Dress Parade.

In order that the veterans of the Second Iowa Cavalry who are now attending a reunion in the city, might see a dress parade of the University battalion, Major Read changed the parade from Friday to Wednesday. At least five hundred people, a great many of whom wore the badge of the Second Iowa Cavalry, witnessed the parade. We are sure the thoughtfulness of the Major in changing the day, was appreciated by the army veterans who watched the battalion so interestedly.

The Battery.

The following Sophomores have been assigned to the battery: Division 1.—Noble, G. S., Tautlinger, Converse, Calvin, Paider, Horton, Wise, Crum, White, Dean, Dey, Noble, R. E., Apple. Division 2.—Lomas, Hopkins, Hadlock, Reimers, Wilcox, Craig, Dumm, Hamilton, Hatt, Page, Sabin, Lee, Woolston. Division 1 will drill in Battery on Mondays and Division 2 on Wednesdays. On account of Dress Parade yesterday, Division 2 will drill to morrow.

We, the Class of ’95, accept the challenge of the Class of ’94, to a game of ball, to be played within two weeks. (Signed) COMMITTEE.

College Notes.

S. U. L. freshmen should not be alarmed on learning that several Harvard freshmen were knocked senseless in the recent "shirt rush".

The new Chicago University will begin work this fall on their buildings—a dormitory, to accommodate 400 or 500 students, an alhbrary building for the 40,000 volumes in hand, and a recitation hall. Although this institution has millions for endowment, scholarships, etc., the building fund is very limited.

A new Lutheran theological seminary was opened in Chicago, on Oct. 1. It is the outcome of twenty years’ work on the part of the Lutheran ministers of the West.

Yale has two new buildings nearing completion, the Welch dormitory and a new gymnasium. Plans for Fayer weather Hall, which is to be for the use of the Sheffield Scientific School, are now in the hands of the architects. Yale, as well as S. U. L., is very much cramped for room.

An interesting question is called to mind in connection with the National University now establishing at Washington. It will be remembered that among the bequests of Gen. George Washington there was one of fifty shares of the Potomac Company for the endowment of a national university, to be established under the auspices of the National Congress. What has become of the stock?

Alumni Notes.

Dora Gillillan, ’89, is taking seminary work in the University. Bickie & Schoenmaker, D. ’91, have opened an office at Rock Island, Ill. W. P. Slattery is attending the Bell view College of Medicine in New York City. J. M. Lindley, P. ’89, is a candidate for treasurer of Henry county on the Democratic ticket. R. Annette Slotterbeck, ’88, is teacher of German and Science in the high school at Elgin, Ill. D. Powell Johnson, L. ’88, and S. F. Sawyer, L. ’91, have entered into partnership in the law, loan, real estate and insurance business, under the firm name of Johnson & Sawyer. A Musc letine paper says in regard to the above: "They are two of Muscatine’s most intellectual young men, and will doubtless enjoy the success which their many friends unhesitatingly predict for them."

President Cyrus Northrup, of the Minnesota State University, has been invited to deliver the dedicatory address in the Y. M. C. A. building, but exercises will probably occur about Nov. 8.

Book Review.

This charming little story, already in its fourth thousand, is in the midst of a career of wide popularity. It is the story of a southern gentleman after the war—a Virginian Ex-Confederate Colonel—who moves to New York to develop a project for a local railroad in the neighborhood of his estate. His card: Colonel George Fairfax Carter, of Carter Hall, Cartersville, Virginia, is typical of his high toned spirit and pride of ancestry. This simple, yet high-minded Southerner, frank, courteous, hospitable, as he is, with his Southern peculiarities and eccentricities, is amusingly out of place in Wall street, and the description gives us knowledge of a character which has heretofore been but imperfectly developed. Between the good old colonel and the fashionable "Carter" Hall, and thelovable old Colonel’s experiences in Wall Street; between the delightfully hospitable Virginia mode of life, the Colonel’s devotion to his friends, and "Aunt Nancy, a true Southern lady," with a romantic history; between all these and the experiences among Wall Street brokers, of the old Colonel with his severe southern dignity and southern ideas of "honor," there is endless room for pathos, humor and wisdom of the highest order. The author has improved this opportunity to the utmost, and given us the brightest and freshest story of the year.

This historical-biographical sketch of the great martyr President was first published in the Century in the form of a criticism of the Nicolay and Hay History. Put into book form it makes a most valuable contribution to the vast collection of volumes upon Lincoln and his time. The author refers at the start to the maxim that the various books on the life of so great a popular idol as Abraham Lincoln naturally tend to a one-sided, over-drawn picture of his every characteristic. Especially has this been true with reference to biographies of Lincoln; and the sketch which Mr. Schurz gives to the world is exceedingly valuable in that through-out is maintained a disposition to relate every fact and display every trait in its true light. But in overcoming the exaggerated and vaguely idealized martyr Lincoln of the popular mind, the author brings us into a closer and therefore still dearer acquaintance with the plain, warm-hearted, honest man, who sprang from the class he himself called the "plain people," and never in all his greatness lost his respect and love for them.

In its November number the Cosmopolitan will publish a series of letters written by Gen. W. T. Sherman to one of his young daughters, between the years 1860 and 1865, and covering most of the important events of the war of secession. These letters present graphic pictures of a great soldier amid some of the stirring scenes in which he was a giant figure, and in them the patriotic spirit of the Federal general is seen to have been most attractively tempered by a strong affection for the Southern people. The fraternal feeling which grows in these letters is in refreshing contrast to the sectional bitterness which characterized the period, and they will constitute an interesting and important contribution to the literature of the war.
