Stalin's Condition Grows Worse

U.S. Officials Eye Britain's Ill Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Richard A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, began exploratory talks Wednesday toward getting Eisenhower administration support for a long-range attack on Britain's economic problems.

After an initial one-hour session with American officials at the state department, the department issued a statement saying it was "understood that these discussions will not result in decisions nor commitments."

The statement said:

"The major purpose of the conversations is to enable the United Kingdom representatives to acquaint United States officials with the results of the recent financial and economic discussions among the governments making up the British Commonwealth."

The state department said the visitors will confer with President Eisenhower Friday.

The two emissaries of the Churchill government went into conference at the state department with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey shortly after arriving here by plane from New York.

Later, they called on President Eisenhower at the White House.

5 Booths Opened For Miss SUI Vote

The location of five election booths for the Miss SUI contest was announced by John R. Stewart, C3, Cedar Rapids, president of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, Wednesday.

Open to male students with identification cards, the booths will be placed as follows: Quadrangle, south lobby; first floor University hall, south end; ground floor Schaeffer hall; Iowa Memorial Union lounge and first floor of East hall, west end. These will be open Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Poll attendants can learn their stations and times from a chart posted on the first floor of Old Dental building, according to John Beekman, A4, LaCrosse, Wis., election committee chairman.

Alpha Phi Omega is in charge of the election.

$10,000 Fine Added To Provoo's Term

NEW YORK (AP)— A $10,000 fine was added Wednesday to the sentence of life imprisonment for John David Provoo, former army sergeant convicted of treason.

Provoo was found guilty on Feb. 17 of betraying fellow war prisoners to the Japanese.

Wednesday Judge Gregory F. Noonan revealed that he had inadvertently omitted the minimum $10,000 fine required by law in such a conviction, and recalled Provoo to court for re-sentencing.

A Condensation of Late Developments

SEOUL (AP) — Tough South Korean infantrymen—supported by Allied planes and artillery—regained a scarred height on the Korean central front Wednesday in a 23-hour battle that left almost half of the Chinese Communist attackers dead or wounded. The Republic of Korea soldiers gave up the hill position southeast of Kumsong in the early morning before the onslaught of 400 Reds. They stormed back in late afternoon after fighter-bombers and heavy artillery unleashed a day-long bombardment. While the fighting raged, Gen. Mark Clark, Allied Far East commander, arrived in Korea from his Tokyo headquarters for an inspection tour and high level conference.

LONDON (AP)—Lord Alexander, Britain's defense minister, told parliament Wednesday night the Communist North Koreans' supply rate is believed inadequate for a prolonged offensive against UN forces. He added that there is no sign that a major enemy offensive is pending and expressed confidence that UN forces could prevent a breakthrough if one did occur.

BONN, Germany (AP)—The vast Krupp industrial empire which armed Germany for three wars was broken up Wednesday. Alfried Krupp agreed to sell his family's coal, steel and iron holdings and never return to those industries. Krupp, who served 2½ years as a war criminal, will receive $47.6 million for the properties he sells. In return, the Allies will give him sole control of the rest of the family holdings, estimated to be worth $95 million.

LONDON (AP)—Ailing Queen Mary spent a comfortable day and her condition Wednesday night was reported slightly improved. The 85-year-old grandmother of Queen Elizabeth II is suffering from a recurrence of a gastric ailment and has been ill more than a week.

17 Schools to Send Students —

Conference to Discuss Vital World Problems

Seventeen schools will participate in an intercollegiate conference on world problems at SUI Friday and Saturday. Conference headquarters will be in Old Capitol.

The conference will open with a discussion of "How Can We Most Effectively Combat the Threat of Communism?" at 10:20 a.m. Friday. This will be discussed in group sessions at 11:20 a.m. and 2:10 p.m. Friday and 8:20 a.m. Saturday.

Two all-conference parliamentary sessions will be Saturday at 11 a.m. and 1:45 p.m. George McBurney, L4, Council Bluffs, will be chairman of these sessions.

4-Round Debate

"Resolved that the Congress of the United States Should Enact a Compulsory Fair - Employment Practices Law" will be debated in four rounds at 4:20, 7 and 8 p.m. Friday, and 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

An extemporaneous speaking contest will be Friday at 1:30 p.m.

The contestants will draw topics on current events. This will be followed by a public speaking contest of prepared seven minute speeches at 3:30.

A conference luncheon will be Saturday noon in the Union. Prof. Walter Daykin, labor and industrial management, will speak. Thomas Brown, A4, Iowa City, who is president of the forensics association, will be chairman.

Participating Schools

Participating schools are. Knox college, Galesburg, Ill.; William Jewell college, Liberty, Mo.; Cornel college, Mt. Vernon; Wheaton college, Wheaton, Ill.; North East Missouri Teachers college, Kocksville, Mo.; Illinois State Normal university, Normal, Ill.; Drake university, Des Moines; University of Omaha, Omaha, Neb.; Simpson college, Indianola; Grinnell college, Grinnell; St. Ambrose college, Davenport; Coe college, Cedar Rapids; De Pauw university, Greencastle, Ind.; Loras college, Dubuque; Iowa State college, Ames; Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, and SUI.

Walton Appointed Campus Chairman For Cancer Drive

Clyde C. Walton, university archivist and library instructor, has been appointed campus chairman for the 1953 cancer drive, Robert N. Alderman, promotion director of the Johnson county Cancer society, announced Wednesday.

Soliciting will be channeled through administrative departments, college student housing units and campus organizations, Walton said.

SUI receives part of the funds obtained in the drive for cancer research. Grants-in-aid for further research, especially in the field of radiology, will also be given for SUI.

The cancer drive has three purposes: service, education and research.

The 1953 cancer drive is scheduled for the week of April 6 to 13.

250 Iowa Musicians Expected to Attend SUI Vocal Workshop

More than 250 Iowa music teachers and high school students are expected to attend the workshop for vocal ensembles at SUI Saturday, according to Prof. Himie Voxman, director of the workshop series.

Representing 18 Iowa towns, the 42 student ensembles will be auditioned both in the morning and in the afternoon. Auditions will be conducted by Paul Young, director of choral activities at the University of Illinois school of music, and by members of the Iowa music staff. Young will lead the group in discussion during the auditions and will conduct a demonstration during the afternoon program entitled "Learning a New Song."

University music students will present a vocal concert at 1:30 p.m. which will include several solos and ensembles. A one-act opera entitled "If Men Played Cards as Women Do," a musical version of George S. Kaufman's play, will also be presented. Music for the opera was composed by Charles Garland, who earned his doctorate at SUI in 1945 and is now a professor of music theory at the University of Missouri.

Voxman states that the public is invited to attend both the auditions and the concert, which will be held in north music hall.

Music students and teachers from the following towns are expected to attend the workshop: Alburnett, Burlington, Bussey, Centerville, Coggon, Davenport, DeWitt, Fairfield, Ft. Madison, Iowa City, Kalona, Kinross, Muscatine, Newhall, Olin, Ottumwa, Wapello and West Liberty.

A workshop for brass and woodwind ensembles will be held Saturday, Mar. 14, followed by a solo workshop, Saturday, Mar. 21.

Revolution If Stalin Dies, Admiral Says

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Adm. William H. Standley, USN ret., American ambassador to Moscow during World War II, Wednesday predicted revolution in the Soviet Union when Premier Joseph Stalin dies.

Forecasting a "mad scramble for power" in the USSR after Stalin's death, the retired admiral told an interviewer:

"Once there is a break the people of Russia will fall away from communism and revolt."

Standley said he expects the contending parties for power in the USSR will be V. M. Molotov, whom he described as the political heir-apparent to Stalin, and Georgi M. Malenkov, characterized by the admiral as "a cold-blooded rising star" and "fair-haired boy" in Soviet inner circles.

Taft Requests 'Cooling Off' On Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leader Robert A. Taft of Ohio Wednesday called for a "cooling-off" period in the bitter rift over the wording of a resolution denouncing Soviet Russia's violation of World War II agreements.

Democrats angrily blasted the GOP-revised version of the resolution, originally submitted by President Eisenhower, as challenging the validity of pacts negotiated by the Roosevelt-Truman administration. As the White House proposed the wording it would only denounce Soviet perversion of the agreements to enslave free peoples.

Break Inevitable

With a wide-open break appearing almost inevitable Taft told newsmen there will be no attempt to get senate action on the controversial action this week.

"We'll try to let everybody cool down," the Ohio senator said.

Then, in a seeming hint that a compromise might yet be reached, Taft added:

"We'll see if anyone has any suggestions."

White House Silent

At the White House, press secretary James C. Hagerty replied "no comment" when asked if Eisenhower approves the new GOP-sponsored version.

The state department reflected a similar hands-off attitude toward the controversy. Assistant Secretary of State Carl McCardle, questioned by newsmen, said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has neither agreed nor disagreed with changes.

On Capitol Hill, Taft brushed aside published reports that his support of the GOP-amended resolution meant a "break" with Eisenhower on foreign policy.

Argues With President

He said "there is no difference I know of" between himself and the administration on the wording of the resolution.

Taft spoke out after the senate Democratic policy committee virtually slammed the door on the new Republican wording in the resolution.

The Democratic group's action, further widening the breach, came less than 24 hours after the GOP policy committee unanimously endorsed the revised version.

The chief point at issue is an amendment by Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) declaring that adoption of the resolution would "not constitute any determination by the congress as to the validity or invalidity" of the Yalta, Tehran and Potsdam agreements undertaken by former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

Union Board Candidates Must Apply By Monday

Candidates for the Union Board who will be named in the all-campus elections March 25, are now being selected. All former sub-committee members who have the proper number of work hours may apply by leaving their names at the Union desk by Monday.

Hancher Gets 1st Panacea Ticket

THE FIRST TICKET OF THE ALL-UNIVERSITY Panacea production, "Ujiji" is presented to SUI President Virgil M. Hancher by co-author of the musical comedy, Richard Cervene, G, Ft. Dodge. Cervene collaborated with Robert Randolph, G, Iowa City, in writing the Panacea script. Randolph is also directing the show. Tickets are on sale at Whetstones Drug store or at the Panacea booth in the lobby of the Memorial Union. The show will be presented March 25 through 28.

Tickets for 'Ujiji,' Panacea Production, Now Available

Tickets for "Ujiji," the 1953 all-university Panacea production, are now on sale.

Panacea business manager Neale Kelley, C4, Burlington, said Wednesday, tickets for all four nights of the African-flavored stage show are available at Whetstone's drug store, and in afternoons at the Panacea booth in the lobby of the Iowa Memorial Union.

"Ujiji," (pronounced U-Gee-Gee), opens Wednesday, March 25 and will run through Saturday the 28th. Different colored tickets will be used for each night's performances and will sell for 75 cents, tax included.

Randolph, Cervene Write Show

The book and lyrics for the song and dance review were written by Robert Randolph, G, Iowa City, and Richard Cervene, G, Ft. Dodge. Randolph is also director of the show and designed the sets. Music for the dances and songs was penned by Dick Caplan, M2, Iowa City, and choreography is in charge of Carole Vogel, A2, Des Moines. Technical consultant is Malcolm Maycole, G, Monrovia, Liberia.

The name "Ujiji" is not a fictious title. It is the actual name of a small settlement on the shore of Lake Tanganyika in British East Africa. The spot has a certain historical significance which is familiar to everyone. This historical fact is brought out in the Panacea script.

Writers Studied Africa

Randolph and Cervene have done considerable research on this area of Africa to insure correctness in setting, costumes and dialogue. Many of the lines in "Ujiji" are spoken in native tongue to further the tone and theme of the production. Maycole has worked closely with the writers in preparing the script.

The show has been in rehearsal for the past month in Macbride auditorium and the Old Armory. The 16 SUI students in the cast, whose interests range from accounting to zoology, are currently working on the final scenes of the second act. "Ujiji" has two acts and 10 scenes which feature authentic African singing and dancing designed to provide something just a little different in the way of Panacea entertainment.

3 Dental Faculty Men Will Attend Eastern Meeting

The SUI school of dentistry will be represented by three faculty members at the 30th annual American Association of Dental Schools convention in Philadelphia, March 23 through 25.

Prof. Ray Smith, administrative head, pro tempore, of the SUI crown, bridge, and prosthesis department of the dental school, will read a paper entitled "Aptitude Testing for Incoming Dental Students."

A paper, "The Place of Systemic Studies in Oral Diagnosis," will be read by Prof. George Easton. Easton is director of the infirmary and head of the SUI department of oral diagnosis and radiology.

Dean W. J. Simon, of the dental school, will also attend the convention. Forty-one schools will be represented.

Red Delegates Rip U. S., UN Despite Worry

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Iron Curtain delegates carried on business as usual in the UN Wednesday, despite their obvious worry and concern over the grave illness of their leader, Premier Stalin.

They slashed at the U.S. and the UN on all the old counts and topped it off with a bitter blast at U.S. chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. over alleged germ warfare.

But the star of the group, Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, was absent. Rumors flew that he was preparing to hurry back home, but other Russians wouldn't talk and there was no confirmation.

A mass of reporters and picture people met Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin as he strode into the UN assembly building this morning. They were waiting for Vishinsky but Zorin, who helped take over Czechoslovakia for Stalin in 1948, was his stand-in. Zorin had no comment.

In the political committee, Stanislaw Skrzesezewski, Polish foreign minister, repeated Vishinsky's tirades against the U.S. and the UN.

Skrzesezewski said the Indian resolution for settling the Korean prisoner of war issue, approved by the assembly last Dec. 3, was only a convenient mask behind which the U.S. could continue the war.

Professors to Talk On Career Program At Iowa City High

SUI faculty members will speak to Iowa City high school students at a "Career Day" program Wednesday, in the high school auditorium.

The following professors will appear at that time: Prof. Raoul Delmare, art; Prof. Ralph Shriner, chemistry; Prof. John Gerber, English; Prof. Gerald Else, classics, Prof. Sybil Woodruff, home economics.

Also Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, journalism; Prof. H. C. Harshbarger, speech; Prof. Lloyd Knowler, mathematics; Prof. Himie Voxman, music; Prof. Clayton d'A. Gerken, psychology; Prof. Harold Crain, speech and dramatic arts; Prof. James Van Allen, physics, botany, zoology, nuclear physics, Prof. Sidney Winter, commerce.

Also Prof. L. A. Van Dyke, education; Prof. J. W. Howe, engineering; Prof. Jean Baer, nursing, and Dr. W. W. Morris, X-Ray technique, medicine and basic medical sciences.

High school students not interested in attending college will hear Prof. Clayton d'A. Gerken.

A similar conference was held in 1952. Eighty-eight of the students who participated enrolled at SUI last fall.

Red Bulletin Says Premier Sinking Slowly

LONDON (Thursday) (AP) — Moscow radio announced early today Joseph Stalin's grave condition is steadily growing worse.

A new medical bulletin, the second, said the Soviet leader was unconscious.

The first fresh word on the Soviet Prime Minister's condition came after the outside world had speculated he already was, or might be, dead.

The 73-year-old chief of world communism suffered a brain hemorrhage Sunday.

The new bulletin said the Soviet leader has arteriosclerosis in addition to the brain hemorrhage. This is an abnormal hardening of the arteries.

Circulation Is Worse

It also said Stalin's blood circulation trouble has worsened and that his breathing also became more labored at times.

It said instances of "Cheyne-Stokes" breathing became more frequent. This is a snore-like breathing, broken by intervals of no breathing at all.

The new bulletin said Stalin's pulse now was an irregular 108 to 116. It was reported to have reached 120 soon after his seizure.

It said his body temperature was 38.6 centigrade—101.48 Fahrenheit—and up slightly from the originally reported 38.2 centigrade —100.76 Fahrenheit.

Still Unconscious

The medical bulletin said Stalin continued unconscious during the night. He lapsed into a coma not long after he was stricken.

He is lying partly paralyzed and speechless.

Some Western medical men, after studying the Soviet medical bulletin on Stalin, have wondered whether the aging and ruthless Communist leader could have survived this long after his brain homorrhage Sunday night.

There was a two-day lag in Moscow's first announcement that Stalin was gravely ill.

The outside world — and the Russian people— didn't know for 48 hours that Stalin was lying unconscious from his stroke. Many Westerners believed there would be a similar time-lag between Stalin's death and its announcement.

Leadership Struggle Results in Compromise

MOSCOW (AP) — Latest reports from this Russian capital have indicated that the struggle for leadership, vacated by the sudden illness of Premier Joseph Stalin, has resulted in compromise among government officials.

Georgi M. Malenkov, regarded by most Westerners as the leading candidate to succeed Stalin, has assumed the duties as head of the powerful Communist party. Malenkov is presently a deputy prime minister along with V.M. Molotov.

Molotov, on the other hand, has taken Stalin's place as head of the government.

No present change in Soviet policies is expected even though Molotov is often regarded as more anti-Western than Stalin or Malenkov.

Football Receipts Decreased —

SUI Athletics Net $124,437

SUI's athletic department netted a profit of $124,437 during the 1951-52 fiscal year, according to an Associated Press release Wednesday.

The SUI athletic department had receipts totaling $800,771 and expenses amounting to $676,335. The report did not include the 1952 football season.

The audit showed income from football amounted to $347,376. This was a decrease of $27,571 from the football income during the 1950-51 fiscal year.

A breakdown of sports income, as listed in the audit, included: home football games in the 1951 season $150,071, a decrease of $46,348 from the 1950 season; away-from-home football games in 1951, $221,287, an increase of $19,183.

The total income from all sports in the fiscal year 1951-52 was $452,095, a decrease of $26,533. The income was higher during the year for basketball, baseball, cross country and track, swimming and gymnastics.

Basketball income during the period was $57,638 and expenditures were $37,163 for a profit of $20,475. The cage income was up $1,407 and the outgo was up $6,106.

Receipts from minor sports included: baseball $920, track $242, swimming $309, wrestling $70, gymnastics $127, golf $18,411.

Minor sports expenditures included: baseball $10,318, track $12,343, swimming $5,701, wrestling $3,611, tennis and gymnastics $7,508, golf $20,661, fencing $2,201.

Listed as other income for the department were the following receipts: yearbook sales $20,839, activity fees $55,724, Rose Bowl share $20,857, concessionaires $9,202, programs $1,333, radio broadcast rights $11,002, farm income $1,529.

Some Unemployment Claims Rob Employers of Tax Savings

Employers may be highly rewarded with tax savings by carefully watching every unemployment compensation claim, Commerce Clearing House reports.

This federal law and tax reporting organization, in a review of unemployment compensation laws, adds that it is the employer's duty to plan a company campaign to keep such taxes at a minimum. These taxes are paid on an "experience rating" scale, and a company may find that a single benefit payment to an ineligible claimant can cost hundreds of dollars in taxes for several years.

Rating Rewards Employer

Experience rating rewards the employer who enjoys a steady employment record — keeps layoffs down, spreads work levels out the peaks and valleys. This reward is a reduction in taxes for the employer who qualifies.

An illustration reported by CCH is that a mere 0.2 per cent increase in the tax rate, which can occur in many states as a result of a single benefit payment to one ex-employe, would cost the employer with a $300,000 annual payroll $600 in one year.

A national organization which has established a department to watch such claims estimates that it has saved more than $500,000 in taxes by its close investigation of all claims for compensation by its ex-employes.

Many Legitimate Claims

CCH notes that an employer will not attempt to reduce his unemployment tax by harassing legitimate benefit claimants. Most workers when laid off will not misrepresent the facts. But, it says, there is a natural tendency for a claimant to weigh the facts in his or her favor. A stenographer, for instance, fired because of poor spelling, would find it difficult to give the true reason for discharge when registering for other employment. Ignorance of the law and not fraudulent intent may also result in claims that do not comply with the letter and spirit of the law.

This is especially true for organizations operating in several states, for unemployment compensation is controlled by laws of 51 jurisdictions, many of them widely different.

In its review, CCH cites variations on rulings in the states, as follows:

Two women quit to be married and claimed compensation. Pennsylvania ruled there was no legal obligation to be married, and benefits were denied. Kansas held marriage was good cause for leaving the job, and awarded benefits.

New York Rulings

New York rulings drew a line between hours of travel time to new jobs offered discharged persons. It held that two hours each way was a good cause for a man's refusal to take offered work, and gave him benefits. In another case, the ruling was that an hour and a half trip to a job was not unreasonable, and denied benefits. California granted benefits to a worker refusing a three-hour travel time job, but Florida denied them in similar circumstances for only two hours of travel time.

Missouri made a fine distinction between ice and flood which kept employes from work. One, unable to get to his job because of a winter storm, was awarded benefits on a ruling that his absence was not misconduct. Another, marooned by a flood, was denied benefits because he was not available for work during those days.

Beer Ruling

Connecticut distinguished between two men who had a beer each. A truck driver, dismissed because of a tavern visit, won benefits on a ruling that the company had tolerated drinking previously. A bus driver who had a beer at the end of the line, however, was denied benefits because he violated a company rule.

How a favorable experience rating can effect savings is explained in the CCH report: The federal tax rate is 3 per cent on payrolls. Taxes paid to the states up to 90 per cent of the federal tax can be credited against it. The standard state rate is 90 per cent of the federal rate, or 2.7 per cent, so that the entire amount paid to a state may be credited against the federal tax.

Additional Credit

The federal government allows an additional credit for the amount of the reduction in the state tax. Therefore, a firm with a favorable experience rating pays the state its reduced tax, takes full credit of 90 per cent of the federal tax and pays the federal government only at 10 per cent.

Possibility for savings by firms liable for the federal cut but with employes scattered in several states is pointed out by Commerce Clearing House. If the number of employes in any of these states is not sufficient to require the firm to report under the state tax system, the firm may voluntarily ask for coverage. In this way, they will become eligible for the additional credit on the federal tax, and if they have a favorable experience rating, may make an important saving.

IOWAN CHOSEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Henderson Douglas, a Chicago lawyer, took office Tuesday as undersecretary of the air force. The swearing-in ceremony was held in the presence of high Pentagon officials, including Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson. Douglas, a native of Cedar Rapids, Ia., was a member of a Chicago law firm until he was chosen for the post.

Verbal Brawl Stepped Up in Berlin

BONN (AP) — "That's a cheap insult and we cannot accept it!"

"A hostile and unfriendly action . . .Unwarranted and uncivilized behavior . . . A futile and childish game . . . Travesty of the facts . . . Provocative and belligerent . . . Provocative and ridiculous."

Excerpts from a heated verbal brawl between antagonists about to come to blows?

No. These are excerpts from studied and formal notes sent to the Russians by the Western Allies in divided Berlin.

'Paper War' Stepped Up

They are shots fired in a "paper war" that has been stepped up in Berlin. Protests have been shot off when the Russians fired on Allied planes in the Berlin air corridors, when they arrested Allied soldiers who overstepped the East-West boundary, when the German police of Allied West and Soviet East Berlin came into conflict.

And the Russians have also used some pretty rough language. They recently alleged that the Western powers were supporting groups who committed "kidnappings and murders" and instigated "terror and sabotage" in the Russian occupation zone.

Notes Carefully Written

These exchanges are not hurled on the spur of the moment. Most of the notes are composed after days, often weeks, of consideration in Berlin or in the Allied high commission here. They are worked over by the top army commanders in Berlin or by the Allied high commissioners and their political advisers here.

But the language keeps getting rougher all the time.

Some samples:

Russian jet fighters fired bursts at an unarmed U. S. air force hospital plane flying to Berlin. The Russians claimed the American plane had left the prescribed corridor and demanded "severe punishment" of the U. S. crew.

Jets' Action 'Hostile'

The American commandant in Berlin protested to the Russians that the jets' action was "hostile, unfriendly, unwarranted and uncivilized."

The Russians sent a complaint to the French charging that West Berlin police had made a "provocative attack" on railway employes at a Soviet-controlled station in the French sector of the city. The French commandant, refused to accept the protest, branding it a "cheap insult."

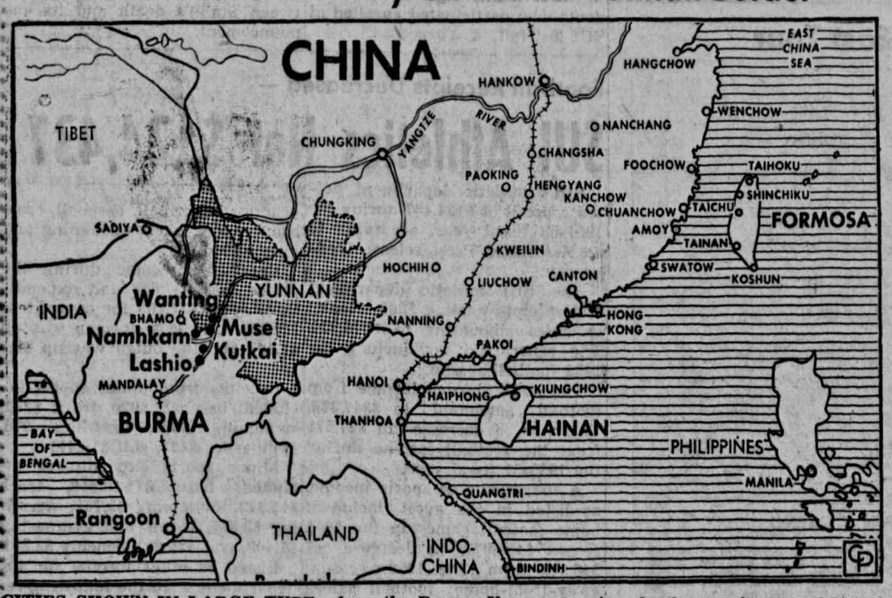
Russian charges that American authorities had permitted "insulting acts" against a Soviet tank monument in the U. S. sector of Berlin were rejected by the American commandant as "provocative and ridiculous."

Russians Launch Attack

Recently the Russians launched a new attack on German anti-Communist groups in West Berlin, declaring in an official protest that Western money was financing "terror and sabotage" and "kidnapping and murder" against the Soviet zone.

The formal answer of the three Western high commissioners was that the Russian charges were "baseless and a travesty of the facts." The high commissioners went on to attack the Russian zone as a police state which "supports a perverted justice which would be laughable were its consequences not so serious."

Nationalist Activity on Burma-Yunnan Border



CITIES SHOWN IN LARGE TYPE, along the Burma-Yunnan province border, are in area of Chinese Nationalist guerrilla activity. Chinese Communists reportedly fired on Nationalists at Wanting. Nationalist pressure is reported directed at Muse, Kutkai and Namhkam. The Burmese commander in Lashio reportedly turned down an offer from the Communist garrison in Yunnan to help fight the Nationalists' guerrillas in Burma.

Hawaii Bill Wins, Alaska Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Hawaii statehood bill won approval from the house interior and insular affairs committee Tuesday but the group turned down by a 14-13 vote a move to add Alaska.

Passage of the measure by both branches of congress was predicted on all sides, but more political pulling and hauling over Alaska undoubtedly will come first. The administration schedule would put the Hawaii bill on President Eisenhower's desk in about three weeks.

Traditionally Hawaii tends toward the Republicans who now control congress and Alaska toward the Democrats — factors which figured in both the debate and the final committee action Tuesday.

Vote for Hawaii 21-5

On final approval of the measure for Hawaii alone the vote was 21-5. Four Democrats and one Republican voted against the bill.

The bill as worked out in committee takes care of all the legislative details, leaving nothing more for congress to do after passage.

It provides for certification by President Eisenhower, at any time prior to July 4, 1954, that the Hawaii state constitution conforms to the bill and to the U. S. Constitution.

President Must OK

Assuming the President finds that the basic state law meets those requirements, his certification would be forwarded to the territorial governor. That official, prior to August 3, would proclaim an election to pick senators, representatives, a governor and other state officials.

Primaries would be held before October 2 and the general election would be on November 4 along with those of the present states.

After the election results were certified to him, the President would proclaim Hawaii's admission to the union, completing the procedure.

Air Raid Alert Set For Northern Part Of State Saturday

DES MOINES (AP)— Another in a lengthening series of air raid alerts over Iowa will be conducted north of U. S. highway 30 Saturday, March 14. A similar practice has been scheduled for the area in Iowa south of highway 30 on Saturday, March 21.

Aircraft which will participate in the four-hour afternoon alerts will include B-29s from the Sioux City airbase, B-25s from the Enid, Okla., and Lubbock, Tex., air bases, and all planes of the Iowa wing of the Civil Air patrol.

All local ground observer posts will make the usual calls to the Des Moines Filter center, reporting the sighting of aircraft. The center traces and identifies the planes. In addition to the ground observer posts, 230 railroad employe observer posts also will participate in the exercises.

Fairfield Radio Station Authorized by FCC

General Says Army In Europe 'Ready'

WASHINGTON (AP)— Lt. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, retiring U. S. army commander in Europe, said Tuesday that 85 per cent of his troops are ready for action night or day in the event of trouble.

The army in Europe is in "good shape," Eddy added.

Asked whether the positions held by American units in Europe were precarious, Eddy replied: "Not in the least."

Eddy said that only 15 per cent of the seventh army personnel are permitted leave passes at the same time.

Eddy arrived in Washington Monday for the required medical checkup before he retires at the end of this month.

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

The first of what is expected to be a long line of foreign diplomats arrive in the United States Wednesday to confer on the economic problems which form the background of the free world alliance.

Britain, which threw a scare into European economic ministries when she began her search for a trade and currency convertibility formula, is now taking pains to make it clear that she expects no bilateral action from the United States. Europe had feared that London was seeking special benefits which would throw continental programs out of kilter.

British Benefits Not Sought

British officials in the U.S. have been told flatly in connection with the visit of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler that this is not the case.

To emphasize it, Eden, chairman of the Ministerial Council of the Organization for European Economic Co-operation, has called a meeting of that organization to follow his Washington talks. At that time, Europe will be brought into the discussions begun at the Commonwealth meeing in London several months ago.

After that general commitments will be sought, perhaps at a free world economic conference.

Real Value for Pound

The British are emphasizing that, in particular, they have no intention of putting convertibility of the pound ahead of trade and industrial programs which will give their money a real instead of a pegged valued as against the dollar.

One of their chief objectives in this respect is to get the U. S. to lower or remove tariff and customs restrictions, permitting British goods to enter the American market and earn dollars under a program of "Trade, not aid." She wants an end to "Buy American" and "Ship in American bottoms" orders from congress.

A very great deal will depend on how well Eden and Butler back up the British professions of broadmindedness toward world problems in relation to their own special interests.

DISCUSS FLOOD CONTROL

WASHINGTON (AP)— A group from Muscatine, Ia., Wednesday discussed Mississippi river flood control proposals with members of congress and army engineers.

Easter Island Nationalization To Follow Release from British

By CENTRAL PRESS

SANTIAGO, Chile—Chile plans to take over Easter Island at the end of 1953. All rights to the dot in the Pacific have been held for 20 years by a British concern, the Sociedad Explotadora de Islade Pascua. This firm has raised sheep, but Chilean officials say it has neglected other resources. The company has been told to wind up its affairs by 1954. The result will be virtual nationalization of the island.

Cause Erosion

Col. Abdon Parra, minister of defense, says the sheep have caused erosion problems. Trees have not been planted. Lepers are isolated on Easter and a new hospital has not been built as provided in the agreement.

He also says that bananas grow wild on the island and that pineapples, sugar cane, tea and coffee might be cultivated.

The island, about 250 miles from the Chilean mainland and attached to the northern province of Asacama, is the source of a good part of the really indigenous primitive Chilean art. Visitors to the island carry away with them a vivid impression of enormous statues carved in volcanic rock or the wood of the "tolomiro," a fine-grained tree.

Rows of 'Pakeopas'

Rows of "pakeopas," statues erected for funeral structures and religious rites of the natives, stand with their backs to the Pacific ocean, on flat bases. They are sometimes 16 feet high, and stand on stone platforms.

On the slopes near the Rano-Raraku volcano, some four or five hundred statues turn their backs to the volcano itself. They are more carefully carved than the "pakeopas" and some of them stand 65 feet high. Their supercilious expressions are set in faces with features of a race different from that which is found amongst the natives of the island.

Purchased by Tourists

The wooden statuettes are brought in quantities to Santiago shops, and bought eagerly by tourists. Experts say that the isolation in which the inhabitants of the island lived is reflected by the originality of their artistic production.

These wooden figures combine a strong realism with an almost mystical expression. In figures of men, for instance, the inner structure of the skeleton is shown, in an uncanny type of X-ray. Ribs and vertebrae are to be seen plainly, and two rows of teeth show despite the closed lips.

St. Ambrose Ousts Davenport; Hawklets Tip Muscatine, 58-56

By JACK BENDER
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Two under-sized guards stole the show as city rival St. Ambrose took an early lead and clung to it tenaciously to oust King Davenport from state high school basketball title contention, 57-46, Wednesday night.

An estimated crowd of 8,000 watched the district tournament game at the field house.

St. Ambrose now joins City of Iowa City, 58-56 winner over Muscatine earlier in the evening, in the sub-state tourney next week.

Dribble In and Out

Kevin Fennelly and Gene Duffy of St. Ambrose dribbled in and out and around in the backcourt to kill time and draw fouls during most of the second half. Fennelly got 27 points, 17 on free throws, while Duffy got 15 points.

It was the first defeat for the Blue Devils in a tournament game since a state quarter-final loss to Ottumwa in 1949. The defeat insures a new state champion after three years of Davenport dominance and marks the first time since 1946 that Coach Paul Moon won't have a contender in the finals.

The loss was the third in a row and the fourth this season in 22 starts for the champions, who have won the state title the past three years, starting in 1950.

Lost Earlier, 67-51

For the Knights the victory was only their second in 32 games with the Blue Devils. In a previous meeting this season they lost by 16 points, 67-51.

St. Ambrose got the lead with 2:20 left in the first quarter, built it to 25-10 in the second quarter and to 34-18 in the third period. Davenport got within seven points several times late in the game, but never could quite catch up.

Frank Sebolt, whose two bad passes at the start of the fourth quarter stifled a Blue Devil rally, got 13 points for the losers.

Imps Trail by 7

By the end of the third quarter Davenport was only seven points back but with Duffy and Fennelly putting on the dribbling show, St. Ambrose pulled away with 13 free throws.

The Imps' Gerald Wagner tried to hold a one-man rally in the final period with eight points.

St. Ambrose surged to a 30-18 lead at halftime although it held a bigger, 25-10, lead midway in the second quarter. It hit an even .400 fieldgoal per cent.

Davenport Leads Early

Davenport held a 5-1 lead on three free tosses and a fieldgoal with 3:27 gone in the first quarter but Ambrose scored 10 points to the Imps' one the remainder of the period.

Fennelly's set shot broke the fieldgoal ice for St. Ambrose with 3:35 left in the quarter. Bill Savale and Tom Otting added free tosses to tie it up at 2:51 and Otting's follow in gave Ambrose a lead that lasted.

City High Wins, Moves to Sub-State

By AL EASTON

Iowa City high school fought its way to a berth in the sub-state tournament Wednesday night by defeating powerful Muscatine 58-56. The victory should be rated as a mild up-set as the Muskies are one of just two Iowa teams that beat Davenport before the tourney.

The first two periods saw evenly matched teams fighting for a point advantage. The Hawklets led the Muscatine five at the end of both quarters but had only a two point advantage at the half. During the third stanza, the Iowa City five poured on the coal and pulled away to a 44-40 lead at the buzzer.

The last period was a battle of fast breaks with both teams scoring equally. The Muskies managed to catch up with the hard fighting Iowa City club and tied the game at 54-54 with only 1:30 left. The Little Hawks were not to be denied their win and again took control, racking up two field goals in a row. The Muskies returned the drive in an effort to even the score in the few remaining seconds but Iowa City surged ahead, 58-56, at the buzzer.

Jeff Langston was the big gun in the Little Hawk lineup accounting for 21 tallies. The aggressive little forward also turned in some fine floor play and proficient ball handling. Guard Don Hoff was high point man for the losers with 15 chalk marks after his name.

James J. Jeffries, Last of Oldtime Heavy Champs, Dies

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—The last of the line of the oldtime heavyweight boxing kings, James J. Jeffries, is gone.

Big Jim, whose iron fists and magnificent stature ruled the realm of prizefighting from 1899 until 1905, died peacefully at the sprawling family home here Tuesday night.

Jeffries, called by many the greatest of 'em all in an era that began with John L. Sullivan, ranged through Bob Fitzsimmons and James J. Corbett and ended with himself, was 77.

Victim of Stroke

Apparently the victim of a final stroke, Jeffries had been in poor health since he was first hit by partial paralysis in February, 1946.

He lived with a niece, Mrs. Lillian Bull, in the home he built in Burbank nearly 50 years ago.

His friends say he never lost but two bouts. One was his knockout by Jack Johnson at Reno, Nev., when Jeffries tried a comeback after a five-year retirement.

Lost as Wife Died

The other came when Jim's wife, Freda, was killed Feb. 4, 1941, by an automobile as she crossed a street near here.

Jeffries was born in a log cabin at Carroll, O., April 15, 1875, son of a Methodist minister. Jim was the sixth of a family of eight children. They moved to California when he was a small lad.

His rise to the top of the ladder seemed meteoric. He captured the world championship at Coney Island, N. Y., June 9, 1899, when he knocked out Fitzsimmons in the 11th round.

It was Jeffries' 11th professional bout.

Jeffries' triumphs included epic victories over Corbett, a second triumph over Fitzsimmons, and two tremendous, and even in those days, brutal victories over his close friend of later years, Sailor Tom Sharkey.

MATCHES POSTPONED

The wrestling matches that were supposed to have been held Tuesday night at the Rollercade have been postponed until March 23 because the wrestlers couldn't get to the arena because of the weather.

Big Ten Swim Meet Starts Here Today

Dick Pennington
Iowa's Top Hope

The Big Ten swimming meet, one of the top championship meets in the nation, starts today in the Iowa field house pool and continues through Saturday.

There will be seven sessions in the three days with the 1500-meter freestyle tonight at 7:30 as the first scoring event. Six place winners will be decided on a time basis.

Six final events are set for Friday at 8:30 p.m., preceded by preliminaries in those events at 2:30 p.m. A session Friday morning has low board diving preliminaries and the 50-yard freestyle time trials.

It is in the 50 that Iowa has one of its stop chances to score points in the meet. Dick Pennington has a :22.9 time as his best. The Big Ten record of :22.7 is held by Dick Cleveland of Ohio State who may be slowed by a recent attack of mumps.

On the Saturday program are preliminaries in seven events starting at 8:30 a.m. with finals beginning at 3 p.m.

Admissions rates are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students. These will be charged at the Friday afternoon and evening sessions and the Saturday morning and afternoon affairs.

Besides Pennington, other top Hawk contenders for honors are diver Bunny Broeder, backstroker Willis Weber, distance swimmers Keo Mana and Buddy Lucas and the 400-yard freestyle relay team of Mana, Pennington, Ron Johnson and Ed Mullahey.

Gymnastics Team Leaves Today For Big Ten Championship Meet

Nine SUI gymnasts will attempt to boost the team into a high spot in the Big Ten conference championships at East Lansing, Mich. Friday and Saturday.

The Hawkeyes will leave early this morning for the meet, which has scheduled preliminary elimination events for Friday and final competition for Saturday afternoon and evening.

Points will be awarded for the first eight places in each of eight events. Iowa does not plan to enter the all-around or the free exercise events.

Illini Favored

Illinois, who lost by a one point margin to Minnesota last week, is presently favored to take first honors with ease. The real battle will be for second place between Iowa and Minnesota, with Michigan State and Indiana fighting it out for fourth.

Hawkeye Coach Dick Holzaepfel summed up the situation as follows, "We hope to take second. I think Minnesota should be rated as a heavy favorite and we have a chance to beat Illinois for second. Then again, if the men don't perform their routines in top shape, we could finish a third or fourth."

In dual meet competition, Iowa has a season record of 10 wins against a lone loss to Minnesota. In Big Ten competition Iowa has beaten Ohio State, Michigan State, Wisconsin, and Northwestern.

Top Hawks Listed

Outstanding men for the Hawkeyes include Bill Sorenson, Bob Hazlett and Jim Norman in the trampoline event; Dean Willwerth and Don Miles, side horse; Al Fienup and Tom Witte, horizontal bar; Bernie Westfall and Norman on the Flying Rings; Fienup and Willwerth, parallel bars, and Bob Span, Sorenson and Hazlett in the tumbling event.

Iowa's strength is expected to be in the trampoline, tumbling and flying rings events. However, Al Fienup, who operates on the horizontal bar and parallel bars, is the leading scorer with 93 points in dual meets, followed by Hazlett with 91.

In last week's Northwest Gymnastics Society meet, Westfall tied the national flying rings champion and Hazlett tied the national tumbling champion for second with Sorensen taking third. Sullivan of Illinois is the present champion in these events, holding AAU, NCAA, and Big Ten conference honors.

Schlundt's Marks to Stay If 18-Game Card Dropped

CHICAGO (AP) — If the Big Ten drops its 18-game basketball schedule, as expected after a one-year trial, champion Indiana and the Hoosiers' great center, Don Schlundt, will leave some conference records that may never be broken.

The round-robin schedule which permitted only four non-loop warmup games has found little favor among the coaches, who are expected to restore the 14-game league slate of last year.

A return to a shorter conference season would permanently close the gates behind the scoring marks Schlundt and the rampaging Hoosiers will have compiled when the current campaign ends next Monday night.

Schlundt, with a 26.5 per game average on 424 points scored in 16 games, is a cinch to win the conference scoring titles in average points and total scoring. He already has broken the free throw record with 164 throws with only 36 misses for a superb .820 percentage, according to official league statistics released Wednesday.

The Hoosiers currently lead in scoring with 1,321 points, an average of 82.5, for 16 games. Runner-up Illinois, also with two games to play, has 1,263.

Michigan State, with an average yield of only 61.7 points in 16 games, is the league's defensive leader.

2 SUI Alumni Get Barnard Promotion

Two SUI alumni are included among the faculty members of Barnard college to receive faculty promotions effective July 1. They are Prof Edward J. King, chemistry, and Wendell E. Jeffrey, psychology.

King received his B.A. from SUI in '37, and Ph.D. from Yale. King will be promoted from assistant professor to associate professor.

Jeffrey received his B.A. from SUI in '48, M.A. in '50, and Ph.D. in '51. He joined the Barnard faculty in 1951. Jeffrey will be promoted to the rank of assistant professor.

Greenlaw Lecture To Be March 11

Prof. Ralph W. Greenlaw Jr., of the SUI history department, will speak on "Attitudes of the French Nobility on the Eve of the Revolution," Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Shambaugh lecture room of the library.

The date of Greenlaw's lecture was incorrectly stated in the Wednesday issue of The Daily Iowan.

YWCA Offers Sitting Service For Local Parents

Students interested in baby sitting and parents interested in hiring sitters should contact the Young Women's Christian association office in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Prospective sitters will be interviewed by members of the YWCA cabinet.

Parents who wish to hire a sitter should call the YWCA office, X2240 during the daytime. Once the office has supplied the name of a student who wishes to baby sit, the parents may call her directly.

Coeds who baby sit are subject to SUI late leave hours, which means they may not be out later than midnight on a weeknight or later than 1:30 a.m. on a Friday or Saturday.

Rates charged by the sitters are 40 cents an hour before midnight, and 50 cents an hour afterwards, plus transportation.

The YWCA does not charge for the contact service, which is intended to supply suitable sitters for Iowa City facilies, Loah Lunan, N2, Chariton, chairman of the project says.

Economics Professor To Speak to League

Prof. Robert Johnson, of the economics department, will be the speaker at a luncheon of the League of Women Voters, March 16. The luncheon will be at noon at the Unitarian church.

Johnson will speak on "Measures to Improve the Budgetary Procedures of Congress." He will discuss the manner in which the taxation money is spent and how the federal budget is made.

The League discussion groups scheduled for March are as follows: Finkbine, March 12; Citywide, March 18; North, March 18; East, March 19; Southeast, March 19; Stadium, March 24, and West, March 18.

Mrs. Frederick Leach is unit chairman for the discussion groups and Mrs. Jim Fife is her assistant.

In addition to the League's regular programs over WSUI, it is broadcasting discussion programs over KXIC every Sunday at 2 p.m. The program schedule is as follows: March 8, School election, bond issue; March 15, How does our money go?; March 22, Dr. Cullen's trip to India for WHO; March 29, The League: what is it?; April 5, How will the new garbage system operate?; April 12, How we acquire new citizens?; April 19, Third anniversary of the Council Manager plan, and April 26, General assembly in review.

Rides to the polls for the school election may be obtained by calling the League office, 8-4072, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on election day, March 9.

KOO TO SPEAK

Prof. T. Z. Koo, of the Oriental studies department, will be the speaker for Information First this afternoon at 4:10 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol. His topic will be "China, the Far Eastern Tinderbox."

Bassoon-Clarinet Recital Scheduled

A joint recital for bassoon and clarinet will be presented Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the SUI north music hall.

Mary Anne Cassens, A3, Rock Rapids, will play bassoon numbers including "Sonata in F Major" by Galliard, "Sicilienne et Allegro Giocoso" by Grovlez, and "Sonatine" by Tansman. She will be accompanied by Margaret Pendleton, instructor in the music department.

Playing alternate numbers as clarinet recitalist will be Maurice Fahrney, A4, Deep River, who will be accompanied by Alan Rea, A3, Iowa City. Included in his selections will be "Sonata in F Minor" by Brahms and "Sonatine" by Milhaud.

The public is invited to attend.

Farmers OK Federal Aid, Poll Indicates

DES MOINES (AP)— The Wallace-Homestead poll says that although an increasing number of Iowa farmers think there should be some change, the majority believes federal payments for agricultural conservation practices should remain substantially the same as they have been.

The poll, published in the current issue of Wallace's Farmer, noted that Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson has ordered the agricultural conservation program, ACP, removed from control of the production and marketing administration, and that "it has been urged that ACP checks either be cut out entirely or confined to payment for permanent improvements."

The poll indicated, however, that 47 per cent of Iowa farmers believe the ACP should remain in control of the PMA. Twenty-eight per cent thought it should be shifted to control of the soil conservation service, and 10 per cent thought ACP should be administered by county extension directors. Fifteen per cent were undecided.

On the question of abolishing or restricting ACP payments, four per cent of farm operators felt the program should remain as it is now, when payments are made not only for permanent or semi-permanent conservation installations and practices, but for such non-permanent practices as applying lime and fertilizer to the land.

Eighteen per cent of the farmers polled were in favor of abolishing all ACP payments, and 30 per cent favored limiting them to such practices as contouring, terracing and tiling.

State Fair To Be Aug. 29 to Sept. 7 Board Announces

DES MOINES (AP) — The 1953 Iowa State Fair will be a week later than usual, the State Fair board announced Wednesday.

The board, completing a two-day meeting in Des Moines, announced the fair will run this year from Saturday, Aug. 29, through Monday, Sept. 7.

L. B. Cunningham, secretary of the fair, said this is relatively the same period as in previous years, but that due to the way the calendar falls the actual dates are a week later than normal.

The board named superintendents to direct all major departments of the fair, and voted to establish premiums for the 1953 fair at about $200,000.

The board also planned improvements for the fairgrounds, discussed budgets for farm and livestock premiums and other competitive events.

A number of new department superintendents were named in the list announced by the board. John W. Cory Jr. of Spencer will be superintendent of 4-H and FFA cattle in addition to general cattle superintendent. C. S. Macy of Grundy Center was named the new superintendent of industry and machinery. Mrs. W. L. Van Peursem of Mitchellville was named superintendent of textiles.

C. C. Wagler of Bloomfield, a new member of the fair board, was appointed superintendent of admissions, Ralph Pim of Lucas was chosen superintendent of poultry, and Dewey Jontz of Runnells, superintendent of sheep.

Ike Wants U.S. Set For Atomic War

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower said Wednesday the nation "must be ready steadfastly to meet the worst" that might happen — an atomic war.

By building a strong, vigilant civil defense system, the President said, Americans can lessen the danger of such a conflict breaking out.

Eisenhower spoke at a White House ceremony as former Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska was sworn in as the country's new civil defense chief.

The President stepped out of an extra long meeting of the national security council—one that undoubtedly took up the world situation in the light of Prime Minister Stalin's grave illness —to take part in the ceremony.

Predict Hawaii to Become State

McCarthy Receives Help From State Department

WASHINGTON (AP)— Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Wednesday he had received a "pledge of co-operation" from the state department in his investigation of loyalty of two employes. He jokingly sidestepped a question whether he had asked the White House to intervene for him.

The senator told his senate subcommittee that R. W. Scott McLeod, the department's new security chief, had pledged co-operation which may make it unnecessary to try to subpoena loyalty files of the two workers. A subpoena would bring a showdown with the Eisenhower administration on a question on which former President Truman would not yield.

Tuesday, the senator had talked of subpoenaing the official reports and "supporting documents" in the cases of Theodora Kaghan and Edmund Schechter, who work for the state department in Germany.

McCarthy Can Have Files

He told his fellow investigators Wednesday, however, that the department had agreed to give the subcommittee a memorandum on the security files of the two. At the state department it was said the memo had been sent and it was up to McCarthy whether to make it public.

It remains to be seen whether President Eisenhower has amended or agreed to change an old Truman order barring department heads from turning over to congress confidential loyalty files.

Asked by a reporter Wednesday whether he had been in touch with the White House about the order's application to the Kaghan and Schechter cases, the senator replied:

Senate Comments

"I predict rain this afternoon and rain this evening. That's what the weather bureau says, isn't it?"

Then, seriously, McCarthy said he would take McLoed's word, adding: "I am sure we will have no argument at all."

At the subcommittee's public hearing, McCarthy said the memorandum from McLoed said that preliminary study of available file material indicated "there is a question on the suitability of one of the individuals" and that McLoed added "he does not want to comment" about the other man.

Kaghan and Schechter now work for the U. S. high commissioner of Germany.

Federal Jury Fails To Reach Verdict In Perjury Case

WASHINGTON (AP)— The federal court jury considering the perjury case of Dr. Joseph W. Weinberg— once dubbed "Scientist X" in a congressional probe of atomic espionage — reported Wednesday night it was far from a verdict.

After 2 hours and 45 minutes of deliberation the jury foreman told U. S. District Judge Alexander Holtoff at 5:30 p.m.: "I think we'd better go to lunch."

This statement by the foreman, Eugene W. Hopson, was in response to the judge's suggestion that the jury be taken to dinner "unless there is a prospect of a verdict in a very short time."

The jury began its deliberations at 2:32 p.m. after hearing opposing counsel argue for the conviction and acquittal of the scientist on a charge he swore falsely when he denied he had ever been a member of the Communist party.

Weinberg, 36, a theoretical physicist, was indicted on charges of perjury growing out of his testimony before the house un-American activities committee May 25, 1949.

Weinberg was a key figure in a long investigation of atomic spying carried on by the un-American activities committee. In the early stages, the committee reported that a "Scientist X" had slipped atomic secrets to Steve Nelson, long-time Communist party functionary, to be passed on to Russia. Months later the committee said it had received testimony identifying "Scientist X" as Weinberg.

Moeller's Talk Printed in News Report

An address on "The Challenge to the Mass Media" by Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school of journalism, has been printed in the latest Nieman Reports, a quarterly devoted to discussion by newspapermen of problems common to their profession.

Moeller gave the address at a southern newspapermen's convention at Florida State university, Tallahassee.

Earlier this year, Vital Speeches of the Day, a semi-monthly publication that re-prints speeches of national interest, contained an address by Moeller on "The Leadership Responsibilities of the Country Editor," which he delivered recently before the National Editorial association in Chicago.

Moeller Cites Challenge

In his Florida State address, Moeller noted this challenge to the mass media: "To do all possible to aid the American people to become intelligently informed; to aid them in understanding and appraising the judgments of their delegated representatives, and to aid them in reaching wise and sound attitudes toward affairs at home and abroad."

The SUI journalism director said the mass media should remind the citizen of his responsibilities as a citizen.

"One of these responsibilities is to be informed. It is difficult to have an enlightened government without an enlightened public," Moeller added.

Fight for Freedom Urged

"If we are to aid the citizen in maintaining his democracy as well as understanding it, we must engage in a vigorous, extensive, united effort to make him aware of the day-to-day meaning of the freedoms which are the foundations of that democracy, and of the great need for the average citizens to fight continually for the maintenance everywhere of those freedoms," Moeller said.

Nieman Reports, in which the address appears, is published by former Nieman Fellows at Harvard university, who studied under fellowships established in 1938 by Agnes Wahl Nieman, widow of the founder of the Milwaukee Journal.

Vocalist Auditions For King Kombo To Be Saturday

Auditions for vocalists who have entered the King Kombo singing contest will be held Saturday from 1 to 3 p.m. in conference room No. 1 of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Those who have entered the contest and are unable to audition Saturday will be able to audition at a later date with new entrants. Ten SUI students have entered the contest, Fred King said Tuesday.

The contest is open to all SUI students regardless of previous experience. Finalists will sing at the King Kombo jazz concert March 13 at the Big Ranch in Coulfalls. The winner will be judged by the audience and will become a featured singer with the Kombo.

Students who wish to enter the contest can contact Fred King at x4276 or Harlan Dubansky at 2057.

Group Asks Help In Safety Drive

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) —The Nebraska unicameral legislature by resolution Wednesday called on newspapers and radio stations to conduct safe driving campaigns in their communities.

The resolution also urged employers to reduce the number of deliveries so their drivers can complete the rounds during working hours.

It urged operators of motor vehicles to "stop and think before leaving their homes and places of work for the purpose of realizing what may happen before they return to their family or job if, while driving their motor vehicle, they do not have it under control while it is in motion."

Hit-And-Run Driver Does $75 Damage

A hit-and-run driver damaged an automobile owned by John Myers, M4, Onida, S.D., Wednesday.

The 1950 Chevrolet sedan was parked in the driveway of Myers' residence, 345 Magowan ave., when an unknown motorist damaged the left front fender and left headlight.

Damage was estimated at $75.

Consumer Buying Habit Changes Cited

Pre-selling by advertising, supermarket techniques and the high cost of labor have brought about two big changes in consumer buying habits, a hardware manufacturer pointed out to Iowa hardware retailers now in session at the SUI center for continuation study.

More people now want to wait on themselves and more people are doing home upkeep and painting jobs for themselves, Max Miller, general manager of a Spring Park, Minn., hardware store fixtures company, told the three dozen retailers in the store layout session of their second annual hardware short course.

These changes are good, Miller said, because self-selection displays give the merchant more time to help the consumer on his repair, painting or home construction problems.

Van Fleet Sees Military Win As Only End To Korea Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet told congress Wednesday he does not believe the Soviets are interested now in a "shooting war" and said only a military victory can end the fighting in Korea.

The former eighth army commander also urged that the draft be extended from 24 to 30 or 36 months "to better prepare our boys to live" through combat, by permitting them more and better training.

With "a little more of what it takes to fight," he said, the U.S. can gain a military triumph in Korea without necessarily broadening the war.

The field commander made these statements in separate open and closed meetings with the house armed services and foreign affairs committees, in a dramatic review of the Korean campaign. He goes before the senate armed services committee today.

Chiperfield Reports

Chairman Robert B. Chiperfield (R-Ill.) reported Van Fleet told the house foreign affairs committee behind closed doors that "he felt that the Soviets at the present were not interested in engaging in a shooting war."

He said there was no discussion of the use of the atom bomb in Korea.

Chiperfield said in a statement the general expressed belief American forces could "be withdrawn in large numbers from Korea" only after a military victory permitted the Americans to turn over a shorter defense line to the Koreans which they could hold with American support.

Meant Defense Line

This statement evidently meant Van Fleet proposed regaining enough of North Korea to establish a semi-permanent defense line across the narrow neck of the peninsula, from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, to Wonsan.

Chiperfield said Van Fleet "was emphatic in stating that the war in Korea must end in nothing short of victory.

Dentistry Lab Aids in Diagnosis

(Daily Iowan Photo)

Facilities Open to State

Today's revised concept of dentistry is illustrated by the newly completed diagnostic laboratory in the SUI school of dentistry.

Developed gradually over a four year period in the department of oral pathology, the new lab boasted $10,000 worth of equipment when finished in December.

The diagnostic laboratory, one of three in oral pathology, was started by Dr. Alton K. Fisher, department head, when he came to SUI from Loyola university, New Orleans, in 1949. It is the culmination of a long-time ambition of Dean Emeritus A. W. Bryan, of the school of dentistry.

Financed jointly by the U. S. Public Health service and the state of Iowa, the lab is used for routine diagnosis work in histopathology (the study of microscopic changes in disease tissue), blood examination, and clinical chemistry.

The department is also equipped with a teaching laboratory and work is currently underway on the construction of a special research laboratory.

Although the bulk of the specimens diagnosed in the lab are taken from the university clinic, any practicing dentist in the state can send tissue specimens to the laboratory for microscopic diagnosis.

To Make 8th Consecutive Appearance —

World Traveler to Speak to Mountaineers

World traveler Robert Friars and his film "Holiday in Switzerland" will be featured in the Iowa Mountaineer travelogue series at 8 p.m. Sunday in Macbride auditorium.

Rated as the top feature of the entire Mountaineers' series, Friars' travelogue presentation will mark his eighth consecutive appearance here since 1946.

Friars will narrate and provide a humor setting for the color film of the famous mountain country.

"Holiday in Switzerland" is the story of how three language groups, German, French and Italian, have been merged to form a small democratic nation that exists in spite of the chaos that periodically reigns on all sides.

Picturesque Scenes Shown

Included in the film are sailing scenes on Lake Geneva, "picture postcard" Alpine villages, the Swiss Riviera, the falls of the Rhine, the festival of flowers at Geneva, the Matterhorn—famous Swiss mountain — the story of Swiss watchmaking and winter sports at St. Moritz.

Friars began his career of adventure and motion picture production while recuperating from an operation at the age of 12. Fascinated by all the dots representing far cities on atlas maps, he was no more than out of bed before starting on his first hiking trip, he said.

Before he was 20 years old, he had visited every state in the U.S. and had seen Mexico, Alaska, and every province of Canada. Canada.

Studies Interrupted

It took Friars seven years to complete his studies at the University of Michigan because his school work was constantly interrupted by his trips. In 1939, he took a hitch-hiking trip around the world on $82 to win a $5 bet with his roommate.

Succeeding years took Friars to South America, Cuba, Jamaica, Haiti, Puerto Rico and Trinidad to make a film on the Caribbean. Here he scooped the travel film world by producing the first color motion pictures of a genuine voodoo ceremony.

Recently Friars set new standards in travel films on Europe, with his Switzerland production being one of the group.

Their program will include "Sonata I in E Minor," by Platti; "Deux Interludes," by Ibert and "Fantaisie," by Hue.

Dulles Allows Vincent To Retire, Settling Loyalty Case Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Wednesday settled the controversial John Carter Vincent loyalty case by permitting the veteran career diplomat to retire.

Dulles rejected a finding by the civil service loyalty review board that there was a "reasonable doubt" as to the loyalty of Vincent, minister to Morocco and one-time state department expert on China policy.

But he decided that Vincent failed to meet the standard which is demanded of a foreign service officer at this time.

For this reason the secretary said he was accepting Vincent's application to retire—at about $8,100 a year—effective March 31.

The decision was announced by Dulles after concluding a study of the long record and holding two personal conferences with Vincent. After recalling him from his post at Tangier, Morocco, the secretary talked with him privately last Sunday and earlier on Feb. 23. Vincent has returned to Tangier to close out his affairs and return home with his family.

Vincent for years has been a major target of congressional Republicans who credited him with being one of the major architects of American policies which led up to the loss of China to the Communists. Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) called him at one time a "Soviet espionage agent."

Criticism in congress has centered on complaints that Vincent gave advice favoring the Chinese Communists over Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

In the immediate postwar period Vincent was assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs and earlier he was in charge of the China desk.

Band Presents Tour Program

By SANDRA ARMSTRONG

The SUI concert band under the direction of Prof. C. B. Righter, music department, presented a versatile and entertaining program Wednesday night in the Iowa Memorial Union. The band played selected pieces from the 30 compositions which will be played by the band when it goes on tour March 23 to 27 in central and southern Iowa.

Color and counterpoint were the features of "Prelude" by the Swedish composer, Jarnefelt. It opened the evening's performance and prepared the audience for the thoroughly enjoyable musical interlude which followed.

Color Shifts

Shifting from the color of the opening numbers, the next presentation, "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor" composed by Bach and rearranged by Righter, fell with dignified tones upon the listeners. An interplay of the brass and woodwinds, a trifle heavy on the brass section, lent the piece its stable tones.

Well done, but a bit too light a number for a band rendition, was Debussy's "Serenade for the Doll." The heavy brass tones imposed a lack of delicacy the tune inherently possesses.

Displays Musical Depth

SUI's concert band displayed great musical depth in the next selection by Wagner from his masterpiece Lohengrin, "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral." The sacredness of the occasion was put over by the effective combination of the various instrumental sections.

"Oxford Street March" by Coates and "Love Scene" by Moussorgsky were in strong contrast but thoroughly enjoyable.

Three dances from the Gayne Ballet by Khatchaturian, the "Sabre Dance," "Lullaby," and "Dance of the Rose Maidens" were all colorfully done. The performance of the percussion players was particularly outstanding.

Sly Humor

"Simonetta Serenade" by Curzon was an entertaining concert piece because of its sly musical humor. The band attained a multiple of musical moods in the picturesque work of Howland, "Mood Mauve."

Weinberger's "Polka and Fugue" was the musical dessert of the concert program. Its heavier strains and rhythm made it an ideal composition for a concert band.

RADIO OWNER DIES

DES MOINES (AP)—Officials of radio station KSO of Des Moines were informed Wednesday of the death in Minneapolis of Kingsley H. Murphy, 67, owner of the station.

Director Lists Job Offers, Says Many Men Servicebound

"Between 60 and 70 per cent of SUI men interviewed at the placement office for jobs will be going into the service after graduation," Mrs. Helen Barnes, director of the busines and industrial placement office said Wednesday.

Many companies, aware that many men are going into the service, are drawing up post service lists on a highly selective basis. These lists will be references when the men are discharged from the armed forces. Some companies are even hiring SUI graduates for the few months between graduation and induction, Mrs. Barnes said.

Business firms have been sending representatives to SUI to interview job applicants. Some have given written tests through the SUI testing service, and some firms have invited impressive job applicants to visit the home offices of the firms at the company's expense.

Next week such companies as Firestone Tire & Rubber company, Akron, Ohio; Sunbeam corporation, Chicago; Aetna Life Insurance company, Des Moines; and Ralston Purina company, St. Louis, will interview students interested in positions after graduation.

These firms want seniors and graduate students entering sales, accounting, retail shop management, life insurance, and other fields. Anyone interested may inquire at the business and industrial placement office in University hall.

Poster Designing To Be Explained

A schooltime television program on poster design will be presented over WOI-TV by the SUI speech and dramatic art department at 10 a.m. Friday.

The program will instruct viewers in lettering fundamentals and in the making of high school posters.

It is one of the "Adventures in Art" series produced by Prof. John Ross Winnie, chief of television production.

Research assistants for the series are Vernon Thompson, G, Iowa City, and Gale Mitchell, G, Roseau, Minn. Stan Almloff, G, Des Moines, is the production manager.

Social Survey Made By 15 SUI Students

A survey of "broken homes" in Johnson, Scott, and Washington counties was completed Wednesday by 15 SUI graduate students in social work, according to Mildred Snider, instructor in the school of social work.

Results of this survey will be tabulated by the students during the remainder of this semester in the second part of a course which began last fall with the survey.

It is predicted that investigation of the research material will show how frequently the absence of one parent makes it necessary for families to apply for aid.
