Included in their long string of victories were defeats against the University at Dallas and Burleson college of Texas.

High School Girls Have Chance to Win Monograms

A new athletic club, the Girls' Athletic association, has been formed at the Iowa City high school under the direction of of Miss Porter, director of physical training for high school girls. Monograms will be awarded on a point system, points being given for participation in gymnastics, hiking, swimming, horse back riding and track. All girls taking physical education having an M average are eligible.

Belting Will Meet Shout Conductors This Afternoon

This afternoon at 4.15, Dr. Paul E. Belting director of athletics will meet all prospective cheer leaders in his office in the men's gym. About thirty organizations plan to have men there to try for the positions. It is the plan of director Belting to use twenty to twenty-five yell leaders through out the year and at the end of the season the athletic department will award "I's" to the men who have worked and deserved the honor.

It is probable that the cheer leaders will be supplied with uniforms and director Belting hopes to have at least thirty men try their powers at leading the mob of husky throated Iowa rooters. The Hawk-Guy Club, a new organization on the campus fostering pep, spirit, and good sportsmanship in all athletic events, will attend the meeting to arrange for future stunts at the home games.

Boston Glad, Too

BOSTON, Sept. 29— Washington won its first American league pennant by defeating the Red Sox here today 4 to 2 and earned the right to meet the New York Giants in the world's series, which is to open in Washington on Saturday.

When the last Boston player was out in the 9th inning and the victory of the Senators was assured, a crowd of ten thousand Boston fans cheered the visiting team as it came from the field. Clark Griffith, the veteran, Stanley Harris, the "boy manager," and Walter Johnson, famous "pitching ace," who will take part in his first world's series after 18 years in the big leagues, were applauded in turn.

Washington made its bid early for the victory that would give it the pennant regardless of what the New York Yankees do in their doubleheader against Philadelphia tomorrow. Throughout the game Peckinpaugh and Stanley Harris played wonder ball. In the last half of the ninth, with one out and pinch hitter Clark in first, Harris picked up Williams' grounder, tagged second, and with a quick pivot and throw, almost without looking, got the ball to Judge in time to double up the batter and retire the side.

In Boston spectators today accorded the victors an ovation of only slightly less calibre than that which might have been expected in their home city.

POST ENTRY SHEET FOR NET TOURNEY

Plans for the annual fall all-university tennis tournament, open to students and faculty, are well under way, announces E. G. Schroeder, of the men's department of physical education. Prizes and medals will be given the winners of the contests, he stated.

An entry sheet for the tourney has been posted on the bulletin board at the east entrance to the men's gym. Registration will close Saturday, October 4.

Frosh and varsity tennis prospects will meet in Mr. Schroeder's office, men's gym, at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon to discuss plans for fall practice.

Junior Class Sponsors Mixer At Woman's Gym Last Night

Berne and Handy Look Promising In Early Work

Stars of Field Events May Smash Records

Iowa's proverbial weakness in field events will be overcome this fall if pre-season diligence on the part of those working out can be taken as a criterion.

Evelin R. Handy, L1 of Iowa City, and Tom Berne, M2 of Hartley, are constantly spending their spare hours working-out in their favored events, Handy with the hammer and Berne with the javelin.

Handy made the best throw last spring in the conference meet of any Iowa man since N. M. Alderman set the Iowa record in 1912. Handy's distance was 134 feet 2 inches and that of Alderman 14 feet. The hammer throw is the only Iowa record that hasn't been broken here in track since Bresnehan took over the coaching of this branch of athletics.

Berne, holder of the traveling cup designating him as the best javelin thrower in the University, has been making good throws this fall. Last spring his record of 177 feet fell but one foot short of equalling the University record set by Charles Smith in 1923.

Both Berne and Handy have two years of competition before them and are sure point winners for Iowa in field events.

Work on Tennis Starts Tomorrow

Many Ready to Fill Shoes of Swenson And Janse

With the report that Janse and Swenson will not be with Iowa's tennis squad comes amighty scramble for the elect places. The struggle will begin in earnest when the net artists answer the first call Wednesday. With a number of the aspirants fresh from summer matches and many already on the courts daily, the workouts bid fair to start with a bang.

Jimmy Lutz, who came through with his share of victories in his first year of Big Ten competition, should go strong again. With Dorsey, Swartz, and Chaffee in the field and the last spring's yearling bunch to contend with, however, there may be a shakeup.

Dorsey has a record of long service and Swartz has represented the Old Gold in the doubles, while Bob Chaffee boasts considerable experience at Stokie and on other leading courts. Conceding only experience, to the older men comes last year's freshman quartet led by Gordon Phillips, state high school singles champion in his U High days. McCartney, Fox, and Sunstrum complete the string that landed at the top of the freshman heap last May.

Ted Swenson, last year's captain, is not in school, but it is expected that he will return the second semester to strengthen Hawkeye hopes.

The question of the captaincy of the 1925 team will probably be settled by an election within a few days.

RALLY IN NINTH WINS FOR CASEYS SUNDAY BY 4-3 SCORE

A ninth inning rally enabled the Iowa City K. C. ball team to nose out a win over the Muscatine Muskies at the city park Sunday afternoon, score 4 to 3.

Muscatine was first to score, a three-base hit, a walk and a sacrifice accounting for one run in the second inning. They scored once in the fourth and again in the seventh inning.

The Caseys were held scoreless through five innings. A pop fly with the base full and two men out ended a possible rally in the fourth. Two singles and a base on balls contributed one run in the sixth. The local team made no runs in the seventh or eighth innings.

Speed, who was substituted for Wallace in the eighth, started the K. C. rally in the ninth with a single. Clark, next batter, singled, Speed advancing to second. Stegman drove out a long single, Speed was caught off third. Horty then singled, scoring Clarke and Wahler duplicated to score Stegman. Daniels pounded out a double, which brought in the winning run.

Ryan, Muskie hurler, allowed 12 hits, walked four, and struck out six Casey batters, while Clark was touched for eleven hits, walked one and struck out seven. Thompson umpired the contest.

The score by innings:

Muscatine	010 100 100	3	11 1
Caseys	000 001 003	4	12 5

Batteries — Ryan and Krueger; Clark and Wahler.

Rotarians Will Give Cup To Best Javelin Tosser

Cup To Be Retained By Winner Until Spring Meet

The Rotary Club of Iowa City has offered Assistant Track Coach Tom Martin a Trophy Cup to be given to the man winning the first javelin contest to be held at Iowa University. "I' and "I-2" men are barred from this contest.

Several men have already reported for practice, yet no one has shown sufficient form to cinch the event.

With the view in mind of winning points in the javelin event at the Conference meets, Coach Martin expects to have a large number of men report for instruction. Men are requested to report for practice at the armory where suitable lockers will be provided for all candidates. Equipment may be secured free of charge at the men's gym.

The meet will undoubtedly be held before cold weather, October 15 has been set aside as a possible date.

The cup is to remain in the possession of the winner until spring when another meeting of the javelin tossers will be held.

In 1920 Dyke won second at the conference meet, since then Iowa has been unable to break into the scoring column in the javelin throw. Last year Iowa won places in three of the four field events and Coach Martin believes that points in the javelin throw may help win the first conference victory for the Old Gold trackmen.

Berne and Marshall will help Coach Martin train the new men that report for practice. Dyke, the university champion in the javelin, will be on hand Monday to assist in coaching. Dyke is not eligible for competition this year but will return to the track squad in 1926.

Several Iowa letter men and track stars now are offering their voluntary assistance to Coach George Bresnahan in an attempt to better the yearlings who are reporting daily for falll track practice. The men who are helping in the field events are Meder and Boyles in the pole vault, and Klindt in the high jump. In the track events Assistant Coach Eric Wilson is working the coming sprinters. Strong Life, Not Long Life, Needed

Stewart Charges Us Not to Exclude Life Itself

"I don't care how long you live, the number of years matters little, but I do wish and hope that you will live ALL your life." said Dr. George Craig Stewart at the vesper service Sunday.

"The question is not how long does your life run; but how deep, how clear, how strong is its current, what does it do, what is it worth?" The speaker paused.

Students With Religion

'To live all your life is to live a strong, rich, worthy physical life. The body is the temple that enshrines the mystery and wonder of personality. There is no tragedy so great as that of physical unfitness.

'Are college students religious? That depends on what you mean by religion. The center of my religion is God, Suffering, Brothers. Religion is all or nothing. It is the very stuff, the very life of life. So is the student who lives all his life, religious.

"To live all your life—THINK. Build up proposition upon proposition until you come to some definite heart of the matter, do not merely saunter up to it.

'Have fearfulness in thought, search until you find the answer which must be truth. To do so one need neither disagreeable, radical, nor a professional objector. Continually balance your life, seeking ultimate truth.

"Lose Self for Others"

"You will never find yourself nor learn to live until you have thrown yourself away. The man who lives is the one who comes spiritually into contact with others, working with them for an objective.

"Live in terms of the spirit! You can't leave out life itself, which is contact with God, and yet live all your life.'

Thieves Overlook $200 In Western Oil Robbery Yesterday

Take $10 From Table Drawer

Similar Robbery Was Pulled Last Year

Robbers who entered local offices of the Western Oil company, 220 S. Clinton streets, early yesterday morning, failed to find $200 lying in the safe but robbed the station of $10 which was in a table drawer. Evidently they had seen the attendant put the money away, since to get to the room where the pilfered desk was located, they had to pass through a room containing two desks in neither of which was anything disturbed. The only drawer opened was the one containing the money.

The loss was discovered by attendants on opening the station yesterday morning. Entrance was gained by breaking a window.

S. M. Smith, attendant who closed the office, said everything was in it's usual order when he left.

Police are now working on the case but have no definite clews.

A similar case occured last year when the offices of the Go-Gas oil company were broken into but nothing was taken.

Late Taxes Are Subject To Delinquent Charge

All the last half of the 1923 taxes must be paid today to County Treasurer Charles L. Berry if no penalty is to be inflicted. After today, all unpaid taxes will be subject to the delinquent charge of one per cent.

Although thousands of dollars are pouring into Berry's office daily, there remain more than $100,000 to be paid. A large percentage of this is expected to be received today.

Legion To Aid In "Iowa Day"

Convention Reports Heard Last Night

Cooperation with civic clubs and University officials and reports of the national conventions at St. Paul featured the business meeting, held after the first "fall' chow by Roy J. Chopek Post last evening.

Plans were made for the coming membership drive, beginning work on the Armistice Day program, and a motion was passed that the Legion aid on "Iowa Day".

After the short business meeting, Frank Kinney gave a short talk on the St. Paul convention. Frank Zeithamel, also reported that the St. Paul convention was much better than the Kansas City convention.

William Hart, in a short talk, pointed out that Iowa had more post standards in the parade than any other state; more flags in the parade than any other state; and was the only state which had two active delegates on the convention floor.

Allen Wallen, local commander, who led the Iowa delegation in the parade, said the thing that impressed him most at the convention was the 300 bands and drum corps. He also mentioned that William R. Hart had been named on the committee of Military Affairs.

Report By McCabe

Dr. McCabe, president of the Disabled American Veterans, spoke on the national convention at Salt Lake the last week in June.

Pioneer Citizen of Iowa Visiting Relatives Here

Mrs. Kenderdine's father, Warner Spurrier, was a representative from Johnson County during the civil war period. He was one of the founders of the Republican party, in Iowa.

Police Find Dog After Short Search

A mad dog scare terrorized West Side residents yesterday afternoon.

Officers Konvalinka and Thatcher found the dog after a short search and it was disposed of.

KLEMA IS NO PUZZLE TO SOLONITES; LOCALS LOSE IN LATE INNINGS

Breaks of the game went against "Red" Klema and his Independent baseball team and they lost a 6 to 1 decision to Solon, Sunday afternoon This after holding a 1-0 lead for the first five innings.

Shrieber, regular pitcher for the Independents, was out of the game with a sore arm and Klema was forced to do the tossing for his team. At that he secured more strikeouts than the opposing moundsman, Lyle Hofer, veteran Solon pitcher.

The Independents struck a blue inning in the sixth, when Solon scored two runs. For good measure the visitors scored two more in the seventh and another in the eighth.

The two teams clash again at the City park next Sunday, giving the Independents a chance to even matters.

The score by innings:

Solon.....000 002 220—6
Independents.....100 000 000—1

Batteries—Hofer and Kessler; Klema and Wall.

As for the assurance, a committee headed by George Hurley, L3 of Iowa City, will begin this week to check up the answers from these letters to determine the number of dads who will attend.

The plans thus far include a big mass meeting in the morning, feature stunts at the Ohio State football game in the afternoon, and a banquet in the evening with short speeches by prominent faculty members.

U. High Students Begin Activities

New Program Provides For Wider Range Of Interest

Debating, glee club, orchestra, athletics and newspaper work are included in the new program of activities for University High students planned by Principal H. A. Cross.

Mr. Carpenter is organizing a debating team, with the first regular schedule ever arranged for University High debates. Boys and girls' glee clubs are directed by Miss Doolittle, assistant instructor in music. Last year's orchestra will be led by Mr. Kwahnwasser.

Wayland Hicks, Iowa University basketball and baseball star, is instructing physical education classes. He is forming a board of athletic control, to be composed of the high school students. This board will manage all athletics in regard to arranging games, awarding numerals, deciding questions of eligibility etc. The students are very enthusiastic and are entering quickly into the spirit in which the board was organized.

Another unique venture is the attempt of Miss Barrett to edit a weekly newspaper, written by the students. It has again been named the "Squawk,' as was last year's paper. Business men will be asked to co-operate in this matter.

The high enrollment shows a slight decrease, from 191 last year to 170 this fall. However, Principal Cross says that the lack of numbers will be made up for by an increase in energy.

Postal Authorities Say Students Are Careless

According to local postal authorities, University of Iowa students are careless about their mail. Yesterday the assistant postmaster had on his desk a pile of undelivered letters.

Some of these letters were addressed simply "Iowa City," others "University," while some carried street addresses which do not exist here. Such addresses are insufficient for delivery. Officials urge every student to leave his Iowa City address at the post office, and advise the persons with whom he corresponds. Such action will facilitate the handling of mail and insure its delivery.

Dirty and descrept looking, with a frayed moustache which had once been white, wearing an old slouch hat and ancient overcoat with baggy trousers peering from beneath the edge, Frank Lambert, address no where, heralded the advance of cold weather as he drifted into the police station last night and asked for lodging.

Night captain John McQuiston obliged him with a room without bath, to be more explicit, a cell where he could sleep peacefully, undisturbed by the cold winds which are bothering his less fortunate brothers sleeping in the parks and other of the "great open spaces."
