The Vidette-Reporter.

This week's issue features articles on the University of Iowa, the Dunlap Hat, and the American Cutsline. The University of North Carolina opened its doors to women for the first time, and the report highlights the excitement and challenges they faced.

The Dunlap Hat, Coast & Easley, and the American Cutline are advertised in the newspaper, offering services such as tailoring, printing, and uniform s for students.

The article on the Dunlap Hat mentions its unique features, such as durability and comfort. The American Cutline offers a range of products, including hats and suits. The Dunlap Hat is available at stores across the country, including Reddick's in Washington, D.C.

The newspaper also includes an advertisement for Reddick's, offering a wide range of products such as books, hats, and furnishings. The advertisement highlights the quality and price competitiveness of the products offered by the store.

Many complaints have been offered by different members of the University faculty concerning the leaves which have been allowed to accumulate on the campus during the last two or three weeks. Could not this difficulty be helped by a little raking? We offer this as a suggestion.

Sad news of the death of Carl H. Weidner, class of '96, has come to Iowa City. Mr. Weidner has been ill, never having recovered fully from the effects of an operation performed last spring. The funeral will occur at Monroe, Iowa. Dean Currier says of the young man: "He was one of the brightest students in the University, had a high ideal as to a teacher's requirements, and was laboring zealously to achieve that standard. He was a successful instructor, and his success was a great loss." Mr. Weidner had been honored with a scholarship in Yale, a position he was destined never to fill.

All arrangements have been completed for the First Annual Sophomore Cotillion, which promises to be the social event of the season. The class of 1896 is the first Sophomore class to undertake any party on so large a scale, and it is certainly deserving of applause. It will be an annual event, and should have the support of all interested in social matters.
