INDIVIDUALISM.

LECTURE BY THE CHICAGO JOURNAL.
BY MR. VICTOR YARRO.

Mr. Victor Yarros, editorial writer on the Chicago Evening Post, gave a highly instructive lecture on "individualism" at the Unitarian church, Sunday evening. His talk was in large measure a defense of individualism, which, he said, has not been generally understood.

Opposed to the school of individualism are the socialists. Socialism is a proposition which seeks to disfranchise private ownership of tools and instruments of production. Labor stands in the popular mind for the free-for-all, laissez faire system. This is true, but it is not inclusive of all individualism. Individuals do not defend the present system. The speaker then defined and discussed the present system, politically and economically.

Politically, democracy has triumphed. Socialism has not emerged to guard the individual from democratic, which is a tax upon the amount of goods the individual can obtain, there is no democracy. Government does not depend upon the consent of the governed. That is an old idea, and even its first users must be content with it because the consent of the people, i.e., the majority. The test of truth and justice, of any mental question, is not established by the majority.

Individualism believes that there should be the least possible consent of the individual to the laws that should be made without this. The speaker then took much time in proving that economically considered, the condition of industry is better today than ever before. Modern individualists have several beliefs that were elaborately defended by the speaker viz., improvement of labor lies in the abolition of labor monopoly, international free trade, free transfer of lands, and the money question. On this latter topic of interest the speaker showed much more to his own satisfaction that both national parties were wrong.

Mr. Yarros showed himself to be the man of erudition, learning, and deep conviction that had been expected of him. He was, perhaps, too much given to apologetic of his system to completely accord with a Unitarian Sunday evening audience who are not accustomed to logic and philosophy.

"The Typical American." Debate. Resolved, that Labor Unions are not beneficial to the laboring classes.
Aurora A. C. McCaffrey and
Oration B. J. Lamont
"A Martyr to Liberty." The debate was won by the affirmative. Mr. Rich's was easy and deliberate, while Mr. Mahafiy was remarkably rich in illustrations. The Affirmative parted company at the Affirmative showed thorough preparation, and skillfully handled his materi-alk, while Mr. Rich tactfully increased in spirit toward the close.
The remainder of the program was of high merit. The speech by Mr. Cow showed great prep, while the oration by Mr. Lamont, was the best of the ever heard in South Hall.

Ficer.

Last Friday night the Ficer had a display of their talent in the line of music, the first part thereof being a duet by Messrs. Thompson and Tallman, on "Break Soft and Low." After this, the question of extension of the Law was in the S. C. I. was handled but not against by Messrs. Motley and Hilly.
Mr. Thompson followed with a lively speech on the subject of a senator,
giving many of the duties and responsibilities, as well as the honors which are attached thereto. Mr. Thompson has a good reserve from which to draw, but it is not easy to say his speech was well received.
That the office of the United States should have more power, was the question for debate. It was affirmed by Messrs. Anderson and Sar-gren; denied by Messrs. Patterson and Tallman.
In the debate the parties showed their ability to handle a subject and skillfully apply logical analogy to the issue.
Mr. Erickson addressed the society
upon the "Spellsystem and the wells thereof." The subject was well given.
Mr. Thompson gave a solo in a pleasing manner.

Erodeochian.

The following program was rendered by the Erodeochian Saturday evening:
Music Miss Wickersham.

"The Swimmer's Nancy Siemens, Story. Miss McKinley,
"Normal, the Child of the Forest."
Instrumental Misses Currier and Whelan
Misses Carier and Whelan
Eak speaker in the debate showed,
Mrs. farilp presentation of the facts and issues involved, that careful preparation which makes these debates of more than common interest.
The charming original story by MacFarland was thoroughly enered by all.
The music, as usual, was the best, and received several encores.
