The paper of Friday evening was read by Dr. Littig. The subject was "The Athletics and the Semi-Sale, Heart, and High Blood Pressure." Dr. Littig related the story of a young man who had been treated with medicinal exercise and was now enjoying good health. He also discussed the benefits of exercise for people with high blood pressure.

The debate on the question "Is there a need for professional sport in the modern world?" was initiated by Mr. Brown. He argued that professional sport is necessary for the advancement of athletic skills and that it provides a platform for athletes to compete.

The debate on the question "Is the professional sport system in the modern world beneficial?" was initiated by Mr. Personsburg. He argued that the professional sport system is beneficial for the athletes and that it provides a platform for them to compete and showcase their skills.

Saturday's Games

The debate continued on Saturday morning with a discussion on the "Impact of Professional Sport on Society." Mr. Personsburg argued that professional sport has a negative impact on society, while Mr. Brown argued that it has a positive impact.

The debate concluded with a discussion on the "Future of Professional Sport." Mr. Personsburg suggested that there is a need for change, while Mr. Brown argued that the current system is working well.

The debate ended with the audience expressing their thoughts and opinions on the issues discussed.

The audience was in agreement with Mr. Personsburg's argument that there is a need for change in the professional sport system, and they believed that it is necessary to promote fair play and to ensure that all athletes are treated equally.

The audience was in agreement with Mr. Brown's argument that the current system is working well, and they believed that it should be preserved.

The debate concluded with a call for action and a plea for the development of a fair and equitable system for professional sport.

"Maloney's Wedding" seems to be about all one reads or hears about of late, and it is really amusing to listen to the funny stories that are told at Dan's expense. The latest is that a few evenings ago Maloney made his final visit to the home of the bride-elect to beg his acquaintance to obtain her parent's consent to a peaceful union; but the old couple were as obtuse as ever. When pressed to state their objection fully, the old gentleman said in the first place his daughter was too young; second, that he could not see where it came in for Van Blatz to act in the capacity of best man, and further, that if Dutchman attempted to kiss his daughter after the formalities were over, there would be trouble sure; but Maloney informs us that the event will take place at the Opera House Saturday evening, just the same.

Fact and Rumor.
Rita Stewart is able to resume her work again.

Cantwell, '90, is confined to his hotel by sickness.

Nannie Carroll, ex-'96, is teaching near West Liberty.

Illness compelled Lulu Holson to miss the recitations Friday.

Clyde Cobb missed recitations Monday on account of illness.

The Wide Awake accompanied the football team to Missouri last Saturday.

Dakin, '96, has been under the weather for a few days, but is out again this week.

Moore, '98, was unable to accompany the football team on their trip to Missouri on account of illness.

Junior and Senior English classes have not met this week on account of the absence of Professor Washcomb.

The Erodophilans have accepted the challenge of the Heptesiers to a joint contest to take place some time during theWinter term.

Hughes, C. 96, who was hurt in the Junior-Freshman game, is improving, and will probably be in school again by the end of this week.

Schaefe, '97, who has been sick for a few weeks with a fretful fever, is now convalescent, but will not be able to be out for a week or ten days.

J. W. Ballard, Phal. '98, was pronounced well after a feverful cup Saturday evening, by a few of his ad mingering friends, in honor of his brilli ant playing in the game with the Medes.

CALL ON BLOOM & MAYER FOR CLOTHING AND HATS.
Harry Gray, ex-'98, visited his coun-in, Gossie Gray, over Saturday.

H. O. Weaver, G, 91, L. 92, is ba-ken prominently spoken of through the state as the next Speaker of the House in the State Legislature this winter. He represents the First Disctrict.

Tompkins, G, M, 98, after a hard batting on the gridiron Saturday afternoon, was ruled from his Sunday morning exercises by the smoke which reared from a small blaze in the back of the house, which was finally put out after a little damage had been done.

Tetzlaff.

The program in the south half last Friday night was opened by a comic song by Miss Dow, which was followed by a declaration, "The Black Horse and His Rider," by Mr. F. C. Wend which was very interesting and all showed Mr. Wend's ability as a speaker.

Next T. J. Sayers delivered an oration which dealt with powers and accomplishments of Prussia and Emperor or Frederick. The composition was good and expressed the thought very clearly. His delivery was pleasing.

The debate on the question "Do school boards have a national board of arbitration to settle differences between employers and employees," was supported by G. C. Kellogg.
He recommended a national board appointed by the President of the United States and ratified by the House of Representatives, whose relation to labor questions should be similar to the function of our supreme court in litigation.

Mr. Bernard Gilliland followed in defense of the negative. He showed how a national board had proven unsuccessful in France, and held that no men can be sufficiently acquainted with the many industries as to be capable of deciding wisely the questions which would arise.

Mr. Hollingsworth continued the argument for the affirmative. He showed how the country is being overrun by the monied class and the advantage of settling labor questions by a prescribed national board of arbitrators, also claiming that under their decision wages would be increased and morality prevail.

Mr. Keefe closed the debate for the negative. He produced arguments to show that any "nationalized" board would be appointed, and the inevitability of influence of money upon such a body.

The next number was a speech by H. E. Ditson. He spoke of the Irving-Zeigfield joint debate, and predicted our victory over Chicago.
Mr. Draper held the attention of the audience by his cool delivery and pointed remarks.

A declamation by E. C. Hewitt, which was pleasant in every way,closed the program.

in reduced tuition fees. What costs a student $15 to $20 annually for tuition in an eastern university but under the wing of the State, costs him $25 to $30 at the Iowa State University, and this takes so account of the much less expensive food board here than there. On a thousand students, the eastern college would require additional fees, as compared with those of our own University, fully equal to the appropriation made to the latter by the State.

Iowa people of means ought to take pride in building up a great university in this State. A splendid start has been made in that direction. Even now, in some particulars, notably in its scientific collections, the Iowa University is absolutely without an equal anywhere. It has furnished the British Museum with fossil Tetrapods, and various American universities are indebted to it for rare specimens in which they were lacking the fact. No American institution of learning has done as much successful origidate work in exploring for specimens of geology and natural history as the Iowa University. Those priceless and rare treasures of science should be kept in a building that is absotutely fire-proof, but, a fire at present would destroy them utterly in the structure in which they now have to be stored.

All that is needed is resources to work with, which includes proper buildings. The Iowa University can never be greater than Michigan University with the liberal assistance which is given that institution.
