Society Programs.

Few students of the University fully realize the magnitude of the Law Literary Society of the S. U. I. A few members of the Junior class determined at the beginning of last year to have a Law Literary Society. The energy of those sturdy few is now bearing fruit. The program of last night sparkled with wit and repartee. The stern logic of debate would have been appreciated by the most cultured audience. The question: Resolved, That the present tendency of civilization is toward the suppression of individuality, was ably affirmed by Messrs. Drew and Clark, denied by Mears, Fisher and Ingham. Mr. Harry D. Allen entertained the audience with a declamation, truly earning the reputation of a first class declaimer. Brief extemporeous speeches were made by Messrs. McMarrow, Farlow, Coleman. The large and appreciative audience dispensed feeling that truly the followers of Blackstone are the peers of any literary men in the University.

The subject for debate in Irving last night was: Resolved, That all ex-presidents of the United States should hold a seat in the Senate for life. Affirmed by Hart and Harl Myers. Denied by Stiles and Pierce. Decided in the negative.

In the Zetagathall Hall a good sized audience listened to a debate on the question: Resolved, That the attitude of the Russian government toward the Jews is justifiable. On the affirmative side were Geo. Shambaugh and L. L. Elliott. On the negative, Kaye and Russell. The decision was in favor of the affirmative.

The following are the programs for this evening:

HESPERIAN.

Recitation. . . . Bertha Wilson

"Archie Dean."

Debate: Resolved, That the World's Fair should be open on Sundays. Affirmative, Beiss Parker, Florence Brown; Negative, Julia Rogers, Kate Wickham.

Oration. . . . G. W. Griswold

"The Coming Party."

Faculty Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Faculty yesterday an Athletic Committee was appointed to confer with the Athletic Association consisting of Profs. Sampson, Weed and Andrews. The petition from the foot ball team to be excused from drill was laid on the table.

The Phi Psi Party.

The Phi Kappa Psi's gave their first party last evening, well sustaining their former good reputation as entertainers. Good music was furnished by Spevedot's orchestra, and refreshments were served by Fred Grandrath. The following of their lady friends were present: Misses. Alford, Holt, Copeland, Hutchinson, Clarke, Moore, Glenson, Ashley and Gilchrist.

Local and Personal.

Our college exchanges are now on file in the office, and members of the Association are invited to call and look over them between two and three o'clock on Saturdays.

Mr. John R. Charlesworth, of New York, will speak in the Unitarian Church on Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week. His subject on Monday evening will be the "Philosophy of Secularism."

Professor Perkins spent part of this week in Dubuque for the purpose of looking up material in reference to the Trappist monks, which organization he has selected as the subject for a second historical monograph.

We hope to hear from our exchanges in the Iowa Inter Collegiate Athletic Association, next week, with reference to the prospect of a general adoption of the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union on the subject of professionalism.

The chapel exercises are one of the pleasantest features this year. We can not help wondering why this was not so long ago. It only needs a short talk by one of the Faculty each morning and a still larger attendance to make our chapel exercises what they should be in a University like ours.

The English Seminary, under Prof. Sampson and Mr. Stephens, met last Tuesday afternoon. A lecture from each instructor preparatory to beginning the study of Tennyson, besides some discussion, occupied the time.

A slight rearrangement in the book cases in the library materially improves the appearance and convenience of the book room. Especially is this noticeable in the Philosophy corner where a comfortable little space for reading and writing has been made.

Professor McClain gave the students in the Law Department a short talk Friday on the advisibility of attending the lecture courses. His advice to every student in the Law Department was to attend every lecture in the course.

We quote the following from Circular E. of the Adjutant General's office, at Washington, D. C., issued Oct. 2, 1891:

"The new drill regulations for infantry, cavalry and artillery, are now about to be printed, and the attention of all concerned is invited to par. 3809, Revised Statutes of the U. S., which is as follows:

"If any person desiring extra copies of any document printed at the government printing office by authority of law shall, previous to its being put to press, notify the Congressional printer of the number of copies wanted, and shall pay to him in advance, the estimated cost thereof, and ten per centum on the same."

These desiring copies of the new tactics should hand their names to Lieut. Read, and get them under the above provision, thus saving about one half of what they would otherwise cost.

Prince Beselow, son of an African chief, is a freshman at Williams. He is the author of a book entitled "From the Darkness of Africa to the Light of America," and will return to his native country as a missionary.

The Regents of the Wisconsin State University have provided for a series of lectures upon educational and industrial subjects, to be delivered by the university professors at any place where a small fee will be paid to cover expenses.
This University extension movement is one of the most promising signs of the times. By its means many are enabled to enjoy that "college spirit" which is such an undoubted yet potent factor of university life. There is a solidarity of humanity which is perhaps as manifest in the pursuit of knowledge as any other undertaking. There is power in numbers and common effort. In this fact lies the secret of the success of this modern method of reaching the masses.

Is S. U. I. doing her duty in this matter? It is true isolated courses of lectures have in the past been given by members of the faculty. But nothing like an organized attempt has been made. Why should not the example of Kansas State be followed? There, the professors and upper-classmen unite in offering courses of instruction to the people of the towns surrounding Leavenworth. This cause—the intellectual awakening of the great body of our people—is of moment to every citizen.

From him who has much, much will be expected. Here is a duty we owe to humanity, to our state, and to our selves. Let us look to it, that we do not shrink from it!

The class in Advanced Rhetoric is now spending considerable time in writing essays which are read aloud in class. A novel feature is that the Professor each day places the class in charge of one of the members. This member must answer as well as ask questions, and much opportunity is thus given for original thought.

Do you read? If not why not? Do you have severe headache? Do you see objects double? Do your eyes pain you while reading? Is your distant vision good? Have you ever had your eyes examined? If not, call at once and have same corrected at A. M.
