Kennen’s Lecture.
An audience of over 500 greeted Mr. Kennan at the Opera House last Tuesday evening. Mr. Kennan is not a stranger in Iowa City. His lecture here last winter won for him many warm admirers, and those who then heard him expected a treat Tuesday evening. They were not disappointed.

In a tone pleasing and commanding Mr. Kennan held the closest attention as he told of the severe restrictions that are placed upon them and the severity to which they are exposed, one could but feel that it is strange that in this enlightened age men should be subjected to such inhuman treatment, worse than barbarism, worse than slavery. Especially interesting was it to hear Mr. Kennan relate the stragglers to which he was forced to resort in the course of recherché of the desired information concerning the exiles, and also the manner in which he finally succeeded in reaching the prison dens of some of the exiles. On the other hand, it was with a feeling of sadness that his audience listened to the account of the many suicides by these exiles as their last hope of freedom from torture.

Mr. Kennan described and exhibited a dress worn by the prisoners, which, more than anything else, gave his audience an insight to the customs of the exiles in East Siberia.

The lecture was entertaining throughout and all felt that they were amply repaid for coming out to hear one of the most noted lecturers of the day.

Engineering Society.
The Engineering Society will meet Thursday evening, October 21st, at 7:30, in Professor Jameson’s lecture room, Science Building. Students of Civil and Electrical Engineering departments invited. H. M. North, President.

The Senior Class.
At noon last Tuesday the Senior class held its first meeting of the year. A standing committee of five was appointed. Developments may be looked for in the future.

The following officers for the year were elected: President, Katharine Barger; vice-president, W. T. Chantland; secretary, D. T. Dallenbaugh; treasurer, W. R. Whites; sergeant-at-arms, J. C. Monnet.

German Seminary.
At the German Seminary, Wednesday evening, a critical paper was read by Mr. Reimers, on “Die Juden” one of Lessing’s early dramas. Then followed a general discussion on the merits and demerits of the drama and its value, as compared with other dramatic productions of the time. The work of the Seminary for the Fall term, as planned by Professor Wilson, will be the consideration of all the dramatic works of Lessing, and a careful study of the dramas of the great reformer of the German stage will, we do not hesitate to predict, prove both interesting and instructive.

The Joint Debate.
The committees appointed by the Wheeler and Boies Clubs, to make arrangements for the joint debate, have selected the following speakers:
For the Democrats—H. B. Larabee, L ’92, W. C. Mullen, L ’92, and H. E. Kelley, ’93.

The questions to be discussed are the Tariff, Prohibition, and Silver. Each speaker is to have twenty minutes. The debate will be held at the Opera House, next Tuesday evening.

A School Lyceum.
Teachers will be interested in a new feature which “The Year’s Companion” has taken. That paper proposes to receive as an institution the old debating society which used to be so great a force in making young men intelligent citizens and in developing broad national leaders.

The plan proposed is an organization of national reach, called the Lyceum League of America. It is to consist of a system of local lyceums or clubs, connected with each other through a newly created lyceum department in “The Year’s Companion.” The lyceum department grants all charters and accepts the care of the movement. With each charter it furnishes free an equipment consisting of “Casing’s Manual,” secretary’s book and other needed help. It suggests topics for discussion and gives aid in their study.

An important part of this aid is a carefully chosen list of books on American problems, which it places within the reach of clubs. Among the books are Bryce’s “American Commonwealth,” Fiske’s “Civil Government,” the “American Statesman” series, Prof. Eliot’s books, etc. There are also books for younger readers.

The aim of this undertaking is to train young men to think intelligently on the great problem of American life, and to impress them with the duties of citizenship. The work is to be above all partisanship. It is to be American in the broadest sense. It aims to give practical direction to the patriotic enthusiasm which the general school-dag movement has awakened— a movement inaugurated by the same paper. Incidental benefits will be parliamentary training and learning how to think on one’s feet.

This plan has been in process of elaboration for more than a year, and we are informed. It has already the endorsement of leading educators as a practical and timely scheme, for which there is room in every school where there are boys or young men.
