The freshmen feast.

Class of 1901 makes its debut at the St. James.

Light blue, old gold and black were displayed in the presence in the banquet hall of the St. James. Tuesday evening, as about fifty young ladies and gentlemen of the class of 1901 gathered about the head.

So all were there for whom the dish was laid, for the wealthy Sophomore, aided by his numerous friends, had planned and held two gentlemen in regality. Placed there, in fact, but not held but two. For escaping in the darkness of the night, the vigilance of its captors, Mr. False had after first from Oxford Monday night, tracked him about during the morning, and was indeed the hero of the banquet hall that evening.

By half past nine all had arrived save the two gentlemen before referred to, the young lady whom an accident detained. Then the viands to the menu were partaken of, while a trio from the Mandolin Discussion discussed.

The freshmen feast:

Jump the big events of last night.

Miss Helen L. Carder, who was supposed to have been a basketball star, failed to hear a tribute to the Sophomore, she proclaimed one mightier than he—"the Freshman"—and recounted the doughy deeds of valor in which Freshmen took a part.

A prospect and retrospect on the subject "Looking Backward," excellently given by Mr. Ralph W. Downey, closed the list of toasts.

Dean Porter and the representa-tives of the Panhellenic women were then called upon for a few words of greeting, the former expressing fittingly his devotion to its women.

Being called upon by the toast-master and the Dean, Mr. Hullock told briefly of his experience with the sixteen Sophomores, how he enjoyed their company for a whole half-day, how the series of calamities so recently fallen upon the tillers of the soil west of town prevented any of them from assisting him to return to Iowa City; and now, through the dark watches of the night he struggled the pinion country highways of the west of Johnson county, returning to the city just at the break of day.

The banqueters then adjourned to the parlors till the ball was cleared, and then dancing cards and social recusation furnished pleasure until the wee small hours.

The class of 1901 is to be congratulated upon the success of its first important social function. May it live up to its promise.

Basket bell:

There will be a lively time at the Class Hall gymnastic next Tuesday evening. The basket bell teams of the Y. M. C. A. at Independence is the victim of a strange notion. Because of its noticeable weakness in the line, they believe themselves able to defeat any team in the state. Accordingly, they are about to start on a triumphant (7) tour of the Eastern Iowan Associations. They will find themselves in trouble when they get to Iowa City. The S. U. 1 team will demonstrate for them next Tuesday evening that, if all their notions are like their basket ball notions, they had better return to the state institution containing the title of the song and the name of the writer.

The judges are Professor Bevans, Weld and Patrick.

Stories already published are not eligible.

The length of the story should be between three and six thousand words, but this pattern is not vital.

There is no limitation as to subject.

If in number or in quality the stories are deficient, the medal will be withheld till the first year in which the conditions are met.

Bensop!honic Medical Department:

The faculty will hold a meeting to-morrow.

Miss Hone has entered the Sopho-more class.

The Harvard-Yale game will not be held this year.

The Harvard basketball teams will not meet this year.

The Harvard Athletic Association is considering the nomination of Joe H. Meyers for the office of President of State Athletic Association.

The Harvard Athletic Association membership fee is $10, for the whole season.

The Harvard Athletic Association membership fee is $10 for the whole four years.

Princeton is urging gifts from its alumni to pay for the gutta-percha "Trinity" now being built at Camden.

George W. Orton, the well known Princeton runner, against whose charge of professionalism has been pending, has been acquitted of the charges.
