'95 Class Meeting.

The Freshmen met Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in Irving Hall and organized by the election of the following officers: President, Oscar Anderson; vice-president, Edwin B. Wilson; Secretary, Mae E. Lomas; Treasurer, Cora M. Pryor; Sergeant at Arms, William H. Blakely.

The Hesperians.

The Hesperian Society held their first open session Friday evening. Julia Rogers, the newly elected president, delivered an inaugural speech, in which Rogers, the newly elected president, delivered an inaugural speech, in which Rogers, the newly elected president, delivered an inaugural speech, in which Rogers, the newly elected president, delivered an inaugural speech, in which Rogers, the newly elected president, delivered an inaugural speech, in which Rogers, the newly elected president, delivered an inaugural speech, in which Rogers, the newly elected president, delivered an inaugural speech.

Baconian.

The Baconian Club held its first meeting of the year last Friday evening. Dr. Gilchrist was elected president and Professor Webb secretary and treasurer.

Professor McBride read a carefully prepared paper, "What is a Type?" in which he showed that the scietific's work consists not alone in "matching colors and classifying species," but in introducing truths so vital that their exposition may change the trend of the whole universe. There are no extra charges for this picture business at Chicago.

College Notes.

The Leland Stanford University has 1,000 more applicants for admission than have been provided for.

Harvard with 2,271 students last year, the University of Michigan with 2,240 last year, the University of Pennsylvania with 1,570, and Cornell University with 1,300, will open with larger classes and more students on Thursday, Oct. 1.

At Northwestern the contests for the privilege of representing the University at the annual meeting of the Northern Oratorical League, are selected in a novel manner. The seven seniors and three juniors having the best record in the essay and elocution work of the college course each write an oration. Those writing the best five appear in a public contest, and he who stands first will enter the final contest. In this way the best men will doubtless be brought to the front. They are already preparing themselves and it will be necessary for S. U. I. orators to begin work immediately if they desire to be on an equal footing with their competitors in the meeting to be held at Evanston, May 1, 1892.

English Seminary.

"Members of the English Seminary are requested to meet this afternoon between 2 and 4 to consult about textbooks." M. W. Samuels.

South, 6.

Choral Union.

The Choral Union will meet this afternoon at 3:30 in Prof. Patrick's room for reorganization. All interested in music are urged to be present.

Junior Annual.

A meeting of the Junior Annual editors is called for this p. m. at 4. Every editor come.
We have been wanting for some time to say a word to students in reference to chapel attendance. Who that attended that good meeting last Wednesday morning could fail to be impressed with the value of such a gathering. We shall not preach a sermon. Not from the moral and religious standpoint do we speak now, but with the simple, practical view of the matter and its importance to S. U. I. Chapel exercises are held every morning, but only those who wish to worship, and they are not many hundred in number. Perhaps this is as it should be as to daily attendance. It is certainly what will continue to be. But there might, it occurs to us, be a general attendance on some one day each week, say Wednesday morning. If we could have a revival of S. U. I. espirit de corps as often as once a week we should all feel the better for it. Whether a student cares to worship as a Christian or not he could come to such a meeting and enjoy the singing and the speaking and above all, the meeting. To add to the interest a ten minute speech by a member of the Faculty would be well after the devotional exercises. The subject of his remarks could be left to the speaker’s choice, and they need be in no sense confined to religious subjects. Members of the college would like to see and hear all the members of the Faculty. Unless some arrangement of this kind is made to bring the Faculty into contact with students the average man, during a four year’s course, will become acquainted with not more than a dozen of the fifty or sixty instructors whose names appear on the Faculty roll, while it professors and instructors in all departments could be induced to attend this Wednesday morning meeting and each make one ten minute speech during the year the effect upon the University would be well worth the effort it would cost.

Miss Edith Fronty, L. '91, is spending a few days in Iowa City. She is practicing law at Humboldt, Iowa.

Who is that nervous Freshman that the Sophomores nearly scared to death Saturday? Take a brace, old man.

DJ. Heath '94, was the author of a very unique poem, which was delivered in one of the ladies' societies Saturday evening.

Scott German, '90, who attended the Columbia Law School two years, is now reading in New Jersey, and will be admitted to the bar January next.

Clinton street in front of the campus has been for a long time an ugly sight, and the Faculty have passed a resolution which, it is hoped, will bring about a more pleasing state of affairs. The city council should certainly have pride enough to add what they can to the appearance of the University grounds.

Gymnastics tickets are now on sale at Close Hall. Tickets for those in the University, six months, young men $1.00, young women $1.00. For the year, young men $5.00; young women $4.00. For those outside of University, young men $6.00, young women $6.00.

There will be a student's reception at the Baptist church, corner of Burlington and Clinton streets, Tuesday evening, 7:30 to 10 o'clock. All are cordially invited.

Committee.

The Archer organ recital next Wednesday night (Oct. 7th) will be a great treat as that promised will not pass unimproved. Our town had the pleasure of hearing him on two occasions last winter, so that no introduction is necessary, at least to the many that were here at that time. There are so many in the University this year who have not had this pleasure that a word of advice to them may not be out of place. Be sure and go and take all your friends. If you have any doubt about it, ask any of your teachers. In fact, it should be a point of honor with every student to show by his presence that he knows how to honor genius.

Tickets will be on sale at Fink's Bazaar Monday, Oct. 5th. Admission fifty cents.
