Notice.

There will be a meeting of the Ridgway Club, Tuesday evening, Oct. 17, in the botanical room, at 7:30 p.m. All students interested in the biological sciences are invited to be present.

Law Literary.

The Laws had an interesting program Saturday evening. Hale, L. '95, read a well written paper on "Languages." The debate was on the question, whether the stand taken by the Republican and Democratic parties of Iowa on the liquor question, is detrimental to the best interests of the state. This question was argued by McCreary and Schedenhelm on the affirmative, and Hogan and Noon on the negative. The best part of the program was the speech made to the the boys by Chancellor McClain, on the subject of oratory, which was deservedly well appreciated.

Fossil Plants Discovered.

The last number of the American Geologist, October, 1893, contains an article by Professor T. H. McBride, describing a new species of Cycad. Cycadaceous plants have been hitherto unknown in the geological strata of this continent, and so the article in the Geologist not only introduces a new species, but an entirely new group of fossil plants to American geology. Professor McBride found a number of individuals of this interesting, old fashioned type of plants, during a recent visit to some out-of the-way localities in the region of the Black Hills. The article referred to is illustrated by half tone figures reproduced from photographs of specimens secured for the University Museum.

Annual Board.

The Junior class met in Zet. Hall Saturday at 11 a. m. The vacancies in the Annual Board were filled so that body is now constituted as follows: Allen, Editor in Chief; Mason vice Hull, resigned, Chief Business Manager; Williams, Chief Literary Editor; Davis and Virtue, vice Mason, Assistant Business Managers; Decker, Rogers, Anderson, and Misses Holt, Burrell, and Henderson, Literary Editors; Hearst, vice Miss Ashley, Civic Editor; Keefe, Walrod, and Miss Gilchrist, vice Miss Ingham, Humorous Editors; Aldrich, Athletic Edltor; Kinmonth and Miss Lomas, Department Editors; Ditzen and Blakely, Art Editors.

The class decided to have a social a week from next Thursday, and appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements.

Personality and its Place in Expression.

Mrs. P. K. Partridge, Instructor in Elocution, lectured before her pupils Friday afternoon on "Personality and Its Place in Expression." The lecture contained many valuable suggestions in the way of developing the power of expression. In the course of her remarks she took occasion to say that expression is subjective, not objective; it is not of the body, but through the body. It is the soul that speaks. Forgetfulness of self and of all things is expressien. The lecture could be made profitable to many if the suggestions were followed out. For those who expect to take part in the various contests of the year, especially those who have never had any work of this kind, this lecture was particularly valuable.

Sophomores vs. Junior Laws.

The first class game of the season was played between the Sophomores and Junior Laws last Saturday. The teams line up at 2:30, Saturday, as follows:

SOPHOMORES.		JUNIOR LAWS.
Stover,	r.e.	Lary,
Tompkins	r.t.	Badgerow
Beckman	r.g	Narey
Graves	c.	Bush
Stowe	l.g.	Collins
Coldren	l.t	Hoops
Hurst	l.e.	Busby
Tuttle	q.b.	Anthony
Kimball	r.h.b.	Herrig
Clark	l.h.b.	Cox
Emry	f.b.	Burton

'96 choose the east goal and the Laws took the ball. By whirling V Herrig made a touch-down within one minute and kicked goal. '96 was somewhat discouraged, but took the ball and by a V wedge and two end plays Clark made a touch-down and kicked goal, making the score, Laws 6, Sophs 6.

The Laws now took the ball and after four downs lost the ball to the Sophs who in turn lost the ball on a fumble. Herrig made another touch-down by an end play, and failed to kick goal. Laws 10, Sophs 6.

'96 got the ball, lost to Laws, regained it; made a touch-down by a V rush, Clark kicked goal. Laws 10, Sophs 12.

Laws ball, lost to '96, who in turn lost on a fumble, '96 gets the ball on four downs, and the ball is then lost and regained until time is called at the end of thirty minntes, leaving the score 12 to 10 in favor of the Sophs.

In the second half '96 took the ball and by several end plays and a V rush scored a touch-down, Clark failed to kick goal. Laws 10, Sophs 16.

Laws took the ball, Herrig hurt his ankle and had to leave the field, and '96 got the ball. By end plays and a fine run of twenty-five yards by Clark, another touch-down was made, Clark failed to kick goal. Laws 10, Sophs 20.

The Laws then got the ball but time was called, leaving the ball near the middle of the field.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

Although the Laws team averaged from 15 to 20 pounds heavier than the Sophomore's, the work of the rush line and half-backs of the Sophomore's was much better than that of the Laws, with the exception of Herrig.

Clark, Stover, Hurst, and Tompkins broke through the line easily and did good work for the Sophomores.

Tompkins played a fine game for his first one.

On the Laws' side Anthony indulged in too much rough playing.

The Game With Denver.

According to the telegram received from Denver Saturday evening, the S. U. I. team are defeated at the rate of 56 to 0. While we did not expect a victory, this score is entirely too overwhelmning to meet with our entire approval. The team we sent West was apparently the best one that has gone out from this school. At least it had the weight and the experience and the coaching. That they could not at least hold down their opponents better than they did makes it very apparent that there is a radical fault somewhere, either in the men or in the management. From our observation of the practice games we have thought all along that enough stress was not given to defensive playing. We remember that at one practice in particular the scrub team with only eight men won a touch-down from the full Varsity team. We hope this Denver defeat will show the boys their weakness sufficiently and spur them on so that they will make a good showing in their Eastern trips.

A full report of the game will be published in our next issue.

Baconian Club.

Professor Jameson addressed the club Friday evening, on the subject of "The Evolution of Rapid Transit in Cities."

The first means of transit of which there is anything known, was a chair suspended from two long poles and borne on the shoulders of two carriers. From this was developed the Sedan Chair, so called from a city in France, where they first came into general use. These chairs served the purpose very well at that time, for the streets were very narrow and so rough as to make wheeled vehicles out of the question.

London was the first city to have an omnibus line, and from there the system soon spread over Europe.

Next came the street cars, or tram cars, such as were used in connection with the mines of England. These were at first built with flat wheels and flanged rails, but soon this was found to be too expensive and the wheels were flanged instead; the rails at this time were wooden, but were afterward reinforced by strap iron nailed along the top.

In 1832 the first street railway was built in this country. It was in New York and was called the New York and Harlem Street Railway. John Stephenson was the first builder and is at present at the head of one of the greatest car companies in the United States. Animal power was used at first but was not economical. When it was found that the average life of a street car horse was four years and that a horse averaged only two hours work per day, some other motive power was sought.

In 1872 John Halliday instituted the cable system in San Francisco, and so successful was the venture, that now cable cars are to be found not only in our large cities but also in Australia, New Zealand and Constantinople.

Elictricity was first applied to street cars in Cleveland, Ohio, and now the number of electrict systems is nearly double that of all the other systems combined.

London has a very elaborate underground system, which cost $120,000,000 and the same plan was agitated in Now York but was suspended by the elevated road. This permits the use of steam and admits of much greater speed than surface lines, the average being eighteen miles per hour as compared to seven for eletric and cable lines and four for horse lines.

The paper was discussed at some length, after which Professor Nutting reported on a discovery among the hydroids obtained by the Bahama Expedition, and Doctor Gilchrist gave a report on anaesthetics.

At the next meeting Professor Rockwood will present a paper on "Sources of Muscular Energy."

Hesperian.

The program was opened with an instrumental solo by Mr. Toogood. This was followed by a declamation, "Willie Baird," given by Mae Lomas '95, who entered into the spirit of her declamation in a way that thrilled the whole audience.

Annabel Collins, '94, gave a five minuite speech in which she humorously depicted the various characters that may be seen hurrying across the Campus to eight o'clock recitations,

The audience next enjoyed a violin solo by Miss Larrabee after which Elizabeth Jones '96. gave a declamation "Tommy's Troubles." The selection was too, short, otherwise it was very good indeed for the mimicry of a little child excellent.

The debate of the evening was on the quastion, Resolved: That the present financial distress is due to the election of a Democratic Congress. It was affirmed by Marion Davies, '96, and Fanny Davis, '95, and denied by Helen Stuart, '95, and Frances Church, '94. Miss Davis talked naturally and well but was not quite systematic enough in marshalling her points. Miss Stuart wandered about too much in the first part but during the last part she made some of the best points made during the whole debate. Miss Davis talked well and held the interest of her audience from the beginning to end as did Miss Church who came after her.

Jessie Corlette then gave a declamation. This was Miss Corlette's first appearance on a Hesperian program and her declamation showed very thorough preparation. The program was closed by an instrumental duet by Misses Kleckner and Wood.

S. K. Stevenson, '93, received the nomination of the Republicans of this county for Superintendent of Schools, last Saturday.

A good motto for the young gentlemen of S. U. I., or any other young gentlemen for that matter, to follow, is the old saw that "what's worth doing at all is worth doing well." And this principle works as creditably when it comes to military drill in the school battalion as it does anywhere. Probably the tendency is not so marked now as it will be later on in the year, but there is always a number of men who are inclined to show their distaste for military drill, and their carelessness for proficiency along that line by slovenly bearing in the ranks and dilatory movements. Such behavior may afford a balm to the ruffled sensibilities of the individual, but it entails a greater loss, and should be classed among the actions of the man who cut off his nose to spite his face. Heedlessness during the drill hour makes the time spent a dead waste to the individual, cripples the company in its race for the prize banner, and lowers the efficiency of the battalion as a whole. The man who drags himself over the campus simply because he must keep up with the company, is playing a losing game with himself, is imposing on his fellows, and is churlish in the extreme. The drill hour can be made as valuable if not more valuable than any other hour in the day by attention and promptness in obeying commands.

In compiling the S. U. I. Directory last week, our attention was called to the fact that the Base-Ball Team has as yet no Manager. Now if S. U. I. is to have a base-ball team next spring that will be in any way creditable to the Institution a Manager should be selected at once. Base-ball teams cannot be developed in a day. In fact it has been S. U. I's. greatest weakness in athletics and oratory that everything is put off until the last minute and then it is thought that by hard training and great enthusiasm victories can be won. It takes more than enthusiasm to win a foot-ball game or an oratorical contest. It takes ability and that of a kind which usually has to be developed and such development comes slowly. Let us begin now and possibly next spring we can retrieve the defeats of last year.

We wish to call the attention of the management at Close Hall to the unfinished condition of the reading room, and the utter want of system in the arrangement of the periodicals and papers kept there. Of course we all recognize the difficulties which lay in the way of getting the room cleaned and papered at the beginning of the term, and appreciate that this unsettled condition of things could not be helped for a time; but certainly four weeks is time enough. This reading room had come to be the common resort of a very large number of students who had a few leisure moments in which to glance over a daily paper or to read some one of the many standard magazines which were kept on its shelves. And we regret that from a sheer inability to find the paper they want in the hetrogenous mass which has littered up the one reading table in the room during the past few weeks, many of these students have been driven to spend their leisure time in other places.

We do not wish to unfairly criticise, but we do think that it is high time the magazine shelves were put in their places, and some effort made to keep the various journals in their proper places, so that members of the association and their friends may enjoy the privileges of this reading room as they formerly did.

"The Inside Track" was presented to a large and well pleased audience by the Wilson Theatre Co., last evening. The different characters were well portrayed, the dialogue bright, and the plot and climaxes very entertaining. Several neat and pleasing specialties were introduced by Miss Maud Phelphs and Mr. Ed Whelen. Taking everything into consideration, the company, play, stage settings, etc., were up to the standard, and gave a great deal better satisfaction than some more pretentious companies.
