Franco - Russian Conference Set For Next Week

Next Step Calls for the Nomination of Russian Ambassadors

Text of Today's Message Secret 'Till Answer Comes

(By the Associated Press)

PARIS, Oct. 28—France's recognition of the Russian soviet government was flashed at noon today from Eiffel tower in a brief message addressed to M. Tchitcherin, foreign minister at Moscow. The French government promised to make public the text tonight together with the text of the soviet reply but up to ten o'clock neither text had been issued as the Rusian answer had not been received and the government was firm in its resolve to publish the two simultaneously.

A message was even sent to M. Rakovsky, the Rusian soviet charge at London, requesting him to refrain from issuing the texts of the notes until he was assured they had been given out in Paris.

The next step will be nomination of ambassadors. But apart from that according to the Matin, a Franco-Russian conference for next week is under consideration at which the economic and financial questions raised by recognition will be studied.

Raiford Discusses Organic Reaction

Actual Laboratory Experiment Basis for Lecture

Professor L. C. Raiford of the chemistry department, addressed the members of the society of Sigma Xi, and a number of chemistry students on the subject of "Chemical Reactions as Influenced by Space Relationships" at the chemistry auditorium last night. The lecture, very searching in its content, took up this particular phase of organic chemistry in detail and was illustrated by slides.

Professor Raiford is the retiring president of the Sigma Xi society, the present executive being Prof. A. O. Thomas of the geology department. Owing to the latter's illness,

University Actors Open Season With Flavin Play

Terse Stage Effects Add to Wierdness Of Production

CHILDREN OF THE MOON
By Martin Flavin

Produced in the University Theatre under the direction of Prof. Edward C. Mabie with the following cast:

Walter Higgs . . Harvey Carter
Thomas . . . . . Arthur Shepherd
Madame Atherton . . . . . .
. . . . . Mrs. Jane Smith
Dr. Wetherell . . . . . .
. . . . . Donovan Rhynsburger
Judge Atherton . Ray Holcombe
Jane Atherton . . Aldene Parsons
Major Bannister . Walter Dalton
Laura Atherton . . . . . .
. . . . . Margaret Blackburn

With a mixture of new talent and ald, playing on a stage complete in new scenery and perfected technical effects, the University Theatre opened its season last night with the first amateur performance of "Children of the Moon".

The play is built around the life of Laura Atherton, who married into a family with an insanity stain and thus brought insanity to her own children. It shows the peculiar fefect of moon madness, children of the moon they were called. The low roar of the surf, the dim silhouette of the old man gazing at the moon through his telescope and the final hum of the airplane out over the sea all produced an effect of weirdness and loneliness.

Characterized by illusions of sound and sight, finished off with a new set designed and made especially for the play, the whole effect was one which drew applause from the audience which attended. The set was designed by the class in stagecraft, aided by Prof. E. C. Mabie, and was made by the Twin City Scneic company of Minneapolis. It includes flats, fireplaces, and stairs. The finish is of a dark brown color in order to bring out the effect of age and loneliness.

The back drop and coast line used in the set were painted by the stagecraft shop and others connected with the theatre. This involved a difficult technical problem, because the play requires a feeling of almost limitless space seen through the open doors at the back of the stage. In order give this feeling, expert work was required by those who were responsible for the set.

The lighting effects were worked out by Professor Mabie and Daniel Holcombe. New equipment, similar to that used by Lee Simonson of the Theatre Guild of New York, was tried out last night for the first time Tiny spot lights, designed by Monroe Pevear, a stage lighting engineer of Boston, were used to give greater control over the direction, size, and color of the beam of light, than has been heretofore possible. The lights are so designed as to avoid spilling of light into the audiecne from the footlight trough.

Labor Confident Of Return After Vote of People

Campaign Dull Before "Red Letter" Issue

Tories and Socialists Think Liberalism On Wane

(By the Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 28—The people of Great Britain will provide themselves tomorrow with their third parliament within two years. What kind of a parliament it will be after the votes of the nation are counted, no prominent politician or observer has been audacious enough to predict publicly. That the labor government will go the way of all governments seems, however, to be the opinion held almost everywhere, but some of the laborites still appear confident that their party will be given a mandate to remain in office.

Whether the conservatives can recoup their losses of a year ago and return to the house of commons with a majority over all other parties and thereby put themselves into office without the sasistance of the others is a question no one has any means of determining or even forecasting until the returns come in.

The whole pre-election policy system has been made utterly uncertain by the eleventh hour bursting of the Russian bombshell, with an effect on the country that cannot be gauged at all.

Until this "red letter" gave the campaign orators a real live wire topic to talk about, electorate wore an apathetic air and it was rather the general expectation that the parties would return to Westminster in the same relative positions they held numerically when the last parliament's life ended.

But now nobody can say with any confidence what the result will be. In any event what happens will not be due to apathy unless the voterr are entirely unaffected by headlines unperutrbed by political speakers.

That the liberal strength in parliament is on the wane seems also to be the opinion of both Tory and Socialist chieftains.

On the other hand, former premiers, Asquith and Lloyd George, as leaders of the liberals, have given no sign fo lack of confidence in their speeches in their constituencies.

Camera to Shut Eyes for Junior's Pictures Friday

"Next Friday, October 31, is the deadline for junior pictures,' says Kenneth T. Gardiner, A3 of Webster City, who is editor of the 1926 Hawkeye.

All pictures must be submitted, or appointments made with photographers before that time, in order that junior pictures may get into the Hawkeye.

"A person who is one-half sophomore and one-half junior is eligible for a junior picture," Gardiner states, "but a person who is one-half junior and one-half senior is not eligible for a junior picture accordng to the present rule."

$10 Prize Offered Student Submitting the Best Design

A prize of $10.00 is offered for the best design for the 1925 Homecoming badge. The Committee, who had charge of the badges this year will award the prize. The contest is open to any student interested in such work.

John Hancock, A4 of Superior, Wisconsin, designed this years badge, but the plan was not considered early enough to award him a prize. Those wishing to enter this contest may see Mr. R. H. Keuver of the pharmacy department concerning the kind of design. It must be submitted to him before December 15.

Hill Delivers Brilliant Lecture To Listeners

Talks on Nutrition and Sources of Muscular Energy

An audience of about 200 people heard the lecture delivered last night by Dr. A. V. Hill, of the University of London, on "Muscular Contraction in Relation to Carbohydrate Metabolism", at the new chemistry auditorium.

Dr. Hill is one of the leading authorities on muscle physiology, and he has done a great deal of research work in that field. He is now professor of physiology at the University of London. His lecture is one of the first of a series to be given on the subject of nutrition at the University.

The lecture dealt with the sources of muscular energy and the mechanism involved. Dr. Hill said we might think of this source as the oxidation of fats or carbohydrates to carbon dioxide and water. He brought proof that the carbohydrates are the same, the initial process being the conversion of glycogen to lactic acid. This was proved by heat measurement of working muscle using a thermo couple which can record a difference of the one hundred thousanth of a degree. In very severe exercise the athlete may not be able to get the oxygen required and thus accumulates an "oxygen debt"; and may requires 70 minutes to pay this debt by the acquisition of the necessary oxygen.

Dr. Hill emphasized points in his lecture by illustrating by slides and diagrams which had been prepared from experiments.

The next lecturer, who will talk on utrition, is Prof. Francis G. Benedict of Carnegie Institute, who will speak here in November or December.

Iowan Has Football Edition on Streets Minute After Game

Homecomers reaching the top of engineer's hill after the game last Saturday were greeted by Iowan newsboys with the special edition of the Iowan put out for the game. Within one minute after the final whistle had blown the special edition was on the streets and in the hands of the Homecomers.

More than 2700 of the special edition were printed and sold in a short time following the game. Papers were sold almost as fast as the big press could deliver them.

All through the game the plays were telephoned to the Iowan office, set up on the linotype and put in the forms; when the final whistle had blown the press was started and papers put on the streets.

Grid-Graph Will Finance Band to Out-of-Town Games

The band, 70 pieces strong, will make the trip to Illinois. The trip will be financed with money raised from the receipts of the out of town games which will be played on the Grid-Graph. Enough money was raised Saturday to send the band to Wisconsin.

These methods of raising money are necessary because of a Western Conference rule which prohibits an institution carrying more than thirty five people, including the team and coaches, to an athletic contest on money raised from inter-collegiate contests.

Body of Wallace Lies in Capitol

Funeral Will Be Held Today From Home

(By the Associated Press)

DES MOINES, Oct. 28—Surrounded by a guard of United States soldiers, sailors, and marines, the body of Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, reposed tonight beneath the dome of the Iowa state capitol building.

Tonight he belongs to the state and it is honoring him as no other son has been honored. Tomorrow from his home on John Lynde road he will be taken to Woodland cemetery where the final rites will be said, surrounded only by his family and former friends.

The rotunda of the capitol and the halls leading down the four wings of the building were enveloped in funeral quiet tonight, the silence broken only each hour and a half when a detachment of guards replaced those on duty. Then for a few moments the heavy boots of the guards resounded on the flagstones.

The simple black, cloth-covered casket rests within the railing of the first balcony of the capitol and upon a catafalque built up from the basement. The floor work is covered with black cloth and from this to the railing run streamers of the nation's colors. Heaped high around the casket are the floral tributes of friends from many parts of the country, including those sent by President and Mrs. Coolidge and high officials at Washington, and those aboard the funeral car from various points on the way from Washington.

Throughout the night the body was guarded by United State's enlisted men. Tomorrow morning from nine to twelve, when the body will lie in state, the guard will be composed of members of the Iowa National guard.

"Morning After" Brings Business To Soda Squirters

Forty-seven Bromo-Selzers before 11 o'clock Sunday morning!

That's the record, at Whet's alone, for the morning after. Then people began getting up and the soda jinglers lost the count. Statistics from other places have been slow coming in, but, at any rate, there were many returns of the day.

Haughton's Work Puts Team Among Leaders in East

Coach's Death Throws University into Mourning

Cornell, Army, New York, and Syracuse Left on List

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—Columbia will close her gridiron ranks and carry on the 1924 football campaign in spite of the stunning and unexpected blow sustained by the death of Head Coach Percy D. Haughton. This was decided today by the University athletic authorities who announced that the next game, next Saturday with Cornell, as well as those with the Army, New York University, and Syracuse, would be played as scheduled.

At the same time Dr. Paul C. Withington, former Harvard pupil of and first assistant at Columbia under Haughton, was appointed head coach for the rest of the season. The entire University today was plunged into mourning by the loss of Haughton just as it seemed that the Blue and White, reaching heights it has not known in years by crushing Williams last Saturday, was about to lead Columbia out of the gridiron wilderness.

Messages of condolence reached the University today, plans were made for fitting memorial tribute to the man who transplanted the famout Heights.

Send Body to Boston

Memorial mass meeting will be held tomorrow noon under student auspices.

Haughton's body fas sent to Boston tonight and arrangements have been made for funeral services in St. Paul's chapel Boston on Thursday.

Never Gave Interviews

The last recorded newspaper interview with Percy D. Haughton is characteristic of his taciturnity in relations with the press. He repeatedly said he never gave interviws. Statements published and credited to him usually were merely remarks obtained on the run.

One day last week Haughton was approached by a student correspondent assigned to get the Columbia coach's idea of what football would be ten years from now. The youth propounded his query to Haughton on the practice field.

Sucession Harvard Man

"Ten ytars from now" Haughton said "football will be played in airplanes." And the interview was ended.

Dr. Withington who will succeed Haughton in charge of Columbia's squad is a product of the Harvard school as are also most all of the assistant members of the coaching staff. He played guard and center on the 1908 and 1909 Crimson eleve He coached the University of Wisconsin in 1916 and had a varied war career and after the armistice coached the chmpionship 89th division team. He was selected as medical director and assistant coach when Haughton took the helm at Columbia early in 1923.

This is the second directory of graduates to be published by the University, the first being isued in 1919.

Homecoming Absences Entail No Penalties, Says Rienow

The absence ruling penalty does not apply in cases of failure to attend classes immediately before and after Homecoming, according to statements from the office of Robert E. Rienow, dean of men.

The recess was a suspension of classes rather than a regular vacation period, and unexcused absences before and after Saturday do not entail a loss of credit, but are counted as ordinary absences, Dean Rienow explained.

John Bull at the Polls

TODAY Great Britain goes to the polls, and tomorrow we will learn whether the Liberals or the Conservatives have been able to replace MacDonald's coalition cabinet. The campaign has been an exciting one. As our own it has centered largely around economic issues. The outcome is uncertain, but in all probability no party will win a decided majority in the House of Commons, and a coalition cabinet will be the result.

The Labor party, through its leaders, Macdonald, Clymer, and Snowden, have advanced a program that smacks smartly of socialism. They call for the nationalization of mines and power plants, for the continuation of a heavy tax on land, and for the starting of great public works to furnish jobs for unemployed. The plank of the Labor party which goes farthest in the direction of socialism, however, is their demand for governmental control and operation of the distribution of the necessities of life. They wish the government to buy all these principal necessities in bulk and to distribute them at cost, plus the cost of handling.

The Liberals are firm in an insistance upon industrial peace, of a cessation of the irritating strife between capital and labor. Their foreign policy calls for a strengthening of Britain's connection with the League of Nations, a policy which they declare MacDonald has neglected since he took office in January. To meet the Laborites on economic issues, they promise better housing and more employment for the laborers, and emphasize the coal-scheme of Lloyd-George. This plan provides that the government buy at an appraisement all the mineral rights of the realm, principally coal, and give assistance to the super-power plants in the various parts of the country. On the price of this appraisement a levy is to be made which is to be used for the improvement of the miner's homes and towns. This scheme shows a socialistic trend.

The Conservatives, led by Churchill and Baldwin, are fighting all the socialistic measures of the other parties. They promise a strengthening of the bonds of the British Empire, and of royal commission to inquire into the profiteering in food prices. They also promise not to force a tariff on England, a policy which proved so disastrous to Baldwin's ministry before.

Cleaning the Diamond

"COZY Dolan, former New York Giant coach who with Jimmy O'Connell was banished from organized baseball for attempting to bribe Heinie Sand of the Philadelphia Nationals to throw a game, is now suing Judge Kenesaw Landis for slander. W. J. Fallon, Dolan's attorney, declared the Giant coach would make an attempt to clear his name, gain restoration to the baseball ranks, and lastly, to obtain his share of the 1924 world series money.

The troubles of a baseball czar are many. Since the Black Sox incident in 1919, Landis and those interested in the welfare of professional baseball have been doing their best to keep the diamond game at the highest standards.

Men lose their interest in baseball when it ceases to be conducted on the basis of sportsmanship. If there is any indication of crookedness, fans become dissatisfied. It is to be hoped that John McGraw may be deeply interested in banishing the scandal from his ball club when the best interests of baseball demand that justice be done. Every fan wants the game "on the square" and is confident that Judge Landis will do the right thing.

Cars versus Booze

THE son of a Dubuque millionaire was recently arrested for driving a car while intoxicated. The judge ruled that he cannot drive a car again. The fight this fearless judge is making can hardly be ignored.

We find here the unanswerable argument for the eighteenth amendment. We must choose between the auto and the saloon. We cannot have both. It is not safe to take an auto on the streets if drunken people the permitted to drive cars.

With thousands of new automobiles being turned on the market each day, something must be done to prevent accidents. If drivers knew that handling a car when intoxicated would deprive them of their license, this menace would be stopped.

The issue is important, and public officials must be fearless in the matter, for the lives of American citizens must be protected. The auto sounded the death warrant for the saloon.

Ambition

EVERY man has his aspirations and secret ambitions—things which he often finds it impossible to realize although he thinks he would give everything to attain them. Unfortunately he does not always do as he thinks. He has the power of choice, of selection over his lines of action (even considering the influence of "circumstance" or "outside influence"), and so he is in turn responsible for what he achieves. He has the power of selecting things he considers most worth while.

It is "as he does—not as he speaks". Despite all his pretestations, his real ambitions, as shown by his actions, may be to draw a royal flush, to make a hole in one, or to hang his pin, rather than to get a 3.4 point grade average, to write a fine short story, or to paint a beautiful mural, much as he may fervently claim these last ambitions as the things he most desires from life.

An ambition ceases to be an ambition if no attempt is made toward realizing it; it becomes a valuable figure in man's attempts to show the world how good he is, and a convenient peg for sob-sister mourners to hang praises upon, after the "ambitious" one is dead.

"Every man obtains from life that which he most wishes,"—even though he may vigorously deny it.

Lovely Labors Lost

MESA TRAIL

A road winds o'er the mesa
Beneath the starlit skies
The yellow moon grows brighter,
Each twinkling star defies
The sage has filled with fragrance
The midnight desert air . . . .

I wander over mesquite hills
Past bushes brown and bare.
With lonely butts for witness
And cactus in the dim.
Until the night has faded,
I ride the deserts' rim.

SORROWS OF A SUPER-SENSITIVE SOUL

Today I told Otto that we must kill ourselves, that our love is so perfect that we have no right to live.

At first he looked so strange.

He suggested that I should kill myself first and that he should starve himself beside my grave.

But I could not accept the sacrifice.

I offered instead to help him hang himself beside the driver.

He is to think it over. If he does not hang himself he is to shoot himself. I have loaned him my father's revolver. How grateful he looked when he took it.

We wonder where all the petite yellow and black Sigma Upsilon Iota pledge pins which were so much in evidence Saturday have gone. We pledged Sig Up ourself, and we wonder what became of our numerous brothers.

The next time we are in limbo we're going to look for those pledge pins. We don't know where they could be.

My love for you can never cool—
That sort of sentimental drool.
My love for you can never cool
Nor yet shall I on bended knee
Your humble slave implore to be,
My love for you can never cool—
It never was, you see.

We just heard of a man who, in a hurry to get rid of some of his liquid courage, poured it into the gold fish globe. On his return he discovered that the fish had eaten their way out of the globe, had killed the cat, overturned the kitchen stove, and were putting the finishing touches to the family bulldog.

TWO EARS BEFORE THEY MASSED
or
SAP FROM A LOG

ONE BELL

Woke up. Fog was out and cat was in, flag was down and I was up, storm was over and matey was under. I bellows (so does the cattle)—Matey, says I, matey, I'm a fighting sea dog an' I'm going right through.—aye, aye, says he.—Matey, says I, matey, the sky looks raw, the oysters are raw, and there's a shore death lurking in yonder seas.—Aye, aye, says he.—Matey, says I, matey, we must catch on up with the periwinkle fleet e'er the sun sinks over yon halyard.—Aye, aye, says he.—Matey, says I, matey, we're drunk.—Aye, aye, says he.—Me eye! says I.—Aye, aye, says he—and that's that.

"THE LANTERN ON THE PLOW"

George Agnew Chamberlain Offer "An Epic of the 'Soil; Uses a New Jersey Farm as his Protagonist

Reviewed by Har ry M. Reynolds

George Agnew Chamberlain in failing to produce an effect which would have elicited little praise from most readers of contemporary novels has achieved a result which will find more favor in their eyes.

"The Lantern on the Plow" (Harper's) is ostensibly an "epic of the soil", and one can almost sense Mr. Chamberlain's straining to make it such. Rattling Run Fields, the barren New Jersey farm which had fed upon its seven generations of Sherbornes, was to have been—like Hugo's Notre Dame—a character in the story. But it takes a dynamic, vitalizing pen, a pen by turns subtle, obvious, light, bludgeoning to imbue with life a barren farm.

Mr. Chamberlain has not done it. References to the farm are as numerous as they can be without hopelessly ruining the story, and the very name Rattling Run Fields—monotonously cacophonous despite its incipient alliteration—is repeated all too frequently. But there is not the sustained touch. Drake's anger and pain when the blast tears his farm is the only incident which gives the land any aspect other than that of an ordinary farm, and for this moment only takes on the character of a suffering, yet passive, beast.

Actually to affect human lives with the malignity which Mr. Chamberlain intimates, this farm must have been capable of physical action, and possessed of a brain to direct its maleficient activity. Instead, we are shown a farm of limestone and a dilapidated house which attracts Drake because he thinks they can be made beautiful, attract his sister Io because Drake is there. Their mother hates the farm. This, then, is the farm with a personality. A real estate agent might have done something with it. The author of "The Lantern on the Plow" was baffled.

There is an elusive quality about most of the characters. Just when one has gloatingly classified one of them the contrary person does something glaringly incongruous and similarly escapes from all revised classifications. Jimmy Mattis, pursuer of Io, and Eunice, her mother, are the most easily catalogued.

To Mr. Chamberlain's failure of commission must be added three distressing sins of commision. Io's mysterious injury is remedied in a miraculous manner that would strain the credulity of the Venerable Bede. Lessie Mattis is reconciled to Drake for no reason at all. One feels that the author found he had brewed more complications than could be satisfactorily resolved within four hundred pages and he chose the alternative of extricating himself by unreasonable solutions rather than unduly separate the two covers.

Last, but by no means least of the apostrophe, the like of which we expected never to see after we stopped reading the saccharine fervesences of the paper-covered novel:

"Oh, milk-white heifer in the meadows of the gods! Crescent moon against a lover's breast; Arrow to pierce the heart and make it whole! Oh, Io, dear girl, point your feet, lift up your wings, and fly!"

And now, after this ungentle onslaught, to mention the actual result of Mr. Chamberlain's striving. He has failed to make of the farm a character, he has drawn unknowable characters to play his parts, he has introduced inexplicable phenomena, and he is guilty of a blurb. But he achieved that which in the minds of a comfortable many will transcend those faults—he has written a story which you must read at as few sittings as possible. The characters intrigue by their very elusiveness, and the narrative holds with a remarkable tenacity because so many unknowable incidents are going to affect so many unknowable characters in so many unknowable ways.

Iowa's Twelfth Homecoming

By Prof. F. C. Ensign

"The committee didn't do it, the students didn't do it, we all did it; the men and women who are followers of Old Gold. We made the most successful in the history of the institution.

And while the various aspects of Homecoming are still fresh in our breast, contributions made to the gaiety, the dignity, and the activeness of this annual event by the students themselves. Literally hundreds of students had an active part in the phases of Homecoming, willing feet have traveled miles and miles to look after minor details, and up and down the campus students have carried forward the necessary preparation in the finest spirit imaginable.

"The corn monument, one of the traditions of the day, was pre-eminently the work of the students. It stands for something deeper than the material wealth of the state, and it gives the people who pass it during the Homecoming season, and those who will pas it while it is allowed to stand, a peculiar thrill indicative of something else than the vale of Iowa's chief cereal.

"Students in the engineering department spent nearly 400 hours on the erection of this monument. On the engineering arch also the engineers freely contributed many hours of work.

"Thousands of visitors who thronged the street down to Iowa Field past the Physics building commented a great deal on the electric sign of the University seal mounted onit. It was in every way equal to the advertising to be seen on Broadway.

Of course Coach Bresnahan assumed the responsibility for the mass meeting, and Dr. Lauer and his hat played their part, but the real work was done by others.

"The University band and those taking part in the stunts, all gave hours to the rehearsal of these, to make the actual festivities a success. Would anyone be willing to work for money as these people did in such phases of Homecoming?

"Was all this time profitably invested? Was it worth while? If Homecoming is worth while, and can be measured by the deeper spirit of the older men at the Triangle club reception, and at hte chamber of commerce luncheon, then all this reprseents a good investment.

"To each one who generously contributed time, thought, or material labors, the general committee extends its thanks."

Baconians Extend A Warm Welcome

Prof. Farr Delivers Retiring Speech on Friday

Mr. C. H. Farr, asistant Professor of botany will address the Baconian club Friday night at 7:30 p. m. in room 317, new chemistry building.

Prof. Farr's lecture will be on the Energy of Light. During the lecture he will bring in the idea that living things are to be looked upon as simlar to a manufacturers establishment, in that they consist of mechanism or machines by which energy is converted from one form into another.

The lecture purports to point out the sources of energy for oganisms and the way in which living things make use of this energy in carrying on ordinary life processes.

Prof. C. H. Farr is president of the Baconian Club, but this will be his retiring speech. J. J. Runner, asistant Professor of the Geology department is to be the new president.

The Baconian Club is a club that is not a club, but rather a series of lectures which are open to the public. Questions and discussions are welcome at all the lectures.

Prof. Bird T. Baldwin, of the child welfare depratment, presided.

The substance of Professor Raiford's lecture in brief follows:

The history of organic chemistry shows that the fundamental theories of Frankland, Kekule, and a few others which were published between 1850 and 1870 have enabled us to synthesize, classify, and determine the molecular structure of more than 250,000 organic compounds. The experimental work and theoretical speculations of Pasteur, Baeyer, Van't Hoff and LeBel, which was begun during this period, led to the idea that the relative positions iu space of the various atoms and radicals in an organic compound might determine its activity in a large measure. From this it follows that if relative positions could be determined it would be possible to predict the type of reaction which the subject under consideration might show.

The speaker's interest centered chiefly in the differences of behavior which have been observed when distribution products of benzene are subjected to the same reagents. The particular reactions which have been studied in the Iowa laboratory are those having to do with the wanderings of the acidic groups bebetween the nitrogen and oxygen of the class of compounds known as ortho-aminophenols.

The results of this work, who has been carried on for the past few years, has shown that the rearrangements studied furnish additional criteria by which certain organic compounds having the same composition but different configurations may be distinguished and identified by the examination of scores of derivatives prepared from these substances. It has been possible to learn the type of reaction to which each is liable.

Roose Wins Singles Tennis Championship

Defeats G. Harter by Score of 6-2 And 6-4

Won in Semi-Finals From Former Champion

Alice Roose, A2 of Iowa City won the women's singles championship of the University yesterday by defeating Genevieve Harter, A3 of Iowa City by a score of 6-2, 6-4. This match completes the tennis tournament which began the second week of school, and in which about eighty women participated. No previous title has even been more hotly contested and the champion gained her position only by defeating the winner from last year. The four women who were champions and runners-up of last year were all participants in this tournament.

The champion of last year, Evelyn Harter, A4 of Iowa City, was defated Monday, and in the other game of semi-finals last week, Genevieve Harter, defeated Gladys Brooker, A3 of Omaha, paving the way for the championship match of yesterday afternoon.

The match consisted of eighteen games, including four which went to deuce. Harter opened, and started with a rush, winning the first game, 4-1. The next three games were won by Roose, 4-1, 4-1, and deuce. The sixth was taken by Harter 4-1, but Roose took the next from deuce. The seventh and eighth went to Roose 4-2, 4-1, completing the set with the score of 6-2 for Roose.

The second set opened with Harter taking the first three games, all by scores of 4-2. Roose recovered and took the fourth and fifth from deuce, and the sixth 4-1. The seventh went to Harter, 4-1, but Roose took the last three, by scores of 4-1, 4-1, 4-2, completing the set with the final totals for both sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Movies Will Not Detract From Spoken Drama--Eaton

"The legitimate stage will increase and the movies will decrease, but both will continue for a long time". This was the opinion of Walter P. Eaton yesterday at the round table discussion held in Old Capitol. Mr. Eaton, a well known dramatic critic, is here as a guest of Prof. E. C. Mabie who invited him to see "Children of the Moon."

There is not enough freedom in the movies, according to Mr. Eaton, to keep the good men there. The regular thing must be done in the regular way over and over again without any experimenting with new ideas. The movie has influenced the legitimate somewhat though by helping to break up the strict three act technique, he said. The movies have also taken most of the melodramatic from the spoken stage, leaving the later a more intellectual type of material.

In speaking of the type of road companies which produce plays in towns the size of Iowa City he said it was impossible to tell what to expect from them. Some are liable to be good and others will probably be bad. As a general rule, he said, companies which advertised original New York casts did not carry the entire original cast. Probably there would be one or two players left who appeared in the play in New York but most of them would be brought in new for the tour. The one or two originals would carry the play and the others could be obtained much cheaper than the originals.

In this conection Mr. Eaton said it would be only a matter of time until the road show disappeared. He said he could see no reason why a group of players could not be organized from competent graduates that could make up a reportoire of popular plays and play them around in the different towns through the state. Such a combination, could do better work than the average road show.

Talking of successful plays now on Broadway, Mr. Eaton said that "What Price Glory" was the only successful war play he had seen. He also said that its success came as a great surprise to the producer who hadn't expected to make a cent but had produced it because he knew it was a good play. No one knows he said, just what the public will like and pay money for. He told of the famous reception of "Abie's Irish Rose". The play appeared years ago and according to Mr. Eaton, received the worst panning from the newspapers that any play had received for years. The critics all predicted it would close before the end of the week. The play is still running in New York and Chicago and has eight companies in other places. The author's, Miss Nichols, income tax now totals 300,000 dollars. But the critics still call it incredible.

Students Discuss College Attitude

Y. W. Secretary Hears 800 Give Ideas On Problem

Miss Nell Summers secretary of the Y. W. C. A. represented the University at the state student convention held in Des Moines October 24, 25, and 26. Over 600 students and 200 faculty members from the different Iowa schools were present. This is the first attempt made in this state to try on a smaller scale the work accomplished in the national Y. W. C. A. conventions held annually.

Outstanding among the speakers was June Adams, nationally famous for her work in the Hull House in Chicago and other philanthropic organizations, who spoke on the national social and economic problems and their relations to student life.

An interesting fature of the conference was the discussion meetings held on the last day when faculty and students met to gether to decide from the two viewpoints represented should be the student attitude.

Wood Applies Sand To Oxford Debaters

Clean-Cut Argument Is Battle Front of Local

Debate coach Harry T. Wood and his Oxford debate team will be busy today putting the finishing touches on the case to be presented by the University of Iowa at the natural science auditorium Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The question before the house will be: "That this house condemns the policy of France toward Germany since the war." In upholding the negative of the question Iowa is believed to have a natural handicap in lack of general local sentiment favoring their side, and the debaters will undoubtedly attempt to overcome this difficultty by the lucid, forceful presentation of a clean-up group of arguments.

Iowa's representatives against Britain's men are Harry S. Stevenson, A3 of Council Bluffs, Phoebe Chittenden, A4 of Waverly, and Edwin Cassem A3 of Mitchell, S. Dak.

Urbana Football Camp Starts Blowing Out Gloom Clouds on Iowa Game

Two of Zuppke's Dependables Out Due to Injuries

Illini Mentor Finds He Is Using Same Plays As Iowa

URBANA, Oct. 28. (AP)—With Kassel and McElwain out of the practice, Coach Zuppke began to exhale sadness again over the chances of Illinois against Iowa.

Kassel accompanied by Leonard, sub half back went to Terre Haute, Ind., today to consult a physician. Kassel is still bothered with the shoulder injured before the Michigan game and Leonard has a sprained ankle. McIlwain was on the side lines as a result of a smash up in scrimmage last night.

Varsity and second teams battled on even terms tonight. The freshmen used Iowa plays which were hardly distinguished from those used by Coach Zuppke.

Two Matches Will Complete University Tennis Tourney

Gopher Coach Lauds Hawkeye Harriers

When interviewed after the Iowa-Minnesota dual meet last Saturday in which the Hawkeyes were victorious, Coach Ivorson of the Gopher squad said, "Iowa has a good team and I think they have a good chance to win the conference run this year." He expressed regret at Brown's withdrawal after a mile and a half of running, but declared that he was not surprised, as Brown had trained only four times this season and is not in condition.

Gophers Will Fight Badgers for "Little Brown Jug" Saturday

(Special to the Iowan)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 28—Fifty thousand persons are expected to witness Minnesota's Homecoming struggle with Michigan in the new stadium on November 1. The historic "little brown jug" will again be at stake. Last year, the Wolverines retained the "little brown jug" in a 10-0 victory.

Elaborate arrangements are being made for a two-day homecoming program. The stadium will be decorated with pennants of every Big Ten school. The climax of the celebration will occur Saturday evening in the form of a Homecoming dance. The "little brown jug" will be on display during the dance, and will be presented to the captain of the winning team.

Three Conference Teams on Iowa's '24 Golf Schedule

Practice on Neighboring Courses Betters Play

With Drake, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Chicago on the golf schedule for next spring's competition, Coach Charles Kennett realizes that he is undertaking a heavy proposition. But Kennett says the tougher they are the better he likes them, and with that idea in mind, he is going ahead in an effort to bring out some real golf stars.

A large number of candidates have been working daily on the University course. Led by Captain Heinie Jensen, who is perfectly at home with a bunch of golf clubs, a wealth of material has been rounding into a form that makes Coach Kennett predict a good season in the spring.

Kennett has been using a new method of training this fall, which he considers will be of great value when he takes his golfers away from home to engage in a contest. He has arranged with golf clubs at Cedar Rapids, Independence, Oskaloosa, and the Sunnyside club at Waterloo for the use of their links to practice on. The squad has already practiced on the Cedar Rapids course. This training gives the men excellent experience in learning to adapt themselves to a strange course.

There will be several meets other than the ones mentioned, but as yet they have not been arranged for. The men who are out for the squad are Captain Heinie Jensen, Ed Beman, William Vernon, Charles Marshall, A. J. Shimamura, L. G. Shrader, Carl Brown, Carl Seashore, W. T. Tompkins, F. Smiley, G. M. Gibbs, G. A. Gibbs, M. Stanhope, and B. Matthews.

Runners-up in Major Leagues Get $41,000 For Season's Share

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—Baseball commissioner Landis today sent out more than $41,000 in checks to the players of the clubs which finished in second and third places in the National leagie pennant race for 1924. The Brooklyn National league club, which finished second, received $24,831.94, of which there were twenty two full shares of $983.28 each. The Pittsburgh Pirates divided $16,544.62; had twenty seven shares of $569.81 each. The secretary, batboy, coaches and trainers were taken care of by each club.

Rain Stops Little Series

SEATTLE, WASH. Oct. 28 (AP)—Rain which caused postponement of a game here Saturday and yesterday between St. Paul and Seattle for the class AA baseball championship of the world, again today forced officials to call off the contest.

Booth Tarkington has written several great stories for the screen—"Monsieur Beaucaire", "The Flirt", "Penrod"—Now comes "The Turmoil" at the Strand next Friday.

Little Hawks Prepare For River City Crew

Each Lost Ball Means Dime for New Golf Fund

The loss of a golf ball will ordinarily cause a man to forget for a few moments that he is a member of the genus homo, but not so on the University of Iowa course. There, a lost golf ball means just another dime added to the fund for the groundsman's Christmas dinner.

Whenever a golf ball is found on the course it is turned in at Coach Charles Kenett's ofice. There the owner can get it by identifying it and paying the sum of ten cents for its recovery. When the fall season is over, all of the dimes thus secured will be put together in one sum and given to the groundsman for a Christmas dinner.

Coach Kenett says that the system is working out very well. The number of balls found on the course will nearly equal the number of balls lost, and when all of them are turned in a neat little total will be realized

The object of the system, of course, provides an incentive for every golfer to turn in the balls that he finds, and if he loses a ball, with all found balls turned in, his chances for recovery of his own ball are very good.

Harriers Practice On River Course

Track Resembles Illini Path They Will Follow Saturday

After the five mile workout of Monday night's practice run, the varsity cross country squad was content to go through some short limbering up exercises on Iowa Field last night. The squad finished the run with Minnesota in good condition. For the remainder of the week they will probably work out on the old river course, which more nearly resembles the ground on the Illinois pathway than the newer course on the west side of the athletic field.

Coach Bresnahan said that the team showed considerable improvement in the meet with Minnesota but was not yet in the form of a championship team. Meyers and Terbell seemed to show the most improvement in the workout last night.

The Illinois aggregation will probably offer the Hawks the real test of the year, as they are considered much stronger than the Minnesota team. They have five veterans in their crew, two of whom have won events against all-conference competition.

BANKER DIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 28 (AP)—James B. Forgan, for more than a quarter of a century one of the leading bankers of the middle west, died here tonight after an illness of but a few days. He was 72 yeasr of age.

Souchek Drives Men For Saturday's Contest

Cocah Souchek did not send his Red and White team to the showers last night until he had given them a thorough scrimmage workout for over an hour, in preparation for the Davenport game here Saturday. Davenport is a traditional foe for the Little Hawks. Coach Souchek and assistant Coach "Zip" Kloos have completely revamped their squad since the East Des Moines defeat. They have overhauled the team, changed the men about and produced a team that appears to be stronger than ever.

In the scrimmage last night the seconds could not stand the hammering of the first team and were finally ploughed under a score of 24-6. The night before, the seconds used a Davenport box formation with some success.

The quarter back position has shifted from man to man and the choice for the game against the river team is still a puzzle. Last night Judy held it until dusk when he was relieved by Koza. Boyles has played there often, and Cadweller also has a bid for the general position.

Strickler continues to play a stellar game for the Red and White. His running and twisting through the line for big gains, is a usual occurrence on Shrader field. His accurate passing is a valuable asset.

Forwald, seems to have the center job cinched. Goldman and Dolezal have held the guards all season. Lindsley has accustomed himself to the tackle position and will probably do his best work for the Red and White there. Vestermark plays the other tackle. Idema seems fixed on one wing position and the chance for the other end is a toss-up between Captain Slemmons and Reed. Lately Reed has outplayed his leader and the past week worked out there steadily.

Adrian will probably start at fullback against Davenport. McQuire and Strickler hold the half back positions and Koza may be Souchek's choice for the quarter berth.

Davenport was downed Saturday by Dubuque in a 7-6 struggle. According to the Davenport Democrat it was an unusually hard fought prep game.

Coach Looks for Stiff Tank Year

Armbruster Will Build Team Around Old Swimmers

With a squad of six men as a neucleus, Coach Dave Armbruster will probably face the hardest but best swimming season ever known in the history of Iowa aquatic sports. Ned Ashton, of Clinton, captains the team, which includes five sophomores, Lambert and Hoffman, Iowa City; Lutz and Killibrew of Des Moines, and Graaff of Bellevue.

John McClintock and Monty Stewart from last year's freshman team will strengthen the varsity. Both are fast men in the free style events. McClintock broke the University record in the 40-yard swim last year, while Stewart holds a number of records at his home town, Superior, Wisconsin.

Take Up Water Polo.

Schedules for the various conference teams will be completed in December of this year when the big ten coaches meet in Chicago. Last year, Iowa met five conference teams, winning three meets and losing two, to place third. Either four or five dual Big Ten meets will be scheduled this year.

Water polo will be considered as a more scientific substitute for the water basketball games hitherto played. It is played throughout the east but basketball has taken its place in the west.

Practice starts early this year. The novice meet took place ten days ago. An innovation occurred in the ten mile swim, forty installments completing the ten miles. The best time for the entire route will be taken to determine the winner. Lambert of Iowa City has made the best times to date, with McClintock and Hoffman second and third respectively.

Freshmen Cinder Artists Display Promise in Meet

Nolan Breaks the Only Record as Shaft Goes 165 Feet

With the fall track meet affording the first definite basis for estimation of frosh track crew, performances made at that time indicate that some promising material is present on the squad. According to Eric C. Wilson, freshman track coach, there is a very good crop of material in the dash events.

A feature of the program for the yearlings is the volunteer coaching staff composed of varsity men. This is the first year that the plan has been tried here and it seems to be a success. The coaches have been handicapped by the lack of material in their fall work but it is expected that with the cessation of football practice a large number of new candidates will report for work.

In the fall meet, freshmen bettered varsity marks in both the century and the mile run. In the competition for the Rotary club traveling cup the old freshman record was broken. It was the only record to fall in the meet.

Using the fall meet as a basis for judging the material, there seem to be a number of men now working on the squad who show considerable promise of development into point winners. Wightman, winner of individual honors captured firsts in the 220 and the broad jump and seems to be one of the best dash prospects on the squad. His performance was accomplished without track training this fall, as he abandoned football practice to participate in the meet. Wright, the second high point scorer, seems to show up best in the 440, the event in which he scored a win over a fast field. He is an all around performer, however, as he scored in the high jump, pole vault and the low hurdles. Butterfield, who was third in the point column, appears to be the outstanding freshman distance runner as he captured both the mile and two mile runs and took second in the 880.

However in special events, Moore took first in both the high and low sticks; Taxman won the century in better time than the varsity made; Nolan broke the freshman record in the javelin throw with a heave of 165 feet, and Mullen, who won the pole vault.

Pasteboards Plentiful for Iowa - Illinois Struggle

Champaign, Oct. 28 ATHLETIC director George Huff of the University of Illinois said tonight that plenty of seats still are available for the Iowa-Illinois football game. He said that it had been reported that all tickets were sold out but as a matter of fact tickets will be availabl eeven at the last minute.

Mat Tournament December 9, 10, 11

Undergraduates Eligible to Compete In Events

Arrangements have been completed for holding the all-Unversity wrestling tournament during the second week of December. This tournament, inaugurated by Coach Howard, in order to stimulate interest in wrestling, has become an annual affair.

About thirty-five men are working out each evening on the mat in order to be in good condition by the time of the meet. The dates set, December 9, 10, 11, allow plenty of time for anyone who is now out for football, or has not reported for other reasons, to get in condition before the tournament.

The regulations allow any undergraduate to compete whether or not he is eligible for the varsity team. This will permit freshman to test their ability against upperclassmen.

Medals will be awarded to the winners as has been the custom in previous tournaments.

Frosh Expected To Push Reserves In Run Saturday

Ribbons Awarded for First Fifteen Places

Freshman harriers are working out with added pep this week in preparation for the freshman-varsity run next Saturday. The run will be held at 11 a. m. on the varsity course at the west side athletic field, and will be for a two-mile distance. Ribbons will be awarded for the first fifteen places and the first six men to cross the finish line will be recommended for numerals.

The reserves will be captained by L. F. Carrol, and a frosh leader will be elected on Saturday morning before the race. The yearlings will undoubtedly offer a real battle to their upperclass rivals, as a number of them have been showing up well in practice runs with the varsity. In the five mile jaunt Monday night the work of Bergstrom, Wilcox, Hunn, and Speers was especially outstanding on the freshman crew, and compared very favorably with the showing made by the first string of the varsity.

Darkness Halts Quad Net Play With Watson Ahead

Darkness caused a halt during the the second set of the Walsh-Watson battle for the singles title in the quad net tourney last evening, with Watson in the lead. Watson won the first set 7-5; the second now stands at a 5-5 tie. The play was fast, and not lacking in interest since the count was often deuced in most of the games. The contest will not be resumed until Saturday morning.

Broad Jumpers Will Meet in Special Event

Realizing the truth of the old saying about the chain being as strong as its weakest link, the Athlic department is attempting to strengthen one of the weak links on the Iowa track team by arousing interest in the broad jump. A broad jump meet will be held next Thursday afternoon at 4:15 in which anyone may compete. Gold, silver, and bronze medals will be offered as prizes for the first three places.

The broad jump was one of the events in which the Old Gold track crew failed to score in against conference competition. It was the event which was largely responsible for the loss of the indoor dual to Illinois last winter. It is hoped that the coming competition will uncover some new material in this event.

Several broad jumpers of some repute in University circles will undoubtedly stage a battle for the honors. Paul Jones, holder of the University record; Johnny Everingham, winner of the event in the fall track meet; and Jack Wightman, winner of the leap in the Freshman section of the same meet will probably make things interesting for the dark horses who may appear.

Minnesota Cage Prospects Bright With Thirty Out

(Special to the Iowan)

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 28 — With over 30 men practising four nights a week, six of whom were members of last years freshman team, basketball prospects at Minnesota this year are very encouraging.

Captin-elect Dunder, Rasey, Wolden, Redding, Gillen, and Becker of last years' varsity are showing up better than ever this year. At the end of the football season, such stars as Lidberg, Ascher, Guzy and Gordon will be released to make their bids for the 1925 quintet.

Minnesota is facing one of the most strenuous basketball seasons of any team in the conference this year.

No Independent Team For Iowa City This Year

That Iowa City will have no independent football team this fall is the fact brought out by conversation with several of the old stars who have helped organize teams here for the past few years. Interest in football is not sufficient to warrant such an organization, Three teams, the University, University high school, and Iowa City high school give local fans about all the football they can absorb. For the independents it has never been a paying proposition the past few years and about all the players ever realized out of it was a good day's exercise.

Booth Tarkington has written several great stories for the screen—"Monsieur Beaucaire", "The Flirt", "Penrod" —Now comes "The Turmoil" at the Strand next Friday.

The holders wil be chosen by a committee of the London branch, and it is possible that during their visit to the United States they wil be affiliated for a short time with some American newspaper.

Market CHICAGO AND NEW YORK Reports

"Davis Will Run Third in Northern States," Dutcher

Republican Senator Flays La Follette Claims As Insults to Integrity of American Voters; Honesty Not an Issue

"DAVIS will run third in every state north of the Mason and Dixon line," was the prediction made by Senator Charles M. Dutcher in a speech before a crowd of more than one hundred at the Oxford hall last night. The Senator and Miss Genevieve Corkell of Chicago were the main speakers at the republican rally a tOxford.

Both speakers emphasized the fact that the campaign in the northern states is clearly between Coolidge and La Follette and urged faith in the republican party, condemning the unwarranted alarm and agitation stirred up by the senator from Wisconsin.

"When Lafollette says that the Republican party is the slave of sorruption and a conspirator against civilization heinsults the intelligence and integrity of the American people." stated Senator Dutcher.

"Honesty is not the issue," he continued, for the honesty of no president has ever been questioned. Fall and Daugherty are not being justified by Republicans and the other candidates have neglected to mention Hughes, Hoover, the late Mr. Wallace, and the rest of the cabinet.

"The issue of the campaign," declared Senator Dutcher, "is to preserve the Union. At the time of the adoption of the constitution English statesmen predicted that the American government could not last over one hundred and fifty years. This government has survived one hundred and thirty-five successfully but the present campaign raises a doubt as to the near future."

Bob Shakes Faith

Miss Corkell illustrated the political situation by pointing out that the ambition of Sir Walter Scott was to break no man's faith and corrupt no man's pinciples.

"LaFollette," she continued, "is endeavoring to shake the nation's faith in the constitution, and to corrupt the principles of freedom by the doctrines of socialism".

'The judicial judgment of the supreme court is necessary she stated, "Permanent laws should not be formed out of temporary, changing conditions but should betempered by the mature and deliberate judgment of the highest court of the land.'

Denounces Socialism

On the subject of government ownership of railroads Miss Corkell pointed out that such a step would be toward the murder of American initiative. "Enjoyment of the product of one's own labor has stimulated American progress", she said, "Socialism will kill the spirit of the nation."

Both speakers emphasized the personal of President Coolidge, his religious integrity, and his courage in the maintenance of law and order.

Budget Your Time, Suggests Dean of Women in Lecture

Freshmen women were urged to budget their time by Dean Adelaide Burge yesterday in freshman lectures when she discussed the scholastic readjustment of the fresh men.

Dean Burge explained this readjustment in the phases of course and schedule requirements. She attributed the cause of many of the failures, at the end of the semester to a waste of time.

Saturday Is Last Day for Local Voters to Register

One day remains for voters to register, Saturday, November 1. The polls will be open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock in the evening in the five city wards.

A total of 5,583 have registered thus far in Iowa City, but there remains nearly 2,000 who have not registered, according to the voting strength of Iowa City taken in 1920.

Plan Mass Meeting For Friday Evening

Voters to Hear Views Of Candidates at City Hall

"Get Out the Vote" meeting will be held in the city hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening as the climax of the local campaign to get every voter at the polls November 4.

Candidates for every county office have been asked to appear and present their platforms. Speeches from absent candidates will be also read. Rev. G. A. Bennett will preside and impartial treatment will be accorded candidates from every party.

34 Ballots Issued Tuesday Raises County Total to 247

Thirty-four absent and disabled voters' ballots were issued yesterday by County Auditor Ed. Sulek, bringing the total up to 247 for Johnson county. Most of the ballots issued yesterday were to disabled voters within the city and absent voters in the state, although eight were issued to residents of other states; Califonria, Minensota, Nebraska, and Illinois.

8,000 Citizens Expected To Vote

Instructions for Use of Ballot Machine Are Simple; Five Wards Have Machines

APPROXIMATELY 8,000 voters are expected to use the voting machines in Iowa City on Tuesday, November 4. Each of the five wards of Iowa City is equipped with one voting machine, which means that each machine must be used by approximately 1,500 voters.

In order that there will be the least possible friction during the day, the following instructions have been issued for the use of the machines:

1. Move the red handle of the curtain lever to the right as far as it will go. This will close the curtain around you and unlock the machine for voting.

How to Vote a Straight Ticket

Having closed the curtain, pull the party lever bearing the name of your party over to the right until the bell rings, and then let it go back. This turns down to a voting position all of the pointers of the candidates of your party.

Leave the pointers as they are (down in a voting position). Move the red handle of the curtain lever to the left as far as it will go. This will count your vote, open the curtain, and set the machine for the next voter.

How to Vote a Split Ticket

Having closed the curtain, pull the party lever bearing the name of your party over to the right until the bell rings, and then let it go back. This turns down to a voting position all of the pointers of the candidates of your party.

Turn back (up) the pointer from over the name of the candidate you wish to cut. Then turn down a pointer over the name of the candidate you wish to vote for for that office. Be sure to complete each split before making another. For an office to which two or more candidates are to be elected, the given number can be voted for, regardless of position.

After the vote is arranged, move the red handle of the curtain lever to the left as far as it will go. This will count one vote for every candidate that has a pointer left down over his name.

Democrats Flay G. O. P. Efforts

Ralph Thompson Hits Esch-Cummins Measure

Farmers difficulties lie in the distribution and transportation of his products, claims Ralph U. Thompson, of Muscatine, democratic candidate for national representative who spoke Monday at a rally at Swisher. He believes that either the Esch-Cummings act should be repealed or radically revised.

W. J. MacDonald of Iowa City pointed out that a protective tariff does not help the farmer but forces him to pay tribute on the goods which he buys.

Ed. L. O'Connor, county attorney, declared the sins of "Silent Cal" were those of omission and not commission and were as grievous as any. He pointed out a constitutional error that Judge Letts is making while holding a position in Supreme Court until 1926 and running for congress the coming election.

Democrats Will Sweep Johnson County Jobs

Sheriff's Office Only Doubtful Trick, Says the Dope; Attorney O'Connor and Auditor Sulek Unopposed in Fight

(By Don Wilkins)

ELECTION of a full slate of democratic candidates for county offices at the election November 4th appears to be the conseusus of opinion of the political dopesters at this time. In only one or two cases are the republicans given an even break or better for county offices. Two of the democratic nominees are unopposed.

Ed Sulek, county auditor who is running for re-eelction, again has no republican opponent. He has polled a representative democratic vote in the last three elections.

Edward L. O'Connor, democratic candidate for re-election to the office of county attorney, likewise has the field to himself.

Fight Close

Both major parties have contestants for the county treasurers office. Bert V. Bridenstine, the republican aspirant, is opposed by Charles A. Berry on the democratic ticket. Berry holds the office at present, having secured it by appointment after the resignation of C. C. Shrader.

Berry is popular in Johnson county and expects to secure a majority of votes Tuesday. He ran for clerk of the district court in 1918 and piled up a big lead over his republican opponent. Bridenstine was defeated by a slight margin in 1922 by C. F. Benda, democratic candidate, in a race for county clerk. There is a strong possibility that Bridenstine may upset the dope and defeat his democratic rival, say dopesters.

Tiffany Strong

Charles F. Benda, present clerk of the district court, is up for re-election on the democratic ticket. He is opposed by Fred O. Tiffany. Benda has twice won the office. If his past record is an index of the results next week, Benda will lose Iowa City and carry the balance of the county.

The race for county recorder finds John M. Kadlec, the present incumbent, opposed by Miss Emma Stover, on the republican ticket. Kadlec is a veteran winner of three elections, and in the last one, in 1922, had no republican opponent.

The office of county coroner is sought by A. C. Harmon on the republican ticket and J. H. Donahue on the democratic. Donahue holds the office at present and is a good vote-getter.

James Martin, present republican incumbent and candidate for re-election as sheriff, may defeat William White, democratic nominee. The fight for sheriff is one of the few in which the outcome is doubtful.

Bobcats Lambast Two Old Parties

Claim Old Groups Too Corrupt for Use By People

"Two old parties are naturally and instrinsically too corrupt fo the people's use and no longer fit to rule" was the keynote thought expressed by Paul Dwyer at the second weekly meeting of the Johnson county LaFollette-Wheeler club held in Union hall last night.

In his talk, Mr. Dwyer covered thoroughly the La Follette platform and laid special emphasis upon the manner in which the government of our country has been conducted for the past ten years.

Third Party Efficient

He attempted to show where the old parties were unreliable and thoroughly at outs with theinterests of the common people and where, on the other hand, the third party could be depended upon to carry out needed reforms and run the government in an efficient manner.

..The meeting was opened at 8 p. m. until a good sized crowd and Paul Corey gave the opening speech pointing the work of the La Follette-Wheeler club in the university. He stated that attempts had been made to get La Folette.

Plan Rallies

After the speech by Dwyer, the meeting was opened to discussion in general and for over an hour the republican and democratic parties were critisized from all angles. It is the plan of theclub to have meetings at North Liberty, Oxford, and Tiffin sometime this week.

"Letts Hasn't Decency To Resign" Says Hart

Local Attorney Hits Republican Candidate a Terrific Wallop in Speech at Solon; Claims G. O. P. Runs Wild

DURING the course of a speech at a democratic rally at Solon last last night W. R. Hart Sr. declared that "Judge Letts hasn't the decency to resign from the bench because he is afraid that Ralph Thompson will be elected and then the judge wouldn't have any job."

Judge Letts is the republican candidate for United States representative from this district and democrats declare he is violating a section of the constiution of the state of Iowa by running for office while he retains his seat on the bench.

Mr. Hart asserted taht "the republicans are running wild over the state of Iowa." He pointed out the big increase in state taxes in the last few years nad declared that republican graft is responsible for at least a part of the increase. He said that the state would benefit by a change of administration.

Hits Propaganda

Mr. Hart also claimed that the reports of newspaper correspondents stating that the only fight in the present campaign is between Coolidge and La Follette was republican propaganda paid for out of the republican campaign fund. He declared that it was inspired by a desire to make hte voters believe that a vote for Davis would be lost.

Herbert Thompson of Muscatine spoke on the importance of keeping the control of water power sites in this country out of the hands of "big interests." He declared that there is enough water power to furnish electricity for eevry possible need at a cost of one cent per kilowatt.

Want Conservation

He asserted that if Muscle Shoals and other power sites were allowed to pass into the hands of big power companies it would give them control of the country, because they would be able to dictate to the people.

Joe Mekota of Cedar Rapids, chairman of the democratic central committee in Lynn county, also made a brief talk. He denied that there are three parties in the field, asserting that La Follette leads a wing of the republican party.

"Do you think there will be a lots of witches here on Hallowe'en?"

"Aw-no—there isn't such a thing as witches.

These worldy wise words came from a brown eyed boy at Perkins Hospital.

"But you have them pasted all over your walls."

"Yes, but that's just pertend like."

Perkins Hospital is indeed decorated for Halllowe'en with all the traditional witches, black cats, and spooks.

Along the rows of little white cots the moot question of witches and ghosts is being discussed with all the heat and ferver of a Brookhart-Dawes controversy, and every face is animated with the delicious mystery of Hallowe'en. About it all there is an indefinable spirit of joy and happiness, for these children are not idle and the hours do not drag.

"The Perkins Hospital children take regular school work while in the hospital. A number of full time teachers and many part time teachers are employed. The children have work along different lines than mere curricular instruction. They also engage in art work which consists of basket weaving, rug making and various kinds of art hand work.
