FOOT BALL REVIEW.

OUR SEASON'S WORK—OUR PLAYERS—STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

Our football season closed with the Thanksgiving day game with Nebraska, at Council Bluffs. Although fortune has not smiled as she did last year upon the efforts of our team, still, with the exception of one unlucky stunt than the Thanksgiving day game with Nebraska, our new players. This fact guarantees never played before, we have, and that our athletic annals, came, last year, Iowa College, 10-6; Drake University, 16-12; Northwestern, 12-6; Chicago, 14-22; North Iowa, 22-4; Nebraska's bands

THE IOWA-NEBRASKA GAME

The Iowa-Nebraska game at Council Bluffs, Thanksgiving day, was one of the finest, greatest contests of the year. From the fact that the field was muddy, and the ball very slippery, long runs were absent, and there was no successful punting.

In the first half, Iowa kicked off, and the Nebraskans managed to have possession of the ball most of the time. So fierce and energetic was their work that they forced their way by short, sharp gains, down to our 5-yard line. But here Iowa called time, and by blocking two attempted goal kicks, and by holding for downs, they succeeded in preventing a score.

Captain Walker, of 'Dad,' as he is better known, is a great, strapping fellow of 170 pounds, and stands 6 ft. 1 in. high. He has played left guard on the team during the three years he has been in the University, having never missed a game. One of the strongest men on the line, he has proven that the attacks of the guards of countless opposing teams, and has been irresistible in breaking up opposing lines. When the time came, last year, to elect a captain for the season of '97, "Dad" Walker was the almost unanimous choice of the team. That their judgment was good and that their confidence was not misplaced, is attested by the course of events. He has been a worthy successor to Captain Iveson. Cool-headed and calm, he has perfect command of himself and the respect of the team. In all of those crises that inevitably arise at some time during the season's games, his wise counsel has prevailed, and matters have been usually ameliorated.

GLEE AND MANDOLIN CLUBS.

WILL OPEN THE SEASON HERE DECEMBER 17TH.

Throughout its whole history the University has never been favored with greater talent in the music line than the present Mandolin and Glee Clubs. Those have been forging rapidly ahead during the last few weeks, and expect to be able to begin their trip by a grand double concert to be given here on the 17th of December. From here they go to Davenport, Mason City and Washington, where they play the 28th, 29th, and 30th of December. On January 1 they will be in Des Moines, and will give a concert in the Christian Church on Sunday, the 3d.

In this trip they expect to include Ottumwa, Cedar Rapids, Jefferson, Mason City, Marshalltown, Waterloo, Cedar Rapids, Grinnell, and possibly others.

The program will consist of 12 numbers, among which will be solos by Wheelock and McKee, a whistle solo by Weaver, and a mandolin solo by Jayne.

The Glee Club for the present year is under the leadership of J. H. McKee, who is too well known among music lovers of the University to need any further mention. It has been greatly strengthened by the addition of several new members.

Mr. A. C. Weaver, who will accompany them as their harmonist, soloist, and whistle, is deserving of special mention. He comes to us highly recommended, and his whistling solos given at various times since his arrival, will doubtless be enjoyed.

The Glee Club has been fortunate in procuring Tocciogna, the famous leader of the Second Regiment Band, of Carroll, to lead them during the trip. He is by far the ablest leader in Iowa, and second to none in the west.

During the program he will give a cornet solo.

The Mandolin Club, under the efficient leadership of R. E. Jayne, is composed for the greater part of last year's members, and we may reasonably expect the high grade of music which we enjoyed last year.

As specialties they offer the mandolin solo by Mr. Jayne, and the banjo solo by Mr. W. J. Prats, who is second to no one in the state on the banjo. With such an array as this the students should not be backward in turning out on the 17th.

"Baby" Bell, with eight-ounce gloves. By the middle of the third round, Louis had begun to weaken perceptibly, and in the fourth, Bell mounted a chair and delivered the famous knockout blow. Referee Fellingham counted "one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten." As Louis failed to rise, Bell was declared victor. The contest was conducted according to the "Marquis of Queenberry" rules.

Those who believe that systems of social and political philosophy can be justly appreciated only when interpreted through the conditions which gave rise to their formulation and statement cannot fail to be pleased with Professor Loos' article. For this article bears intrusive evidence of the fact that the writer has not only made a special study of the philosophy of Aristotle, but has given sympathetic consideration to those objective conditions which surrounded the writer of "The Politics," and influenced his thought. At the same time his treatment is not wholly historical and axiomatic for here and there throughout the article suggestive applications of Aristotelian thought are made to current discussions.

About two-thirds of the article is devoted to a presentation of the content of "The Politics," in which is found the best-statement of Aristotle's political philosophy. Professor Loos has his own ideas as to how the content of this book should be divided. He suggests five parts, as follows: Part I. "The Origin of the State and the Elements of Political and Social Eonomy"—includes Book I. Part II. "Constitutions, Ideal and Real"—includes Books 3, 4, and part of 5. Part IV. "The Ideal State"—includes Book 7, Part V. "Administration"—includes Book 4 and a part of Book 6. The advantage of this division is that it arranges the material under heads taken from more recent classifications.

In the remaining third of the article, covering pages 1 to 6 inclusive, and page 21, are found a number of suggestive observations on the significance of Aristotle's political philosophy, the definition of society and state, and the classification of the social sciences. Herein Professor Loos asks for a wider and more concrete conception of the state, a conception which will make the term state as all embracing as the term society. And in direct line with this thought he suggests that the several special sciences which deal with the phenomena of human association, and which "we can social," may "with no less propriety be called political." In short the state may be employed in the discussion of fundamental principles of social phenomena, and the term political science may be employed as a general term covering all the so-called social sciences. On this point Professor Loos will have to meet the criticism of those who contend for the abstract conception of the state, as well as the protests of the sociologists, who content that it is sociology that has to do with fundamentals.

Miss Louise B. Hughes pleasantly entertained about thirty of her student friends, at her home on Capital street, Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing a new progressive game, and enjoying a neat little program of recitations and music. Lovely refreshments followed, and it was late when the guests bade their hosts goodnight.

Foot Ball Review.

Our giant center, is a natural back for our team, and his presence in the line, especially in the game against Nebraska last week, was needed, because he has played his old position at right half. His work has been invaluable to the team, especially in the game against Nebraska last week, which was practically changed from defeat to victory by his magnificent line-breaking and end running.

B. D. Blackmore, at right guard, is one of the sure men of the team. He has a kangoeroe leap that is the despair of every enemy in the enemy's line. It would be difficult to obtain his equal for this position.

S. A. Wright, our giant center, is a stone wall, and many an opponent has been defeated by the stand of the ground. The team will be far better with him in having Hobbs in his old position.

C. W. Griffith, our outside guard, has been an old man in having the ball in the enemy's line. He is a hard hitter, and his blow can hardly be avoided. He has a nice kick, good tackle, and a marked influence on the game.

When our coach arrived here last month, he was still playing football for us. The team was that was the last time the team was in the game, and the coach has been in the game for a long time. He is a good player, and his blows are noted by all in the team.

The good opening of the season was due to the fact that the team was not defeated by the enemy. The team played its best game of the season, and the good opening of the season was due to the fact that the team was not defeated by the enemy.

KENNA'S LECTURE.

The second number of the Lecture Course, Geo. Kenna's description of the Nebraska line and backfield, and the Missouri State line and backfield, was given at the Opera House on last Tuesday evening. The lecture was given by Geo. Kenna, and it was well attended. The lecture was well attended, and the good opening of the season was due to the fact that the team was not defeated by the enemy.

Kenna began by a detailed description of the Nebraska line and backfield, its inhabitants, and then arraying the members of a mountainous race in relation to his opinion of it. He then thrashed the hour of the tale told, with the skill and ease which are the attributes of the natural man, the men who have visited them as yet unknown lands.

The speaker was not oratorical, but by his straightforward manner of fact and yet extremely pleasant manner of relating his own experiences and observations, he thrashed the hour of the tale told, with the skill and ease which are the attributes of the natural man, the men who have visited them as yet unknown lands.

The line-up and respective weights of the teams was as follows:

IOWA

Kenna kicked off and sent the ball to Nebraska's 25-yard line. Nebraska gained 15 yards and was stopped on downs. The ball went to Iowa on downs.

THE QUEEN OF ODORS

Has Decided to make Headquarters

At Boerner’s.

In a town the size of ours, no dealer can carry a number of full lines of perfumes and keep the stock in good condition.

Perfumes improve for some time after they are made, through a blending of their constituents, but as soon as this change has taken place they begin to deteriorate. This unfavorable change is hastened by exposure to air and light, and is most rapid in bottles partly filled and frequently opened. Most perfumes reach the dealer in a blended condition and are ready to start on the down-grade as soon as the bottles are opened.

We propose to make Violet a specialty, and to that end will carry in stock the finest Violet Extracts made by all the large perfumers of Europe and America. Lovers of Violet will be given an opportunity for selection such as only the larger stocks in our great cities afford. In addition to these we have stocked the special odors to which the great perfumers owe their reputation, such as:

- French's Sweet Chimes,
- Crown Co.'s Crab Apple,
- Baldwin's Queen Bess,
- Lundborg's Swiss Lilac,
- Lubin's Jockey Club,
- Lautier's May Beils,
- Atkinson's White Rose, etc., etc.,

and will keep on hand a general line of our own goods.

We have thirteen Violets made by ten perfumers. You are invited to call and examine our Samples.

Last Saturday the Senior Medics presented Walker with a gold watch and chain, with a gold ball for a charm. "Dad" was completely surprised, and in his reply to the President's presentation speech, said that it was the first time this season that he hadn't been "drowned" but didn't know enough to say "down".

Much has been said during the last few days about changing the rules of the game to eliminate some of the "roughness." The Sunday Tribune quotes President Schaeffer as saying that the other presidents in an effort to make the game less dangerous, Captain Walker believes the west can do nothing more than follow the lead of the east. He and Coach Wagenbush both express themselves as believing that it would take all interest from the game to materially change the rules.
