Classes of '92.

The University of Iowa Graduates 73 Lawyers and 48 Collegiates—Professor Wambaugh's Address—Alumni Day, Business Transacted, the Banquet—Features of Commencement.

Alumni Business Meeting.

The Alumni held a long and enthusiastic business meeting in the society hall Tuesday afternoon. Among other things the Alumni decided to abolish the committee on General University Affairs. It was thought that the individual effort of all the alumni would be much more powerful than the effort of a committee and at the same time it would not allow the alumni in general to expect their committee to do all the work unsaid. This committee is one of long standing and its abolition discards Mr. Carroll Wright, a member of the class of '75, from a committee which has been since its establishment, a part of the Wright family, beginning with Judge G. W. Wright. The offices of orator and poet were also abolished and all literary exercises for the annual meeting were put in charge of the Executive Committee. These exercises will in the future be mostly in the nature of toasts. Great interest in general University affairs was shown and especially in athletics. A standing committee on athletics was appointed and Mr. J. F. Kuehnle, '81, L. L. B., of Des Moines, Iowa, who was afterwards elected President of the Association, volunteered to donate one hundred dollars to the Alumni Association for athletic purposes provided a certain number of other alumni would do the same thing. The following officers were elected: President, J. F. Kuehnle, '81, L. L. B.; 1st Vice President, Miss Ella Ham, St. Louis, Iowa; Secretary, O. A. Byington, '81, Iowa City; Treasurer, Professor G. T. W. Patrick, '78, Iowa City.

Alumni Banquet.

The alumni banquet took place, as usual, on Tuesday evening of Commencement week. About two hundred and fifty alumni and friends of the alumni met together in the society hall, whence after an hour of pleasant informal exchange of greetings they adjourned to the parlors of the Congregational church, where the banquet tables were spread. The president of the Association, Mr. J. E. Cook of Waterloo, called forth speeches from various members present. Professor Logan, representing the Faculty, spoke in earnest words of the possibilities open to S. U. L., especially in the line of athletics. After a polished speech by W. L. Drew of the Law class '92, W. F. Meyers, in a bright and entertaining way set forth the merits of the outgoing class, and Milton Remley, '97, showed the pleasing changes which twenty-five years have brought about for the Alumni Association, G. W. Ball, '76, then spoke for a few minutes on the increasing influence of S. U. L. alumni upon the world's progress. Professor Parvin, who for twenty-five years has been present at every alumni reunion, and who once more gladdened hearts by his words of friendship for S. U. L., was followed by Mr. Gilliland, '79, who as a loyal alumnus, noted the great progress which has been made in the various departments of the University. A royal welcome greeted Dr. Pickard, who concluded the speeches of the evening by his genuine words of kindness and affection.

The following alumni are in the city:

Law Commencement.

The twenty-seventh annual commencement of the Law department was held at the opera house Wednesday morning before a large audience. The graduating class this year is the largest since the two years course was introduced. It numbers seventy-three members. The invocation had been offered by Rev. M. A. Bullock, when the Mignon Quartette of Muscatine, consisting of Mrs. Agnes Hatch St. John, Mrs. Garlock, Miss Schmidt and Miss Dolem, rendered "Estudiantina," a Spanish air, admirably. They were heartily encored and responded with a second selection.

President Schaeffer then introduced Professor Wambaugh who addressed the graduating class on the subject, "The Best Education for a Lawyer." A public school education is better for a prospective lawyer than that afforded by a private school. A lawyer must not be handicapped by sect prejudices, but must have a church or party. His clients will be found among all sorts and conditions of men; in order therefore to be eminently successful it becomes necessary for the lawyer to understand the men that he will have to deal with; this he will be unable to do, however, if his horizon is narrowed by prejudice. No prospective lawyer should neglect the opportunity for self-culture and training afforded by a college course. The value of mathematics, the languages, and natural sciences to the law student is inestimable.

Of the 800 students that will this year be admitted to the bar there will be fully 600 who have never seen the inside of a law school. It is needless to say all such labor under a great disadvantage. A person may possess many natural talents but unless he cultivates them assiduously he will find himself outstripped in the race by the men of less ability but who are possessed of better methods of accomplishing the ends in view.

My earnest advice, therefore, to every young man who intends to fit himself for the practice of law, is not to read law in an office but to take a course at the law school. The address was followed by a vocal selection, "Coming Through the Rye," by the Mignon Quartette, which were again encored and responded with another beautifully rendered song.

Chancellor McClain then presented the Class for degrees in a short but excellent address of advice and a general estimate of a lawyer's work. The graduates were then presented with diplomas by President Schaeffer, after which the orals were administered by Hon. Gifford S. Robinson, LL. B., Judge of the Supreme Court of Iowa, and Hon. William J. Haddock, Commissioner of the United States Circuit Court.

A vocal selection, "Daybreak," was finely rendered by the Mignon Quartette. The visitors were again encored. Chancellor McClain then proceeded to award the prizes for theses. The four prizes of twenty dollars each, awarded for several years, were won by Lemuel M. Kratz, George B. Thompson, Ph. B., Thomas M. Dougherty and John Culligan. These prizes are equal and are not announced in order of merit. A new prize of twenty five dollars is offered this year for the first time by Mr. A. L. Hudson, L. S., of Sioux City, for the thesis possessing greatest literary merit; — clearness and strength of style. This prize was awarded to Carl A. Stutsman, A. B. '96.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. T. A. Davis, Pastor of the Baptist Church.

Collegiate Commencement

The thirty-second annual commencement was held at the opera house this morning. A large and interested audience of spectators and friends of the graduating class, including his excellency, Governor Bolls, was in attendance and listened to a programme which was in every way characteristic of the strength of the class which it represented.

Katharine B. Barber, the first speaker, had chosen as her subject "Social Harmony." Her central thought was that as in the physical so in the social world evils should be nipped in the bud; if children are properly educated they will develop into useful members of society.

The next orator, Harry S. Richards, spoke on the "Growth of the Federal Principle." He showed the difference between Confederation and Federation; reviewed the various crises at which the federal principle had been tested in the United States and argued that our country is at present the most perfect example of an ideal federation.

Laura Clarke's oration differed somewhat in construction from that of the other speakers. She represented the trials of a girl graduate in making a choice in life. Music, poetry, art, each has its attractions, but the teacher is one who can do the most for those already held at the feet of the teacher who puts this knowledge into practical use and sets an example for those who are under her supervision, is truly performing a lofty mission in life.

Julia E. Rogers, was the next speaker, and her subject, "Noblesse Oblige," dwelt principally on the advantages which we of the nineteenth century enjoy, especially along the lines of higher education. The man or woman who neglect the opportunity for self-cultivation and self-improvement is no better than he who sells his birthright for a mess of pottage.

The last speaker, Julien C. Monnet, spoke of the Skeptic student. Many timid parents are afraid of sending their children to non-sectarian schools because they believe that in some way or other education will destroy their faith in the religion of their youth. Education does wage battle with dogma, but it is not the foe of the great fundamental truths of religion, which are everlasting as the hills. On the contrary, the better we are educated the more we feel that there is behind and above all a divine, a creative force which we can not reason away.

The dean of the faculty, Professor Currier, then presented the candidates for graduation. President Schaeffer, by virtue of the authority in him vested, conferred degrees upon the following persons:
