Soviet Fliers Near Pole On 6,000-Mile Hop to California

Secrecy Veils Flight Across Arctic Wastes

Stormy Weather Reported Ahead For Daring Russian Trio

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18 (AP)—A big soviet single-motored airplane sped three Russian aviators across the north polar wastes tonight on a daring attempt to fly nonstop the 6,000 miles from Moscow to Oakland, Cal.—with stormy weather reported ahead.

Uncertain Arctic weather, censorship and conflicting reports veiled the exact whereabouts of the plane but it was believed following a route which would take it close by the North Pole, down across central Canada to Edmonton, Alta., and straight for Oakland, across the bay from here.

Reports Conflict

The soviet embassy in Washington announced at 8 p.m. (CST) the flight was still some distance from the pole itself. Previous reports received here declared the plane passed over the actual polar region as early as 3:30 p.m. (CST).

From Moscow, where strictest secrecy surrounded the flight, the Russian government announced the pioneering flight was underway 24 hours after the takeoff.

The official takeoff time was given as 4:05 a.m. Moscow time (7:05 p.m. Thursday CST).

350 Miles From Pole

On the basis of the 8 p.m. position reported by the Russian embassy, the plane was about halfway between Franz Josef land and the pole, or 350 miles from the latter point.

Ahead lay "extremely difficult" weather conditions, the embassy reported, as well as "blind spots" on international maps, marking unexplored area.

News Suppressed

Further difficulty in determining the fliers' positions resulted from the fact they failed to specify east or west longitude in the infrequent position reports picked up by the United States army radio station at Anchorage, Alaska.

Presumably to minimize publicity should the flight fail, as did a previous one, the soviet embassy brought vigorous diplomatic pressure to bear in suppressing news of the flight.

South Dakota Flood Takes $200,000 Toll

HOT SPRINGS, S. D., June 18 (AP)—Hot Springs counted flood damage estimated at $200,000 today following a torrential one-hour downpour last night, which quickly raised the Fall river to flood stage, washed out nearly a score of bridges, inundated stores and destroyed water, power and telephone lines.

Silver Warns Against Five 'Aberrations'

World 'Dancing In Mad Abandon,' Says Summer Lecturer

The whole generation of young people today is being prepared for the next war—this was declared by Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver to be one of the great "aberrations" of the world today in the first university summer lecture before an audience of more than 2,000 persons on the west front of Old Capitol last night.

"The function of the state today is not to preserve law and order and to preserve justice among men, which is all that a state should do, but it is instead a conquest of war," he declared.

Referring to Germany, Italy and Soviet Russia, the 44-year-old rabbi from Cleveland, Ohio, pointed out that today "children of 12 are being made to march in uniform just for the fun of it." The whole thought of a whole generation is being concentrated on one thing, preparedness for war, he said.

Concentration Camps

"Some of the saintliest spirits in western Europe today are languishing away in concentration camps because they dared to hold aloft the torch of peace and international cooperation," Rabbi Silver asserted.

"Civiliation today is a race between education and propaganda," he said, "We know how to stamp out illiteracy, but we haven't yet discovered how to get rid of a far more dangerous foe, propaganda."

"Propaganda today has elaborated a technique for befuddling the human mind, undermining human reason and making the masses of people do things which in their sober mind they would never dream of doing," he cried out.

Rabbi Silver outlined five "aberrations, golden calves around which we are dancing today in mad abandon:" the attempt to shackle the human mind and to distort the faculty of human thinking; the sanctification of brutality, ruthlessness and the elevation of violence; the threat to the independence of the individual, the submergence of the individual in the state totalitarian; a narrow, intolerant ingrown nationalism, and glorification of war as national destiny.

Asserting that "truth is being shackled to the chariots of political and economic theories" and that "truth is being made to serve the interests of autocracy," he decried the growth of power of the totalitarian states.

"Vermin"

"Totalitarian states have actually begun the rewriting of the whole compendium of human knowledge to get it to conform to the dogmatics of the party in power," he said in citing recent developments in the world.

"A political opponent today is not an opponent, he is just vermin," he declared. "No tyrant of olden days ever indulged in such indecent brutality, such meanness as the leaders of political parties and states are doing today," he said.

Today's nationalism, "like all isms," he said, "has coined a sort of high church terminology of its own." Citing an example, he referred to the phrase of "white man's burden" merely as a "coverup for predatory expansionism."

Pleads for Classic Values

Rabbi Silver concluded with a plea for all people to "proclaim and teach fearlessly the classic values of life which aberrations have for the moment eclipsed."

"The ideals of life have not gone down to permanent defeat. They never will. They will lose every battle but the last one because life is not livable without them," he declared.

Rabbi Silver will conduct a round table at 9 o'clock this morning in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Iowa's WPA Reorganized; Reduce Quota

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Works Progress Administrator Hopkins announced today a reorganization and reduction of the Iowa WPA organization "to conform with reduced relief quotas."

He outlined a state "area offices" plan for Iowa after a conference with democratic members of the state's congressional delegation. State Administrator George Keller, now in Washington, will put the reorganization into effect.

Today's conference followed objections by some of the Iowans to proposed abandonment of district WPA offices, now located in Davenport, Waterloo, Des Moines, Sioux City and Council Bluffs. Area offices, which will replace these, will be located in the same cities.

A statement prepared by the WPA said Iowa's quota "will diminish to 18,000 for July and shrink at the rate of about 600 a month until a quota of 16,000 is reached in October, . . . necessitating a corresponding decrease in administrative expense."

Jeweler Found Guilty On Charge of Fraud

SIOUX CITY, June 18 (AP)—W. A. Ehlerman, former manager of the now defunct W. A. Ehlerman Jewelry company, was convicted by a district court jury Friday afternoon on a charge of conspiracy to defraud an insurance company.

The charge was the outgrowth of the reported $37,000 robbery of the Ehlerman company's safe in his office here on the night of Dec. 22.

FEDERAL MEDIATION BOARD IN STEEL DISPUTE

In an effort to bring peace to the steel industry, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has appointed a three-man federal steel mediation board. The board, which will have headquarters in Cleveland, will be authorized to conduct an investigation into the widespread strikes, conduct hearings, to make findings of fact and to continue itself a voluntary arbitrator if the parties to the strikes wish it. Set up with the approval of President Roosevelt, the board will make weekly reports to the secretary of labor. Members of the board are pictured. They are Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, chairman, son of the late president; Edward F. McGrady, ace troubleshooter of the labor department and assistant secretary of the department, and Lloyd K. Garrison, dean of law at the University of Wisconsin.

Midnight Beer Closing Planned

Council Draws Up Ordinance

County Expected To Adopt Plan After Iowa City Action

A midnight closing hour for class B beer parlors in Iowa City became a near reality last night as the council directed the ordinance committee to draw up an ordinance providing for the later hour. The ordinance will probably be presented and passed at the next meeting.

The later hour was proposed after the failure of 11 p.m. as a closing hour for the county, tentatively fixed at a meeting of the city council and the county board of supervisors and officers of the smaller municipalities of the county Monday night. The midnight hour will probably be adopted by the board of supervisors and possibly by the entire county.

Next Meeting June 28

If the ordinance moving the closing hour from 11:30 p.m. to midnight is passed at the next meeting of the council, it will have to be published three times before it goes into effect. It will probably not become a law until about the middle of July.

The next council meeting has been scheduled for 8 p.m. June 28 when the 20 class B beer licenses now in effect will come up for renewal.

No Action Taken On Extension of Area

The ordinance introduced at last week's council meeting, providing for an extension of the area in which class B beer taverns are permitted, was not voted on at last night's city council meeting.

The ordinance, introduced by George Bouck and given two readings at last week's meeting, provided that taverns could be established anywhere in the downtown business district instead of in a restricted area.

A third reading was expected last night but was passed when Bouck withdrew his motion to pass to a third and final reading of the ordinance.

20 Permits

Although only 20 permits are now issued for class B beer parlors, 23 could be issued; and Bouck declared extending the beer territory would provide for the issuance of all the other permits.

Roscoe Hall, who manages a downtown beer tavern, was at the meeting and declared he will open a second tavern in the new territory should the ordinance be passed.

"This area is too small for that many permits," Bouck declared.

After a discussion of the possible effect of the new ordinance, Bouck agreed to withdraw his motion. He said he will draw up a new ordinance providing for a slight enlargement of the territory but not including all the territory.

City May Purchase Three Radio Sets For Police Cars

Two two-way radio sets and one one-way set for Iowa City police cars may be purchased, it was hinted at last night's council meeting. The sets would cost approximately $750, Alderman Clarence E. Beck reported.

Three sets would cost about the same as a single set, Beck reported. Two of the sets could both receive calls from the police station and send back calls from two squad cars; the third set, a one-way set, could receive calls from the station but could not answer them. The latter set would be for motorcycle use.

The three sets would allow for expansion of the police department.

"Iowa City needs at least four to six new policemen and another squad car to properly outfit it," Mayor Myron J. Walker said at last night's meeting of the council.

Doumergue Of France Is Dead

AIGUES-VIVES, France, June 18 (AP)—Gaston Doumergue—"Papa" and "Gastounet" to most of France—died today in this ancient village of his birth which he left as president and premier to lead France through critical days of political strike.

Death came suddenly to the retired 73-year-old statesman. He awakened in apparent good health this morning. A few minutes later, his wife said, he complained of illness, fainted and died without regaining consciousness.

Death was due to an embolism, a physician said.

Arrest Omaha Man On Reckless Driving And Liquor Charges

Arrested on charges of reckless driving and illegal transportation of liquor, J. H. Hollinger of Omaha, will appear in Justice of the Peace T. M. Fairchild's court this morning.

Hollinger was arrested by Highway Patrolmen B. B. Bentzinger and W. K. Rhoades yesterday at 11 p.m. as the semi-trailer truck which Hollinger was driving from Chicago to Omaha entered Iowa City.

Economists See Industry Dip

Government Experts Predict Minor Drop In Next Few Months

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Government economists predicted today there will be a minor slump in industrial activity during the next few months.

They added, however, that the longer range outlook is relatively favorable.

In a report issued by the bureau of agricultural economics the economists said several factors "point to a greater than seasonal recession in industrial activity before the summer is over."

Sales Below Output

Sales of goods by a number of important industries, particularly textiles, have been well below current output recently, it was reported.

When back orders of these industries are filled, the economists said, "production will be decreased unless there is a new wave of buying."

This wave was termed unlikely because "buying seems to be returning more to a current needs basis."

Strikes Blamed

Other factors indicating a slowing down of the general business pace were said to include the "unsettling influences" of strikes, the small volume of new capital financing, and relatively little building activity.

The latter, the economists said, was "apparently a result of the sharp increase in construction costs."

CLOTHES GONE
Detective's Son Takes Dad's Pants

EVANSTON, Ill., June 18 (AP)—Police Detective Philip Reiman has work right at home.

His new summer trousers and shoes disappeared today and with them his 13-year-old son, Walter.

Detective Reiman, hoping to thwart his son's wandering propensities by locking up the lad's clothes, forgot to lock up his own wardrobe.

OSMOND, Neb., June 18 (AP)—A tornado swept out the west across an area comprising about six square miles northeast of here late today, bringing damage estimated by farmers at from $50,000 to $75,000. No casualties were reported.

Republic Steel Charges Anarchy, Raps Perkins' Appeal for 'Status Quo'

Six Named In Congress Tax Evasion Quiz

Treasury Lists Men Employing Foreign Corporation Device

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The treasury spread on the public records today the names of six men who, it said, have utilized the device of foreign corporations in such a way as to reduce or eliminate income taxes.

Expressly making no charges of illegality, Elmer L. Irey, chief of the intelligence division of the bureau of internal revenue, told the joint congressional committee on tax evasion and avoidance, that the following have employed that practice:

Charles Laughton, the motion picture actor; Jacob Schick, retired army officer, the inventor and manufacturer of an electric razor; and Jules S. Bache, Wallace Groves and Percy K. Hudson, well known in investment, brokerage and financial circles.

Direct Violation

In addition, a direct violation of the law was charged to Philip De Retend, former president of the Hibernian Trust company of New York. Irey testified he swore he was penniless the day after he received $250,000 and turned it over to a personal holding company incorporated in the Bahamas.

A seventh name, that of George Westinghouse Jr., was brought into the hearings as illustrative of "the confusing practice" of filing income tax returns from a different country each year. Westinghouse filed in successive years from New Brunswick, British Columbia and Jamaica, it was testified.

"He jumps around like a bug," said Roswell Magill, under-secretary of the treasury.

"Sample Cases"

The stories of these men and their activities were laid before the committee as "sample cases" in the administration's drive for legislation to eliminate legal technicalities whereby, President Roosevelt has said, taxes are evaded or avoided.

More names are to follow. In fact, Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis), plainly indignant, objected to the use of "samples" on the ground it would lay the committee open to charges of discrimination.

Boasberg, Hollywood Gag Writer, Dead

HOLLYWOOD, June 18 (AP)—Al Boasberg, called "the funniest guy in Hollywood," died laughing today.

A heart attack ended the life of the ace gag writer.

Boasberg was 45, a writer who for more than 25 years had been writing jokes for top-ranking comedians on the stage, in pictures and on the radio. He signed a new contract for the Jack Benny program yesterday. His most recent picture was the Marx brothers' "A Day At The Races."

Vice-presidents elected included J. C. Sinclair, Sioux City, Ia.

Basques Lose Over 20,000 In Past Week

Fleeing Loyalists Burn Undetermined Number of Planes

HENDAYE, June 18 (AP)—A "black arrow" — part Italian—brigade seized the Sondica airport just outside Bilbao today as insurgent headquarters reported capture of more territory on the edges of the battered Basque capital.

The insurgents said the fleeing Basques fired the hangars and burned an "undetermined number" of airplanes.

Basque losses in the past week of furious fighting were set by the insurgents at a total of 20,000 killed, wounded, captured and deserted.

Claim Keypoint

The Basques insisted today they still held Mt. Archanda, keypoint of their third line of defense on the east bank of Nervion river. This conflicted with insurgent claims that capture of this height and the casino on top completed domination of the east bank.

Shells from insurgent cannon passed over the hill and fell into the streets of Bilbao, the Basques said. They asserted they still held the ruins of the casino and other buildings after a day of bitter fighting that saw the last of a series of insurgent attacks beaten back just before nightfall.

Finish Fight

Refugees who made their way here tonight said Bilbao was fortified with barricades of cobblestones and hidden mines for a finish fight. All bridges that lead across the Nervion to the "new city" are mined, they said. The cobblestone barricades criss-cross the streets of the capital.

Two German Pastors Arrested by Police

BERLIN, June 18 (AP)—Two more pastors and members of the council of brethren of the Protestant Confessional Synod have been arrested, Berlin headquarters of the synod was informed tonight.

They were the Rev. Heime of Schneidemuehl and the Rev. Mr. Middendorf of Oldenburg. They were charged with violating the interior ministry's decree which forbids reading from the pulpit the names of men and women who have resigned church membership.

Selection Of Board Assailed By Vandenberg

Senator Says Two Members on Record For Written Pacts

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 18 (AP) Charging that a "veritable reign of anarchy exists" and that "civil authority has broken down completely before the terrorism of the C.I.O.," the Republic Steel corporation issued a statement tonight opposing Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' plea for maintenance of the steel strike "status quo" while federal mediation is under way.

"Any suggestion that the 'status quo' of plant operations be maintained during the work of the federal mediation board is destructive of the rights of the thousands of workers, idle for nearly four weeks, who want to go back to their jobs," the statement said.

Assails Selection

At the same time, in Washington, D.C., Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, republican, of Michigan, assailed the selection of President Roosevelt's three-man steel mediation board, which will open its fact-finding investigation tomorrow with headquarters in Cleveland.

Senator Vandenberg asserted it would appear that Miss Perkins' board "like the president who chose them, may have pre-judged the case to a damaging degree."

He said two of the board members—Chairman Charles P. Taft II, son of the late Chief Justice William Howard Taft, and Lloyd K. Garrison, dean of the University of Wisconsin law school were on record in favor of written agreements between workers and their employers.

Crux of Dispute

The question of written agreements—or signed labor contracts—is the crux of the whole dispute in the "showdown" clash between John L. Lewis' C.I.O. and four independent steel companies. In addition to Republic, Bethlehem Steel corporation, Inland Steel company and Youngstown Sheet and Tube company are involved in strikes.

On the eve of a fact-finding investigation by the three-man federal mediation board, appointed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, back-to-work movements were suspended to await the outcome of the board's recommendations, and a marked let-down on tension was apparent.

Farm Bloc Asks Aid For Wheat Area

WASHINGTON, June 18 AP)—The house farm bloc asked agriculture department help today in halting a decline in wheat prices which, members said, has cost the country's farmers about $200,000,000 on the current crop in the last two months.

The bloc, composed of prairie states congressmen, arranged a conference for next week with Secretary Wallace to allow representatives from wheat states to outline their problem.

Representative Ed Eicher of Washington, Ia., bloc chairman, said cash wheat prices on the Chicago exchange had declined from an April 3 high of $1.49 a bushel to $1.21 a bushel on June 12, and that futures declined correspondingly.

"This drastic drop is taking place just as the new wheat crop comes to market," he said, explaining the bulk of the new crop will be harvested in the next few weeks.

AMELIA EARHART FIGHTS MONSOON

AKYAB, Burma, June 18 (AP)—Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Capt. Fred Noonan, hoped tonight weather would clear to permit their hop to Bangkok, Siam, tomorrow.

They were forced to return on their first try today after a two-hour battle with a monsoon.

Paulson, Charged With Assault Here in Hauber Affray, To Be Returned to State Penitentiary

Cecil Paulson, 22-year-old escaped convict, yesterday charged in a county attorney's information with assault with intent to commit murder, will be returned to Ft. Madison today to finish a 10-year sentence there for breaking and entering.

Paulson will probably be returned to Iowa City to face the assault charges made in an information filed late yesterday by Attorney Robert Larson, acting county attorney. He has been positively identified as the gunman with whom Patrolman Ben Hauber had a shooting battle last Friday.

May Bring Him Here

The gunman may be brought through here this morning on his return to Ft. Madison, Police Chief W. H. Bender said last night after his return from Charles City where he, Hauber and Sheriff Don McComas went yesterday to attempt to bring Paulson back.

A court order will probably be issued to return the gunman here to face trial. The assault charge carries with it a 30-year penitentiary sentence, 20 more years than the sentence Paulson is now serving.

Denies Part in Shooting

Paulson, captured in Nora Springs late Thursday as he was leaving a poolroom, denied he was in Iowa City on the day of the shooting. He said he was in Minneapolis.

'Paulson is positively the man," Hauber asserted, however. "I'd recognize him anywhere."

The gunman admitted walking out of University hospital May 24 but denied any knowledge of a shooting affray here. He had been in the hospital here for treatment for spinal tuberculosis.

President Roosevelt Joins the Union

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT again breaks his silence on the strike controversy, again to align himself whole-heartedly on the side of labor where his sympathies are long known to have lain.

His latest statement expresses the opinion that the companies which are willing to make verbal collective bargaining contracts with trade unions should be willing to put these agreements into writing.

Earlier Governor Davey of Ohio had wired him to request federal intervention, saying, "the only point in dispute is whether there shall be a signed agreement" between the C.I.O. steel workers' organizing committee and the independent steel companies.

In addition to making his very definite and emphatic statement, Mr. Roosevelt has further responded to Governor Davey's request by authorizing Secretary of Labor Perkins to appoint a mediation board for arbitrating the dispute.

On what basis the arbitration will be done, however, it is difficult to determine. There is nothing in the Wagner Labor Relations act to cover the point, for nowhere does the Wagner act compel the employer to sign a contract.

Perhaps, however, the employers should be made to sign anyway, as Mr. Roosevelt seems to want them to. When the president of the United States says they should sign, why should they not?

Mr. Roosevelt to the contrary, they have their reasons. These reasons have nothing to do with technicalities, but only with well grounded fears. They are afraid that a signed agreement such as Lewis is seeking will be only a first step for the C.I.O. in their ultimate campaign for a closed shop and the check-off. Then the employers will be forced to take union dues from the pay envelopes of all employes and hand them over to the union, a prospect which every employer dreads as much as the unions anticipate it.

As for the efficacy of written agreements, the General Motors incident provides a very interesting example. General Motors made a signed settlement with Mr. Lewis. In utter violation of this settlement, one strike after another has interfered with General Motors production, most of them being sit-down demonstrations for the coercion of non-union workers. In view of this manifest lack of faith on the part of John L. Lewis, why should the employers sign away their rights to an undependable and unscrupulous party? Why, indeed, except that Mr. Roosevelt says they should?

Mention of General Motors brings to mind that other time when the president acted so promptly to rebuke the heads of that corporation for failing to attend one of Madam Perkins' conferences. In the steel strike he has again taken a stand on a matter of considerable importance, also in favor of the C.I.O.

But at the same time, he has remained eloquently silent on the lawlessness of the sit-down strikers in seizing private property and on the flagrant violation of picketing laws in the present steel strike.

Mr. Roosevelt has done a great deal for labor in establishing its rights and powers, but meanwhile he has done very little, either through law or through his advice to the labor leaders, to develop in them a sense of responsibility commensurate with these greater powers.

Mr. Roosevelt is, after all, president for both the employes and employers, and as such he should be equally interested in both the rights and the shortcomings of each class.

A Special Day For Father

WILL IT be a necktie or suspenders, a box of cigars or a pair of hose?

These are the questions that puzzle the minds of university students as the nation prepares for the celebration of Father's day tomorrow.

To say that Father is not remembered at any other time would be utterly false, for students always remember Dad when they need an increase in their allowance.

Neither is it true to intimate that this is the only occasion of the year when a day is set aside for Father. Dad, himself, will tell you that he has two days a month which are peculiarly his own—the first day, when he gets the bills, and pay day.

But he doesn't complain—very much—and because of that university students will probably decide, "Well, maybe a card will do just as well."

We read that John D. M. Hamilton, republican national chairman, is studying the "setup" of the Conservative party in England. Won't do the G.O.P. a bit of good. The Conservatives are in power, the G.O.P. is not.

Georgia almost went wet the other day. The vote was so close we'll bet the bootleggers were scared half to death.

Save The American Elm

WITH THE approach of summer, the graceful, majestic elm forms a vital part of Iowa City's natural beauty. In spring, summer and fall it adds an intangible something to the appearance of the campus and the residential districts. The artificiality of urban surroundings weighs less heavily upon our consciousness because of this native American tree which makes many of our cities so attractive.

But this grand old tree faces almost certain extinction unless the Dutch elm disease is checked by a concerted fight within the next few years. Transferred by tiny, insidious spores, this tree sickness strikes elms in the most isolated of localities. Once it has become infected, the afflicted tree is practically doomed. Only quick treatment by a tree surgeon can save its life.

Emphasizing the deadliness of the disease, the American Forestry association recently appealed to congress for a program to save the elm from a fate similar to that of the chestnut tree. Sentiment, if nothing else, ought to justify effort in that direction.

Nearly everyone has felt that pang that accompanies the disappearance of an old familiar tree. In the case of the elm, its slow growth and long life make the loss especially regretable.

Now is the time to realize that "Only God can make a tree"—not when it has become too late.

We see by the advertisements in one of the weekly gazettes that one may own a log cabin for as little as $400. We understand the thing comes in pieces which you can put together in less time than it took Daniel Boone to sharpen an axe as he set out to build one.

In the early days it was said no man could be president unless born in a log cabin. Well, we ran out of log cabins eventually but the supply of presidents seems inexhaustible.

What About War Debts?

WAR DEBT DAY has come and gone, and once again little Finland was the only one of the 13 debtor nations not to default.

France sent more than just regrets, however, expressing a polite hope that she might soon find an opportunity to discuss a basis for settlement of the obligation.

Said French Ambassador George Bonnet in delivering the note to Secretary Hull: "The French government desires on its part to emphasize again its sincere desire to seek the basis for a settlement acceptable to both countries."

Obviously, France is not governed by mere sentiment in this attitude. If she ever relinquishes any more money to Uncle Sam, it will be only for the same reason that hard-pressed private creditors usually pay to clean the slate and restore their credit. France knows that as long as she is heavily in default she can borrow no more money here. Even should foolish American capitalists be willing to yield, the Johnson act prevents them.

Another factor which is spurring France and other nations to resume their war debt payments is the fact that continued refusal of foreign countries to settle their obligations hurts their trade with us by causing unfavorable public opinion.

There are still some economic and "moral" adjustments to be made, but if we don't give up, we may be getting some of our war debts yet.

Typhoid Fever More Prevalent In Summer, Says State Board

Released By Iowa State Department of Health

Typhoid fever, a disease of youth and early adult life, is almost without exception everywhere more prevalent in the summer and autumn. In Iowa, more than three-fourths of the illness and two-thirds of the deaths from that preventable cause occur during the six-month period, July to December inclusive.

The typhoid germ may reach the well person by means of contaminated water and ice, the common house fly, fingers, infected food including milk, lettuce, celery, uncooked vegetables and oysters. Body wastes from individuals ill with the disease and from "carriers," those who harbor the typhoid organisms in their gallbladders and who from time to time pass them in the stools and urine, are the sources of contamination of water, food, fingers and flies.

Some Precautions

Vacationists need not contract typhoid fever if they will observe a few precautions. First of all, give thoughtful consideration to the water which is used for drinking and cooking purposes. The safest practice is to use only water which has been approved by a state department of health. When in doubt, boil all water before using.

The use of pasteurized or boiled milk is an added safeguard. If the family must eat "out," select the cleanest food shop available or better, one which is regularly given a sanitary inspection by the city or county health department. Swim and wade only in supervised swimming pools.

Treatments

Last, but not least, travelers should avail themselves of protective treatments against typhoid fever.

The penalty that approximately 150 Iowans will pay for failing to use available safeguards against typhoid fever will be—two weeks vacation—home—six weeks or more illness from typhoid fever—uneventful recovery or continuing disability or death,—and in any event, incurred economic loss.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee is a firstrate investigator of charges that the postoffice department is blameworthy for its refusal to deliver supplies by parcel post to strike breakers shut up in picket-beleaguered steel plants.

Of course McKellar is not the only investigator; all the other members of the senate's postoffice committee are participants in the inquiry.

However, the Tennessean is chairman. He also probably is the best posted individual in congress on postal problems, of which he has been a student for many years.

Occasionally he has been a severe critic of the department, too. I never would suspect him of blind prejudice in its behalf after some of the things I have heard him say concerning its methods in the past. On the opposite hand, temperamentally he is rather on the liberal side of the fence and wouldn't, I think, be inclined to show undue favor to the steel barons in the pending dispute.

* * *

"IRREGULAR MAIL"

At first thought it may seem as if a strike breaker, bottled up in a picketed factory, is as much entitled to have his mail delivered to him there, if addressed to him, as anywhere else.

But the postoffice department says it is "irregular mail."

Why? I get some of my mail at my home; part of it at my business address. Why isn't a steel strike breaker entitled to the same consideration?

Well, for one thing, mail delivered to me at my place of business, isn't deliberately so addressed for the purpose of involving the government, on my side, in some ugly quarrel I may have pending. That's the purpose of these parcel post addresses to the steel strike breakers. At least, there's a strong suspicion that that's the idea.

* * *

STRIKE OF 1890

It's true, President Cleveland, during the American Railway union strike, back in the 1890's, used federal troops in Chicago to prevent interference with the movement of the mails.

But who's to say he was right in doing it?

He was bitterly denounced for it at the time. Gov. John P. Altgeld of Illinois formally protested his action. Plenty of sound democrats of that day—folk of his own party—accused him of violating state's rights. He didn't establish a binding precedent.

It wasn't the same kind of a case, anyway.

The A.R.U. strike, in the 1890's, tied up ALL mails. This is a local, particular, classified affair.

A New Yorker At Large

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK — Manhattan philosophies:

Forty-second street, between Grand Central and Times Square, often becomes a clot of crosstown traffic which seems to move forward only at an irritating glacial pace.

Caught in one of these jams the other noon and late to an appointment, we mumbled over our wrath. Mr. Sid McCaleb, our taxi driver, turned a mildly reproving eye.

"No use complainin', Mister. Where does it git you? This happens to you maybe once or twice a day. But it happens to us all the time. We learn it don't do no good to cry about it. Besides, sometimes we git caught in one of these jams and ain't got no fare, up comes a fare and climbs in. There's some good comes out o' everything, even traffic jams."

On Forty-Fourth street, near Fifth avenue, two men were picketing a barber shop, punctuating their march by muttering: "Scabs. Dirty scabs. Unless you wanna get your haircut by dirty scabs, don't go in there."

A small, white-haired, kindly, old woman approached. She must have been nearly 70. As she came close to one of the pickets, she stopped, surprised, then smiled.

"Tch, tch," she shamed. "You'll never make anything talking that way."

The picket raised his voice a key, otherwise paid no attention. The little woman stood still, waited for him to make the circuit. Then still smiling, she said:

"I still say, young man, you never make anything talking that way."

The picket raised his voice again, otherwise showed no sign he had heard his advisor. The little old woman sighed, turned to four or five loiterers near the curb, shook her head sadly, and announced: "Labor has everything on its side but intelligence."

Frances Maddux, the chanteuse, and her escort, topped off a round of the night spots recently with that popular diversion of a canter around Central Park in a hansom cab. Arrived back at the cabbie's stand, Miss Maddux ordered the cabbie to drive on to her apartment on the East river.

The cabbie climbed slowly down from his seat, removed his hat, and said: "Ma'am, things ain't like they used to be. Times has changed. Hosses has changed. Now my old hoss there is tired. So if it's all the same to you and the gentleman, Ma'am, would you take a taxi from here on?"

SCREEN LIFE

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—John Boles never has been tempted to "go Hollywood" and, among the high salaried people, I suppose he lives more conservatively than any of them.

Every time I see John I ask a question that has become a joke: "Have you built that house yet?" He hasn't.

Stress Society Angle

John recalled that when he came here 10 years ago, he attended a lot of parties at Gloria Swanson's home. He met a flock of movie people and it seemed to him that pictures apparently were just a pastime to many of them. Being socially somebody seemed to be the important thing.

When Mrs. Boles came here from Texas, a month later, John told her his observations. And that he thought they ought not try to become part of the social swim. It suited her to live just about the same as they had back in Texas.

"I regard my career as a business, to be as seriously conducted as any business supposedly less romantic," says John. "I could build a big house, with the usual appurtenances, but I wonder whether I could afford to live in it when my career as an actor is over."

John and his wife and their two daughters, nine and 12, live in a rented house on South Roxbury drive in Beverly Hills. It is a nice place, in a fashionable but not swanky part of Beverly. Their names are seldom in the cinema social columns. John never stands on his head to attract attention—very stupid of him, too, the ballyhoodlums believe—nor does he ever play politics over the dinner table.

Rates At Box Office

Boles' conservatism (some call it lack of color) hasn't hampered his career, but in Hollywood he is not regarded as a star because so little is heard about him. If the average movieite were asked to name 10 male stars, he'd forget Boles—and place the Gene Raymonds and the Donald Woods and the Robert Youngs, who are always doing things and going places. John's box office popularity is something else. The men who sign the contracts know his rating and pay him accordingly. I understand he's getting wealthy.

Kay Becomes 'Dean of Deans' At Retirement of Dean Teeters

The distinction of being the University of Iowa's dean of deans, held for many years by Dean Wilber J. Teeters of the college of pharmacy, now passes to Dean George F. Kay of the college of liberal arts.

On July 1 Dean Teeters will relinquish his administrative duties to Prof. Rudolph A. Kuever, after having served since 1904 as chief executive of the college of pharmacy.

Continues To Teach

Advancing years—Dean Teeters will be 72 in October—is the reason for his retirement as administrator. He will continue, however, to teach classes as professor of pharmacy.

Dean Kay has completed 21 years as head of the college of liberal arts. He has headed a university unit for five more years than the dean who ranks second in years of service, Chester A. Phillips of the college of commerce.

Six Deanships Change

In the last five years, the deanship of six of the nine colleges has changed. The new executives within that period are Dr. Alvin W. Bryan, dentistry, 1932; Dr. Ewen M. MacEwen, medicine, 1935; Wiley B. Rutledge, law, 1935; George D. Stoddard, graduate 1936; Francis M. Dawson, engineering, 1936, and Rudolph A. Kuever, pharmacy, 1937.

The changes were caused by retirement of two deans, death of one, resignation of two and advancement of one to a higher position on the university staff.

Mike Jacobs Plans 2 More Title Bouts

Champion To Fight Tommy Farr in July?

Schmeling Not Included In Mike's Immediate Fight Prospectus

By ALAN GOULD

CHICAGO, June 18 (AP)—Removal of the last threat of a legal blockade for the Jim Braddock-Joe Louis heavyweight title fight, set for next Tuesday night at Comiskey park, coincided today with the disclosure of Co-Promoter Mike Jacobs' plans to conduct two more championship matches this year, in London and New York.

Having apparently wrested virtually complete control of the heavyweight situation from Maidson Square Garden, for the first time since Tex Rickard passed out of the picture, Jacobs plans to solidfy his position on "all fronts," at home and abroad.

Winner Fights Farr

Jacobs confirmed overtures for the Braddock-Louis winner to fight Tommy Farr, British Empire heavyweight champion, in a world title match at the White City stadium, London, although specifying he would make no formal announcements until after Tuesday's 15-round bout.

This forecasts the further sidetrack of Max Schmeling, German challenger and conqueror of Louis. Schmeling is back home, after his "phantom fight" in New York. Latest reports, circulated today in fight headquarters here, spread the idea that the Hitler government, as a matter of policy, may keep the Teuton Schlager from making any fistic engagements whatever in the United States. In London, Sydney Hulls, English promotor, said arrangements had been made to hold the bout there on July 30. Jacobs said that any announcement of details were "premature" and suggested Aug. 12 or 13 might be an alternative date.

$1,000,000 Gate

Jacobs has been advised a championship match in London will be subject only to a five per cent government tax on gate receipts, that promoters will "take care of income tax requirements," and that such a bout, the first ever held in the British capital, will draw close to 200,000 pounds or around $1,000,000.

It is understood Jacobs also has a tentative agreement with Braddock, binding the champion to continue fighting under the New York promoter's auspices. It remains to be seen, however, just what Madison Square Garden or the New York state fistic fathers may do, if and when Jacobs attempts further heavyweight title promotion in Manhattan.

Takes "Third Strike"

The Garden took a "third strike" today when the U.S. circuit court of appeals, in Philadelphia, ruled by a 2 to 1 vote against the Garden's appeal for an injunction to stop Braddock from fighting Louis here. This apparently forestalls any 11th hour attempt to halt the Chicago bout but doesn't necessarily mean the Garden will toss in the sponge, in its contest with Jacobs and his associates.

Jacobs desires to promote a third world title fight, late in September and preferably at New York's Yankee stadium. Up to now it has been the general belief Schmeling would figure in the next title match. Max, like most everyone else in the heavyweight industry, is under contract with Jacobs, but the Teuton's plans remain a mystery.

"One thing sure," said Mike Jacobs, "is that whoever wins next Tuesday night will not put that title on ice. We're going to keep him busy."

Louis was a 3 to 1 favorite, on the basis of several wagers confirmed by fight writers today. One bet of $3,000 to $1,000 was made, but the wagering has been small-scale otherwise.

BITS about SPORTS

by JOHN MOONEY

The closing of the school year did not bring to a close the reorganization of the "I" club as we had feared. In contrast, the leaders in this movement are striking while the iron is hot and are getting in some necessary licks during the "vacation" months in preparation for the opening of the school year in the fall.

* * *

Cliff Niles, editor of the Anamosa Eureka, who has been one of the leaders in this movement who has been called to our attention, recently requested several copies of our editorial blasting the "wishy-washy alumni." These were mailed to prominent editors throughout the state and yesterday we received a reply from W. Earl Hall, managing editor of the Mason City Globe-Gazette. ". . . This (the stirring up of the alumni) is right up our alley," said Hall. "It's the one way Iowa can hope for parity in intercollegiate athletic competition."

* * *

Might we suggest for a slogan for the new "I" club this little phrase—"Let's Make Iowans Iowa Conscious."

* * *

One of the surest signs of the "new deal" in Iowa athletics is the changing attitude of the high school graduates toward this institution.

* * *

There were times in the history of this school when the athletic teams were not all that they could be, but those days are gone forever, and if you don't believe it, look at the way the athletes throughout the state are talking about the new coaching regime here.

* * *

Graduates are beginning to realize that there is more to a university education than what they learn from books and on the gridiron or basketball court also. There is that vital matter of contacts and acquaintances which are made in college which compare favorably with just plain book knowledge.

* * *

If an Iowa athlete enrolls, studies, and matriculates in an eastern, northern, western or southern institution, does it not sound reasonable that all his contacts will be made and left in that institution?

* * *

And did you ever hear about that man without a country?

* * *

Joe Louis is slated to enter the ring Tuesday night a three or four to one favorite, at least that's what the boxing authorities are ballyhooing, but just take it from us, the boys will be giving 50-50 odds at the ringside.

* * *

We notice Mike Jacobs has slated two more heavyweight battles, and Max Schmeling isn't included in either of them. Tommy Farr, the champion of the British Empire, is slated to fight the winner of the Louis-Braddock fight in London in the middle of the summer.

* * *

Being the champion of the British Empire is almost as impressive as being the best rope-skipper in Jones county, if the records of other champions can be taken as any criteria.

* * *

Tommy Farr is the only English challenger who has even looked familiar in the ring—and all he did was whip Max Baer, and who hasn't?

Helen Hicks Makes Big Try Against Bea Barrett Today

CHICAGO, June 18 (AP)—Helen Hicks, New York's "business woman" golfer, will make the big try tomorrow for the only title within her reach, the Western Women's Open crown, against sturdy Bea Barrett of Minneapolis.

The husky, smiling New Yorker campaigned for the open championship two years ago and reached the semi-finals before Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, caught up with her. Today she shot her way into the finals of the event, only tournament in the country for which cash and carry feminine golfers are eligible, by a smart 5 and 5 triumph over Betty Botterill of Salt Lake City, at the Beverly Country club.

Miss Barrett, young, but a seasoned campaigner, won the other bracket finalist position by smothering courageous Dorothy Foster of Springfield, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, June 18 (AP)—Failure to drive home base runners, and an error, contributed to the defeat of the Boston Bees by the St. Louis Cardinals today, 5 to 2.

The Bees, who held a 2 to 0 lead after batting in the sixth, had men on base in every inning and outhit the Cards 13 to 10 but left 11 men stranded.

Big Southpaw Loses Fourth Straight Game

CINCINNATI, June 18 (AP)—For the sixth straight time Carl Hubbell was belted out of the box today as the Reds defeated him and the New York Giants, 5 to 3, in their current series opener.

A four-run rally in the third inning drove Hubbell to the showers with his fourth consecutive defeat, put the game on ice for the Reds, and cashed in on Lefty Lee Grissom's five-hit pitching.

Grissom, surviving the Giants' three-run spree in the first inning, had little difficulty thereafter as he breezed in with his fifth win of the year. He pitched hitless ball from the end of the second until the seventh.

The Reds batted once around in their game-winning third inning, an error by Gus Mancuso counting one run, Alex Kampouris' double sending two more over, and Lew Riggs' triple adding the fourth.

N.C.A.A. TRIALS PLACE U.S.C. AS FAVORITE TEAM

BERKELEY, Cal., June 18 (AP)—The far west, paced by the University of Southern California, held the advantage tonight at the end of the qualifying events for the star-studded National Collegiate Athletic association championships.

Seven thousand fans watched U.S.C., favored to retain the team championship, place 11 men. Stanford was second with eight. Ohio State and Washington State had five each; Michigan, Indiana and Columbia four each.

Other schools placed qualifiers as follows:

Three—Wayne, Georgia, Kansas Teachers (Pittsburg), Illinois, Kansas State, Idaho. Outstanding individual achievement of the day was contributed by Allan Tomlich, wiry little star from Wayne univeresity, Detroit.

He qualified in three events, winning the 220 yard low hurdles in 23.4 seconds, fastest of the three heats, placing in the 120 yard high hurdles and taking third in the 100 yard dash.

Far westerners showed the way in three of the four field events in which trials were held. Stanford's Jim Reynolds took the shot-put with 51.76 feet; Pete Zagar won the discus throw with 156 feet 3 inches, and Lowell Todd of San Jose State college headed the javelin throwers with 214 feet, 9 3-8 inches.

Richard Gill of Boston college won his heat in the 440. Sam Stoller of the University of Michigan won by inches over Ben Johnson, Columbia Negro, in a heat of the 100 yard dash which was so close that the eighth runner was only a couple of steps back of the winner. Stoller's time was 9.8.

In an even faster heat, Eulace Peacock, Temple Negro star, won his heat by three yards in 9.7.

Weather conditions were ideal. There was a warm sun and only a trace of a breeze.

Down The Sports Trail

By PAUL MICKELSON

KENOSHA, Wis., June 18 (AP)—Jersey Jones, a little fellow who has served as Joe Louis' Boswell for seven straight fights, is worried lest the Brown Bomber becomes too much of a defensive fighter.

As he struggled to pound out his daily quota of ballyhoo today, Jersey sighed and said Joe's handlers were making a mistake that may cost his hero a golden chance to win the crown.

"Joe's got perhaps the greatest left in ring history," sighed Jersey. "He's the killer type, the kind of a guy who has to plow right in, sock away, take some punches, and just knock his man bowlegged. But what are they doing to him? Teaching him how to be a good defensive fighter. They've talked so much about right hand punches since Max Schmeling landed one on Joe's chin that they just have the Bomber a bit groggy and gun-shy. They're trying to get him to keep his left lifted all the time, waiting and watching for Braddock's right. And I'm afraid Joe may forget to throw those bombs."

"Don't you think he'll win, or are you just trying to help the build up for what may be a one-sided fight in Joe's favor?" he was asked.

"Well, I think Joe should win," he replied. "But don't go on a limb and pick him to win from here to there. It'll be a helluva fight. I think Joe would win easily if they just let him go, although I don't think he is as good as he was when he fought Carnera or Baer."

This being an off day for Louis, we journeyed to his big rented house six miles from Kenosha and told Joe's handlers what Jersey had said.

"Sure, we have been trying to build Joe's defense and what's wrong with that?" countered Co-Manager John Roxborough. "If Joe gets knocked down in this fight, he'll know what to do. You won't see him getting up at the count of two but resting at the count of eight and taking his time.

"And he'll come out charging in and punching," said Trainer Jack Blackburn. "I know all about those right hand punches. I fought Sam Langford six times. In the first, he almost knocked my head off with a right but I just lifted my left a little and ol' Sam never tagged me with one again. That's all Joe's got to do."

Louis overheard the conversation but didn't seem a bit perturbed as he sat in a chair swing and read the latest baseball scores.

"What about it, Joe?" he was asked.

"Huh?" he asked. "Oh, I'll jes fight best I can. I'm not worried about nuttin'."

Rev. Worthley Will Lecture

School and Pulpit Present Probems To Be Discussed

The problems that confront the public school and the free pulpit will be discussed in the last two Sunday services of the Unitarian church by the Rev. Evans A. Worthley, he announced last night.

The Rev. Mr. Worthley will use two New Englanders as a basis for his discussions, Horace Mann whose monument is the public school system of today will be discussed in connection with education.

In discussing the free pulpit, the Rev. Mr. Worthley will take Theodore Parker, a Boston preacher who dared to stand for a free pulpit against the prevailing opinion.

The Rev. Mr. Worthley also announced that the Sunday school will not meet again this summer.

AROUND THE TOWN with MERLE MILLER

Tennis

Up at a surprising hour yesterday for a set, the season's first for me, on the tennis court. Amazed at the ease of some of the amateurs on the court. . . A 40-year-old physics teacher from a northern Iowa town told me she had been on the courts since 6 a.m. . . . That was at 11:30.

Cosmopolitan

A spy reports he spent half an hour counting license plates from other states around the parking area surrounding East hall one recent day. . . He discovered 15 from Illinois, eight from Minnesota, five from Missouri, four from Kansas, two from Ohio, three from Indiana, seven from Wisconsin and two from Colorado.

Ph.D.

And amazed to read Iowa's—and Kansas' — Glenn Cunningham is soon to receive a Ph.D. from N.Y.U. . . . Cunningham, world's greatest miler, receives fine tribute in this week's New Yorker, which uncovers him as a literary admirer of Edgar Guest. . . The degree, I hasten to explain, is in physical education.

No Dust

And a warning note from a South Dakota friend. . . "Please refer to this area as the dustbowl no longer as it would be most disrespectful to the good Providence which hath bestowed many recent and abundant showers of precipitation on us."

Lucky

It's a lucky phenomena indeed that readers don't expect sports commentators to be more accurate in their predictions than a presidential poll. . . All the good writers are now equally vehement on who will win Tuesday's fight — some say Louis and some Braddock.

Experience

And before Herr Hitler goes too far he might talk to ex-Kaiser Wilhelm, who could advise him as the Voice of Experience.

Fame

"Fame," writes a scout, "is when you get your marriage on the front page instead of the society section."

Townsendites Meet At District Session

Townsend club members of the first Iowa district convened yesterday at Washington, Ia., with John L. Diehl of Iowa City, president, in charge.

Delegates and officers from 30 clubs in the district attended the sessions.

Funeral Service For Frederick Schneider Will Be Monday at 9

Funeral service for Frederick Schneider, 81, will be at 9 a.m. Monday in St. Mary's church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Schneider, a farmer living near Cosgrove and a life resident of Johnson county, died yesterday in a local hospital after a lingering illness. He has no immediate survivors.

The body will be at the Hohenschuh mortuary until time for the service.

Grant Emma Harvat 2 Building Permits

Two building permits were issued to Emma Harvat yesterday by Harold Monk, city inspector. The first floor of the present building at 218 E. College street will be altered for a restaurant with J. W. Lenz as the contractor.

Alterations will be made on four apartments at 219 N. Gilbert street.

Physicists End Meeting Today

Lectures on the new kinetic theory and nuclear physics and visits to the applied physics laboratory will complete the summer colloquium for physicists today.

Prof. John A. Eldridge of the physics department will discuss the new kinetic theory at 9 o'clock this morning in room 301, physics building. At 10 o'clock Prof. A. Ellett of the physics department will speak on nuclear physics.

Laboratory Visit

Visits to the applied physics laboratory will be conducted by Prof. C. J. Lapp of the physics department at 1:30 this afternoon. Following this at 3:30 members of the colloquium will be taken swimming, golfing or to the tennis courts for recreation.

Prof. G. W. Stewart, head of the physics department, demonstrated acoustic and mechanical wave filters in a lecture yesterday morning. He showed that through the application of theory, filters may be designed which perform weirdly. Mechanical vibrations may be cut down to one-millionth their original intensities without causing any material loss to those vibrations which are desired passage.

Wave Mechanics

Prof. E. P. T. Tyndall of the physics department showed in a discussion of the constitution of metals how some properties of the metallic state, particularly electrical conductivity, are explained by wave mechanics.

E. W. Skinner of the Northwestern university dental school gave a review of the nature of the physical problems in dental materials and of his experimental methods in the solution of some of them, discussing in particular the plastic flow of dental alloys under static stress.

Prof. J. C. Jensen of Nebraska Wesleyan university gave a summary of researches in atmospheric electricity in recent years, including "dark" lightning, multiple strokes as photographed by Schonland in South Africa and by McEachron, Workman and others in America, and his own pictures showing the objectivity of ball lightning.

Judge Carson Fines Two and Jails One

Several traffic violators were brought before Police Judge Burke N. Carson yesterday. Frederick Moore of Iowa City was fined $2 and costs for failure to observe a stop sign. Arrested for reckless driving, George Prizler of Iowa City was fined $1 and costs.

A sentence of 11 days in county jail was imposed on William Houser on an intoxication charge, according to Judge Carson.

Red Cross To Conduct Boys' Swim Course

A swimming course open to all boys between the ages of nine and 15 was announced last night by Arthur Boss, chairman of the Johnson county Red Cross.

Beginners' swimming lessons and instruction for junior life saving badges will be given at the Big Dipper, Boss said. Instructors and the time have not been definitely arranged.

David Armbruster, University of Iowa swimming coach, is cooperating with Boss in this endeavor.

Martian, Latin author, mentioned use of the trout fly in fishing as early as the third century, A.D.

More Plans for Fourth Of July Celebration Announced

Further plans for the Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the Iowa City high school music auxiliary were announced yesterday by Mrs. H. S. Ivie, publicity chairman. The celebration will take place July 5 at the City park.

Three concerts by the 80-piece high school band will be given during the day at 10 a.m., 1 p.m. and at 7 p.m. under the direction of Lloyd F. Swartley.

To publicize the celebration, a small German band made up of high school students will tour 12 neighboring towns a few days before the event.

At 2 p.m. several races and other athletic events including a tug-of-war will take place with Sergeant W. C. Buckley in charge.

A ball game will begin at 3 p.m. between two teams that have not been announced. Ted Watkins is arranging details.

The fireworks committee for the celebration is headed by Prof. C. C. Wylie, who is assisted by Verne Bales and Dr. Avery Lambert.

Yesterday the publicity committee made up of Mrs. Albert Graham and Mrs. H. S. Ivie went to West Liberty to make arrangements for advertising the celebration.

The effect of the federal social security act and the state civil service law upon Iowa municipal engineers will be discussed. W. H. Cullen, city engineer of Dubuque, is chairman of the organization.

About 40 city engineers from towns in eastern Iowa and others in affiliated professions will attend.
