The State University of Iowa

The following article was written by Professor James A. Jambor, and published in the Tri-weekly Bed Bug, on the 29th of March, 1895.

The game was that of the director of the State University of Iowa, the director being a student in the third year of the University, and the team composed of four very able players.

The game was continuous, and the team work and fielding was excellent as a result. Only five errors were made; two by Hopkins, one each by Chambers, Wilson and Ayer.

The game was the result of the trip, and the victory a splendid one for the men.

The struggle was close throughout, and only once did Northwestern get a dangerous lead; that was in the sixth inning when they made four runs. This was evened up in the seventh inning, and in the ninth, when we made two runs and three runs respectively.

At several different points the game was intensely exciting; especially was this so in the tenth inning. The score was a tie and Northwestern put every effort into winning the game. Our men, however, stubbornly contested every inch of the ground, shut out our opponent, and with Grylls in the box against them, brought in the much desired eighth run.

Baylor pitched a magnificent game, this was his first trial this season, as he handled the bat as if he had never played a game in the box. He is credited with ten strike outs, but was unfortunate enough to permit six men to take bases on balls off of his delivery. Ingam made him excellent support. Games was again placed on first and played an excellent game. Hopkins held down second and Chambers third; otherwise the positions were filled as in former games.

The play began at 5 and the batting order was as follows:

N.E. UNIX:

- J. J. Jepson, 1st
- W. H. Hopkins, 2nd
- J. E. Chambers, 3rd
- C. E. Ingham, 4th
- P. Bailey, pitcher

E. U.:

- E. L. Ayer, 1st
- C. E. L. F. Lowrey, 2nd
- J. H.با، 3rd
- W. E. Griffith, 4th

Northwestern was at bat first. Jepson, their first man up, went to first on balls. Jepson was safe at first on a hit to Bailey. Ingram passed a ball and Jepson scored. Nickles hit safely to center but was caught napping at second. Hansen went to first on balls and scored on Ingham's high throw to second. These two runs were all for N. W. in this inning. McWilliams made the third out by fanning. S. U. failed to score in that half. Lyon, Chambers and Ingham going out at first. Hopkins made a two bagger but died on bases.

In the second inning the tables were turned and Northwestern was shut out, while our men brought in one run.

In the third and fourth neither team scored; everybody played hard and the contest during this went to a place of a beautiful one. The fifth gave N. W. its fourth base and increased our score to a total of two runs.

The sixth was a discouraging inning for our men; while we were shut out, S. U. brought in four. Cooling came to bat for Northwestern and hit safely to right. Leesley hit to Chambers who threw wild to first. Witter hit a slow ball to WILL Zetagathan.

Owing to the influence of the weather the evening service was held in the program at the south hall last Saturday evening.

The program was opened by music, followed by a declamation by Yeelen. The speaker was unfortunate in having a bad cold which interfered with his usual good delivery.

Mr. Smith followed in a speech on "Parables in History." Mr. Smith spoke fluently and interestingly of the connection and contrast between our government and the Prussian empire, and developed several interesting facts.

Moses, Paige, Sayers, Keefe and Kaye took part in the debate. Very little interest was shown, and with the exception of Kaye the speakers were decidedly disappointing. As a point of fact the debate is by far the most interesting and prominent part of the programs, but on this occasion the debate was a conspicuous exception to the rule.

Mr. Gray gave an oration entitled "Opportunity makes the Man." It is quite true that the oration was not inferior in thought but suffered decidedly in the way it was delivered.

B. R. Cross closed the program with a declaration. It was well delivered and would have been the best performance on a far better program than was given Friday evening. His voice and bearing were most appropriate. Indeed in every way the delivery of the declamation was above the average.

Dental Convention.

At the meeting of last Thursday evening those present were entertained by a talk on some special cases of dentistry with particular reference to bridge work, by Dr. C. J. Peterson, of Dubuque. The Dentist's decided success in favor of newer methods called forth considerable animated discussion. The presentation was illustrated by numerous diagrams and illustrations projected by a stereopticon, and was preceded by throwing upon the screen the portraits of several officers of the association, also those of the late Drs. Kulp and Patrick. The remainder of the meeting was devoted to business and to the election of the following officers for the ensuing year.

President—Dr. E. B. Brooks, Vinton.

Vice-President—Dr. K. Fullerton, Cedar Falls.

Secretary—Dr. F. T. Brown, Des Moines.

At this meeting of Friday morning papers were read by Drs. Hunt, Baker, of Davenport, James, of Fairfield, Wilson, of Dubuque, and others.
