GAINES' TEAM PLAYS BALL.

IOWA BOYS A CREDIT TO THEIR UNIVERSITY.

The Iowa boys have been winning laurels on the gridiron out in California. The Los Angeles Daily Californian has received copies of the Berkeley World-Stars, from Berkeley, where the Fifty-first football team played the game with the eleven of the State University of California on the first of October. The following are the two dispatches.

Monday, Oct. 1-

"Today was a gala one for the Iowa Minnesotans, who regarded themselves in the classic school of the University. About 50 of our sturdy boys in the back were our team here, shining in the sun, and their final drill, the ball drill, was the best we have seen for the last.

"As excellent game will be the result of the fight, for except in some few places the Iowa team conquered the Stanforders. The regimental colors were battered, but the Iowa boys stuck to the game and having secured the prize, for the ball drill, was the best drill and prize." The Iowa boys, one of the best in the United States, preceded the larger body as it marched to the ground. Huge banners were borne aloft, which proclaimed the presence of the Iowa regiment.

Tuesday, November 1-

"One of the most brilliant football exhibitions which has ever crowded the California gridiron was witnessed by a huge crowd yesterday afternoon. The Iowa team, and by their lady friends, were in evident exhilaration. Fall colors and gallant galloons gleamed yellowly through, as they bounded to the sounds of the game. Every boy from the dressed to the best is jolly, and the victory drill was the best we have ever seen for the last.

"The Iowa boys were the victory of the day, all of the game was fair, and the Iowa team was the best we have seen for the last. The Iowa team was the best." A Tribune-Revier.

The ten-dollar bill which it took to buy an album of the class of 1895 may have been respectfully paid. It certainly seemed a useless expenditure for the last term's budget was presented to the source of the college student's supplies. However, it may be that there is one album that could not be bought now for the original investment, plus compound interest, even though the owner might be a lover of good money. It was worth. Of course it was warped. The game and faces between the covers were not intended to remain a solid form. And as it stands in its infancy, in spite of dictionary and weights of all kinds it retains even yet the double curl line along the edge; it is brought into pleasant remainder of the power of the half, even if curves are beauty.

But the photographs are faithful, and it is with keen delight that the book is opened. Familiar faces soon come to you. Among the Faculty pictures, Dr. Schaeffer and Professor Perkins awaken memories of the lovely by days, and corresponding regret at their 'eternity' death. Other names here as they have left the Faculity for other fields of labor.

Professor Jameson and Professor Anderson were men when old students do not forget. How the Freshmen troubled before Anderson and admired him a year later and lingered to go with him to Stanford, as some did. Major Read, as the commander of the battalion, made an impression on the boys of drill which creates the hope that the University may ever retain this time-honored institution. Change its form there are still many of the Faculty there to give our Alma Mater stability, and to assure the students of the past a hearty welcome when they return, and to introduce them to the larger life of the Iowa Alphas. As alumni we are proud to note the services advancement; made in spite of the appropriations, and to see our own professors ascending stately upward. Reports of Newcomers give an index to the scope of thought of the University indeed gratifying. If I had a suggestion to make college paper it would be to record more fully the deeds of the professors, where are they in their field of work? What ideas do they have? These are the questions which come to the mind when counting up the standing of their beloved college. While in a suggestive mood I would not forget to state that an expect Gold Old to win on the gridiron. This is the settled policy, but it does not mean that we shall go back on our team when a year of bad luck comes, Dr. Drakes, himself a graduate of S. U., I says we must make our athletics a success for their intrinsic good as well as for the reputation of the college.

The class of '92 is a scattered number. As far as I know two have died, Helen Asbury Hump and Class J. Elyan. Miss Florence Brown is head nurse in the hospital at Independence.

Communication.

Editor VIDEOTTE-REPORTER:

MY DEAR SIR,—I note with great surprise a communication from Iowa City to the Moines Leader of the day, describing the demonstration made by the students of the University of the city, or by some of them, upon learning of the defeat of their football team by the State Normal boy's team.

I, together with a score of other students of the University, witnessed that game yesterday. It was a hard, clean game of foot ball, played by two teams of considerable strength, and the students of the University have no need to feel disgraced because defeated by the team here. I very much doubt that there is a team in the state, which can defeat this Normal team, by anything but a close score. The man who sent that notice to the Leader, and who characterized the defeat as a disgrace to the alma mater of a "weak and puny" team, is either a fool or a liar, I rather imagine that he is both.

The alumni of the University, we would like to, understand, that any such proceedings as were gone through with at Iowa City last night, is small wonder that the other teams of S. U. do not make good one ride when they have such a combination of puny teams to work for every man who took part in that demonstration disgraced himself and University shall come to their senses, and shall encourage instead of discour- age the few men we have left who rep- resent us in the gridiron. It is high time that personal likes and dislikes, and jealousies, shall be forgot- ten, and that everybody, players, stu- dents and Faculty, shall plan and do for the glory of Old Gold.

Communication.

The students have, by the most extreme negligence, disregarded their school, and merits a most severe reproof. It is in defect that the student body should support their team; in victory the teams don't need it. It is after defeat, when the men of the team are disheartened, that the student body should open its arms and give its best sympathy and encouragement. I have no words with which to express my absolute contempt for the men who took part in the demonstration against the team last night. I only hope that the better minded members of the University will serve them with a last contempt.

Every alumnus who saw that game will tell you that the defeat was an honorable one, that the Vanities team not a team for heavier than themselves, with a remarkable strong line-up team which is able to meet any of the teams in this state and give them all that they can do. They will tell you, too, that the eleven fellows who fought for their college yester- day, out went down, before hard and heavy playing, out their duty to their Alma Mater far better than the ag- gregate of contemptible pupils who took part in the demonstration last night.

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM,
Cedar Falls, Ia., Nov. 5, 98.

We hope that are this all the inter- ested alumni have heard that the student body was not out demonstrating our team. Students do not act that way after defeat. They stay in their rooms or, gather at the corner, with coats buttoned up around their necks; and wonder how it happened.

There are a large number of Normal graduates here, and they naturally rallied for the victory of their Alma Mater. The students were not wait- ing for transportation to go home to vote and nothing else.

S. W. Watts has returned to his home on account of illness.

The Fayette Collegian clips the Villedge-Reporter's editorial on the game with Fayette, Oct. 22nd. It comments as follows upon the result of the game: "The U. of I. team did not learn to break the interference of S. C.'s patients. They had never met with that interference before and were at a loss to know what to do. Morton, S. C.'s captain, won the game on end runs."

The Nebraska elevator is most severe to the manager of the Great Northern for not keeping his contract. We have heard Iowa Colleges alight on the story, but if they have no better excuse than the one alleged in the Nebraska, there is justification in the editorial denunciation saying, “Such a train ought never again to be considered by any college in making up its schedule.”

The Normal Epile, like the Cornelian, is inclined at the Quill for its article upon “little executives,” cluing it with the following: “We do not care to answer further, the whole which is in spirit of that feathery sheet. To say the last, it certainly gives the writer to be lacking in those qualities which go to make up a gentleman, and undeniably has given him the ‘stand’ in his defense.” The Collegian Reporter also goes upon the war path and prints Cornellian’s editorial. It honours most severely the article of the Quill.

Defusser Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the affected portion of the ear. There is one way to cure deafness, and that is by conclusion of remedies. Defusser is caused by an impaired circulation of the mucous lining of the carotid tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a running round of imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will not be restored. It is surely correct that nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which means the lining up an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

The war gives the Hun a hundred dollars for any case of deafness caused by exhaustion, and these funds can be used by Hall’s Cathart Cure. Send for circular free.
