Theatre Presents Tonight Divorce Farce "Why Not?"

Seat Sale for Sixth Play Begins This Morning at 9

Theatre Will Use Box Set for Satire on Marriage

WHY NOT?

By Jesse Lynch Williams

To be presented tonight and tomorrow night in the University Theatre under the direction of Prof. E. C. Mabie.

The Cast:

Mary Chadwick — Dorothy McClenahan.
Leonard Chadwick — Donovan Rhynsburger.
Molly Chadwick—Frances Busby.
Churchill Smith—Peter Janss.
Jane Davidge — Eleanora Van Hoene.
Evadne Thompson — Margaret Blackburn.
Bill Thompson — Harry Barnes.
Billy Thompson—George Hass.

The University Theatre will present "Why Not?" the sixth play of the season, in the auditorium of the natural science building at 8 o'clock tonight. Prof. E. C. Mabie will direct the presentation.

"Why Not?" is a satire on the existing marriage and divorce laws. It is called a comedy of conventions, and deals with two unhappily married couples. During the action, amazing situations are produced, none of which are at all impossible, which are cleverly arranged to bring out the satire. The entire problem of the play is how to make all four of the married people happy, which is finally accomplished.

Use Plain Set

A plain box set, much like that for "Children of the Moon" and "Alice Sit-By-The-Fire" will be used on "Why Not?". The lighting does not require any unusual difficulties as did the production of "Beggar on Horseback," since the action takes place in an American home.

Author Prominent

Jesse Lynch Williams, the author of the play, is considered one of the foremost American dramatists. He won the Pulitzer prize in 1917 for "Why Marry?", a play similar to "Why Not?".

General sale of reserved seats for both tonight and tomorrow night will begin this morning at 9 o'clock at the Iowa Supply company. Seats will also be sold at the University Theatre immediately before the play. The change from Wednesday and Thursday to Thursday and Friday was made necessary by the lecture of Henry Seidel Canby on "Criticism in America," which was given last night in the auditorium.

'Tis Spring! Laws Desert Case Books for Case Knives

The laws have felt the urge of spring. Yesterday a group of embryonic lawyers were to be seen indulging alternately in mumblepeg and case books on the lawn east of the law building. Before afternoon the little knot of outdoor patients had increased until scores were variously engaged with case books or case knives on the grass.

Writers Submerge Talent in Obsession With Dark Side of Life, Says Canby

Sergel Lectures on Provincialism

Audience Fills Senate Room at Afternoon Discussion

Henry Seidel Canby, New York author and editor of "The Saturday Review of Literature," spoke last evening on "Literary Criticism in America" at the natural science auditorium, as the conclusion of the writers' conference held here yesterday. Citing Edgar Allan Poe as the greatest of all American critics, Professor Canby emphasized the importance of constructive criticist in furthering creative literary expression.

"Midwestern writers," said Henry Seidel Canby at the fiction round table, held in connection with the writers' conference, in Old Capitol yesterday afternoon, "have been more interested in protesting against conditions of life in which they have found themselves than in telling good stories.

"The great problem, as I see it, is not to produce regional literature, but to produce good literature."

Stress Character Portrayal

John M. Thurber, instructor of narrative writing at Iowa State college, Ames, opened the afternoon's program, under the chairmanship of John T. Frederick, co-editor of "The Midland," with a resume of the modern novel. Stressing the importance of character portrayal, he said, "If our novels are sometimes unbeautiful and pessimistic, it is for no reason so much as that the characters chosen for depiction are unwholesome and unbeautiful. The midwestern novel of the future may well lay more stress upon the great deeds of great people."

That literary production is going on in the United States with unprecedented zeal was the statement of Frank L. Mott, co-editor of "The Midland," in a brief talk. "If Winter Comes," he said, "is estimated to have been read by more than six million people."

Sergel Speaks

Roger L. Sergel of Pittsburg, Pa., University of Iowa graduate and now instructor at the University of Pittsburg, delivered the longest address of the afternoon, on "Provincialism in Literature."

"Provincialism," he said, "is that narrowing of our vision necessary to give us understanding; and wise provincialism realizes that values outside its circle rest on no more solid foundations than its own.

"Art is not concerned finally with place, but it is necessary for the artist to have a place to stand as he reaches toward infinity."

Review Regionalism

Marlow A. Shaw of the University department of English spoke on the evident tendency at the present time toward dissatisfaction with mere regionalism and the desire for an underlying truth that is

Midland's Birth Marked by Dinner

Greetings of Knopf, Bynner, and Benet Received

In celebration of the tenth anniversary of the founding of "The Midland," literary magazine edited by Professors John T. Frederick and Frank L. Mott, a dinner was held last evening at the Mad Hatters, attended by about fifty guests.

Telegrams of congratulations written by writers and editors as Lew Sarett, Charles J. Finger, Alfred A. Knopf, Raymond Weeks, Witter Bynner, William Rose Benet, and Glenn Ward Dresbach were read by Professor Mott, who acted as toastmaster.

Henry S. Canby of New York City, Nelson Antrim Crawford of Manhattan, Kansas; Roger L. Sergel of Pittsburg, Pa., and Professors Edwin Ford Piper, Hardin Craig, and John T. Frederick made brief talks following the dinner.

Steal Jewels From Her Dressing Room

Elsie Janis, who is appearing in "Puzzles of 1925" at the Fulton theatre, New York, was robbed of jewelry worth about $15,000 by a thief who entered her dressing room recently. The jewels include a pair of gold earrings, a diamond necklace of ninety-four carats, and a pendant whose gems weigh fourteen carats. The necklace has been a family treasure for twenty years.

Choose Dakin and Holland Managers of Coming Iowawa

Plans for Event Kept Secret; Carnival Last Year

Dakin Y.M.C.A. Head, Holland Member of Cabinet

Allin Dakin, A3 of Mason City, and Vern Holland, A4 of Collins, were selected joint managers for Iowawa, all-University carnival sponsored yearly by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., yesterday afternoon, according to Esther Van Cleave, A4 of Iowa City, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements. The plan of Dakin and Holland was the only one submitted previous to March 18.

Plans Secret

That the plan for Iowawa to be given the week of May 1, this year is entirely different from last year, the newly selected managers admitted yesterday. They refused to reveal plans until they had discussed them more fully.

The plan chosen last year was submitted by Bruce Potter, A4 of Harlan, and consisted of an indoor carnival at the new armory. Concessions, stunts, side shows, and an all-University hop comprised the Pacific Witnesses Mighty Gunning in Great Sham Battle

11 Dreadnoughts Fire 600 Tons of Steel in Practice

Sea Forces Unite in Realistic Mock Warfare

(By the Associated Press)

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 25. — The mighty voice of the main battle power of the nation roared out over the Pacific ocean seventy miles off shore today in the greatest gunnery fire ever witnessed at sea. For six minutes eleven deadnaughts loosed more than six hundred tons of steel amid a cataclismic belching of fire and an inferno of noise in the annual force practice.

Annhilation of the "enemy" fleet, represented by targets, was complete, according to observers, while the spitting barrage of 808 sharpnel shells from the forty-four anti-aircraft rifles of the dreadnoughts failed to find a mark in the sleeve targets towed by eight airplanes.

The battle line was twisted and disrupted several times by the flank of torpedoes loosed by nineteen destroyers, simulating the enemy, and one of the dreadnoughts was forced to turn around completely to evade this submarine weapon that the floating fortresses fear most.

All real conditions of battle were simulated to a degree that was dreadnought except that air planes did not simulate attack with bombs. More than forty aircraft participated with eleven battleships, seven scout cruisers and thirty-eight destroyers and the air craft carried "Langley" in the combatant forces, while there were also auxiliary aircraft towing the targets.

Mecca, Jubilee Echo at Oakdale

Present Several Acts from Celebration for Patients

Patients at the Oakdale sanitarium had a chance to catch an echo of the engineer-law celebration when several acts from the Mecca show and the Law Jubilee were given there at 8 o'clock las night, under the direction of F. V. Johnson, G of Maquoketa.

Carl Seashore and Keith R. Chinn reacted "A Pair of Aces" and Miss Dorothy Munn sang "A cure for the Blues." "The Duncan Sisters" featuring F. V. Johnson and Carl Seashore, was also given, followed by the presentation of "A Little Bed Time Story" by Richard Aussiker.

"Peanut Brittle," taken from the Law Jubilee, was given by Mathew M. Stafford and Walter J. Dalton. Following this Miss Mary Kraft and Miss Tiny Able gave "A Wild Deuce with a Queen at the Piano," a feature taken from the engineer's dance.

Ray Ebert and Clifford Hotz, of St. Mary's vaudeville contributed a number entitled "A Couple of Stray Bums."

Other numbers on the program were a piano solo by Edgar J. Karsten, a violin solo by Daniel J. Koch, and "Popular Piano Numbers" by Vernon Lichenstein.

At the conclusion of the program Miss Elizabeth Abel gave several impromtu burlesque numbers that were enthusiastically received.

Want Competitors for Lowden Prize to See Bulletins

Students intending to compete for the annual Lowden prize awarded for the best grade received in a competitive test given over algebra, plane trigonometry, analytical geometry of two dimensions, and elements of differntial and integral calculus should immediately consult the notices posted on the bulletin boards on the cmapus.

Frank O. Lowden, '85, offers several prizes in various subjects. The one offered in mathematics is for $50 and is open to all students who will complete work of the freshman and sophomore years in mathematics.

"Express Things"--Mrs. LeCron

"Give Vent to Things of Which You Know Most," Advises Register Book Page Editor

"If I had a class in literature here, my first idea would be to have my students express the things which press in upon them every day, and not go so far afield for their material," said Mrs. Helen Cowles LeCron, editor of the book page of the Des Moines Sunday Register.

Inspired by the discussions of regional literature at the round table of yesterday afternoon at the writer's conference, Mrs. LeCron added, "I think that our beginning writers, such as students here, can write really regional literature if they honestly give vent to their ideas about the things of which they know the most. They cannot help, if they are truly honest, making great pictures of this Midland country.

"I have noticed your Literary Magazine," she observed. "It seemed to me to be good, and I remember especially some exceptional poetry."

Roger L. Sergel, author of "Arlie Gelston," has been too highly occupied with his work as an instructor at the University of Pittsburg to embark upon further literary production of an extensive nature, since the completion of that novel of the middle west.

The coming summer, he plans to resume his creative writing, and has made arrangements to join a group of several writers who will rent a deserted farmstead near Johnstown, Penn.

"There are many of these farms in the East," said Mr. Sergel, who has been in Iowa City for the writers' conference and to visit his roommate of University days, Ralph E. Turner of the department of history, "and the landlords are glad to rent them for very little."

Postpone Graduate Council's Meeting for Dean's Illness

Carl E. Seashore, dean of the graduate college, was unable to resume his duties yesterday because of a severe cold contracted Monday. It was hoped that he would be able to return to his office yesterday, but his condition kept him from his work, and beyond a brief inspection of the mail at his office yesterday noon he remained at his home.

It is expected that he will resume his duties either tomorrow or Saturday. On account of the illness of Dean Seashore the meeting of the Graduate Council, scheduled to meet Tuesday afternoon, was postponed and will probably be held Saturday afternoon instead if the dean is then able to be present.

New Board Member Has Two Sons in University

C. C. Sheakley of New Hampton, father of C. Harold Sheakley, A2, and Edward Sherman Sheakley, L1, was nominated yesterday by Governor Hammill to be a member of the state board of education.

Mr. Sheakley's name, along with two others, was sent to the state Senate yesterday for confirmation. The governor appointed Mr. Sheakley to superivse the purchasing department of the board.

To Entertain for Katharine Blunt

Head of Chicago U. Home Economics Here Saturday

Dr. Katharine Blunt, president of the American Home Economics association, will be the guest of the home economics department of the University Saturday.

Doctor Blunt is also head of the home economics department of Chicago University, a prominent nutrition expert, and author of several articles for scientific journals.

She will talk to home economics students Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the auditorium of the home economics building. She will be entertained at a tea in the dining room from 3 to 4 o'clock. The weekly tea given by the sophomore class in foods will be given at this time instead of on Friday, in order that Doctor Blunt may be a guest of honor.

Iowa Bell-Boys Granted Charter

Pi Epsilon Pi Installs Local Chapter April 5

The date for the installation of Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep organization, a chapter of which has been granted to the Bell-Boys, has been set for April 5.

The Bell-Boys have made elaborate plans for this year's baseball games. First they will have a men's cheering section.

Second they will do away with the "razzing" of individual players.

House Fight on Budget Threatens University With Loss of Thousands in Appropriations; Showdown Today

Coolidge to Go on First Long Recess

President on Vacation While White House Gets Repairs

CALVIN COOLIDGE

While the White House is being repaired this summer President Coolidge will take a long vacation and for the first time will have opportunity to study big questions, undisturbed by Congress, according to a dispatch in the New York Times.

Of the questions Mr. Coolidge will deliberate, the purely domestic are perhaps more important than the international ones, which include the World Court. The following national issues are considered most important by Republican leaders, and will come up be-

Brookhart Repeats Graft Accusations

DES MOINES, March 25 (AP)—A renewal of the charge that H. E. Spangler of Cedar Rapids and B. B. Burnquist of Fort Dodge, republican state central committee chairman, were "attempting to collect graft in the guise of attorneys fees" in connection with the committee's contest of Senator Brookhart's election last November was the only statement the senator would issue tonight in reply to a statement made public at Cedar Rapids today by Mr. Spangler, who with Mr. Burnquist is acting as attorney for the committee in presenting the contest.

Gibbons May Meet Tunney on July 12

CHICAGO, March 25 (AP)—Negotiations for a fifteen round contest to a decision between Tom Gibbons, St. Paul heavyweight, and Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, probably will be closed here tomorrow with the arrival of Jimmy De Forest, match maker for the Polo athletic club of New York.

Amendment Cuts Contingent Fund

Budget for Iowa State College Remains Unmolested

(By the Associated Press)

DES MOINES, March 25—The Iowa house of respresentatives today completed consideration of the Hogue appropriations bill involving state expenditures of approximately $20,00,000 except only the funds for the three state colleges.

These will be considered tomorrow, Chairman Carter of the appropriations committee said, with every indication pointing to a high test fight.

Mr. Carter announced after the secret meeting today that several amendments had been filed to the bill. One would strike out the $275,000 dollar replacement fund accorded the University of Iowa, and would reduce the physcal plant improvement fund from $280,000 to $180,000 and the contingent fund of the University from $300,000 to $150,000.

No amendments have been filed to the budget for Iowa State college at Ames but there was one offered to eliminate the $35,000 allowed to the Iowa State Teachers college for summer school extension work.

Seniors Suggest Plaque, Statue

Meteorites, Grapevines, and Loan Fund Opinion of Seniors for Memorial to Class of '25

Plaques, meteorites, grapevines, statuettes, and rugs—are a few of the more or less original suggestions submitted by seniors yesterday for a suitable class memorial. A box has been placed in liberal arts building outside of the Y. W. C. A. office to receive these brain children, and the committee in charge has asked that seniors from all colleges place in it their ideas for the gift of the class of 1925 to the University.

Other suggestions were: new bell for Old Capitol, archway for the Iowa avenue entrance to the campus, rare piece of shrubbery to be used near Old Capitol, statue, fountain, fireplace or room in the Memorial Union, electric bell system for all buildings, plaque in Memorial Union, student loan fund, and general postoffice for students.

The senior tax is being collected this week in the college of liberal arts. The colleges of medicine and dentistry have collected theirs and the college of law began last week.

Co-Ed Swimmers Conquer Iowa River's Current

The glory of the Kappa Sigs is no more since Margaret Polders, A2 of West Liberty, and Mildred Wynne, A2 of Bedford, swam in the Iowa river Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock. This is the first time this spring that co-eds have been in the river. Both co-eds are members of Chi Omega sorority.

Release on Bail Denied Shepherd

Judge Hopkins Promises Prisoner Speedy Trial

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, March 25—Release from jail on bail today was denied William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder by typhoid of William N. McClintock, his foster son, to gain the boy's million dollar estate.

"The most I can hold out for this defendant," said Chief Justice Joseph Hopkins of the criminal court in rendering the decision, "is a speedy trial if he wishes it." The Judge made it clear he was ruling only on the question of fact as to whether proof of guilt was evident or the presumption great.

Oil Lease Defense Fires Final Guns

Littleton Pleads Good Faith in Concluding Plea

(By the Associated Press)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 25—Firing its last and avowedly biggest guns at the legal armada of the government in the Tea Pot lease annulment suit, the defense, Harry F. Sinclair and the Mammoth Oil company closed its case today with the argument of Martin W. Littleton noted attorney and defender of Harry K. Thaw and H. Newberry.

Mr. Littleton, speaking in a crowded courtroom, talked for one hour and thirty minutes. His argument was centered on two points of the case. The first was on the contention of the government that if the terms of the lease were enforced in the matter exchanging crude oil for fuel oil in storage tanks it would be illegal because it would have subverted the power of congress in its right to make appropriations for the navy.

Walker Will Fight in July

SA NFRANCISCO, March 25 (AP) —Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, has signed to fight in San Francisco on the afternoon of May 16. His opponent is yet to be chosen. Efforts are being made to sign Joe Simonich of Butte, or "Lefty" Cooper.

Continued Warm and Fair Weather Reilly Prediction

Iowa City will probably have continued fair and warm weather today is the opinion of Prof. John F. Rielly, who has charge of the government weather observation station. Weather conditions are problematical for today, he states, because of the fact that two impending pressure areas, a high and a low, have been struggling for precedence over Iowa territory since Tuesday morning. It is probable that the high will persist.

Professor Reilly sees a menace to the fruit trees and shrubbery in Iowa City in the unusually warm weather that has prevailed for the last few days. While the days have been warm, he states, the temperature has been near zero or actually freezing every night. From Monday afternoon to Tuesday night there was a temperature interval of forty-two degrees.

To Elect Members to Board April 16

Limit for Petitions Set for Next Thursday

Petitions for the sophomores who are to be candidates for trustees of the board of Student Publicans, Incorpoarted, must be in the hands of the secretary of the board, room 101, journalism building, before noon of Thursday, April 2.

The trustees may be sophomores in any college of the University, and their petitions must be signed by twenty-five members of their own class.

To Elect Trustees

Three trustees will be chosen in an election open to the entire undergraduate body of the University on Thursday, April 16. The candidates receiving the highest number of votes will hold office for two years. The one receiving the third highest number of votes will hold office for one year.

The new members of the board will take office immediately upon their election.

Selection of editor and business manager of the Daily Iowan by the board of Student Publications, Incorporated, will take place at 7 p. m. Friday, April 3.

These selections will both be made by the present personnel of the Board of Student Publications.

No Date for Hawkeye

The election of the editor and business manager of the 1927 Hawkeye, for which no date has been set, will be in the hands of the newly constituted Board.

THREE to one, a call to Currier hall will produce some such result as the above.

What else could be expected, when 175 very normal and much-dated co-eds have only two telephones at their service?

Normally ten girls can keep one telephone very busy; eighty-seven and one-half can do very much better.

Some day, perhaps, the University will install another telephone in Currier, and then there will be three!

The Black Spring

THIS being spring (according to the calendar), it is now appropriate for editorial writers, novelists, and poets to rave over the beauties of nature.

Robins suddenly become noticeable, the grass becomes green (it usually does, somehow), people fall in love (they probably would anyhow), and little boys yearn to go barefoot. All of which receives appropriate comment, and versification, if necessary.

This, however, is a rather biased outlook upon the seasons, for there is another angle, quite a poignant, and much more noticeable. From this point of view, the first four lines of the "Spring Song" of the average citizen (perhaps composed while walking down Clinton street), might well read thus:

"Out where the soot begins,
(And they burn soft coal),
There do I spend my endless days,
Paying endless cleaners' bills. . . . ."

"It Seems to Me"

DURING the last days of his life Marquis Curzon asked again and again for his favorite journal, the London Graphic, but his physicians were forced to refuse the request because upon the front page of that very paper were the bulletins announcing that Curzon's condition was grave and that hourly he grew weaker. When he began to fret at this prohibition the doctors appealed to the editors of the Graphic, who prepared one special paper announcing quite falsely, that Curzon was on the mend and that his complete recovery might soon be expected.

Curzon's death prevented his seeing the paper, but it is fascinating to consider the psychological effect of such a newspaper. Heywood Brown has made some suggestions for such a paper as he would like to see it, and from an Iowa viewpoint others might be added.

Upon the sports page of this paper we would like to read that Iowa and Illinois met in their annual baseball fight and that the Old Gold won by a score of 38 to 0. On the front page there would be the announcements that the Child Labor amendment had been ratified by all the states including Iowa; that the Iowa legislature had decided on an excellent plan for paving all primary and secondary roads; and that Calvin Coolidge and the senate were agreeing on the solution of some important problems and had accomplished something besides raising their own pay. There would be no disasters, taking toll of human lives, no divorce cases, no murders, no robberies, and the names Stokes, McClintock, Brookhart, Bryan, and Collins would not be mentioned. The editorial page would contain an editorial acknowledging the huge sum of money pledged by the students for the Iowa Memorial Union, one violently attacking the play jury scheme of theatrical supervision, and another on the virtue, good scholarship, and temperance of Iowa students. At the top of the paper in the weather box would be the sign "Fair and Warmer."

Justice to Inventors

NOW that Mr. Hoover has taken over the reins in the United States patent office, we can rest assured something will be done to remove the injustices toward American patentees and manufacturers as a result of the laws of foreign countries. The patent office was transferred to the commerce department from the interior department by the executive order of President Coolidge.

Secretary Hoover declared that American inventors are forced to establish large factories to protect their inventions, wholly because of the unjust laws of other countries, which provide that an American patentee must continuously manufacture in that courty or lose his patent.

The Americans have no such regulation, and the result is that foreign patentees may register their invention in the United States and can hold it for seventeen years, preventing the manufacture of the article.

An international conference for the protection of industrial property will be held at the Hague on Oct. 8, 1925, and Secretary Hoover has announced that if the convention shall fail to secure primary justice for American patentees, he will ask for a complete revision of the patent laws of the United States which will bring it about.

President Coolidge was wise in putting the matter in the hands of a man who is thoroughly acquainted with the situation and who has the courage to stand for justice to American inventors.

There is one advantage to the practice court. At least nobody gets hanged if the lawyers make a mistake.

The best protection for a safe is to hang a bottle of whisky over it. Then the robbers will forget all about the money.

Lovely Labors Lost

FRESHMAN'S LAMENT

Why call the place a University?
—Where Arab Greeks stop often for their mail,—
Co-eds do too, but they to get their male;
Where any one will cheer for varsity'—
It's not a football team—and not a few
Yell for a place named for a blue-hued fowl.
Here every one stays nights like an owl.
We've just one student,—stuffed, he's in the zoo.
I truly wondered where they got the name:
Then saw these things,—as well as old tin Fords
And necking parties, golf fiends, frats, and came
On frightful gin, and paddles,—of oak boards.
I saw then that a University
Is but a place of great variety.

—LORD OSCAR.

Last Sunday night we went to a movie with Al. Usually we don't go on Sunday, but Al had his red tie on, and the only thing to do seemed to go to a movie.

It wasn't such a bad movie and there were several opportunities for puns. That's really all we go to movies for—we look upon them as punishment.

We didn't pun as much as we usually do because there was a couple next to us who were enjoying the occasion. We didn't want to go when Al did, because we were enjoying the couple enjoying the occasion, but it was ten-thirty, and you know how Al is that way.

Betty wants us to write a column about her. We have already done one about one of her sorority sisters and we think that should suffice. But we never were good at convincing a woman.

We have a date with The One tonight. We have told her we are a woman hater. Of course it's quite true, but we can never keep our face straight when we say it. All our past sorrows and disappointments creep into our mien and distort it.

Our girl of the Brown Hat is appearing more regularly now. She really shouldn't use a class as a place to sleep, but one can forgive her for anything, she wears such an attractive coat.

We hope it is a coat. We should like someone to explain to us the differences between a coat, a cloak, a cape, and a dolman. If there are any other varieties, include them.

We never shall forget the first time a girl sprang a dolman on us. She just said "Wait till I get my dolman."

We were just on the verge of backing out, because we never had a dolman on a date before. It sounded like some new kind of Pomeranian.

Well, this coat we were telling you about is blue, twelve o'clock blue we think the technical name is, and is decorated with silver whooflesnitzes.

It makes a very attractive pattern.

Geologist Says Moving Mountain Rests Unsupported on Shale Bed

Irregular Precipitation Cause Assigned to Movement; Erosion of Coal Deposits Causes Horizontal Diastrophism

Meeker's Moving Mountain, which has been moving at a rate of 100 feet a day, is a mountain of rock resting unsupported upon a bed of plastic shale, according to the statement of a member of the geology department.

This mountain is located in Rio Blanco county in the northwestern part of Colorado, not far from the town of Meeker.

The mountain is of the Mesaverde formation consisting of basal sandstones and some coral beds. Beneath this formation is Mancos shale. This shale formation becomes soft and oozy in the spring when the frost comes out of the ground. The irregular precipitation of the district about is the cause of the foundation of the mountain becoming unsteady.

The precipitation in April, 1906, was 4.12 inches. If the precipitation had been the same for the entire twelve months, the average for the year would have been about 48. The yearly precipitation for Iowa City is thirty or forty inches. The climate of this area is semi-arid, and the winters are long and severe.

The heavy pressure of the mountain upon the shale beds causes the horizontal movement, and another cause of this movement might be the fact that there are numerous deposits of coal, which becoming eroded, or by some type of crustal movement, cause the moving of the mountain.

This type of movement is unusual because horizontal movements never occur except in the case of a landslide when there is an accompanying vertical movement. A similar type of movement is that of the landslides of the Culebra cut in the Panama Canal zone. However, this was a combination of vertical and horizontal movements.

Women's Tuxedoes With Shirts, Studs Appear in Paris

Paris has introduced a new vogue in dress. According to the New York Times, a dispatch from Paris brings news of tuxedos for women to displace the former decollete.

The new fashion includes a dinner coat with silk lapels, stiff shirt front, black tie and pearl studs. Although there is much protest, some of the extremists have already adopted the fashion.

Many of the fashion experts are protesting against th's outrage against femininity. In the evening "women should remain women," says Andre Fouquieres, fashion expert. Sport has affected women's clothing for day wear, but the evening should tend toward more feminine fashions as contrast, the Parisian courtiers contend.

Advertising in College Papers

—is like radio broadcasting which is delivered to an unseen audience, and the "broadcaster" knows nothing of the message registration unless responses are sent in.

In December the John Hancock ran in this paper an advertisement headed "Do College Students Read Advertisements?" Here are some of the responses:

"Your advertisement in the Dartmouth was an unusual one, and I want to express my approval."

"If there were more ads like the one you ran in the Princetonian this morning it would be a pleasure to read a paper of nothing but ads."

"The students here in Hanover not only read the advertisements but also patronize the advertisers."

"The advertisement in the Illini is written from the college students' point of view. I believe in insurance because of the sound economic principles which underlie it. There remains then only the kind of policy and the company. What have you got?"

The John Hancock Mutual is particularly interested in insuring college men and women and obtaining ambitious college graduates for the personnel of its field staff.

Discuss Reasons Why Students Do Not Attend Church

Y. W. Vespers Argue Closer Relation to Church

Students prefer to stay home rather than listen to long boresome sermons. Problems repsented by churches do not always apply to present day facts. Such arguments as these were given at Y. W. vespers yesterday afternoon as reasons for student non-attendance at church. On the other hand, reasons for membership and active work in the church organization were presented. As an example a quotation from former President Harding was given, in which he said that the stability of civilization lies in religion.

Suggestions concerning the mistakes of the church, and how they might be removed were also given by the student speakers. Religion of today, as expressed in the church, is a dividing influence, ather than a uniting one. The narrow mindedness of various denominations and members prevent young people from giving their support to them; this and the fact that frequently no place for youth is made in the organization, and nothing but criticism is given to them.

However, realizing the importance of religion, it is necessary to realize that the life of religion is bound up with the fortunes of the church, of any denomination. If it as an organization is neglected, the recognized good will be lost to humanity.

These opinions and discussions were the subject of the second of the series of vespers sponsored by the university Y. W. C. A. in which an attempt is to be made to get at the basic troubles of student women regarding religion. Pastors of local churches are invited to the meetings, and women of this school give their opinions of the student ideas of the church. This meeting was presided over by Jean Beatty, A1 of Malvern. The next vesper meeting will concern further student problems in the same line of discussion.

Iowa Men Like Beauty But Admit They Prefer Brains

By Leone Watson

"Beautiful but dumb," is the ideal girl for the men of the University of Chicago, but the men of Iowa admit they prefer theirs with brains. When questioned regarding their ideal, prominent men on the campus of Iowa voted for less beauty, and as one styled it, "more common sense."

"You can't separate brains and beauty into two distinct groups," declared a medical student. "If it were a question of the two, I'd vote for brains. That doesn't mean my ideal must be a Phi Beta Kappa, or that her face would stop a clock. In fact I think the girl of my dreams has a charming personality rather than beauty or brains."

"My ideal," said a junior, "which one, the ideal of the girl I'd chose for the dance date, or the girl I intend to marry? There's a difference you know. While I don't exactly agree with the Chicago sophomore who says this ideal is a myth, still I haven't been able to find mine yet. But let be tell you this, the girl who is a good sport, a good dresser, and who can at least keep her feet to herself while dnacing makes a keen date."

Iowa's freshmen men are women haters. Of the six interviewed four professed no interest in women, ideal or otherwise. "She may exist," one declared, "but I've not had time to look for her." But two timid frosh ventured their opinions on the subject. "I like most any girl" and "give me the girl who will let you tell her something without butting in," were the brief but expressive comments.

"The trouble with the University girls," said a serious senior, "is that they are here just for a good time. They can't carry on a worthwhile conversation because they don't know anything. They never have had a serious thought in their lives. Their world consists of dates, dresses, and parties. Who wants a girl like that? But the trouble is that men generally come to a time when they are ready to take anything."

And, now for the sophisticated sophomore, but he also differs from the male searchers of knowledge at the Chicago institution. Unlike his brother-classmen his ideal is not a myth, but an honest-to-goodness living reality. She was at his side giggling softly as he drew a word picture of her. "Just as beautiful as nature and the corner drug store can make her," were the main features of the picture he drew.

Campus-- Etiquette

When sitting down at the table it has become conventianal to be seated from the left side. In this way confusion and crowding is avoided. This is also the rule for rising.

If a man wishes to smoke between acts of a play he may show his thoughtfulness by obtaining an end seat so that he will not inconvenience an entire row of people in going out and returning.

A man in the company of a woman tips his hat to the persons to whom she speaks whether he knows them or not. This is a simple courtesy to his companion.

Slapped Faces Are in Order at Mixer

Lit Societies May Be Severely Shaken by Shock

"Literary society women will meet to have their faces slapped and then will turn the other cheek or go home mad," is the naive statement made by a member of the executive comimttee regarding the all-lit mixer which will be held March 31 in Hep hall.

Every portion of the evening's entertainment has been planned with the end in view of giving tangible evidence that these literary organizations are not dead, or even sleeping, as some University students think.

Gayly colored handbills announcing the mixer, talks in all meetings of literary societies, and poster publicity have been used to reach each of the 200 women whose names appear on the membership roll of the six societies.

Talks, a stunt, a challenge, and refreshments are included on the evening's program.

Audience Laughs With "Sick" Man in Spanish Play

Students Present Two Act Comedy Before Large Crowd

Last evening before a well filled auditorium the Spanish play "Zaragueta" was presented with a cast of eleven students. The production was a two act comedy of present day and the main events centered about the life of a student and his biggest trouble, "money."

The plot concerned the student Carlos who was so deeply in debt that he had to fake illness in order to receive money from his wealthy relatives to go away from Madrid. The old money lender, to whom this student was in debt, was hard of hearing and it often proved amusing to the listeners when he tried to regain the money he had lost.

There seemed to be a little uneasiness in the audience, when Pio was placed as Maruja's second lover because of his mother's desire. This, however, was taken care of by Pio getting Maruja to love Carlos, the scene of which proved to be especially well done.

Finally the money lender is made known to the aunt and regains his money, even if he does have to endure a shower bath before he was finally understood.

A speciality of spanish dances and the singing was given betwen acts.

Music Students Give 3 Recitals

First of Series Comes Today at 4; Others Will Follow

Three recitals will be presented by students from the school of music this week. The first will come this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The second, on Friday, and the third, Saturday. The first two of these will be given by University students. The Saturday recital is to be the work of younger students.

Those who will appear this afternoon are: Helen Linaury, A1 of Milton; Iva Richardson, A2 of Moulton; Ruth Rittler, A2 of Wayland; Myrtle Van Peursen, A1 of George; Margery Warner, A1 of Iowa City; Evelyn Bertman, A1 of Manchester; Pearl Garton, Mu. Genevieve Harter and Mary Kraft Win in W. A. A. Election After Tie

More Votes Cast in Second Elections Than in Regular Annual Polling Tuesday; Officers Have Activities Record

After holding a second election the W. A. A. has chosen as its president, Genevieve Harter, A3 of Iowa City, and Mary Kraft, A1 of Oelwein as vice-president.

Tuesday's election ended in a tie, for these offices, between Blanche Bailey, A3 of Royal and Genevieve Harter for president, and between Leah Rose, A3 of Iowa City and Mary Kraft for the vice-president. The president and vice president elect won in the second contest by only a small majority.

Miss Harter has been active in athletics during her three years here, taking part in basket ball, base ball, hockey, and tennis. She and her sister Evelyn Harter have held the women's championship in tennis doubles for the past two years. Miss Kraft has also been quite active in athletics.

Cast More Votes

After the tied election Tuesday, announcement was made that a second election would be held yesterday at the women's gymnasium between the hours of 9 to 12 a. m. and from 1 to 5 p. m. Many more votes were cast in the election yesterday than in the first, on account of the interest aroused by the keen competition.

After the election closed at 5 o'clock yesterday W. A. A. members rushed about the gymnasium in vain attempts to find out the names of the new officers, which were not officially announced until this morning. Other new officers who were elected by the organization are Eva May Prunty, A2 of Des Moines, secretary, who represents the volley ball team on the board, and is also a member of the Seals club and a sophomore major in physical education. Catherine Richter, A3 of Davenport, who was elected treasurer, is a junior major in physical education, and is a member of the Seals club.

Satisfied With Interest

Helen Meinhard, A3 of Storm Lake, elected to the office of senior representative to W. A. A., is a junior major in physical education and a member of Octave Thanet literary society. Alpha Hanson was elected junior representative to W. A. A. and is the hiking representative on the board. Marie Stoner, A1 of Corydon, who was chosen to be the sophomore representative, made the mythical basket ball team this year.

"I feel that the results of the election show that there has been keen competition and an intense amount of interest shown in women's athletics during the past year," said Anne Doornink, A4 of Iowa City, the retiring president of the organization, expressing her satisfaction over the outcome of the election.

Lake Geneva Work Begins Soon for University Women

Training Courses Will Be Outlined Giving Y. W. Attitude

"To train for leadership in the Y. W. C. A. in the colleges and universities of this area," is the function of the annual summer conference of the Y. W. C. A. at Lake Geneva, Wis. The conference at Geneva includes representatives from all colleges and universities in Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Iowa, and North and South Dakota. It has attendance of approximately 700 women. August 21 to 31 has been set as the dates for the student conference this year.

Definite arrangements have not been completed as yet, according to Frances Rose, A3 of Iowa City, but as soon as a program schedule is received from headquarters, a training course for those planning on attending will begin. The preliminary training and organization of the group is being planned to enable the delegates from this school to take a more active part in the conference and to be able to view the conference with a broader perspective than would otherwise be possible.

Eight women have signified their intention to attend the conference this summer. Those now planning on making the trip are Helen Cole, A2 of Woodbine; Margaret Sayers, A4 of Jefferson; Margaret Triplett, A3 of Storm Lake; Sara Frazer, A3 of Friend Port, Mich.; Pamelia Dulaney, A2 of Sergeant Bluffs; Mildred Eck, A2 of Des Moines; Rayma Rawson, A3 of Strawberry Point; and Frances Rose, A3 of Iowa City.

DISCUSS ROTORSHIP

DANZIG, Mar. 25 (AP)—Shipping experts are reluctant to pass judgment on the recent trip of the rotorship Buckau from this port to Scotland. They say he Buckau is so small, and the rotor substitute for sails so new, that experimentation with larger ships will be necessary to test its commercial value.

Iowa Field, Deserted for a Season, Now a Bee Hive of Swarming Activity

After a period of practically four months of idleness, the Iowa Field is once again the center of attraction and will continue to be the center of attraction until school closes in June.

The last football game last fall was November 22 and since that time the Iowa Field has been practically forgotten. But now with the baseball season only a few weeks away and the spring football men occupying an important place in the oval, it is again the center of attraction and will continue to occupy major sports position the rest of the season.

With the track men occupying the track surrounding the Iowa Field proper and the football men working on the inside while Coach Vogel and his candidates "swat" the baseball at the north end, hardly and portion of the entire field is vacant any evening of the week.

Diamond Candidates Cut

Scantlebury, Marshall, Miller, Fisher, Sure to Go South

Coach Otto Vogel of the University baseball team made what will probably be the last cut of his baseball squad. The following men will comprise the squad from now on and it is from these candidates that he will pick the men to take south with him. The men that were cut this time are asked to report to their physical training classes as usual.

Scantlebury Goes South

The infielders left on the squad are Scantlebury, F. Barrett, G. A. Gibbs, Schoenfelder, Hutchinson, A. Grau and Smith. Of these men Captain Scantelbury is the only man that is sure to take the southern trip.

The outfielders remaining are Flinne, Barrett M., Sahs, Hall, Beardsley, and McNabb. The men from this group that will be southward bound on April 9 is not yet decided.

The following catchers will still be seen in the vicinity of Iowa field: Fisher, Broders, Hoben G., and Miller. Two of these men, Fisher and Miller, will travel with the team.

No Pitchers Cut

None of the pitchers suffered from this cut. They are Marshall, Peterson L., Adams J., Sheakley, Stancato A., Carson, Sharper, Mauer, Meade, Landis, Pauma L., Hogan R., Van Deusen G. Hub Marshall is the only one that has been picked at this stage of the game to make the southern trip.

When Coach Vogel was asked how soon he would let out the names of the rest of the men who will go south, he said, "April 9, that's when I'll know."

U. High Defeated in Dual Mat Meet

West Liberty high school wrestlers won the second dual meet from University Hi Tuesday night, 11-2. Bowers of University Hi, competing in the 125 class was the only man to place for the local school.

Sumary of events:

105 pound class—Kline (W.L.) won on a decision from Van Epps (U. Hi) Time advantage 6:52.

115 pound class—Bowers (U. H.) won by a decision over Sanger (W. L.). Advantage :33 in extra period.

145 pound class—McCann (W.L.) won by a decision from Kiser, (U. H.). Advantage 5:10.

158 pound class—Fox (W.L.) won by a fall from Meyers (U.Hi). Time 6:58.

Referee—Mike Howard.

U. Championships and Novice Affair Carded for April

The addition of two home track meets for the men of the University to the spring schedule was announced by Coach George T. Bresnahan yesterday. They are the novice meet which will be held on April 22 and 23 and the University Championships carded for April 28 and 29.

Replaces Frat Meets

The novice meet will take the place of the interfraternity affair of previous years and will be open to any freshman candidates. This list will be realesed some time before the meet in order that all runners will have a chance to get in shape.

Selections of the men who are not eligible for the novice affair will be made by the coaching staff. Points will count towards the participation trophy the same as they do in the other intramural events and fraternities will receive credit for the number of men they have competing.

Letter Men Inelig'ble

Suitable prizes will be awarded consisting of four medals in each event. All men who have won letters in track in the University or at any other college or university or major standing are ineligible whether they are included on the posted list or not.

The standard events will be contested: 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, half mile run, half mile relay, high jump ,broad jump, pole vault, shot put, discus throw, javelin throw, hammer throw. Entry blanks are being mailed to the organizations and must be returned to the Department of Athletics by April 3.

Any man registered in the University is eligible for the University championships which will be held the week after the Drake Relays. The same events will be staged and the standard medal for the first four places in each event will be awarded.

Barry Will Start Daily Cage Drill Following Recess

With the Old Gold cage squad greatly weakened by the loss of the two veterans, Jimmie Laude and "Hec" Janse, coach Barry will start drilling candidates for next years quintet soon after the spring recess.

Will Miss Two Stars

"Jimmie Laude's place as a defensive man will be hard to fill as will the forward position of Captain Janse, the Barry scoring ace. Laude led the Big Ten in looping free throws this season and stopped some of the best of his conference foes. Both are exceptionally good dribblers.

Captain Janse used a weaving dribble which enabled him to get in position for spot shots, while Laude's bouncing advance was so fast that it forced hs opponents to foul him in order to keep him away from the hoop.

Three Sophomores Back

The sophomore trio, Captain-elect McConnell, Van Deusen and Raffensperger will form the nucleus of Barry's team next year. Most of this year's cage squad were sophomores and promise to stage great competition for places next season.

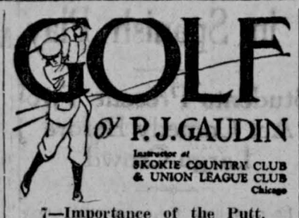
Phi Epsilon Pi Falls to Theta Taus in Indoor Mix

Two sensational catches proved to be the deciding factors in Theta Tau's 14 to 10 victory over Phi Epsilon Pi in the third game of the inter-fraternity indoor baseball tournament played at the men's gym last night.

The outcome of the game apparently depended upon the breaks, as is the general case in most of the games played at the gym, and Theta Tau got the majority of them.

Nielson, Bowen, Brockman, Edwards, Ashton, Deklotz, Folwell, Schuleen, Todson, Sebelin and Gunderson played on the winning Theta Tau team, and the Phi Epsilon Pi players were Swartz, J. Krigsten, W. Krigsten, Golstein, Urdangen, Lutz, Liderman, Cohn, Wasserman and Hochenberg.

GOLF



by P. J. GAUDIN

Instructor at SKOKIE COUNTRY CLUB & UNION LEAGUE CLUB Chicago

7—Importance of the Putt.

So far as the score is concerned, putting is the most important stroke in golf. It comes very near being as important as all the rest put together. Par on different courses averages about 72. In computing the par strokes at 72, putting is allowed just half, 36.

Overspin Putt Best

For the average player, and many are coming to believe for all players, the overspin put is the one to use. Properly made, the putt makes the ball roll straight over toward the hole, hugging the turf all the way. The convincing argument in favor of it is that it is the simplest possible way of getting the ball into the hole. Walter Hagen, Bobby Jones, Cyril Walker, Chick Evans, Bobby Cruikshank, Jesse Guilford, Al Epinosa, Bob Gardner, George Duncan, Harrison "Jim" Johnston, Billy Mehlhorn and nearly every golf star uses the overspin putt.

Sure to Roll Straight

There will be other articles descriptive of the best ways of making the overspin putt, but emphasis must be put on the fact that all methods must provide for the club face going back at exactly right angles to the line of putt and going through the ball and finishing at right angles. If the club does not finish at right angles, it is a sign that the club was turning when the ball was hit, giving the ball side-spin that is certain to make it roll off the line just before it stops. On a level surface, the ball with overspin only will keep on rolling straight ahead until if stops. Allowing for undulations of the green, the overspin ball stays on the line all the time. If there is a roll-off on a properly hit ball with overspin only, the ball itself is off center and should be abandoned for accurate play.

Practice at Home

Get out your putter at home or anywhere and see how nearly you can come to swinging it straight back and straight forward over a straight line in the rug or floor. Take your stance so your eyes will be exactly over the ball and use the wrists only. The forearms must move a trifle to let the club remain low on the back swing. Otherwise do not move a muscle. You may be able to work out methods that will be as good as those that will be suggested.

Three Hawk Stars Work for N.C.A.A. Swimming Meet

The decision to make the trip having definitely been made, Captain Ashton, Captain-elect McClintock and Standish Lambert, high point men of the Iowa swimming team this winter are training for the National Collegiate Athletic Association meet which will be held in the Northwestern tank, April 10 and 11. The trio of stars, accompanied by Coach David A. Armbruster, will drive to Evanston.

Ashton will compete in his pet event, the 150-yard back stroke, McClintock will swim the 40 and 100-yard free styles while Lambert will be entered in the 220-yard free style or the 440-yard event with the possibility of swiming only one of them.

The Hawkeye stars will be pitted against the pick of the men from all the athletic conferences in the country for the National Collegiate meet decides the individual college champion of each event. No team standings are figured at the conclusion of the meet.

All three of the Iowans were picked on the all-conference team chosen by Coach Tom Robinson of Northwestern University recently.

Benetier, Houser, Win Mitt Battles

Two more boxing matches were disposed of in the University tournament yesterday. The first scrap was between Leon Benetier, former lightweight champ, and Bernard Keese. Benetier won all three rounds by wide margins, his former experience showing to good advantage against his less experienced opponent.

The second match of the afternoon was between A. W. Houser and R. P. Ritgers in the welterweight class. It was a close fight all the way but Houser finally won the babttle when he used lefts and rights to advantage in the final stanza.

Three fights, all at 3 p. m., will be on tap for local ring followers today. The first will be between Roote and Morrett in the second round of the middleweight division. Wilson will meet the winner of this bout next Tuesday.

The second will be between L. A. Williams and D. A. Foutz. Both these men are feathers. The final affair of the afternoon will see Myerly and Houser as opponents. The winner of the bout will meet J. L. Ball next Tuesday.

Iowa Union Takes Shape; Push Work on Outside Walls

Carpenters Complete Column Forms for Cement Pillars

Trim Bedford Ashlars for Exterior of First Section

The outside wall of the first section of the Memorial Union building has been rapidly taking shape since last Monday. Superintendent Bert Morehead has a force of thirty-three men working on the construction, eleven of whom are brick layers, eight carpenters, one stone cutter, and twelve laborers.

Masons and stone workers are at work on the wall of the gallery which will face the river, which, according to Mr. Morehead, contains the most difficult construction work of the exterior. Since this gallery is to be open, the brick must be faced on both sides, causing twice the labor of the other walls. The corners and quoins of this gallery are being built of buffed Bedford limestone, and the open arches of Cloister brick, the standard brick of the University.

Use White Cement

Victor Halquist, the foreman of the brick layers, said that the mortar used between this material contains white cement, the price of which is four times that of Portland. This cement will dry white, while Portland is gray.

The carpenters are finishing the forty-eight column forms which will be filled with reenforced concrete. These columns will be the pillar bases for the large main lounge room of the first section.

True Up Ashlars

Each piece of limestone was cut especially for the Memorial Union building. It is impossible for the quarry to cut each ashlar exactly true, so the contracting company has employed Pierce Jame, an expert stone-cutter, to finish the stone so that each block will fit closely together.

The same contracting company that is building the Union has built the womens gymnasium, the Quadrangle, the first section of the children's hospital, and the Iowa apartments.

Mount Public Address System on Truck for Receiving

A public address system mounted on a truck is the latest equipment of the college of applied science. This loud speaking system is for use primarily in amplifying the speakers' voices during exercises at which a large number of people are addressed. It may be used also as a giant loud speaker when connected to a radio receiving set, or may be rtansoprted to a distant town to pick up speeches and musical programs broadcast from WSUI.

The University experimental station, 9XAZ is broadcasting test programs on Mondays at midnight. Operators in a number of university stations throughout the United States have arranged to listen in on these tests and report each week. Valuable information is being obtained as to the design and operation of radiophone transmitters and speech input equipment.

Varsity Tennis Team Candidates Add to Signs of Spring as Courts First Open

Spring has sprung!

Flashy gingahm ties, dandelion-colored stockings, and the abandonment of snooker pool are proofs that spring has arrived; but still more convincing is the sight of tennis players in action.

The north section of the tennis courts was opened yesterday afternoon, with nearly twenty men turning out to test their pre-season form. Jimmy Lutz, Julius Swartz and John Dorsey, veterans of last year's varsity net team, were among the first to use the courts yesterday.

Though the courts were slow, the ground being still quite soft, Lutz and Swartz showed good pre-season form, but had some difficulty in judging returns.

Tie in Penthalon After Two Events

With two events of the five in the first annual penthalon swim, completed, J. S. Lambert and captain-elect McClintock are tied for first place. McClintock has won a first in the 100-yard free style event, and a third in a like distance in the backstroke. Lambert has placed second in both events.

Captain Ashton is in third place by virue of a win in the back stroke, his pet event. Bob Killibrew is placed fourth, Daugherty, Murphy, and Fairgrave bring up those among the possibilities.

An Olympic plaque will become the permanent possession of the winner, while three other medals are offered. Remaining events, the dives, 500 yard swim and 100 yard breast stroke, will be finished on successive evenings this week, until the final event of Saturday.

Crawford Explains Poetry

"Poetry is either escape from life, or understanding of life," said Nelson Antrim Crawford, professor of industrial journalism at the Kansas agricultural college at Manhattan, Kansas, thus voicing a keynote for the poetry round table of the conference yesterday morning.

Mr. Crawford, the first speaker on the program, expressed other ideas, new and old, when he continued, "One of our mistakes is to take ourselves too seriously. There must be room in poetry for levity, satire and burlesque. The essentially ethical person has little place in the writing of poetry.—Poetry must not be considered from any standpoint outside itself, but only from the point of beauty."

Weeks Raises Laugh

In the spirited arguments which arose over the points of Mr. Crawford's talk, Leroy Titus Weeks, of Morningside College, convulsed the conference with apt stories and illustrations of his views, in words that left no doubt as to his ideas on poetry.

"As for a definition of what is or is not poetry, no one critter ever lived who could give an accurate description of it. There would always be some one else who would refute it," he asserted.

Appeals for Iowa Poetry

Mrs. Helen Cowles Le Cron, editor of the book page of the Des Moines Sunday Register began more discussion when she said, rather startlingly, "There is surely poetry in the beauty of our rolling Iowa prairies, in the hills and farms of this Midland country. Yet we still use the old forms of expression and we develop no new ones which will be distinctly Iowan."

Business-Man Poet Talks

Jay G. Sigmund, whom Professor Edwin Ford Piper introduced as a business-man poet who wrote as one of the people because he knew his people of the mid-west, paid special tribute to the little poetry magazines all over the country.

"I wish that some one would write the story of these little magazines, which are published purely for love of poetry, since there is no possible money reward in them. There is one now published in New Jersey called the 'Country Bar,' which is published at a loss by a carpenter who can ill afford that loss. The poetry in it is atrocious, but the mere fact that it is reaching so many people makes it worth while."

Frame Bill to Give Legislators Credit Toward Law Degree

DES MOINES, Ia., Mar. 25—The bill by Senator Bowman to give legislators credit toward a law degree for the days they served in the state legislature is scheduled to appear in the house shortly after appropriations are disposed of. The bill has been approved by the senate.

Representative Hill has under consideration an amendment which would give newspapermen assigned to the legislature and who desire to pursue the study of law, one-half the credit toward a degree that would be accorded legislators.

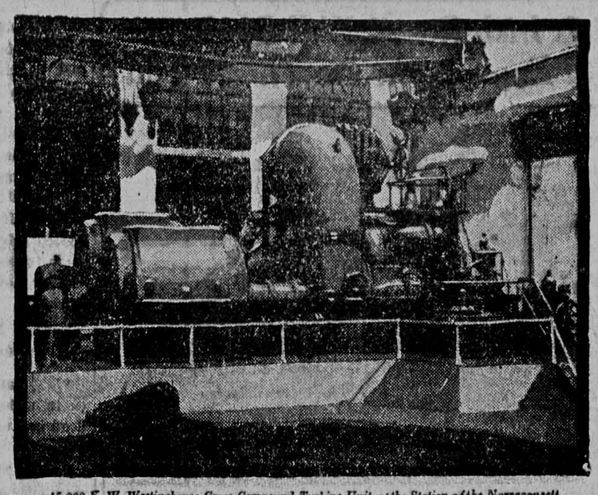
A Record Still Unbroken

At 5:20 P. M., March 8th, 1920, Westinghouse Turbine Established World's Record for Continuous Running.

What Engineering Owes to Good Workmanship

WHEN Westinghouse installed a 45,000 K. W. Turbine in the power house of the Narragansett Electric Light Company, Providence, R. I., early in December, 1919, there was no thought of more than the average weekly power house run. Abnormal weather conditions, however, brought so steady a demand for power, that the unit was not shut down until March 8th, 1920, after a continuous run of 84 days, 11 hours, and 36 minutes.



45,000 K. W. Westinghouse Cross-Compound Turbine Unit at the Station of the Narragansett Electric Light Company, Providence, R. I.

This was especially remarkable in that the unit consists of two turbine generator sets, each of which operates independently of the other, so that the result was the mechanical equivalent of operating a single machine continuously for 169 days.

If space permitted, many astounding figures could be cited—about the K. W. H. generated during this period, the water and coal used, the cooling system, the oiling system, etc.

For example, to keep the generators cool, over 18,000,000,000 cubic feet of air passed through them, which equals 2,000 times the total weight of the generators and their bed plates.

Equally impressive, oil was pumped through the self-contained lubricating system to the bearings at the rate of 600 gallons a minute. Had the oiling system failed for only 30 seconds, the bearings would have been wrecked, and other parts of the unit harmed!

There is interesting history back of the operation of Westinghouse Turbine Units of 3,000 K. W. and higher. Notable records have been made in many of the world's great power plants, performance that is a tribute to remarkable engineering and good workmanship.

Council Awards Red Ball Paving Contract to Cedar Rapids Firm

6 Bids Submitted; Smith to Install Concrete Road

Begin Work in June; Drainage Not Included

Percy P. Smith, of Cedar Rapids, was awarded the Red Ball paving contract at a figure of $31,242 for the complete job, lacking drainage, by the city council last night. Six bids were submitted to the council.

The contract as let calls for concrete paving on Riverside drive, beginning at Melrose avenue and continuing south to the south city limits, being approximately 12,200 square yards.

Work will be commenced about June 1 and will be completed about August 1.

Other bidders and their bids were as follows: Wm. L. Nusser, without drainage $34,685.75, with drainae $35,148.75; Western Asphalt Paving Corporation, without drainage $31,274, with drainage $31,687.50; McCarthy Improvement Company, without drainage $35,226.75, with drainage $35,626.25; Blackhawk Construction Company, without drainage, $36,734.50, with drainage, no bid; Wm. Horrabin Construction Company, without drainage $32,080, with drainage $32,456; Percy P. Smith, without drainage $31,242, with drainage $31,799.

Bootlegger Fined $600 and Costs

Chas. Sprinkel Still in Jail; Unable to Raise Sum

Charles Sprinkel, who was found guilty of bootlegging in the district court last week, was sentenced to pay a fine of $600 by Judge R. G. Popham yesterday morning. The costs of the trial were also assessed against him.

Sprinkel has as yet not raised the required sum and is still a resident of the county jail. If he is unable to pay the fine he will be required to serve three months, in jail in lieu of it.

John Cox was to have been sentenced yesterday also for maintaining a liquor nuisance at his pool hall on South Clinton street but a continuance was granted by Judge Popham until a later date.

Iowa City Largest in United States to Have Woman as Chief Executive

Mayor Emma J. Harvat

Iowa City proudly boasts of being the largest city in the United States to place a woman in the position of chief executive. In the person of Miss Emma J. Harvat, she has a mayor who has fully justified the confidence and trust which the fourteen thousand residents of the city, and the six thousand students of the University, have placed in her.

Work in Social Service

"Business people who have never done this kind of work do not realize how much there is to be done in the field of social service," she told one interviewer, as she sat behind the big desk in her office in the city hall.

"My experience leads me to believe that people are not essentially bad, but are products of their environment and rearing. I should say that seventy-five percent of the cases I deal with come from the ranks of the poor and uneducated. If one will use tact and good sense a great deal can be done for them. That's why my work is vitally fascinating to me."

Established Rest Room

This attitude Miss Harvat has incorporated in what she considers her most important act for the betterment of the city, the establishment of a detention room at the city hall for girls and women who would otherwise be thrown into jail.

An excellent article about Miss Harvat has appeared recently in a number of "The Woman Citizen" in which the writer gives a clear cut picture of the Mayor Harvat. "Iowa City's leading lady in a thick-set woman slightly past middle age."

"Her dark hair is tinged with gray above the temples, but her unusual energy and vitalty disparage the thought that she is getting any older. Seated in her chair behind her desk in the office at the cty hall she gives an impression of firm, business-like effiency that is withal warm and human."

Nominated for Alderman

It was four years ago that Miss Harvat was surprised by being nominated for alderman-at-large. She finally accepted the nomination and was elected in March 1921. She rapidly sprang into prominence as a member of the city council and, when the office of mayor was vacated in June 1922, it was logical that the council should appoint her to the position.

In the remaining nine months of the unexpired term, her administraton was so successful, that in the next election she carried the city by a huge majority in spite of the fact that she represented the minority party in politics.

Miss Harvat Speaks

When she first took the office of mayor she was called upon for a speech. She arose and said with simple dignity, "Gentlemen, I have only one thing to say: I shall do my duty." And any hard headed business man of Iowa City will say that in this respect, she has succeded.

"I am not a politician," Mayor Harvat said. "I had never taken the slightest interest in politics, not even woman suffrage, until four years ago. I believe that my experience won the election for me."

Women Not Handicapped

"Women don't have as many handicaps in professional careers as most people believe. Their only real disadvantage is their lack of the business training which men have from the start."

Miss Harvat was one of a family of ten children, all of whom married except herself. At eighteen, without home or resources, with only a high school and business college education as equipment she secured a position as bookkeeper at a local book and stationery concern where she worked for eleven years.

Goes Into Business

Things did come easier after that. She became a business partner in the firm in which she worked. She went to Kirksville, Mo., and bought a book and stationery store.

People felt sorry for her. However Miss Harvat made more money out of that store than any other single thing she has ever attempted. Her success in this business venture led her to purchase several other stores of a similar nature.

Active in Club Work

Finally Miss Harvat came back to Iowa City to retire. But for a woman of her vitality, retiring was impossible and as time dragged, she entered the ready to wear business and also engaged in real estate to some extent. Besides being Mayor, Miss Harvat is the president of the Iowa City Business and Professional Women's Club.

Girl Scouts Hold Big Rally Tonight

Program in Pantomine to Be Presented by Brownies

What are girl scouts? What do they do? Should my daughter be one? These are a few of the questions that will be answered in pantomine at the girl scout rally to be held tonight in the auditorium of St. Patrick's school. This is an annual event put on by the scout organization to which all parents and others interested in scouting are cordially invited. No admission is charged.

Both scouts and brownies, girls between the ages of seven and ten, will take part in the program. In addition to the scout work given in pantomine there will be the awarding of merit badges to the scouts. A trophy will also be presented to the winning troop of the inter-troop membership contest which has been going on for several months.

Members of the girl scout council in charge of the rally are Mrs. Fred Holmes, Mrs. Ralph Parsons, and Mrs. William Maresh.

Metes Out Advice to Movie 'Lords'

American Movie Full of Incongruities, Says Briton

LONDON, March 25 (AP) — In penance for his sins, or perhaps just for the fun of it, a Briton by the name of B. Southcombe has "seen all the leading moving picture films that have come to Europe during the last 15 years." He has some suggestions to make for the Hollywood and Long Island producers. If the suggestions go unheeded, Mr. Southcombe firmly expects to see Germany beat America in the movie business within five years.

Here is Mr. Southcombe's advice to the movie amgnate of America:

"1. Great Britain is tired of scenes in which hotel waiters are shot dead because the eggs are boiled too hard.

"2. In Europe no right-thinking man ever goes out in a straw hat with evening dress.

"3. We are tired of pictures showing a man hanging on a scaffold pole in Broadway.

"4. Cut out all cinema artists with horn-rimmed glasses. No more dining solons with the made-up black waiter.

"5. No motor-cars in films that date back 50 years."

Sure to strike your fancy

This drive of ours for a thousand new customers is coming fine—We knew to begin with drastic motives had to accompany this plan—Larger assortments of Suits and Topcoats—Greater price range—Lower margin of profit—We felt sure would appeal—It has—It is. We are sure to strike your fancy in spring clothes—Drop in—See
