A Bright Outlook.

Mr. Rockman, formerly manager of the Iowa City Hospital, is the official reporter of the Iowa House of Representatives, sends us the following report in regard to the State University:

"The visiting committee to the University has been attending lectures. It is very favorable to the University and asks that buildings be provided in the following order:

1. A Medical and Clinical Hospital.
2. A Library and Museum (fire proof).
3. A Collegiate Building.

If the spirit of the report of the committee is carried out by the legislature, we may expect a handsome appropriation. I believe it will be a full report of the committee in time for the next issue.

Mr. Ray, Representative from Poweshiek county, a graduate of Iowa College, a resident of Grinnell and editor of "The Herald," in that place, introduced, this morning, a measure providing for an annual tax for the support of the University. This, coming from an alumnus of our rival, and from a man whose home is in the seat of that rival institution, is very gratifying and courteous to say the least."
The daily press makes much of those aspects of college life which are only accidental. Ninety-nine students do their work faithfully and no mention is made of it. One fails and the world is told of it. Young men engage in athletics for one thousand hours and nothing is said of it, but in the thousand and first hour some careless youth starts with an accident and dispatches are sent out to the press and his death is expected. One student is arrested for a misdemeanor and the news goes through the land. The same evening one hundred of his classmates are at prying meetings, but no notice is taken of it.

In all our colleges there is a distinctly religious life. In most of them that life is organized and active. It is underestimated because unobtrusive; but it is in the majority of the colleges of this country a dominant factor. A far larger proportion of college men are Christians and live like Christians than of young men out of college. The number of conversions among students will compare favorably with the number reported by the churches. Such facts as these and as are given in our special articles this week ought to dispel the prevailing idea that college life is deficient in safeguards of character. College students, like many other persons, may choose an evil life if they will. But for the young man whose face has turned in the right direction no atmosphere is more helpful to Christian life than that of the college, and no place, at the period when young people are gaining education, is safer within than within its walls. —The Congregationalist.

The following reports were given at the meeting of the Dalton Club Saturday night: "The Blowpipe Assay of Silver," Mr. Walker; "A Cheap Method for the Preparation of Hydrogen Peroxide," Mr. Dean; "The Toxicological Detection of Aqua Regia," Dr. Heady Radisch.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseases portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surface with re-action.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. Cheney & Co., 330 South Main St., Toledo, O.

No doubt some of our friends feel mildly surprised that articles sent to us through the medium of the various boxes placed in the different buildings do not appear in print. It is true that some of them are excused because in our judgment they are not adapted to accomplish the end in view, but often there are articles that we would like to publish if the document bore the authority of a signature. It will readily be seen that we should be placing ourselves in an uncomfortable position if we should publish articles and after development should demand the production of our authority when we had none to give. We have no objections to publishing articles calling attention to matters which he students soundly concern, but we must insist that the name should accompany the communication. We have recently received several articles with the omitted signature, and have been indirectly what would seem to indicate the author’s disgust that they never appeared in our columns. Of course the mere fact that the name is signed to a communication will not in every case secure its publication, but it may be set down as certain that unless such name is signed we shall not give it space.

College Training.

The effect of college training on religious character is often and anxiously discussed. No one doubts that such training increases power and influence. But the question is pressed. Are these gains at too great a risk.

No subject suffers more popular misconception than college training. Many parents who have not been deeply concerned about this illuminating commonwealth at home commit them to the college with the feeling that they are being edged into a set of still mysteries. Newspapers foster these fears.

A Freshman wandered into the

The Iowa Historical Record, Vol.
XII, is just out. This is one of the most interesting numbers yet published. Among other articles of interest it contains the last lecture of the late Judge Wright, delivered before the Law class at Close Hall, last June, just before commencement, and an excellent article on “The Old Stone Building,” by Mr. H. G. Plum.

North American Review.

“The Anglo-American Intermar­ gro” serves as the caption under which two important articles upon the February number of the North American Review. The first is entitled “The Vennonian Difficulty,” by Andrew Carnegie, and the second “The British Feeling,” by the Right Hon.
James Bryce, the distinguished author of “The American Commonwealth.”

These two articles, from so eminent sources, characteristically describe the sentiment pervading England and America respectively over the boundary dispute between the former country and the South American republic.

This number also contains an extremely interesting article upon “Practical Politics,” by the Hon. F. T.
Greehan, the governor of Massachusetts. His Excellency discusses the subject of politicians and officeholders with great freedom, laying stress upon the fact that high and unsolved aims must invariably be advanced by patients and diligent labor in order to achieve the best results.

Edward Atkinson contributes an abrevoir paper on “The Increased Production of Gold,” asserting that the United States will lose the world in the production of gold the coming year, and that if no ill-timed or unforeseen congressional procedure occurs, American finances will rest on a foundation of strength and solidity
within a brief period.

important tables that cannot fail to attract wide attention.

Under the title of “The Seases Again,” Mrs. Amelia E. Barr presents a
