Mother, Despondent Over Illness, Slays Four Children, Self

Woman Stabs And Strangles Sleeping Tots

Turns Rusty Army Rifle on Self After 'Mercy' Murders

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., July 23 (AP)—Frantic because of a chronic ailment, a 32-year-old mother assuaged her fears of the future today by stabbing and strangling to death her four children and then turning a rusty old army rifle upon herself.

Sometime during the early morning hours, Mrs. Marie Walkup slipped quietly into the bedrooms of her sleeping children. When she emerged a short time later, an army rifle under her arm, Coroner Max Miller reported, the childen—Daniel, 10; Rose Marie, 8; John, 4; and Elizabeth, 29 months — were silent in death.

Speeds to Golf Course

Then Mrs. Walkup sped in the family car to a nearby golf course. Holding the rifle to her body, Miller deduced, she discharged the gun with one foot.

Dr. M. G. Fronske, family physician, said Mrs. Walkup had been despondent over a chronic intestinal ailment and had expressed fear the children might have contracted it.

A coroner's jury returned two verdicts—one that the children had been "strangled and stabbed to death by their mother, Mrs. Marie Walkup," and the other that she had committed suicide.

Four Notes

Four notes instructed the milk man not to leave milk today, told the method by which the bodies should be disposed, and gave the motive for the tragedy.

To her husband, she wrote:

"Because of lack of discipline the children are happier to go this way. Only grief would come to them. You are strong in faith, never doubting—mercy, mercy to my people. I loved you and I have failed."

Doctor Kills Son, Commits Suicide

SEATTLE, July 23 (AP)—A friend said today Dr. Guy Shearman Peterkin Sr., who killed his son and then dramatically committed suicide while telephoning an associate, did not share his family's belief that his son was recovering from a nervous breakdown.

The 66-year-old urologist put a pistol bullet into 22-year-old Guy Shearman Peterkin Jr.'s head yesterday, telephoned an associate of his deed, then ended the conversation by firing a bullet into his own brain.

Doctors Find Johnny's Heart Misplaced

PITTSBURGH, July 23 (AP)—Surgeons discovered today nine-year-old Johnny Mountain's heart was on the wrong side, which is Johnny's right side.

They removed his appendix and discovered the appendix and his liver were reversed from their usual order.

But nurses said Johnny was recovering nicely from the operation.

Mud Halts Diver In Hunt for Arkansas' Mysterious Monster

NEWPORT, Ark., July 23 (AP)—Twenty feet of mud halted naval diver C. B. Brown's third invasion of White river today in search of Arkansas' mysterious "monster."

Aides pulled the Memphis man to the surface from muck and weeds of the river bed after an hour's hunt failed to disclose a trace of the creature. He saw only a big cat fish and a heavy log.

Some 300 spectators from California, Arkansas, Texas, Mississippi and Tennessee lined the river banks to hear over a loudspeaker a play by play account of Brown's activities.

The chamber of commerce, sponsoring the hunt to refute charges the monster idea was a publicity scheme, rigged up the loud speaking system through which Brown related his adventures from the bottom of the river.

Film Stars To Hunt Grizzlies in Montana

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, July 23 (AP)—Two film stars and a director will seek grizzly bear in the vicinity of Glacier park, Montana, next fall, Charles Jennings, Montana dude ranch owner, said here today.

The stars will be Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy and the director, Jack Conway. Jennings will serve as guide.

Rebels Shell Madrid Twice In 24 Hours

15 Killed, 20 Hurt In Bombardment Of Government Capital

MADRID, July 23 (AP)—Newly shattered buildings and blood-splashed pavements today reminded Madrid that it is still besieged and within range of enemy cannon despite recent successful thrusts of its defenders.

After two weeks of freedom from bombardment, while the government offensive bit into insurgent lines west of Madrid, the capital was heavily shelled twice in 24 hours.

The city counted 15 killed and 20 injured, many in the squares and main avenues of the city. Workmen scrubbed at red stains on the pavement and cleared away rubble.

Near U. S. Embassy

Alcala street and Cibeles square took the brunt of the first bombardment, while the second sent several hundred shells along Gran Via and the Chamberi section near the United States embassy.

Including casualties in other bombardments 15 miles from Madrid and in Toledo province, a total of about 70 dead and 150 wounded civilians was added to the war's toll.

The insurgents continued pounding away at the eastern side of the Salient—which sticks out like a thumb pointing southward — with Villanueva de la Canada as their objective. Hill 660, just east of this village, which has changed hands several times, remained part of no-man's-land, swept by the artillery of both sides.

Hold Aerial Superiority

Wounded soldiers returning from the front indicated the government was holding its superiority in the air. They said recent insurgent infantry attacks lacked air bombing preparation. They were launched with only artillery support, inadequate to drive government troops from their deeply-built trenches.

LIONS ENDORSE SYPHILIS FIGHT AT CONVENTION

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Endorsing a campaign against syphilis as its major new objective, the 21st Lions International convention ended today with the election of Frank V. Birch of Milwaukee as international president.

Besides the resolutions urging 2,800 Lions clubs to join the anti-syphilis crusade, the convention endorsed the American Foundation for the Blind, federal legislation to aid blind and designated the second Friday in April as "Children's Appreciation day."

Sino-Japanese Hatred Cools

Small Chance Of Future War, China Withdraws Troops

PEIPING, July 23 (AP)—Chinese and Japanese hatreds in north China, at boiling point for 16 days, appeared tonight to have cooled enough to make war in the near future unlikely.

Withdrawal of the Chinese 37th division from the Peiping area changed the complexion of a situation which has been close to war since soldiers of that unit and Japanese first clashed 10 miles west of Peiping the night of July 7.

It met Japan's most urgent condition for restoration of peace and marked beginning of Chinese fulfillment of the latest of the four-year series of local, military agreements by which the Japanese army has steadily strengthened its power in north China.

The Japanese assert this agreement was made between their high command and Gen. Sung Cheh-Yuan, head of the semi-autonomous north China regime. They said he accepted its terms orally Sunday at Tientsin, then confirmed them in writing Monday at Peiping.

Clergy Refuse Nazi Decrees

BERLIN, July 23 (AP)—A group of defiant Protestant pastors sent letters to the German secret police today announcing their continued disobedience of nazi church decrees.

The churchmen declared their continued support of 149 of their brothers already arrested—of whom 44 are still in jail—and wrote the gestapo (police) they "felt compelled" to continue their opposition.

"The confessional synod has opposed what its leaders have called the government's attempts to inculcate a new religion based on the old German mythology." Prominent in the fight has been the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, arrested July 1.

The pastors' bold step was taken as their number was gradually being whittled away by the secret police and courts continued sentencing members of the Catholic clergy on charges of immorality.

Ten Dortmund and Berlin Protestant preachers have been arrested in the last three days.

MERCURY FAILS TO KEEP JULY 23RD TRADITION

Iowa City's 86 degrees of heat yesterday failed to maintain a 41-year tradition that July 23 should be the hottest day of the year, according to records at the hydraulics laboratory.

The lowest temperature yesterday was 67 compared to the average normal of 63 degrees.

Rain yesterday morning —.14 inches—brought the year's average up to .05 inches above the normal mark.

Criminologist To Talk Today

Coordinating Council Will Meet at Special Luncheon at Reich's

August Vollmer, noted criminologist and one of the founders of the coordinating council movement, who delivered a university lecture last night, will speak this noon at a special luncheon of the Johnson county coordinating council at Reich's pine room. Mayor Myron J. Walker will introduce Vollmer.

Mrs. Norman Meier is in charge of the arrangements and should be contacted for reservations. The luncheon is open to the public, the Rev. Wendell S. Dysinger, president of the local council, announced, and summer school students are particularly invited to attend.

Women Won't Accept Any Favors

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 23 (AP)—With a demonstration that lasted many minutes, the National Federation of Business and Professional Women resolved today to renounce any special favors accorded women by masculine-controlled government and fight for strict equality of the sexes under law.

By acclamation they voted to campaign for an amendment to the federal constitution which would bind congress and the governing bodies of every state, county and municipality to pass no laws or ordinances applying solely to women.

The women elected Miss Earlene White of Washington as president for the next two years. Miss White, postmistress to the United States senate, succeeds Charl Ormond Williams of Washington.

Mrs. Rosa Cunningham of Des Moines, Ia., was elected first vice-president; Dr. Minnie L. Moffett of Dallas, Tex., second vice-president, and Mrs. Myra Blakeslee of East Orange, N. J., third vice-president.

City Council Okays Budget

Approves 14.6 Mills Tax Assessment, 65 Per Cent Increase

Iowa City's $244,498 budget, with its co-requisite tax levy of 14.6 mills —a 65 per cent increase over the present 8.83 mill rate—was approved by the city council yesterday.

The increase is necessary because the balance of the different city funds is $55,000 lower than when the previous budget was prepared and because 1937 expenditures of $18,000 had not been budgeted. The increase amounts to 5.77 mills.

A .78 mill emergency levy, advised by State Comptroller C. B. Murtagh, —which will raise $9,063 to repay the paving bond fund for the transfer of WPA airport improvement costs to the airport fund—received official sanction also.

Excepting the emergency levy, no changes were made in the budget.

The six aldermen approving the document were Everett Means, John Ostdiek, Prof. John Reilly, R. J. Phelps, John Grady and Clarence Beck. George H. Bouck was absent.

The new budget is $11,000 more than the present $233,531 statement of municipal operation costs, but the unbudgeted $18,000 will bring this year's expenses to more than $251,000.

The unbudgeted items included the temporary $10,000 transfer for the airport project, $3,000 transferred permanently to the airport fund, $2,600 for the Lucas and Luick bill and additional auditing costs and an additional transfer of $2,000.

The budget will receive a public hearing Aug. 8, during which taxpayers may enter objections.

Senate Leader Sees Little Hope for Action On Crop Control Bill

Bill Signed By Roosevelt Will Help Farmers

Will Enable Tenants And Sharecroppers To Acquire Homes

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed legislation today authorizing the federal government to help tenants and sharecroppers acquire farm homes.

The measure was approved by congress last week after the chief executive had urged action to halt a national trend toward agricultural tenancy.

It authorizes $10,000,000 of farm purchase loans to tenants this year. Larger outlays are authorized in future years $25,000,000 by 1939 and $50,000,000 annually thereafter.

For 3,000 Farms

Advocates of the new law estimated loans for the purchase of approximately 3,000 farms can be made under this year's authorization. The total number of tenants in the country is estimated by authorities at 2,500,000. It has been increasing at the rate of 40,000 annually in recent years.

The tenancy legislation provides for two other activities designed to help low-income farmers. They are:

1. Rehabilitation loans to prevent small farm owners from slipping into tenancy, and to help tenants, sharecroppers and farm laborers improve their living standards.

2. Retirement of land unsuited for farming: In connection with this, the government is authorized to help families now living on submarginal land acquire good land.

Funds

Funds for the rehabilitation loans are expected to be made available by the president from relief appropriations.

For the purchase of submarginal land, the measure authorized an appropriation of $10,000,000 this year and $20,000,000 each in 1939 and 1940.

Local county committees appointed by the secretary of agriculture will select tenants to whom farm purchase loans will be made. The loans will run 40 years and bear three per cent interest.

To Prescribe Practices

Tenant borrowers will be required to use, during the purchase period, farming practices prescribed by the secretary. They will be prohibited from selling their farms or their equities prior to five years from the date the loans are made.

Funds for the farm purchase loans have not yet been appropriated.

Rudy Vallee Fires Orchestra 'Again'

DALLAS, Tex., July 23 (AP)—Rudy Vallee gave notice of dismissal to his entire band but reserved final decision until they had completed a tour to New York a week hence.

The dance orchestra leader denied his action was caused by alledged "sour notes" on a nation-wide broadcast last night. He said it was a result of a series of difficulties.

One of the band men informed a newspaper man it was something of an "old Vallee custom" to dismiss the musicians. He said he and other members of the organization had been "fired" a number of times but were still with the orchestra.

High Court Bill Termed Part Success

Administration Says It Induced Tribunal To Rule Liberally

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP) — The Roosevelt administration contended today its defeated court bill was a partial success in that it induced the supreme court to interpret the constitution more liberally.

A spokesman for the president himself told newspapermen since the bill was proposed, the court, feeling influence of the controversy, had reversed itself on vital points.

Renews Wage-Hour Plea

In addition, while a restless congress talked of adjournment in mid-August, or earlier, he renewed the administration's plea for enactment of wage and hour legislation, a farm program and a housing bill before the end of the session.

If congress should adjourn without disposing of these measures, he made it clear the president is reserving a decision on calling a national legislature into special session in October to attend to them.

Program

Senator Barkley, the majority leader, outlined a program for the remainder of the session and predicted that congress will not adjourn until the measures are enacted.

Besides the new court bill now being drafted by the senate judiciary committee, the list included the wage hour and housing measures and a bill to plug holes in the tax laws. Barkley did not include the farm bill, or the reorganization of the government asked by President Roosevelt.

Garner Works for Peace

Meanwhile, Vice-President Garner continued his efforts to close the ugly breach which the court bill opened in the ranks of democrats. At his suggestion, Senator Burke (D-Neb) a leading opponent of the measure, called on President Roosevelt.

Barkley Says Committee To Hold Up Vote

Granary Plan Faces Delay Despite Outlook For Bumper Harvest

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—The odds against new crop control legislation at this session of congress increased today despite arguments of administration leaders that bumper harvests may lead to price-depressing supplies.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the new democratic leader, conceded there is scant prospect of action this session. He told reporters the senate agriculture committee probably will be unable to report a bill to the senate in time.

Regional Hearings

The leader made this statement after the committee had voted to conduct prolonged regional hearings on the administration's proposal for an "ever normal granary" and accompanying crop controls.

Dispute arose on the senate floor as to whether the committee's action precluded enactment of the farm bill this year.

Senator Black (D-Ala) declared he would oppose the regional hearings if they would "prohibit action on the farm bill within the next week or two."

"Take Our Time"

Chairman Smith (D-S.C.) of the agriculture committee replied:

"I don't anticipate any general farm legislation at this session. I've been in the senate 30 years, and we have passed some legislation for the farmer every year—and we all know what it has amounted to.

"Now it is time to get down to something permanent and fundamental, and we are going to take our time to do it."

"No Stipulation"

When Black insisted that "we ought to act on farm legislation before we adjourn," Senator Pope (D-Idaho), sponsor of the bill, remarked:

"The agriculture committee's proposal contained no stipulation as to the time of action."

"Then I understand that the proposed hearings in different sections of the country would not preclude legislation at this session?" asked Barkley.

"That is my understanding," Pope replied.

Labor Committee Okays Housing Bill

WASHINGTON, July 23 (AP)—A revised housing bill won the approval of the senate labor committee today. It thus may be considered by the senate at this session.

The measure is sponsored by Senator Wagner (D-NY), and President Roosevelt has designated it as one of several which he would like to have congress pass.

Altered at the request of the treasury, it would create a national housing authority to make loans and grants to state and local housing authorities. The funds would be used for construction of low-rent housing and the eradication of slums.

Local housing authorities could obtain subsidies under either of two plans. They might obtain a federal loan, repayable in 60 years, and an operating subsidy sufficient to reduce rentals by 45 per cent.

Or, they would be eligible for a capital grant of 25 per cent at the outset, with an additional 15 per cent to be donated by the federal government in the form of relief labor. The balance would be lent by the government.

Under the second plan, the local community would be required to put up an additional 20 per cent of the capital, or development cost.

Mrs. Marshall Field Dies of Pneumonia

BEVERLY, Mass., July 23 (AP)—Mrs. Delia Spencer Caton Field, 84, widow of Marshall Field, Chicago merchant, died tonight of pneumonia at her summer home at Pride's Crossing.

The death of the Washington and Chicago society leader was announced by Frederick Bartlett, a friend of the family.

Vollmer Urges Trained Police

The crime situation in the United States, unparalleled anywhere in the world, can be met only by professionally trained policemen, August Vollmer, noted criminologist, declared in a university lecture before an audience of 1,500 persons on the west front of Old Capitol last night.

Crime has increased 100 per cent in the last 33 years in the United States as far as major crimes are concerned, the speaker pointed out. "This is a serious indictment of our people. If it continues, we will have anarchy. Something must be done," he said.

"Laws have always been and always will be an inadequate substitute for self-help. The best legislation you could devise will not meet the situation at all," he said, in decrying our "futile dependency on law" and the "efficacy of legislation."

"The average tenure of a police chief is less than four years. How can you expect any officer in that length of time to become acquainted with all of the problems he must meet?" he said. Political preference deserves no place in the selection of peace officers, Vollmer asserted.

"Why should you trust your life in the hands of a man who doesn't know his job? That is exactly what is being done today," Vollmer declared.

Commending the university for the establishment of a law enforcement short course, he said, "You are making history here. This is the beginning, I am sure, of professional training for policemen."

ROUND TABLE

August Vollmer, criminologist, will conduct a round table this morning at 9 o'clock in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Coordinating Council

To accompany professional training, he recommended the use of a coordinating council, similar to the one in Iowa City, to "bring together all persons interested in promoting the safety, health and welfare of the people."

Pointing to the lower crime rate among the Japanese Vollmer said, "What does Japan have that we don't have?" One of our main objectives, he said, must be the "establishment of the right sort of customs, ideals — personal, social and spiritual—and traditions."

Vollmer also recommended the recording of more accurate and reliable statistics. "Every state should pass legislation demanding that its chiefs of police, that the courts and jails carefully record all crimes. Without reliable statistics, we can't do much," he said.

"Our records at Washington show that there have been 7,000,000 criminals fingerprinted. Seven million children are in our schools today who are going to take their place unless something is done to relieve the situation," he said.

Education, the playground movement, more severe penalties and a higher standard of living are answers to the crime problem, Vollmer said.

England Passes Law Ending Rigid Divorce Requirements

LONDON, July 23 (AP) — The fight of a humorist turned crusader against the "holy deadlock" of England's rigid divorce laws was victorious today when parliament completed enactment of far-reaching changes in the conditions for terminating marriage.

Adultery is now the only grounds for divorce in England. When the law becomes effective next Jan. 1 these will be added:

Desertion without cause for at least three years; cruelty; incurable insanity for five years.

The new law will apply only to England and Wales, not to Scotland or northern Ireland. Scotland already recognizes desertion as grounds for divorce.

The new act was hailed as a triumph for A. P. Herbert, who first achieved fame as a member of the staff of "Punch," wrote in his novel, "Holy Deadlock" a powerful indictment of present divorce laws, and carried his fight for liberalization to the house of commons when he achieved election as an independent member from Oxford university in 1935.

Advocates of more liberal conditions for divorce had fought an uphill battle for a quarter century.

It Has Happened Here—

TEN MEN died in a South Chicago strike riot on Memorial day; many others were injured, some of them seriously. If such an occurrence had been in Germany, in Italy, in Russia or even in France or England, we Americans would have put it down as merely another massacre in "bloody" Europe and given it little concern.

But it can happen here; it has.

This week two entirely divergent opinions have come from what seem equally authentic sources concerning the Memorial day deaths of those 10 men. A coroner's jury in Chicago found it "justifiable homicide." The senate civil liberties committee labeled the same occurrence a "virtually unprovoked attack" on the part of the police whose bullets killed the men. Both cannot be right.

The Memorial day deaths served more or less as a climax to what has been a year of bitter industrial strife, of "sit-downs," of failing mediation, of bloodshed and death almost unprecedented in our nation's history. After the incident May 30, the labor fight has gradually decelerated until today, a survey has found, the nation's industries are at their most peaceful point of the year. It is unfortunate, however, that death must eternally prelude peace.

To reach an honest conclusion about the Chicago battle, most thoughtful citizens will not give full credence either to the civil liberties committee report or to that of the coroner's jury. As in most cases, the truth lies somewhere in between.

The impression at first imparted by the civil liberties committee—namely, that wholly peaceful and unarmed assemblage of men and women had been fired on point blank—has been disproven. The strikers, according to testimony, threw stones and other missiles at the police, and the police answered with bullets.

That the 10 men who died should not be martyred is true, but also it is true that police action in dealing with mobs should be marked by restraint. On that day it was not.

The police not only fired on the mobsters, but they followed in pursuit of the fleeing strikers, attacking them indiscriminately with nightsticks. The failure of the coroner's jury to realize that fact does not speak well for Chicago as a community.

The crime—if it was a crime—was not done premeditatedly. It was done in a passion of the moment, but it seems to us that exoneration of the policemen responsible will not make them hesitate should such a situation arise again. These policemen need to be told, and bluntly, that unnecessary brutality is next akin to cowardice. The two are much alike. Neither should be a part of the credo of men sworn to protect society.

Some Attention For Cancer

THE UNITED STATES senate gave some attention to the cancer problem Thursday when it approved legislation to authorize a $700,000 annual expenditure for the promotion of medical research in cancer.

That is all well and good, but the fact still remains that it is not so much the attention of congresses that is needed, but rather the attention of every individual citizen—particularly those who think they may be developing the condition.

In no other disease is the proverbial ounce of prevention as important as it is in cancer. If for no other reason, it is imperative to be forewarned because after the disease reaches an advanced stage, it is still incurably and invariably fatal.

No real cure for cancer has been discovered, despite the wild claims of fakers. But it is essential to know that if it is discovered in an early stage, the cancer can be removed with a very good possibility of a permanent cure.

This is the keynote to the country-wide educational campaign which has as its goal the slashing of terrifying cancer mortality rates. The motto reads: "Early cancer is curable. Fight it with knowledge."

But what sort of knowledge? First the innocents must realize that no claims for "wonderful," permanent and painless" cures are true. Then they must shoo a bunch of bogies collected over the years from spokesmen of ignorance. Among these, the most tragic is the pessimistic conviction that cancer is absolutely incurable, that death is inevitable. If this one idea could be wiped out, a very bad psychological influence would be removed.

Everyone must be impressed with the fact that cancer in its early stages can be cured. The tragedy of over 100,000 deaths annually is heightened by the realization that a great many of them were avoidable.

There is the typical instance of Mrs. Average who is afraid of cancer and fights it with the ostrich-like trick of burying her head. She discovers a growth on her body, tries a household ointment for a month or so, and waits to see if it will go away. When it grows worse, she is panicky—she goes to her physician who suggests that it may not be serious and recommends a surgeon.

At the mere mention of surgery, the old ostrich instinct crops up again. She shuns the physician and confides in a friend. The friend suggests an up to date "doctor" who can cure almost anything without medicine or surgery. So Mrs. Average wastes her money until she is driven back to her physician. But then it's too late.

Exaggeration in this modern age? No indeed. If this were an exaggeration, it would follow that the high death rate were one too. It isn't; it's a shocking reality.

Since there is no pain connected with the early stages of cancer, it is absolutely necessary that prompt attention be given any growth that excites suspicion. It is not sufficient to fight cancer in research laboratories. It must likewise be fought in the psychological recesses of the public's mind. Reliable information is available from competent physicians or directly from the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

Running away in fear of ignorance, delaying treatment, falling for quack notions and theories, wasting money—all these reduce the chances for recovery by postponing the beginning of treatment. That ounce of prevention is vital.

Three of four cats which inherited a $25,000 estate in California vanished shortly after the will was read. Scared blue of the inheritance tax collector, no doubt.

Wise Spending Is Wise Saving

THE CITY council has increased the tax levy for next year and the approved budget is $11,000 more for 1938 than it was for 1937, this has been "big news" for the last few days. But the headlines have told only half the story—that the increases have been made, but not why.

That almost every fund in the city treasury was nearly depleted, that many outstanding bills remained unpaid, that transfers from one fund to another have been made and must be replaced, these facts received little publicity. They are, however, circumstances which must be considered in judging the Iowa City budget for 1938.

In addition, many long-neglected changes are to be made. Two more men are to be added to the local police department. The additions will bring the department's force up to 14 men—still fewer than the number estimated necessary for a population of this size, but adequate for the present.

A two-way radio system is to be installed in the city's police squad car. Such a move, already made by almost every city our size in the state, would have prevented such an occurrence as last month when one patrolman was nearly killed as he battled two armed car thieves single-handed. The few minutes wasted in summoning the patrolmen under the old system would have prevented the happening.

The public library fund was enlarged, too. But probably few Iowa Citians realize that the local public library circulates more books to a larger population and at a smaller cost than any other small-city library in the nation.

Improvements at the local air port also caused a slight budget increase so that the city could meet the already substantial PWA grants. But money spent at the air port now will add to the city's income in the future.

Also in computing next year's proposed expenditures, the city council and Mayor Walker had to consider that the low estimates for this year have been exceeded in many instances.

We sympathize with Iowa Citians who dislike the increase in taxation, but we still believe the council is to be congratulated in outlining a budget that plans a wise expenditure of the city's money.

WSUI HIGHLIGHTS

"Josephine," as played by Wayne King and his orchestra, now takes its place as the song of the moment for WSUI listeners, displacing "Satan Takes a Holiday."

According to announcer Bill Sener, G of Chicago, Ill., requests for "Josephine" on the Rhythm Rambles program broadcast at noon daily, have broken records during the last year for any one song.

This selection will be included on today's program. The entire program includes "A Star is Born," by Eddy Duchin's orchestra; "Song of India," by Tommy Dorsey; "Cause My Baby Says It's So," by Mall Hallett; "The Bells of St. Mary's," a special arrangement by Horace Heidt and his Brigadiers featuring the building of a band; "That's Southern Hospitality," by Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees; "Josephine," by Wayne King; "Moonlight on the Highway," by Emery Duetsch; "Strangers in the Dark," by Ozzie Nelson; "The Lady Who Couldn't be Kissed," by Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians.

How Medical Student Learned That Parasites Cause Scabies

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

ON JUNE 20, 250 years ago, an Italian named Cosimo Bonomo discovered that the cause of the common itchy eruption of the skin was due to a small spiderlike insect, the parasite of scabies. This discovery was of an importance far transcending its intrinsic value, because for the first time it was proved that a human disease was due to entrance into the body of something from the external world.

The ideas that were prevalent at that time were that disease was due to changes in the chemistry of the blood or to the dislocation of the theoretical four humours of the body. That an insect, or plant, or poison from outside could enter into the body and make changes was, curiously enough, never given serious consideration. And, indeed, it was not until much later—in 1834—that Bonomo's idea gained any wide popularity.

This was when Renucci, a medical student in Paris, showed the great professor of skin diseases there what he had learned from the old market women in his native Corsica. Renucci remembered seeing these old women pick the itchy places on their fingers with a needle until they extracted a small, wriggling insect, and when he saw the same disease in the clinic, he demonstrated to the professor that it was a scabies insect which caused the eruption.

Scabies, or the itch, is supposed to be a disease of filth and poverty, but it frequently appears among those who are known as the upper classes. It occurs most frequently in the thin skin between the fingers, although it may appear on any part of the body.

Examinations in Physiology and Hygiene

Notice to all students who are required to take minor examinations in physiology and hygiene: The examinations will be given at 1 p.m. Monday, July 26.

W. W. TUTTLE

To Students in the Graduate College Expecting to Receive Degrees at the Coming Convocation:

Each student in the graduate college who expects to receive the master's degree, or the doctorate, at the forthcoming Convocation, is requested, so far as he may not have done so heretofore, to procure for us immediately the official transcript of whatever graduate work he may have accomplished in another graduate school. He should then advise the assistant university examiner of his selection of a major (both major and minor for the doctorate) so that his work may be transferred to his graduate record here.

This should be done early within the session. Otherwise we may be unable to certify for graduation a student who has accomplished satisfactory work elsewhere.

H. C. DORCAS,
Registrar.

Ph.D. Reading Examination in French

The examination for certification of reading ability in French will be given Monday, August 2, 6-9 a.m. in room 314 Schaeffer hall. Please make personal application and leave all material in major field to be submitted for the examination with Miss Knease by Wednesday, July 28. As the examination is two hours long candidates may come either at 6 or 7 o'clock but at no other time. Office hours: 10-11:30 daily, 307 Schaeffer hall.

ROMANCE LANGUAGES DEPARTMENT

Visual Education Exhibit

A complete exhibit of motion picture equipment, lantern slide equipment and other material for use in a visual education program will be on display in room C-5, East hall, until July 29. All school officials and teachers are invited to inspect this equipment.

DEPARTMENT OF VISUAL INSTRUCTION

Pi Lambda Theta

There will be an informal Pi Lambda Theta luncheon at the Union cafeteria each Thursday at 12 noon during the summer session. No reservations are necessary. Members of all chapters are most cordially invited.

ISABELLE MACDONALD,
President

Corrective Class

On Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 3 to 4 p.m., any women students interested in individual conference or exercises for posture, weak feet, overweight, or other special needs, may report to the individual gymnastics room at the women's gymnasium. Posture pictures will be taken if desired.

LORAINE FROST

Student Employment

Students or non-students interested in earning board during the period from Aug. 6 to Sept. 20 are requested to report to the Employment Bureau immediately.

Most of these jobs can be worked on the basis of one hour at each meal time, and consequently there would be no more loss of time than that usually given to the meal hour.

The cooperation of all students or prospective students is especially urged, since as a result of the change in dates of the summer session, this period of work is causing an unusual problem.

LEE H. KANN,
Manager

A New Yorker At Large

By JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—Racing cars, fast horses and a fast stock market have always fascinated Lew Lipton . . . and with hobbies like that . . . there's only one out: to be faster than fast on the ideas.

Lew is just that quick with the think-box too. For 11 years he was "idea man" for the late Irving Thalberg, one of the Hollywood geniuses who really deserved the title. Before that, he was a title-writer for silent pictures, gag-man for the old Carter De Haven comedies, title illustrator, newspaperman, cartoonist, and student at the Art Institute in his native Chicago.

More recently, he is author of a book that undoubtedly will cause a new departure in the publishing game.

Significantly enough, it is titled just "Ideas." It is not on the bookstalls yet . . . but when it gets there, you will hear about it . . . for both Lew and his publishers have planned a little shouting.

It makes, perhaps, the strangest reading that has come between covers for some time . . . for the book is just what the title implies: ideas . . . for movies . . . a round dozen of them . . . written in a jerky, telegraphic style that races through plots with seven-league boots. Dialog is suggested. Characterization is hinted. Settings merely sketched.

"Ideas" is exactly what Hollywood ordered. Give the movies a fully developed plot, a masterpiece of characterization, a perfectly cut literary gem, and it will be hacked down to ideas, anyway. Sometimes, it is necessary. Often, it is silly.

Lew Lipton knows all that. So he has turned off this dozen "Ideas" at the Hollywood starting point. Lew insists his opus is no textbook but it may become that. Its subtitle should be: "Where Movies Begin."

That, however, is not to the point. What is, is that before many moons have dipped over Catalina, most of the "Ideas" probably will be on their way to the screen . . . and Lew will be dividing his time again between his hobbies and other ideas.

Washington World

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Mrs. Roosevelt, in one of her recent "columns," takes sides against the frequently-urged merger of Uncle Sam's detective organizations, on the ground that a highly centralized set-up of this sort is calculated to become a threat against popular liberty in any country where it becomes powerful.

The "first lady" mentions no specific example, but one can't but think of Russia's OGPU and of stories of secret police abuses in Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy.

The point is extremely well taken. Considering the source of the suggestion, it comes with all the more emphasis.

Many Inquisitors

The United States has three major secret services:

1. The treasury department's.
2. The postoffice department's.
3. And, especially, the justice department's bureau of investigation—the G-men.

Most of the other executive departments do a good bit of undercover investigating, too.

Also several of the government's so-called independent offices have their respective staffs of inquisitors.

Ditto each and every congressional investigating committee.

Spy On One Another

The work of differing groups of governmental "probers" overlaps unquestionably.

This causes mutual jealousies among them. They not only spy on outsiders; they spy on one another. Good; they also check on one another.

It is difficult for one of these agencies to go far wrong on a case, and "get away with it," with a couple of other agencies alert to pick flaws in its evidence.

And, each against each, that is their inclination.

If it is bad for convictions, at least it's a safeguard against injustices.

On One Occasion

I do not recall a valid charge of this sort against the treasury's or the postoffice's secret operatives, but I surely do recall one against the justice department's in the day of William J. Burns, head of its G-men.

Those were the times of the oil inquiry, when senators' and representatives' desks were broken into on Capitol Hill, by G-men; and when "frame-up" accusations (subsequently admitted as perjured) were brought by the G-folk against Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. They did not call them G-men then, but they were the same set-up.

Mitchell Raps Slot Machines In Talk Here

Law Enforcement Speaker Pledges War on Operators

Lashing out against the slot machine racket, which he termed "the most vicious thing we have to contend with," Attorney General John H. Mitchell yesterday told peace officers here for the law enforcement short course that "I am going to make it my business" to enforce the slot machine laws.

"The people engaged in this graft are the lowest form of racketeers," Mitchell declared. "They prey upon the local business men, telling them they have an inside track in the attorney general's office.

"No Payoffs"

"I am going to say here and now that no one in the state of Iowa has any inside track in the attorney general's office. There are no payoffs, and as far as enforcement of that law is concerned I am going to make it my business."

In a plea for the divorcement of law enforcement and politics, the attorney general recommended that all peace officers be placed on a civil service basis.

"If we are to have efficient law enforcement we must have every officer secure in his position," he said.

"If the officer is hampered at all times by the fear that with a change of administration he may lose his job or by pressure of any kind, then he cannot make an efficient officer," Mitchell asserted.

Cites Road Patrol

He cited the Iowa highway patrol as "an outstanding example of the kind of personnel you can build when your men know they are secure in their jobs."

Outlining his formula for effective law enforcement, Mitchell said it must consist of: honesty, determination, integrity, intelligence and freedom to proceed.

"Lack of any of these ingredients may cause ineffective enforcement," he declared. "My experience has been that nearly every peace officer is equipped with all of these—except freedom of action."

Mitchell expressed the opinion that the hands of the law are often tied by popular indifference. "Through a course such as this," he said, referring to the law enforcement short course, "I believe we may be able to break down this indifference."

Handwriting Expert To Address Police

Vernon Faxon of Chicago, Ill., handwriting expert and document examiner, will be a speaker at the concluding session of the six-day law enforcement short course this morning.

The 130 peace officers enrolled in the course will also attend a round table conducted by August Vollmer, noted criminologist who delivered a university lecture last night, in the house chamber of Old Capitol at 9 o'clock.

"Questioned Documents, Handwriting and Typewriting Identification" will be discussed by Faxon at 8 o'clock in room 10, dental building.

The day's program will end with an outline for plans for next year, a resume of the week's work and the awarding of certificates.

California has 3,600 CCC campers available for forest fire duty.

AnnualConcert To Be Sunday

Herald Stark And Margaret Dane To Sing Solo Pieces

Herald I. Stark of the music department and Margaret Dane, A of Iowa City, will be soloists in Holst's arrangement of "Psalm LXXXVI" in the annual summer session chorus concert at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the main lounge of Iowa Union.

Leo Grether, G of Keokuk, will conduct the chorus of 88 members in this number. The rest of the program will be under the direction of Stark.

The words of "Psalm LXXXVI" are a metrical version by John Bryan taken from the authorized version while the melody was adapted for the psalm by L. Bourgeois in the Genevan Psalter in 1543.

Other soloists on the program will be Hugh Cockshoot, baritone, A of Wilton Junction, and Thomas Muir, tenor, guest lecturer of the music department.

Muir will sing Walther's "Prize Song" from "The Meistersingers" by Wagner, one of the most famous of the Wagner tenor arias.

In "Finale" from the same opera, Cockshoot will sing the part of Hans Sachs who is reputed to have written the original melody of the "Chorale," which is also on the concert program, in the days of the meistersingers.

In the Brahms' Motet, the chorus will sing a four-part a capella arrangement.

Tickets for the concert may be obtained from the desk in the lobby of Iowa Union.

Emma Watkins To Give Demonstration

Down The Sports Trail

By PAUL MICKELSON

NEW YORK, July 23 (AP)—James Anthony Collins, better known as "ripper" since he was the home run fiend and toast of Eleventh avenue, Altoona, Pa., was full of talk and baseball philosophy as he submitted to the candid interview today.

The 32-year-old first baseman, whose superb fielding and timely hitting have whipped the once lazy Chicago Cubs into a rip-snorting pennant contender, appeared more like a restless rookie than a veteran as he awaited the first game of the highly "croocial" series with Bill Terry's Giants.

Cubs Blow Up?

Q. Will the Cubs blow up?

A. Nope, we're going to win. The Giants are good but we're better. Not only have we got a good, steady ball club but we've got the hustle and the best spirit I've ever seen on any team.

Heroes

Q. Who are the real heroes of the Cubs?

A. Don't you know, or haven't you heard, that all ball players are heroes? The unsung heroes on this club, though, are Charlie Root, Linus Frey, Augie Galan and Clay Bryant, who turned into Christy Mathewsons and Ty Cobbs when injuries threatened to sink us early in the season. They kept our heads above water.

Difference

Q. As a former St. Louis player, what's the difference between the Cubs and the Gashouse Gang?

A. They make more noise; we win more games. Manager Charlie Grimm is altogether different from Manager Frankie Frisch. Frankie goes into tantrums when things go bad and doesn't care whose feelings he hurts. Grimm lays down the law more effectively but in a nicer way that makes you feel like doing better.

Not Sore at Cards

Q. Suppose you're sore at the Cards for shipping you away?

A. Not at all. When they used Johnny Mize in my place most of the '36 season I asked Mr. Rickey (Branch Rickey, vice-president of the Cards) to trade me to a first class club as I figured I had a few good years left. He did and I thanked him. Mr. Rickey and Sam Breadon are two of the swellest fellows in baseball. In fact, Mr. Rickey told me he'd give me a good baseball job when my playing days are over.

Q. Where'd you get the name of 'ripper'?

A. When I was playing with a miners' team in Altoona, I hit a home run against a fence and the ball struck a nail. In trying to get it off the nail I ripped it to shreds. It's been 'ripper' since.

Q. Who's the best shortstop in the National league?

A. Billy Jurges of the Cubs. Happily, he tells me he can take one more stride after the ball now because I'm covering first and he doesn't have to take aim when he throws.

Q. Who's the hardest base runner?

A. Pepper Martin. When he starts toward first, he sounds like a freight train going 100 miles an hour. He's the slickest base runner. The fastest base runner is Terry Moore of St. Louis; the slowest are Gabby Hartnett, Spud Davis—most all the catchers.

Q. Which player gives you the most work with liners toward first?

A. Heinie Manush of Brooklyn and most of the Phillies. I play 10 feet back of the first when we meet the Phillies. They keep me jumping.

Q. Is Hartnett (he's relieving Grimm, who's ill) a good manager?

A. I like him very much. He's always making noise but getting results. Incidentally, we're trying very hard for Hartnett because we know every man is counted on to do a little more until Grimm returns. We want Gabby to look good in his first managing job.

Q. What was the greatest thrill you've received as a Cub?

A. Two of 'em; when Grimm told me he didn't care if I only hit .150 as long as I covered first, and in the series against my old Cardinal pals when I was able to bust up and win four games for us.

Q. Any new ideas?

A. They should play two all-star games—a doubleheader—instead of one. In the first let all the young stars play; in the second let the old-timers play. I'm always thinking of the National league.

Still Friends

Peaceful Settlement Made By Browns

ST. LOUIS, July 23 (AP)—Rogers Hornsby, discharged manager of the St. Louis Browns, surrendered his contract, which did not expire until the end of the 1938 season, and settled his claim against the American league club tonight for a sum estimated at from $7,500 to $10,000.

A peaceful ending to the "Rajah's" differences with the team's owners was reached after an all-day conference in the offices of his attorney, Jacob M. Lashley.

Objects to Betting

In a statement, worded somewhat ambiguously, Hornsby disclosed he was dismissed because Donald L. Barnes, president of the Browns, and William O. DeWitt, vice-president, objected to his betting on horse races.

"While my contract did not forbid betting on races," Hornsby stated, "both Mr. Barnes and Mr. DeWitt have objected to my doing so, but these differences have not entered into the question of my playing ability or the policies of my management. As to those features, I have had a free hand and we have always worked in close harmony."

Everything's Lovely

Barnes, jubilant over the Browns' 8 to 0 victory over Washington, remarked after the conference with a broad smile, "Everything's lovely."

He and Judge George C. Foster, treasurer of the Browns, issued a statement which said:

"Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the Browns, has worked in close harmony with the executives of the company during his term of employment.

Disagreed

"Mr. Hornsby and ourselves disagreed as to certain fundamental principles and therefore we terminated his services, paying him a sum satisfactory to both parties.

"We have the kindliest of feelings toward Rogers and wish him every success in his future activities."

Hornsby's statement, equally pleasant in tone, said:

No Hard Feelings

"I have settled my claim against the American league baseball company of St. Louis, owners of the Browns, on account of my discharge before the completion of my contract as player-manager and I am leaving my connection with the Browns without any hard feelings and with every good wish for their success."

The statement concluded with the information he had surrendered his contract "upon the payment to me of a sum substantially equal to the balance for the year of 1937." The contract was reported to call for a salary of from $18,000 to $20,000 a year.

Tribune Releases Official Standings

CHICAGO, July 23 (AP)—Leaders in the poll to select a squad of collegiate football stars to oppose the Green Bay Packers at Soldier field the night of Sept. 1 in the fourth annual charity game:

Ends—Tinsley, Louisiana State, 529,632; Wendt, Ohio State, 497,916; Kelley, Yale, 472,584; O'Neill, Notre Dame, 467,365.

Tackles—Widseth, Minnesota, 527,814; Daniell, Pittsburgh, 519,527; Steinkemper, Notre Dame, 503,718; Golemgeske, Wisconsin, 492,936.

Guards—Reid, Northwestern, 523,735; Glassford, Pittsburgh, 522,862; Starcevich, Washington, 518,217; Lautar, Notre Dame, 491,638.

Centers — Svendsen, Minnesota, 379,166; Bell, Purdue, 368,942; Basrak, Duquesne, 364,287.

Quarterbacks—Huffman, Indiana, 452,956; Wilkinson, Minnesota, 439,827; Baugh, Texas Christian, 436,593.

Halfbacks — Larue, Pittsburgh, 468,553; Drake, Purdue, 463,838; Buivid, Marquette, 456,279; Haines, Washington, 411,627.

Fullbacks — Francis, Nebraska, 531,628; Danbom, Notre Dame, 426,844; Jankowski, Wisconsin, 351,266.

Some $30,000,000 in coins and bullion was recovered by salvors from the S. S. Laurentic, sunk by a German submarine in the World war.

Budge, Parker Represent U.S.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 23 (AP)—Don Budge and Frankie Parker, undistinguished grammar school kids when the United States last held the Davis cup, will stride out on Wimbledon's center court tomorrow for the first two singles matches of the challenge round against Great Britain's Charles Edgar Hare and Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin.

Unsuccessful challengers six times since Rene Lacoste and Henri Cochet carried off the trophy at Germantown in 1927, the American team was favored so heavily there wasn't a London bookmaker accepting bets.

Draw Favorable

Even today's draw smiled on the challengers. It generally was conceded Great Britain's only chance, however remote, was for the veteran Austin to get a chance to play Budge on the first day. Instead they were drawn to face one another on Tuesday.

Parker, youngest player ever named to represent the United States in the challenge round, faces Austin in the opening match at 2:30 p.m. (7:30 a.m. central standard time). Budge, approaching the end of one of the most triumphant invasions in Wimbledon's long history, meets the left-handed Hare when Parker and Austin finish.

American Doubles

Budge and Mako will team up in the doubles Monday against Clifford Raymond Davys Tuckey and Frank Herbert David Wilde. For the finale Tuesday, tomorrow's singles pairing will be reversed with Parker meeting Hare and Budge playing Austin in that order.

Grant, accusing himself of turning "yellow," declared then he would not play in the challenge round even if named to the team.

Youngest Team

America's team is perhaps the youngest in the history of Davis cup competition. Budge is the "old-timer" at 22. Mako and Parker both are 21 but the latter is the younger of the two by a single week.

It is a paradox that this United States team, made up mostly of the youngsters who were eliminated a year ago in the North American zone finals by Australia, should be not only favored but the toast of all London.

Bunny Austin

It's a mistake, however, to underestimate the graceful, dark-complexioned Austin. In 1935, the last time the United States was in the challenge round, he whipped Allison in five sets and Budge in four, and in 1934 he not only took Shields but Sidney Wood as well.

Experiments are being made on auto fenders built of rubber.

City Ranks 11 In Construction

From January to June, 1937, Iowa City ranked 11th in building permit valuations, according to a report on 13 Iowa cities made by the Iowa Taxpayers' association yesterday.

For the same period last year, Iowa City issued 70 permits authorizing $41,727.50 worth of construction as compared to 98 permits valued at $139,932 for the half-year period this year.

G. DONHAM WINS IN SUIT OUSTING MR., MRS. RATH

George Donham won a civil suit ousting Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rath from his property when the case was tried before Justice of the Peace George W. Stewart of North Liberty Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Rath, tenants of Donham, a Lincoln township farmer, refused to move from the property when Rath was discharged.

Justice of the Peace J. M. Kadlec was to have heard the case, but Stewart substituted when Kadlec became ill.

The case was transferred from Justice of the Peace T. M. Fairchild's court on a change of venue.

Attorney Arthur O. Leff was Donham's lawyer, and Attorney William F. Murphy pleaded for Rath.

5 People Summoned To Court Yesterday; Two Get Sentences

Five persons were summoned to police court yesterday afternoon, and three were dismissed with warnings while the other two drew short sentences.

C. H. Redman, arrested for overtime parking on College street, said his car broke down and could not be moved. He was released.

Warnings were issued to Francis Dickey and the Downing garage for storing cars overnight in alleys.

Red Hoyt was sentenced to a day's work in City park for intoxication.

Gilbert Van Ess, also arrested for intoxication, will serve two days in the county jail.

Plan Social Events To Honor Methodist Student Counselors

A dinner in Iowa Union tonight given by the Wesley foundation and a reception tomorrow evening in the Methodist church parlors will honor the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Hoffman Hamill and Mr. and Mrs. Orlo L. Crissey, retiring Methodist student counselors. The Rev. Mr. Hamill is the new assistant pastor of the church.

An invitation to the reception is extended to all members of the congregation, Methodist students and other interested persons. The official board members will serve as hosts.

On the program will be a greeting to the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hamill by the Rev. Edwin E. Voigt, pastor of the church, and an address of farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Crissey presented by Prof. C. J. Lapp.

The Hamills will arrive late this afternoon from Freeport, Ill., where the Rev. Mr. Hamill has served as assistant Methodist pastor since his graduation from Yale divinity school. Both he and Mrs. Hamill are Northwestern university graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. Crissey and their daughters, Margaret and Ruth Ann, will go about the middle of August to Flint, Mich., where Mr. Crissey wil be director of the child guidance clinic. They will leave Iowa City Thursday for a vacation in the state of Washington before going to Flint. Mrs. Crissey's mother, Mrs. Ora C. Gayle of Batavia, Ill., who has been visiting them the last week, will accompany them on the trip.

CHILDREN FROLIC IN BIG DIPPER POOL

More than 115 children from the three recreational center playgrounds of the city gathered at City park Thursday for a swim in the Big Dipper pool. Madeliene King, director, center, supervised the play.

AROUND THE TOWN with MERLE MILLER

Off!

And tomorrow I'm off at the crack of dawn for a look-see at Iowa's lakes and resorts and for a week of rest . . . These remarks will continue to come from the point at which I happen to be . . .

Literary

Just about a year ago now Margaret Mitchell's little opus, "Gone With the Wind," was published . . . And the year before that it was "Anthony Adverse." . . . Both ran well over a thousand pages . . . But this year a group of us should go together and form a Be-Kind-to-Readers club—or else continue letting someone else tell us how wonderful Mr. Allen and Miss Mitchell are . . .

Office Survey

I never notice such things, but a scout reports a survey of the literature in one of the better-known doctor's offices . . . I pass it on to do with as you will . . . Only two of the mags—both of them Esquires—were of this year's vintage . . .

The newest was the May Esquire . . . Average age of the mags was around 12 months, with three April, 1936, numbers leading the race . . . Besides Esquire there was a Life, many National Geographics and several House Beautifuls . . . Hidden deep in the pile was a well-thumbed True Confessions . . .

But the prize for age went to a yellowed Satevepost . . . The date attached was Jan. 3, 1929 . . . When my scout spoke to the M.D. about the matter he shrugged the matter off ..... "I know," he replied. "I told my secretary to clean off that table only last year." . . .

Al La Hollywood

And I'm told a local matron—who's much in demand for amateur theatricals—is to be Hollywooding it in a month or less . . . It's an unfulfilled ambition, and her family is going with her . . .

There's a lot of talk in New York about the republicans backing LaGuardia for reelection as mayor, but he isn't saying anything . . . He's a good fellow, understand, but doesn't want to go into the race with too much of a handicap . . .

Wise Move

It may be a wise move to discard the Roosevelt court bill at that . . . If the wrangling keeps on, the judges will retire voluntarily . . . You can expect it at any time during the next 30 years . . .

There's something like poetic justice in Mae West's 26-year-old marriage . . . It sets some kind of a record, I believe, for Hollywood at any rate . . . And it may give a lot of actresses ideas—if you want a marriage to last don't use it . . . More of the cold storage idea . . .

I estimate at least a dozen down towners have told me about the Iowa City bachelor who wears a toupee . . . Not a soul suspected it until a recent night when his covering came unhitched as he removed his hat . . . The story is going the rounds just now . . .

Time was—and not far back—when long-haired intellectuals sat in dim-lighted parlors bewailing the lack of "art" for the masses . . . But no more . . . Free concerts, WPA theaters and no-admission art exhibits have made the aesthetic-lovers able to see the best at no cost . . .

Of course, there's probably no connection, but I see by a radio weekly that the Shakespeare broadcasts are considered floppos by the sponsors, and one classical music hour is leaving the air . . . But crooners continue to moan "Gone With the Wind" and "September in the Rain"—and get paid handsomely for it . . .

Alert

A few alert ones last night saw what some of us had never thought possible—Grant Wood clouds in the sky . . . About 5:45 those who cared to glance up viewed a host of those billowy, imperfect circles that we had believed only Mr. Wood had seen . . . It's the old question all over again—Does the artist copy nature or nature the artist?
