IOWA COLLEGE CONCERT.

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAM BY THE GLEE CLUB AND AMPHION ORCHESTRA.

For several days red posters have announced and lithographs have pictured the troupe that visited us last night. The large company representing Iowa College. under the name of Iowa College Glee Club and Amphion Orchestra, did not arrive in the city until 4 p. m., hence we did not see and become acquainted with many of them during the day.

The audience was not large but was appreciative. The program as rendered by the company certainly was one worthy of a better attendance, and those who were not present, as certainly missed an evening of very good music.

The program was long, consisting of twelve numbers, but the musicians responded cheerfully with an encore for every number. The first on the program was a vocal march, "On, Gallant Company," and was sung in a manner just a trifle dragging, but the remainder of the program was rendered in good spirit. The Club reflects credit not only upon itself and its individual members, but upon its leader. It showed itself again and again to be so trained as a whole that many minor points which might be easily overlooked by the trainer, had received very careful attention, for every detail was carried out as smoothly as could be desired. The comic songs, while none were convulsingly funny, were of a very pleasing character, and never failed to illicit their well deserved applause. The whistler was a novelty in college Glee Club entertainments, and his efforts were well appreciated.

The Orchestra was a continual surprise in the richness of its expression. Its leader had it under perfect control every moment, as was shown by the unity of shading demonstrated in every number and encore. The music it played was not of the simple and easy kind, but was that which only artists could translate into sound as sweet and well regulated. The only easy thing about the music was the apparent ease and freedom with which it was played. Classical music is not generally much appreciated by the average audience, but the overtures, serenades, fantasies, etc., of the Amphion Orchestra were well received.

The Glee Club certainly reflects great credit upon its Alma Mater, and the same can be said of the Orchestra as far as it is a College organization. The audience was composed largely of University people, but it is unfortunate that a greater number did not attend, for Grinnell, our old rival, did credit to her reputation for always doing well.

Communication.

EDITOR VIDETTE-REPORTER:

During the recent canvass in behalf of our athletic fund it has been not only rumored but even publicly expressed that the members of the literary, or forensic, societies are the hardest to approach, and draw their purse strings the tightest when the matter of a contribution is broached.

Now as a member of one of these societies I desire to protest against this narrow, and, as I take it, unjust criticism. Did it ever occur to athletic enthusiasts that it is expensive to maintain such societies? In fact there is a constant drain upon their treasuries, and who ever heard of one of them circulating a petition for relief? The bills are met by taxes on the individuals however heavy they may be. On the other hand the public is offered good programs each Friday evening, and many special entertainments throughout the year, free of charge, and if at the Opera House entertainments a slight admittance is charged it is done merely to allevitae the burden, for it seldom or never pays the expenses incurred.

Now the societies are by no means antagonistic to athletics, but entirely in sympathy with them, the members are as loyal a set of men as can be found in the University, but they feel compelled to object to being criticized for being somewhat reluctant to give to this fund. They already support entirely one phase of University life which should at least be ranked as equally important as athletics, and naturally are somewhat reticent to doing a double part.

THE FUTURE OF AHTLETICS INSURED.

Much has been the enthusiasm aroused at our mass meetings this year, both by reason of well earned victories and in times of dire necessity, but the meeting of last Tuesday evening was one more important, and significant than any that had preceded it. The Faculty, students and friends of the University met to decide the question as to whether athletics in S. U. I, should die or should live. A most liberal proposition was to be made to the student body, and from their decision in this meeting, all knew there was no further appeal. It was the final struggle of indifference and patriotism, and with a unanimity that shook the walls and scared the sleeping bats out of the tower of Close Hall, patriotism won the day.

The meeting was called to order by President Alderman who, after fairly setting our athletic conditions before the meeting, read a financial report, of which the following is a summary:

Foot ball expenses 1896	$1060.06
Old debts	243.79
Liabilities	1303 75
Assets	540 50
Total indebtedness	763.25

Professor Sims, our staunch champion in the cause, then gave a resume of the situation, and was followed by Judge Wade, who, in his characteristic manner announced, the proposed solution to the expectant assemblage. Judge Wade, Professor Sims and Mr. Max Mayer, generously offered to go security for the debt, provided the students would raise $600 of it this year, and guarantee the remainder with a note payable in one year from next fall. This patriotic and disinterested offer from these ever constant friends and benefactors was received with immense applause by the students, and a motion to accept the proposition was unanimously and enthusiastically passed.

After brief speeches by Judge Ney and Max Mayer, this meeting that it is hoped may mark an epoch in S. U. I. athletics, was adjourned.

The raising of this $600 is not such a great task as it may appear at first sight. As our assets for this year are about $350. it will only necessitate contributions from the students aggregating $250. Surely this small amount can and will be raised. Our friends have set us an example of self sacrifice, will the student body itself do less? The final question for solution now squarely confronts us.

Notice.

The Tennis Courts are now ready for playing. All tennis players are requested to join the Association and secure buttons at once for the continuous tournament.

HUGH H. SHEPARD, Treas.

Notice.

All persons who are circulating subscription papers for the benefit of athletics are earnestly requested to see all parties whose names are on their papers and report to the committee Friday.

College Notes.

Members of the Senior class of the University of Georgia have been much chagrined to learn that only one of the essays handed in for use on commencement day has been thought worthy of acceptance by the committee. The Seniors are now hard at work trying to turn out productions that will meet the requirements of the occasion.

Yale has sent her answer to the challenge of the University of Wisconsin for a boat race this spring. Yale finally proposes to row Wisconsin at any date the latter part of May Wisconsin can set, the race to take place near New Haven. Yale proposes a triangular race, the crews entering it to be Wisconsin, the Yale 'Varsity and the Yale Freshmen.

The Faculty of Monmouth College has restored nine suspended Sophomores to good standing. The boys had been suspended until April 30 for defacing school property and insubordination. They had made frequent attempts to have their sentence commuted. The relenting spirit of the faculty was probably materially augmented in the alleged willingness of Knox College to admit the suspended members, thus disregarding intercollegiate comity.

The candidates for positions on the various athletic teams at Harvard are obliged to undergo an individual strength test. A system of grading has been introduced by which a man can tell exactly where he stands in his total strength as compared with any other man in college. The records required are: for the University crew, foot ball team and weight throwers, 700 points; for class crews, class foot ball teams and gymnastic, wrestling and sparring contests, 600 points; for university and class ball nines, lacrosse teams, track and field events, 500 points.

The following point made by President Young, of the National League, in a letter to umpires is good: The important requisites, he says, are to enforce the rules honestly and as they are written, but not arbitrarily. The virtue of an umpire, he says, consists in perfect fearlessness in rendering a decision believed to be right, and having rendered it, to let it be final and irrevocable. A greater mistake, he adds, cannot be made than to try to "even up," because afraid that an incorrect decision has been made Players should be made to keep a lively game in progress and wrangling discouraged.

Thirty colleges have accepted the invitation of the University of Pennsylvania to enter the races on April 24th; some will have more than one team in the field. Pennsylvania herself will put teams in the one, two and four mile championships. Yale has entered in the mile and is expected to send a team for the four mile event. Lafayette will send two one mile relay teams. The Carlisle Indians have entered in the one and four mile events. Brown will send on a one mile and a two mile relay team. The last to make a double entry is Georgetown, who will place four mile runners in the field in the four mile event.—Pennsylvanian.

Have you secured work for next summer? is a query often heard now-a-days. It suggests to the student a similar but more pertinent question—what shall I do, what can I do after I have finished my University course? This problem has, and does still to a certain extent, confront the editorial WE as well as the rest of the student body. Its solution is intricate and varied, neither trigonometry nor calculus being always sufficient. It is, in short, one of those questions which a man, with the aid of Providence, must answer for himself. Sometimes we wish it were otherwise, but then our wishes do not materially change matters unless we exert positive efforts.

We wish to emphasize the position taken by the Quill in regard to the usual population of the Central steps. It is extremely unpleasant for ladies to be obliged to push their way through a crowd of twenty or more young men, and half of them smoking, who are discussing excitedly the outcome of some particular interesting athletic event. The young men may mean no disrespect, but if they could but take a cursory glance at themselves with the eyes of a disinterested observer, how they would blush for shame. We hope they may choose a more fitting place for such gatherings hereafter.

What is the matter with athletics in S. U. I? Shall they or shall they not exist here in the future? These questions have been before us now for many long and weary months. To-day it is no longer a mere question, it is a live issue. The action that the student body will take in the next few days will determine the fate of athletics for all time so far as S. U. I. is concerned. No such momentus period has ever before been reached in our athletic history. It falls upon us to settle the question that now confronts us fairly and squarely.

Shall athletics die in the State University of Iowa? Are the loyal students of our great institution content to acknowledge that we are not capable of supporting college sports. Is every brush wood college in the West to be permitted to place vigorous teams in the field, and are we in the meantime to sink into decrepit and innocous desuetude? Are we to abandon a part of real University life that is recognized, encouraged and supported by every school of reputation or note in the United States? Students of Iowa, this question is now yours to answer, and upon your reply rests the fair fame of your Alma Mater. These questions belong to each one of you; you as an individual are responsible for their solution. Athlete or literary man, professor or student, man or woman, this question belongs to each of you.

Through the self sacrificing generosity of several of our large hearted benefactors a means has been found to clear away the indebtedness. We are not confronted by an impossibility. We are met half way by an extremely reasonable possibility. The whole affair is one which relates more directly to the student body than to the outside parties who have so generously tendered their needed assistance. The question remaining is whether the students are going to do a half or that which they, by all rules of honor and integrity, should already have completed.

When we have held back these generous men have stepped bravely into the breach. Now can we afford to do less? Our honor as students hangs in the balance, is it now to be found wanting? Through the liberal offer that has been made to us, the debt can be lifted, and with little sacrifice upon our part, if we all work in unison. The problem of athletics is before us for final adjudication. What is to be our answer?

Had it not been for the rain, to-day, the first stone in the foundation of the new Hospital would have been laid this morning. If the weather permits the ceremonies will be conducted to-morrow morning.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The following, concerning Wm. H. Hughes, of Garner, Ia., a graduate of last year's Law class, is from the Hancock County Tribune: "The two sneak thieves, Pell and Hughes, were found guilty and sentenced, the former to 14 months, the latter 12 months in Anamosa. The court appointed young Attorney Hughes to defend them, and he put up one of the best defences in a forlorn case that we ever heard. He had nothing to work on from the start, as the culprits were caught with the goods in their possession, but he contrived by an ingenious combinaation of testimony and by heaving it together in an attractive shape, to make the outlook bright for their release. The general looks of one of the defendants, we think, had a great deal to do with his conviction. The typical sneak thief shone on his face; he was a "tough looker." The ability displayed by Mr. Hughes brings him before the public of Hancock county as a young legal light who will be heard from in the future. We don't believe a better defence could have been put up by any lawyer, old or young, in this county."
