No. 26.

IDA GROVE, IOWA, April 22, 1891.

VIDETTE REPORTER:

Marked copies of the VIDETTE-REPORTER of March 21st which contains an article 'The Iowan of 1891' have been mailed to party's here, we desire to put you right in the matter.

When the outbreak of trichina occurred, we procured specimens of human muscle and pork containing trichina. Portions of these specimens were sent to Prof. W. D. Middleston, of the S.U.I., Dr. J. F. Kennedy, Sec. of the State Board of Health, Des Moines. Our object was to examine the meat from Iowan, filling the notion of 'several oracles,' as claimed, it would be useless so very much at any microscopic test attach,

The work of the histological laboratory of the University was during the spring, conducted by Mr. Aby. It is a part of his duty to supply the laboratory with material and the needs of the future as well as those of its immediate present are always kept in view. If he ever asked for "several oracles," as claimed, it would have been useless at any microscopic test.

Furthermore no request was made for material other than muscle, but when offering material to Mr. Aby, filling the notion of 'many oracles,' provided they be paid for.

In our opinion the "Great American Hog" has not undergone any material change.

S. U. I. Correspondence.

Much has appeared of late in the newspapers of Iowa regarding the use of pork, meat, and hog, and the other leading cities of the state see to it that their leading papers of their city have correspondent from here. If you, reader, do not come from a city where a daily paper is published, do not think that this does not concern you. There are cities in the state publishing daily papers that have no one here who can act as correspondent, and if you are one such, hasten to do your duty.

To secure much space in the papers of Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha and the other large Western cities will be more difficult for our students. But many such opportunities do exist, and we should not fail to profit by them. As an instance, consider our correspondent to the Iowan-Ocean, Every two weeks one of our enterprising students sends in an article about the University and the students. I think we can all see how well the idea is good to the S. U. I. Well, why not increase the amount of such work and secure a proportionate increase? I think we can find in this an appeal to every student, that it is an attempt to show each one how he can do something for the good of the institution. Let each one consider it in that light and see that the matter is attended to.

H. M.

The students are unanimous in expressing their regret that Capt. Goodcell has been removed from his position in the post-office. The Captain is the most obliging and courteous of men, and a student never asked any reasonable favor that was refused. We have heard more than one regret that Mr. Goodcell was not made postmaster on account of his long and efficient service in the department. But political debts must be paid, and civil service seems to be of no consequence to the manipulators of politics.

The Vidette Reporter.

The Vidette Reporter has to chronicle one of the most humiliating facts to-day which has been our duty to record during the prosperous school year now about to close. The VIDE tette-Reporter Association, on last Thursday, after having waited through a vast amount of patriotic speech and superfluous rhetoric, founded upon principles, an exposition of which this benign privilege of inalienable suffrage guarantees, in one stroke overrid the Constitution, declared the position held by Mr. Benj. F. Shambaugh vacant, and ordered the president to call an election to fill the vacancy so unjustly declared. The Constitution plainly states that the Managing Editors shall have the power to call an election to fill a vacancy, and anyone conversant with custom upon this point knows that the only proper course would have been to ask Mr. Shambaugh to send in his resignation, if they deemed that his proper course. So much is granted by all fair-minded people and people who really are contending for principles. But, should Mr. Shambaugh have resigned? By all means, no. He is absent from the University to day on account of ill-health, expecting to return soon and demand his old place. Should we appoint, subject to our approval, a thoroughly good man to hold his place during his absence. This appointment, and Mr. Shambaugh's action through-out, has many a precedent in VIDETTE history, or it would not have been countenanced by the Board. The only thing that remains to be said is that Mr. Shambaugh is the victim of a political intrigue, which has been so thoroughly concealed and completely covered by this sacred right of inalienable suffrage and this high regard for principles, that the whole matter, on the con culation of knowing that his actions are supported by those in the University who are contending for principle, and that his every action in this respect is based upon the Constitution. His enemies, who can be enemies only politically, have disgraced themselves by overruling a constitution construct-established and protected by their inalienable right of suffrage, guaran ted to a free people in a free country, and withal proclaimed the power of civilization. If there is one thing that would call the students to the support of the proposition put forth by the editors, it is this disgraceful affair, which clearly proves the inability of a c evaluation, the fickle-mindedness of popular suffragists, and the vast field for political intrigue which is afforded by our present nonsensical plan of management.

Chancellor McClain's bound volume of outlines have just been received.
In California, the spring of over the history and University Cumso Princeton bas recently tic grounds. Mublenburg for (in chapel) Do you believe petitioned to Collection clearly indicates the problem. And Molly Cule did quick retor, "There's no affinity." Beneath electric light plant's shade Poor Atom hoped he'd meet; But she eloped with a rasal, And her name is now Saltspete.

There is a tendency among the frauds of Peau to become clannish. This should not be, for a student who can find nothing congenial in a fellow student outside of his own fraternity to be paid. Your fraternity does not contain all the good men of college, neither do all the freshmen, for some of the best students are not fraternity men. Recognize merit where you find it and be liberal—Do Peau Record.

Every student in the University of California will remain during commencement week. The commencement is a time when the alumni and our friends throughout the state come to visit the greatest institution in Iowa and observe its customs and the life of its students. If one-half of them are gone to their homes, our institution does not present to the immense crowds of visitors the real aspect, nor does it give them the correct idea of us. So when commencement comes this year, make it a point to remain till its close; make Iowa City the usual student town, and give our visitors a royal reception.

The latest novelty in college life is a $12,000 theater which is in process of construction for the use of the students of the University of Penns-Ivania. Will it not make the bow-wows and fellows of Penn turn in their graves?

I. A. C. Student.

The above is a mistake, and a gross one. This building referred to is not to be a theatre, in the general acceptance of that term, but an auditorium, such colleges have, or should have, and is under the control of the faculty. It is not to be used as a money-making scheme, but to be used by the students for their lectures, exhibitions, and exhibits.

That the stage is gradually awakening to the fact that western colleges and universities are taking a front rank, and that western students can now find superior advantages at home, is shown by the following clipping from The New York Sun: "Eastern colleges and universities are not drawing as many students from the west as they drew in former times. President Eliot, of Harvard, who has recently made a western tour, says that that university cannot now hope to draw a large body of undergraduates from the west, as formerly, colleges are coming to the north, and western students find it more convenient to them than to go far away to college. The class rolls of Harvard furnish the evidence in support of the opinion given by President Eliot.

Newspaper Reading.

We often underestimate the knowl- edge to be derived from newspaper reading. This is a grave mistake. It is in newspapers that we learn of the practical things of life; of what is happening every day in the world of politics, religion and education. All spheres of life are here represented. Yet instead of newspaper reading there are many who perhaps never look at a daily paper; who never read the valuable editorials found there. The questions discussed in our leading dailies are practical questions; questions on which every student should be posted. He is not educated who can not discuss intelligently the questions of the day.

Never shall we have a better opportunity for reading good newspapers than we have at present. In the Library and Museum weeklies from all parts of the country, and hence we learn the University ignorant of the great political and social questions. It will be our own fault. The sphere of education is great, but he who keeps constantly in view the needs of the great political citizenship will do himself so direct his reading as to form correct views upon those questions which pertain to the duty of the citizen.

Select some good paper, read it every day, and you will soon be surprised at how much practical benefit will be derived from such a course of reading. He who wishes to broaden his views; he who desires to keep up with the times, will always give due attention to the newspaper.

S. U. 1. Herbarium contains 1,000 more plants than it did last fall.

S. U. 1. Museum has on exhibition over 5,000 more animals than it displayed in September last; it has added over four hundred jars of fresh water and marine creatures to the alcoholic collection, and owns a collection of many thousand specimens soon to be delivered.

S. U. 1. biologists made over 5,000 permanent preparations illustrating the microscopic structure of plant and animal tissues, and all during the winter term. They used constantly eight compound microscopes and fourteen microtomes, and studied the structure of 75 dogs, 200 calves, 100 eel fishes, 100 frogs, and hundreds of smaller creatures.

The review officer will probably be here within a few days to inspect the condition of the battalion.

THE VIDETTE-REPORTER.

The familiar faces of Fred C. Swet and Frank Cross are again seen among us after a prolonged vacation.

Prof. Patrick's lecture at the Bonaparte Club, last week, was exceedingly interesting and instructive.

The subject discussed this week in German Seminary was Egypt. The paper was read by Lucila Semken.

W. M. Powers went to Mt. Vernon, Thursday morning, to spend a few days in the Y. M. C. A. work there.

An examination for applicants to West Point will be in Des Moines, Thursday, May 21st, commencing at 9 o'clock A. M.

Each society backing the lecture bureau will be made one dollar apiece on the lecture course of three lectures which they presented here this year.

Col. Swalm is somewhat of a swell himself, as was noticed by the flower which he wore in his broad brimmed sombrero—last New York style.

The College Yates the law's challenge for a game of base ball and with Lindsay in the box, came off easy winners, with a record of 26 to 7.

The Phi Psi and Phi Delta played the first of a series of games arranged between these clubs this morning. The score stood 15 to 15 in favor of the latter.

The Iowa City correspondent for the Des Moines News has a glowing presentation of our prosperity, in this week's issue. It has been copied by a number of the State papers.

We are grateful to note the advice of the editor of the T. F. Bunting, a graduate of our Law school, now serving a second term as County Attorney at Sioux City.

Prof. Whyte in the term Syphonomous applied to this individual;

Student in Comparative Zoology.

Why—i suppose—because it looks like school.

Douglas, '91, has recently closed his first year as principal of the Kossuth Academy, Des Moines county, and is in charge of the school. He will teach in the same place next year.

Iowa City and the S. U. I. were well represented at the "Crystal Slipper," last Saturday night. The Beta's could have held their meeting there, so far as having a quartum to do business is concerned.

A certain young man informs us that he attended the noon prayer meeting in the ciapel the other day. Said he went after a book and was locked in. He was probably more cautious hence after.

Dallas, cornet; and Loomis, alto, are the new members of the band. There are no changes in the band at all.

More enthusiasm should be shown in this line by those who are musical.

As announced in our last issue Rev. Geo. Reinking and Miss Anna Bailey were married at Downey, last Thursday evening. About twenty-five Iowa City people were present and the ceremony was performed by Rev. T. R. Evans.

It will be much regretted by the many admirers of Dr. Leininger, to learn that he is again compelled to resign his position as pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, of Chicago. His health compels him to seek other climes.

Mears Laphur, Lathrop, Douglas and Brown, class of '90, were welcome visitors during the past week. Laphur is engaged as attorney for the German Savings Bank, Davenport. Lathrop is at Salt Lake City, Brown and Douglas are still on the wing.

Chas. H. Elliott, law of '81, who has lately been appointed Judge of the Municipal Court of Minneapolis, has sent to the Law Department the abstract and brief in the Meteorite case, arising in Northwestern Iowa, in which he is attorney. The case has been given out in the Court.

A one of our noble young attorneys recently tried and won a case in circuit court, and while in an ecstasy of delight over his success unintentionally moved the court to tax the costs up to his client which of course was done. Says he is now ready to engage in actual practice.

The I. C. A. alumni held a meeting at the S. U. I. last Friday. The following officers were elected: Pres. Dent, Harry Plum. First Vice President, Miss Edna Forest, Second Vice President, Miss Kalkofen, Secretary, and Miss Mattie Litton, Treasurer, A. E. Claffee.

We should like to see a librarian for the Law Department appointed by the University and empowered with authority to preserve order. It is said that "Order is the first law of God."

Some of the students have evidently returned from the Christmas vacation and are not the more elementary principles.

For some young attorney who is about to begin his practice, we will have a lucrative practice to begin, we are requested to say there is a fine opportunity for such a man at St. Elidon, Iowa, a library of one hundred and fifty volumes, together with complete office fixtures, are for sale cheap. For particulars see J. E. Merston, senior Law.

A special issue of the Republican to be made next Friday, setting forth the advantages of Iowa City as a home and school town. You will be called upon for a list of your friends who might be induced to come here to live. If you should be missed, don't fail to make out such a list and put it in the VІ. N. We are not later than Thursday.

Certain of the law students seem inclined to make themselves conspicuous by habitually coming into the lecture-room after the lecture has begun and then leaving before the class is dismissed. This is certainly very annoying and so far as we can see is produced of very little good. We know you are pretty but then we would suggest a cessation of hostilities.

A slight error in the punctuation of the paragraph on the degree of the Bachelor of Laws in last issue perverts the meaning in one place entirely. The part referring to the stay appearance of several of the speakers was not intended to include Beauchy. The period should have been placed before his name as it was in the original copy.

Seth V. Peck, formerly of '90, is now employed in the Record and Pension Division of the War Department, Washington, D. C. A letter just received from him states that Charles R. Keays, '97, now of John Hopkins, has been doing work in connection with the Geological Survey. He also writes that Lient. J. M. Califf is now stationed at the capital city. Hepburn, formerly of '90, and Anna Lator, '96, are also in the government service at that place.

The Museum has just been furnished with a large collection of bird skins and other objects liable to injury from moth, that is the finest west of the Smithsonian. This collection was made of eight metal compartments, in which are twenty-eight paper bottomed drawers, all of which are interchangeable. The thin paper bottoms save a great amount of space, and the metal walls prevent the most persistent gnat from penetrating.

The "Laws" should more generally read the VIDETTE and encourage its circulation. They should do this both for their own personal enjoyment and from a motive of patriotism to the University. Surely an institution of the state University that can not have where there is no support for it. Someone should make a thorough survey of the Law Department for subscriptions. Such an effort might be reasonably successful.

The winter class in drawing has been increased to forty members this term under the direction of Miss Stinmu, who has been the instructor in the subject of poultry. The materials in the class are of the old school in being a transit last more important, but a new idea is to be had at the University. Take it about it; for the plastered" temperature of the room is such that on one occasion this building would be useful at any time.

The men of the past Tuesday, the captain for FINE TAILOR-MADE UNIFORMS AT BLOOM & MAYER'S. outwitted in certain cases; and so they held fraternity causes with the Phi Kappa and the Phi Delta, and by a little working succeeded in getting them to swear by the Delta that the Deltas were all right in their way of thinking and in whatever they did or said and so entered into a combination to force the Betas to either break their engagements with their ladies or not consider themselves as wasted in the pan-hellenic[?]

The scheme proposed at first was to put the names of all the girls in a hat and each man take his chances. This scheme was too absurd, but one equally so was adopted. The Betas were just a little too simple and decided that any such scheme would not be looked upon as containing common sense in any which to be considered at all and so quietly withdrew. The facts are just these: they engaged certain girls which the Deltas wanted and would have or they must die, and because Betas would not break a fairly made engagement, the Deltas, assisted by the other two, went ahead and are to have their party May 1st. The Betas say right here and now that they are entirely satisfied with their decision in the matter and always will be. They can have their own parties in their own way. Finally, they declare to say that they seriously hope that the Deltas will have the best of times with the other fraternities.

Respectfully,

The Betas.

Prof. Wiel is rashly the new observatory along at a lively rate. It will be completed in a few days and ready for the mounting of the transit instrument. Though the building appears small, it is large enough for what the professor desires it to be. It is to be merely an observatory, not a recitation room too, as it is the case with the old one. The new building is very neatly built, handy to a degree beyond what was expected by one not acquainted with the plans, and having many improvements over the old brick building. In the old building there was no place for a transit instrument, which is of much more importance than any other instrument about an observatory. This will give an idea of how old fashioned the present observatory is. The new one is to be a creditable acquisition to the University. Many questions are asked about it; for instance, "is it going to be plastered?" No it is not, the temperature of the room in which the telescope is situated must be identical with that outside, in order that an observation may be made; so to plaster it would only render it more useless.

The building is to be nicely painted and will be useful and ornamental at the same time.

Notice.
The members of the football team of the past year will meet at noon, Tuesday, April 21st, for election of captain for coming school year.
