F. HOPKINSON SMITH.

THE LIFE AND WORKS OF THE NEXT LECTURER.

Francis Hopkinson Smith was born in Baltimore, Maryland, in 1838. By profession Mr. Smith is an engineer, and has built a large number of public works, many of them under contract of the United States government; among these are the Race Rock light house, off New London harbor (1871-7), and the Block Island break-water (1879). He is also well known as an artist, his best work being done in water-colors and charcoal. His best known works are "In the Darkling Wood" (1876), "Pegotty on the Harlem" (1881), "Under the Towers, Brooklyn Bridge" (1883), and "A January Thaw" (1887).

Mr. Smith is also famous as a book and magazine writer, while to many he is best known as the author of the popular books "Well Worn Roads," "Old Lines in Black and White," "A Book of the Tile Club," and others of equal note.

The following works by F. Hopkinson Smith are to be found in the University Library:

"One of Bob's Tramps,"—Harpers, vol. 93, p. 481. (Aug. 1896.)

"Tim Grogan,"—Century, vol. 51, p. 238. (Dec. '95, Mch. '96.)

"Personally Conducted Arrest in Constantinople,"—Century, vol. 51, p. 643. Illustrations by the author.

"The Hungarian Millennium,"—Harper's Monthly, vol. 95, p. 398. (Aug. 1897.) Illustrations by the author.

"Some Notes on Tennessee's Centennial,"—Scribner's Magazine, vol. 22, p. 333. (Sept. 1897.) Illustrations by the author.

"Caleb West,"—Atlantic Monthly, vol. 81. (Oct. 1897.) Not yet finished.

The following works are to be found in the Public Library:

"Under an Umbrella in Mexico."
"Colonel Carter of Cartersville."

Baconian.

"Thermo Dynamics" was the subject of the paper by Mr. Bowman last Friday evening.

During the last half century the idea of heat has been changed from an idea of imponderable matter to that of an energy. We now have the important law of the conservation of energy. When a gas is released from a high pressure a large amount of heat is taken up. For this reason compressed gases are used in cold storage as ammonia. For the same reason compressed gas can not be used for the transmission of energy.

Some carbon dioxide gas, under a pressure of 800 lbs. to the square inch, was suddenly released, and some of the material perfectly solidified was passed around among the members of the audience. The surface of the fingers were frozen if the material was held but for a short time. The temperature was nearly 200 degrees below zero. Some mercury was readily frozen. Some liquid carbon dioxide was changed to a gas by the heat of the hands by the lecturer. In studying the steam engine from this point of view we find that there is a vast waste of energy, and from investigation it seems that it is impossible to make an engine that will utilize more than 33 per cent of the power of the steam entering the cylinder, and of course this would represent but a very small per cent of the energy of the coal.

Dr. Seashore gave a voluntary report on the projection of views in the natural colors without the use of colored slides; also a method of producing pictures in relief.

A National University.

A bill is now before Congress providing for a national university. This idea is as old as the nation itself. George Washington found time in the midst of the campaigns of the revolution to advocate the idea, and there is to-day a site set apart in Washington known as "University Square." A graduate university is thus to be endowed by the government, and all gifts and bequests are to be deposited in the United States treasury in trust to be invested in United States bonds at 5 per cent. A movement has been started to raise $250,000 for the first building by private subscription.

None but holders of baccalaureate degrees are to be admitted to study, and it will be at once seen what an immense advantage will be given to those who wish to prosecute original research in the Congressional Library, the Patent Office, the Smithsonian Institute, and all the other treasuries of learning that find their resting place in the national capital. Authority is to be given to establish such relations of co-operation with the other institutions of learning in the country as may be deemed advisable.

The present bill is but the last of many looking toward the same end. Besides Washington, who left $2,000 to the project, Presidents Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams and Jackson, and more lately Grant and Hayes, have supported the plan.

The present movement is traceable to the agitation inaugurated by the National Educational Association. Three memorials have been presented to congress on this subject. In 1895 a committee of 100 was appointed to draw up a bill and systematically promote its passage. Some of the members of this committee are Hon. Melville W. Fuller, Chief Justice of the United States, Andrew S. White, and Gen. Porter. The matter thus has every prospect of being pushed to a successful issue.—U. of M. Daily.

Indoor base ball practice has commenced at the University of Chicago, and a larger number of candidates than ever before have reported. All must undergo both a mental and physical examination.

It is quite probable that a team of athletes composed of the first and second men in the next annual meet of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association will go to London in the summer to meet the cream of the athletes at Cambridge and Oxford. At the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association in New York, on February 26th, a motion will be made to open negotiations with the English universities regarding such a meet.

NEW HOSPITAL OPENED.

THE BUILDING NOW READY FOR PATIENTS.

Yesterday was visitors day at the new Hospital, and from to-morrow on it will be patients' day. A large crowd continually thronged the building, and the halls were filled with students, professors and citizens of Iowa City.

Entering the building at the main floor a wide, well-lighted corridor filled with plants greets the visitor. The office, reception room and superintendent's room occupy the south-east part, opposite to which are wards and the drug room. The south wing is filled with bed rooms, and a large, cherry, sitting room for convalescent patients, which is to be furnished with a library, magazines, papers and games. Opening off of this is the "sunny room." As its name would indicate, it is surrounded with windows on three sides, which allow the patients to enjoy a sun bath at any time.

On the floor above there is a general operating room, surrounded by a large amphitheatre. Opening from this is a waiting room, and near by are the private offices of the different professors in charge. Near by is a private operating room and "recovery" room; just east of the general operating room is an "instrument and surgical" room, a "dressing room, and a "sterilizing" room. Across the main hall are bed rooms and wards. The south wing is the same as on the floor below, with its attractive sitting room and "sunny" room.

The fourth floor is occupied entirely with wards and bed rooms.

In the attic was seen the great pipe by which fresh air is carried to all parts of the building.

In the basement is a commodious kitchen, with large pantries and cold-storage room. Near this is the dining room for the nurses and employes, and such patients as are able to go to the table. A number of large store rooms open from the main hall. A large elevator runs from basement to attic. On each floor are found a number of toilet rooms, lockers, and clothes rooms.

The south wing is not yet completed, and some other parts of the building are not yet furnished, but it will be ready for patients to-morrow, and Dr. Littig anticipates that there will be twenty-five there by Saturday night.

Every one who went through the building was satisfied that the state had "done it proper" for the Medical department, and henceforth students and faculty may show with pride the "State of Iowa University Hospital."

Notice.

The class in Solid Geometry for the winter term begins its work to-day. All who are deficient in this branch should enter the class at once, as this is probably the last time that the subject will be taught in the University. The recitations are at 3:30 p. m. daily except Fridays.

Rutgers College has lately taken up the policy of leaving all matters of college discipline for a student committee to decide.

An Alumnus Honored.

The University of Wisconsin Cardinal issued a handsome Christmas edition, with cuts of the foot ball and track teams, and of their Faculty. Among the latter appears a cut of Wm. L. Drew, C. '89, '92, now assistant Professor of Law at that institution. The biographical sketch accompanying the cut was as follows: "Professor William Lincoln Drew, assistant Professor of Law, was born at Newton, Iowa, Nov. 1, 1864. His early life was spent on a farm. His preparatory education was received in the primary schools of his native town and the Iowa City Academy, from which he graduated in 1885. In the fall of the same year he became a student of the State University of Iowa, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1889, and again from the Law Department in 1892 with the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Having become deeply interested in the common law as a scientific system, and beginning to look forward to the possibility of becoming a teacher of it, he decided to spend a year in the Harvard law school, and entered that institution in the fall of 1892. He pursued his studies there with such success that before the year was ended he was chosen a member of the board of editors of the Harvard Law Review, which position he filled until the close of the school year. In 1893 commenced the practice of law in Omaha, Neb., and remained in practice there until, at the beginning of last year, he was called to his present position."

The twenty-eighth biennial report of the state department of public instruction, submitted by Supt. Sabin, shows that in the year 1896 there were 28,121 teachers employed, of whom 5,714 were males. The average monthly compensation paid men was $38.28, and the women $32.20 per month. The school year was raised to eight months. Fifteen million, eight hundred and sixty-seven thousand, four hundred and twenty-five dollars represents the value of 13,686 school buildings. Of the 720,175 persons of school age, 543,052 were enrolled in school. The first ten years of her statehood Iowa built over 1,300 school-houses, valued at $266,000; 2,153 ungraded schools were established; 2,500 teachers were employed, more than one-half of whom were men. Male teachers were paid $14.50, and women $8.25 per month.

At 2.30 o'clock on the afternoon of New Year's day, occurred the marriage of Mr. E. P. Beetenga, C. '97, and Miss Henrietta May Fournier. Before entering the State University, Mr. Beetenga attended the Iowa State Normal School, where Miss Fournier was a student at the same time. The bride has for several years been a very successful teacher in Woodbury and Plymouth counties. Mr. Beetenga began his chosen work as a teacher in the Scientific department of the Creston (Iowa) High School, where he is giving eminent satisfaction. We extend congratulations.

Brown University will continue commencement orations this year.

The New Hospital.

The opening of the Medical Hospital is an event of much importance to the University. Our Medical department is known throughout the United States as being one of the best schools of the kind in the country, and it is often said the best work of the University is done in the Medical department. The Faculty are often severely criticised for "flunking" so many students every year, the argument being that it injures the school to have so many leave and finish at some other institution. But it is these rigorous requirements that have made and is keeping up the standard of that department. But for years the clinics have been insufficient, and the facilities for caring for patients so poor, that a new, well-equipped hospital will soon make a beneficent change in this particular. Before the Homeopathic hospital was built the conditions of that department were analogous to those in the "regular," but now one of the things for which S. U. L. may well be proud is the great number of patients from all over the state that are treated there, and it will probably be only a question of a short time before the new hospital will be equally efficient. Then we can truly say: "Our Medical departments are equal to the best—excelled by none."

The University's Growth.

On a page of the Sunday Times-Herald devoted to "News from the Colleges," the following article on S. U. I. appeared:

"Iowa City, Jan. 8.—President Schaeffer's administration now covers a period of ten years. It is a decade of remarkable progress for the University. From 571 students in 1887, the enrollment reached 1,334 in 1897. The present Collegiate enrollment alone outnumbers the enrollment of all departments in 1897. During this period the instructing corps increased from 48 to 101; income from fees and tuition from $17,768.23 to $54,783.61; total income from $95,254.11 to $146,799.59; number of volumes in the libraries from 19,000 to 43,000; courses of study from 113 to 237, with even a very much greater variety of subjects than these figures indicate. During the same period the number of graduates increased from 2,643 to 4,752. In the ten years under review four buildings have been erected, namely, the Chemical laboratory, the Dental building, the Homeopathic building and hospital, and the Medical hospital. The University grounds have been doubled in extent, without expense to the state.

These facts give little conception of the advancement along other lines. In laboratory equipments, accommodations for a few students have grown to accommodations for hundreds. New laboratories have been established in geology, histology, bacteriology and pathology, psychology, zoology and engineering. The Museum of Natural History has increased, until now it is the best west of the Field Columbian Museum in Chicago. The standard for graduation has been very materially raised in all departments. Several new chairs have been established. The lecture method of teaching has been more widely and more successfully adapted to our needs. The University has successfully established publications in history, law, medicine, psychology and natural history.

Probably not in the history of educational institutions has a dollar been made to do so much anywhere as in this University during President Schaeffer's administration. Not the least cause for rejoicing is the University's present position in the confidence and esteem of the people of the state."

The communication from the Athletic Committee of the Faculty is causing a good deal of talk along the side lines. Our next issue will contain a communication from the officers of the Athletic Union, then it will rest with the student body to decide what is best to do.

According to the Chicago Times-Herald, the University of Wisconsin has accepted debates with Illinois and Iowa, one of the stipulations being that the contest is to be decided entirely on argument. It is probable that our societies will make an arrangement, provided that Wisconsin will form a league for at least two years. It would hardly be desirable to arrange for but one debate with a school.
