Grinnell Training

As the training season draws near, what should be uppermost in the minds of all candidates for the base ball and track? Should it be late hours, irregular diet and spasmodic exercise? Or should it be systematic sleep and diet, judicious exercise and abstinence from all harmful influences? Experience teaches that all great athletes—athletes great in body and spirit—are only those who faithfully preserve regularity of habit and method of exercise. Success in athletics sinks its foundation upon just one bedrock—training. Training, as our past history has demonstrated, is of even more importance than mental ability, especially on the track, and if resolutely persisted in will produce most surprising results. Let him take notice, and let his friends be doubly speeded in their progress. As hinted above, abstinence, regular habits and judicious exercise under the direction of the management, constitute the elements of our system. Let every athlete remember that our reputation on the track must be sustained and that we want a winning ball team, and begin his work immediately. Let him remember that managers and the captains have spent many an evening preparing for the season’s work, and that all plans are being carried out to make his work effective, and that the results lie with him alone. Each team is composed of units, each unit itself a nation; if each man puts himself in perfect condition, we will have perfect teams. And let each athlete remember that on the day when he stands on exhibition before an audience, he will be seen in his true light. If his performance is ragged, the cause, though superficial, is fundamental. If he cannot run, then all plans are being done to make his work effective, and that the results lie with him alone. Alumni Notes

Marsh William Bailey, C. ’93 and L ’94, married Miss Mary Brown of Burlington, April 10. They will reside in Washington, Iowa, where Mr Bailey is a successful lawyer.

E. H. Hoban, C. ’93, is engaged in the ministry as assistant of the Congregational church at Stuart, Iowa.

J. Edward Marshon, L. ’94, was re-elected city solicitor of Des Moines in the recent election.

Miss Bertha Wilson, C. ’93, is engaged in giving dramatic readings throughout the state and makes Des Moines her headquarters. She is meeting merited success.

Clinton R. Dorn, L. ’95, after an absence of several years has again taken up the practice of law in the Capital City. Prof. Edward R. Dorn, M. ’90, was elected a member of the city council of Des Moines March 25.

The appropriations for the university and the good work in its behalf by President MacLean must have the heartiest approval of the alumni of Des Moines.

H. E. Hollingsworth, C. ’97, Des Moines, April 15, 1900.

President Maclean will deliver the commencement oration for the senior class of the North Des Moines High School at its graduation exercises in June.

Miss Cora Morrison will give a recital on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Elsie Morrison, daughter of Bishop Morrison.

More Base Ball Games

The Cedar Rapids team will play the university baseball team at Athletic Park next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday April 17, 18, 19. The Cedar Rapids team has played here early in the season for two years past and the base ball enthusiasts will be glad to see the monthly fixture and the rest of the team again.

A trip will be taken the first of next month. The team will be at Madison the third of May to play the University of Wisconsin and then drop down to Dixon, Illinois, to play the Dixon college team on the fourth of May.

A return game will be played with Dixon on the second of June at Iowa City.

The above games were approved at a meeting of the base ball committee of the board of control, consisting of Mr. J. P. Klinker, Dean Hoford and Professor A. J. Lass.

Ten hours of study, eight to sleep, two to exercise, and four devoted to meals and social duties, is what President Eliot of Harvard recommends to the student.

—Harvard Crimina.

The Missouri Tigers went to Fulton last fall in a waggonet to play football. The football field was dapped over and one of the Tigers had his nose broken. He sued the University for $500 and lost. The attorney for the defendant argued that "to small an accident as broken nose amounted to nothing to a football player."—K. U. Weakly.

The Rockefeller university at Chicago seems determined to eclipse all other institutions of learning. It now announces a special offer of a degree not furnished by any other school, called "associate in arts, in literature or in science." It will not be long before college graduates and presidential candidates will not be the only ones entitled to write the alphabet after their names.—Des Moines Leader.

The practice of obtaining a prominent man to substitute a good creation for several uncertain ones at the commencement exercises of universities, colleges, and high schools is one that is daily increasing in favor. We are glad to note that Justice Brewer will deliver the oration for the collegiate class of the University of Michigan next June, that President MacLean will address the senior class of the North Des Moines High School on its graduating exercises. We think that every one connected with the schools adopting this commencement plan will feel better for the change. There is small but that the graduating classes will rejoice and we think their instructors will share the feeling. The plan has been tried in the professional departments of the university and has succeeded admirably. The collegiate faculty have asked the regents for power to inaugurate it in the collegiate department. The regents refused. Their refusal was probably based upon a knowledge of a lingering idea in the American parent that it is an excellent thing for the best orators in the class to speak upon the commencement exercises.

The idea is all right. The distinguished advocate of protection of American industries has admitted as much for the theory of free trade. It is the practice that renders the theory impractical. The general rule of college faculties in selecting commencement speakers seems to be to furnish as many as possible of the students who have achieved excellence in forensic work during their college course. Faculties seem to have been much more successful in selecting prominent men of the nation than in selecting the great men of the senior class. It would not make so much difference if they were not, for it is easy to palm off imported talent as the best on the market but it would be easier for the entire faculty to pass through the eye of a needle than for them to convince the present senior class that their selections for commencement speakers this year are representative of the class.

If the faculty would endeavor to obtain a prominent speaker to deliver the oration for the class of 1897, it would be taking a step that would reflect credit upon itself and that would we think earn the gratitude of the Junior class of the great majority if not, in fact, of every member of it.

Coe College is taking steps to form an athletic association among the secondary institutions of the state. It has sent out letters to all schools that might be interested in forming such an association. The state association now consists of Grinnell, Ames, Drake, the State Normal school, Penn, and the University of Iowa. The organizers of the secondary association think that Penn and the State Normal will soon be dropped from the state association because of lack of points, as Cornell and Upper Iowa have been practically. These schools uniting with Coe, Leona, Parsons, Ripon, and possibly some other institutions would form the minor league.

Lengthening days give evidence of approaching spring time when ambitious business men, surrounded by shrewd competition in the over-crowded older towns, are looking for new houses, broader and better business advantages. The Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern Railway is extending its lines into the best portions of northwestern Iowa and southeastern Minnesota. This country is noted for its rich soil, social, educational and religious advantages. Four towns were located last fall and have made remarkable growth already. Several new towns will be located during the spring and early summer. If you desire to be a pioneer in a good new town in a wellsettled rich country which has long been in need of a railroad, Address Theo. H. Brown, Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

BASE BALL
We are pleased to acknowledge the very great compliment paid our ball by the "Western League" at Professional Ball Players—The League is composed of Denver, Omaha, Des Moines, St. Joseph, Peru, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Sioux City and unanimously adopted the Chase League Ball as the official ball to be used in all league games. This is a great honor in our cap and was elected to compete with the Reach, Spalding and Victor.

The Intercollegiate League will also probably adopt it.

Send For a Sample Ball then try it. It looks like any other but when you come to put it to a practical test and use it you will learn why the Western League adopted it.
