The Golden Story Book.
The program in which the distinguished writer of short stories, Miss Alice Adams, was of course a great success. Miss Adams, generously gave her genius and energy, was given for the benefit of the Athletic Association at the Opening of the new House last Saturday. The house was crowded, as so popular an attraction and so good a cause demanded, and the entertainment proved in no way a disappointment to the expectant public.
The program was entirely novel—it can be safely said there has never been given one exactly like it in the United States—and consisted in five stories told by Miss French and illustrated by living pictures designed by "well-known artists" of Iowa City. It was as follows:
Opening number—Misses Brunswiek University Band.

If It Could Be, An Occult Story.
Oil painting: "My uncle will see you into the man's room." Oil painting: "He rose and held out his hand.

The ground in the first of these was a parlor in Arkansas, showing the picture of a girl on the wall. The central figure were a fairy lady and a gallant gentleman in the act of bowing to one another. Misses Anna and Mary Bryan, and Mr. G. D. Lolling represented these figures and the picture.
The second, a scene by a water fall, represented a man holding out his hand to a ghost. The part of the man was taken by Asher W. Kel, and the ghost was produced by a shadow throw by means of a camera and colored lights on the Forty Beck gallery.

Designed by Mrs. Massey.

Piano solo—La Lioprinta, Chamberade Music.

II.
Ambrose, A Woman's Story. Statue: "You lack feelings like maw's." The blackest of colors, while represented the child of the story sitting in the arms of a lady with a spade behind her. Mrs. Ada Culver took the part of the lady, and Miss Margaret Thompson of the child.

Designed by Mrs. Mayer.

Piano solo—Berceuse, Chopin Miss Chase.

III.
The Strike at Glassocks, A Moral Story.
Water color sketch: "I hailed the man on the ladder."

This was a representation of a man on a ladder leaning against a house which he was painting and near him an Arkansas colonel mounted on a grey horse. Two concealed missiles, the colonel's pistol was Mr. Allison; the colonel Mr. Don Ziser.

Designed by Miss Decker and Dr. Warburg, with water color sketch: "I heard her outside at the door, a powder bomb?"

This was a representation of the act of knocking on the door of the house. Miss Decker took the part of the lady.

Designed by Miss Decker and Mrs. Watson.

Violin—Fantaisie Brillante, "Preludes aux claves" De Beriot Mr. Van Steenderen.

The Mob's of a Aunt Tite, A Negro Story.
Water color sketch: "This was a sketch made in the swamps of Arkansas, whose central figure was a negro woman conjurer, standing near a log with snakes writhing at her feet. Mrs. Lewis represented the central figure.

Designed by Mrs. Mayer.

Song—Old Folks at Home.

(Violin accompanied by Mr. Van Steenderen.)

"Was It the Good Bear?" A Child's Story.

Oil painting: "Will I bring it in?"

Scene in Arkansas swamp, two children in a bush, and opposite to them a bear. Little Jesus Runway took the part of the little girl.

Designed by Mrs. Vogel.

Quickspear—"Assess the Dominent." University Band.

College Classification.
The following editorial, written by Mrs. Meyer, of the Charles City Herald and Progress, she presented the gavel to Mr. W. C. Dew-Close, president for the coming term. It is written by Miss Evelyn Ladd, of Iowa City, and a faithful and loyal members and is coming constantly more popular in our colleges and universities. The present number of Iowa colleges and universities, now forty, are the general premise.

The debate on the question, "Resolved, that machinery has been, on the whole, beneficial to the public in the U.S., classes," was opened by Mr. Linville. He is an emphatic speaker, and made a good speech for the affirmative.

The first speaker on the opposition was Mr. Boyd. He opened well for the negative, and his first attempt merits much credit.

Mr. Peterburger continued the debate in a very interesting and effective way. He is a good debater and argued his side of the question strongly.

G. N. Briggs closed the debate in a very strong and impressive manner. Mr. Briggs' speech, showed deep thought and careful preparation.

The declaration was affirmative.

The declaration by H. C. Horace, on the "Past," was excellent. Mr. Horace is a fine debater, and he received loud applause from the audience.

The next number was a speech on the "Between England and the United States," by Mr. Iversen. His speech is a good thinker, and his speech was full of interest.

The program closed with a banjo song, "Old folk's a music" by Miss Elinor, of Iowa City, with Mrs. Brown and Frank Horack, which received a hearty encore.

College Boys and Reform.

Another hopeful sign of the times is the launching of the National League of College Social Reform Clubs. The movement took definite form at the last convention, in which colleges from all parts of the country were represented. Nothing could be in better spirit or better taste than the organization of the college and university students in the interest of purity and better public administration. With the collegiate republican clubs and democratic clubs it is no so easy to sympathize. The value of college life lies in the opportunity it affords for this study of principles, the adoption of high ideals, and the impartial examination of history. The student who makes himself a partisan to win, practically abandons that particular attitude of mind which renders his opportunities for study and inquiry. He has plenty of time for aggressive partisan- ship after college work is left behind; but until the college issue, nor its general premises open to legitimate controversy. It is only an escape from the mental attitude of civil service reformers that they can study and observe the political phenomena of any intelligent or sensible point of view. The scientific study of political institutions is becoming constantly more popular in our colleges and universities; and such study must presuppose a belief in honest and efficient administrative methods. The Civil Service Reform club may well become a feature of student life in every institution of learning, professors and instructors also affiliating themselves with the societies.—Review of Reviews.

In German universities the cost to the various governments, compared with the amount of money and research, varies greatly. The fees are vastly less than with us and the bachelor's degree in Germany is of no value on the American market. The following reports were given at DuClaw Saturday night: "Extraction of Nickel from Its Ore," by Professor E. Jackson, "Detection of Blood in the Presence of Rost," by Mr. Dean; "Manufacture of Carbonic Acid," by Professor R. E. Marus.

A neat little volume of 230 pages, entitled "Glimpses of Chicago," by Professor K. Morris, has just been published by Mr. Alton and Company. It is written for the use of high schools, and follows the laboratory method of teaching and reflects great credit upon its author.

We do not desire to weary our readers with complaints of the condition of our Athletic Association, but we believe there are several important facts of which the average student still remains in ignorance.

In the first place, nobody knows how much money the association has on hand, or how much its indebtedness amounts to, and to this fact we attribute much of the prevailing indiscipline as to how the financial affairs of the association are managed. We do not wish to be understood as condemning the present officers of the association, for we know they are doing the best they can to bring order out of chaos. Every few days the treasurer hears about six receipts, but all the receipts which have been running from six months to four years, and nobody knows when this will end. For instance, a bill was presented last Saturday amounting to over thirty dollars, for carpenter work on the grand stand. It has been known to our editors for a year that we have been overdue by about six hundred dollars, which amount will be collected in the near future.

College Notes.

The editors of a periodical at the University of California were suspended recently for publishing a caricature of a member of the faculty. A proposition is being considered to change the name of Columbia College to Columbia University, limiting the name Columbia College to the School of Arts.

The trustees of Cornell have decided to give 500 volumes from the University Library to the University of Virginia out of sympathy for their recent loss by fire.

Princeton's next debate is with Harvard, at Cambridge, on March 15th. Harvard will select the question for discussion, and Princeton will have the choice of sides.

The New England skating association proposes to offer a silver cup for a triangular ice polo league between Harvard, Yale and Brown, to be competed for during the present winter. As yet it has not been announced to us whether any of the colleges have accepted the proposed match.
