Notwithstanding the lateness of the hour to which the Herbertian program was postponed on account of the match basket ball game, Saturday evening, several of the audience assembled in South Hall.

Margaret Van Metre opened the program with one of her always appre­ciated vocal solos.

"Woman's Influence" was the subject of a very fine, carefully written oration by Frances Codner. This was Miss Codner's first appearance on the program, and was a credit both to the society and herself. The only criticism would be that there was lack of force in her delivery.

Margaret Van Metre gave a spicy two-minute speech on the basket ball game.

The debate was upon the question, "Resolved, that pacifism is a greater evil to society than anarchy," as was first formed by Marcie Jacob and Georgia Adams, and denied by Ella Luxemburg and Emily Smith. The subject was well handled by both sides and many good points were brought out. Perhaps Marcie Jacob and Emily Smith, and Ella Luxemburg for the negative, presented the strongest, most convincing argument. Their speeches gave the decision to the negative unanimously. Mary Henrieck followed with a delightful impromptu on "The Irish Woman's Letter," which she gave with her usual good taste.

Mary Kelly closed the program with a piano solo which was heartily ac­cialed.

The program was not, perhaps, up to Herbertian's standard, but a large part of it was necessarily improvised.

Engineering Department.

The Engineering society held a very interesting and profitable meeting at its session last week. B. T. Hartman, E. C. Taylor, and L. Thayer, presented a "paper," which showed the author to have a deep knowledge of the subject. In this paper was included the use of a gin pole for erecting a water tower at Montezuma, Ia.

A very interesting report on the large bridge now under construction across the Delaware River near Philadelphia was given by Mr. Bowman and Mr. Schuler followed.

The Transcript will be published in the near future. The Transcript Board has recently been chosen as follows: Editor-in-Chief, H. T. Hartman, Business Manager, F. E. Hubbard, Associate Editors, J. O. Schuler, and H. A. Dodge.

Professor Magowan has partially recov­ered his health, but is not strong enough yet to do the usual work.

The Sophomores have begun their full survey.

Professor Sims began the course on the steam engine Friday with a large class.

A. L. Lichty, C '90, has recently assisted in the construction of the large yards of the Northwestern Rail­road at Chicago, and is now assist­ant division engineer of the Madison divi­sion of that road.

W. H. Kelly has taken a new course in electricity this term, which is to be taken by the place of the Senior theses.

Chicago, 15: S. U. I. 12.

Between four and five hundred people attended the Alumni Saturday evening to witness the game of basket ball between the University of Chicago and the S. U. I. A. teams. Considerable interest was aroused from our victory of the night, and many hoped that the bas­ket ball might meet with the same good success of the debaters.

The S. U. I men appeared first on the floor and showed considerable skill in their preliminary practice work. Mr. Kallenberg then explained the fundamental rules of the game in the dress circle, and the Chicago men appeared amid the cheers of the audi­ence. The University band rendered several selections during the evening which were very enjoyed.

From the beginning it was evident that our men were out-classed by the world famed Urinal team. The visitors were small but very active, and showed a thorough understanding of the game.

Hutchinson distinguished himself in making nine goals out of twelve trials. As Organy regained two of the goals missed by Hutchinson, only one goal was lost by our side. Freeman made the only field goal for S. U. I. in the first half.

Hobart for the visitors made two goals in each half from the field and nine goals from trials at goal which were allowed on fouls. These, with two goals made by Milten, con­stituted the entire scoring of the visitors.

The large number of fouls made during the game was a source of great dissatisfaction to the audience, as each foul resulted in a trial for goal by the side fouled, and the field goals were thus put at point disadvantage.

The teams played as follows:

Chicago ....... S. U. I.
        Mullin left forward Organy ....... Hubbard (Capt.) .......... Hutchinson
        Garvey center Bailey
        Pouptide right guard Freeman Alshuler left guard Referees--Butterworth and Rup­per.

Graduate Study.

EDITOR VICTEE-REFEREE.

I trust you will not consider me a prophet without a warrant when writing to you a few lines on the above subject, and the ideal you may give to the readers of your valuable paper, if you deem them of sufficient interest.

At S. U. I. each class has an organ­ization, except one, viz: the fraternity.

There are a number of candi­dates for the higher degrees such as Master of Arts, but they seldom see each other until they meet in the opera house to receive from the pres­i­dent the final approval of their work.

Now why should all the undergraduates be organized and the high­est class have no knowledge of each other; when there is no body of thought could one another more good by meetings, social and otherwise. Some might rate objection to another club, but in the old days in the Club had much for the interest of higher sta­dents, fishes for the University and for those doing the work, that it would seem to be justified. It would probably re­solve the encouragement of the Facul­ty, as it brings the institution in line with similar work of other first-class universities.

The Graduate Club could include those holding academic degrees in professional schools. They would have many different subjects to dis­cuss arising from their various fields of work. At public meetings popular professors would be glad to address the club and its friends. The aim of graduate courses is that while one is becoming familiar with methods of work in various universities and is adding to his general culture, he him­self may be encouraged to become an independent and original investigator in his chosen line of labor.

Such clubs flourish in all eastern colleges among both men and wo­men. Thus Radcliffe and Bernard Colleges offer their graduate students some courses for women which are given at Harvard and Columbia. In fact Clark and Princeton are the only institutions giving no instruc­tion to women.

Such a club would come in contact with influences from other institu­tions, encouraging migration of stu­dents, a great disadvantage, in order that one may not become narrow, but study under and become acquainted with the work of other graduates for working students.

Aid for Armenians.

The following letter from Miss Pat­rick, resident at Constantinople, will be of interest. Miss Patrick, who is the sister of Professor Patrick, has lived in Turkey for more than twenty years and is the president of the American College situated at Scutari, in Constantinople, and is working directly among the Armenians. Her appeal for aid for the homeless and starving people could not be disregarded. A little money goes a good way there and Miss Patrick is in position to use it wisely and discretely.

Money may be sent directly to her as directed below, or it may be handed or sent to Professor G. T. W. Patrue, Jones City, la., and will be forwarded by him immediately and without ex­ pense, and in fifteen days it will be at Constantinople.

If all our readers will take a little trouble and send in twenty-five cents, a fund may be at once collected and will relieve great suffer­ing:

Constantinople, Dec. 6, 1896.

For many years past, the poverty of the people in Turkey has been very great, and every year there is intense suffering among the poor.

This year, owing to the fearful mas­sacres and political uncertainty all over the land, the poverty of the people is greatly intensified.

Here in Constantinople, four of a general massacres those like in the Mariya, and the poverty of the people is greatly intensified.

...The recent appearances of the University Band have drawn out considerable comment. For several years at least we have not possessed so effec...tive an organization and we doubt not that it is superior to many of greater pretensions. As in everything else it requires hard and constant twork to succeed in such an undertaking; and too much credit cannot be given to the members of the band and to its leader. Too often it has been apparent that there was a lack of appreciation by the student body; indeed it is a most common occurrence for any slight failure to meet with jeers, and very often good work has gone for little when it should have received credit.

...The basket ball game of Saturday evening brought forth at least one assured fact, which is, that the work of our Y. M. C. A is not fully appreciated by the general public. Basket ball games have been held in the gymnasium for the past three years, and yet we will venture the assertion that fully one-half of those present Saturday evening had no knowledge whatever of the game or its rules. This was manifested in several ways by marks of disapproval during the game by some of the impatient spectators. It is the custom of the Y. M. C. A management to have basketball ball games several times a week between the gymnasium classes, which prove very interesting to the memers who take gymnasium work. There is a large gallery above the gymnasium floor which in former times used to be kept open so that the general public and non-athletic members might enjoy a pleasant half hour in watching the course of the game. Of late it has been the habit of the management to keep the door leading to this gallery closely locked so that none may enter, and the Y. M. C. A.
