

The CHICAGO IOWA GAME

From Lawes at 3 a.m. E., Friday—Due on First Saturd. peak

The round trip rate of one fare from Chicago to this point is $3.50, and from Chicago to Iowa, as the last train to leave Chicag. Thursday night, until, it is expected that the train will be the last one to leave Chicago on Friday night.

The visitors will have an easy ride through the snow bound, and climate of the city. The weather is expected to be cold on the way back to Chicago. The train leaves Chicago on Thursday night, until, it is expected that the train will be the last one to leave Chicago on Friday morning.

The question often asked is, "Why don't the players play just a little more?" There is no answer to this question, however, but the fact is that the players are working hard, and they are doing so for the benefit of their country.

The Vote Yesterday

The election yesterday was conducted at no small sacrifice to the students, faculty, and citizens. It was successful in every way. The women and the graduate students were the only students who failed to vote in any large numbers. Many of the resident graduate students will vote every day and a large number of the total graduate students are in absentia.

The vote cast by the women shows that they are not at all anxious for the ballot. Only one-third of the women voted and all but four or five of them did so upon personal solicitation. Their vote for the prohibition candidates was five per cent of the total, while one per cent voted for the men voted for Woolsey. This shows, perhaps, that we might have written laws on some other question if the women were allowed to vote in state and national elections.

The result of the vote among the men shows much the same result as the recent poll of the faculty by the Viceroy, volume 17. Eighty-four per cent of the faculty will vote for McKinley. The vote of the male students shows eighty-two per cent for McKinley and seventeen per cent for Bryan. Republican candidates for congress received eighty-three per cent of the votes for congressmen, and the democratic candidates thirteen per cent.

In the second district Vanlarem received sixty-eight per cent of the votes for congress, Rumpel received seventy per cent, showing a democratic gain over the Republican of thirty per cent. In the sixth district Mr. Block received ten per cent of the votes and Major Lacey ninety per cent, giving a republican gain over the average. The republican candidates in the state, outside of the second district, received ninety-one per cent of the total vote of the men for congressman, the democratic candidates receiving nine per cent. The democratic gain in the second district of the

The Big Games

As the day of the Iowa-Chicago game approaches it is evident that everybody is confident—too confident—that Iowa will win, that is, everybody but those on whom will declare, the responsibility of the success or failure of next Saturday. The average Iowa influenced too optimistically and more discouragingly, he could not fail to note that the team is certainly not in the best possible condition to meet so formidable a foe as the Maroonites have proved and will prove to be. To be sure, Chicago was defeated only last Saturday by an immense score, but it must be remembered that that defeat was at the hands of the strongest team in the country this year. Add to this the fact that Henry and probably Allowees will be back in the game, and that the Chicago players will have become more accus-

That the cut of his garments is not subject to so many changes of taste as the cut of his bread. For the latter, he would have trouble in the possession of a supply to meet the wants of a year. Seasonably, to avoid mortality, he is obliged to change from year to year, and it will be in the course of man's progress to be the same for the fall and winter years. He must then be on the lookout.

The action of the play takes the characters over a small territory and gives opportunity for some very nice scenic effects and some very beautiful sets. The two big sequences of the play are the boat trip from Jersey City to New York and the representation of the awful storm in Asia, which proves disastrous to the German and American navies. In all of these three beautiful sets showing familiar Washington scenery, the eye of the Capitan illuminated.
