UNIVERSITY EXTENSION

Work of this Department of the University—Many Excellent Lectures and Courses by Iowa Professors

Professor J. J. McConnell, the director of University Extension, is revising the announcements of the university extension course and preparing the programs for next year for the printer. A number of university extension lectures are delivered by professors of the university every week at different points in the state. The fact that almost any point in the state can be reached from Iowa City in one day is causing many professors to deliver more lectures at the request of extension and and lecture associations than ever before. The extension lectures may be like the plan of the world-making series, as delivered at Burlington last year. This is one of the most popular and instructive courses offered by the university extension department. The series begins with four lectures by Professor Samuel Calvin on Geology and the Geologic Record, Erosion Transportation and Deposition, Evolution of Continents and Continential Forms of Relief and Glaciers and the Glacial Period. Four lectures are then given by Professor Macbride on The Vegetable Cell, Simplest Plants, The Fern World and The Flowering World. Professor C. C. Nutting closes the series with four lectures on the Geological Succession of Animals, The Geographical Succession of Animals, Natural Selection and the Works of Darwin, and Colors of Animals.

One of the most popular lecturers that the university has on its faculty is Professor W. C. Wilcox, the professor of history. His lectures are clear, finely presented, and flavored with delicious wit and humor He is now filling the fourth annual engagement before the Cedar Rapids university extension course, where he delivers six lectures on Six Critical Points in American History. Professor Moulton of the University of Chicago is also on this Cedar Rapids course, as he has been for several years past. A new extension series of lectures will be delivered at Charles City from February 1 to April 5. The first lecture will be delivered by Professor C C. Nutting on the Coloration of Animals, one of the favorite subjects of the curator of the university museum. Professor W. C. Wilcox will lecture on February 14 on the Present Day Europe and the Eastern Question and on March 1 he will deliver an address on The Place of the Hebrew in History. Professor Macbride speaks on March 22 on the Vegetable Cell and Professor Wilcox on April 5 lectures on The Manifest Destiny of the United States.

Professor T. H. Macbride, who is a scholar and literary man of exceptional endowments, is quite in demand as a lecturer. He has delivered a number of lectures at various places this year. One of his latest was an address on the occasion of the dedication of the Library building at Lenox college He has been in the northern part of the state this week delivering university extension lectures.

Dr J. G. Gilchrist the registrar of the Homoeopathic Medical College, has delivered a number of lectures on English Cathedrals, which are finely illustrated with views taken by him during his English trips. Dr Gilchrist is also a master of the organ and his concerts and musical programs are much in demand. One of his latest is an evening with Handel, the noted composer, in which he gives an appreciation of Handel's life and work and renders a number of fine selections from Handel's works, assisted by members of the Trinity church choir.

Professor Fairbanks, the head of the Greek department, has a series of lectures on Greek Sculpture and Customs and the Excavations of the Buried Cities of the Homeric Poems. These lectures he is now delivering on Thursday afternoons to university audiences. They are proving very popular and will be delivered in various cities in the state after presentation at Iowa. The lectures are finely illustrated with lantern slides taken by Dr Fairbanks on his trips through Greece and Levant.

Professor J. J. McConnell has delivered a number of lectures, one of his last being before the Davis county Teacher's Associations at Bloomfield. His address there was on the Secondary School. Professor Bolton has delivered a lecture before the Cedar county Teachers' Association at West Branch.

President G. E. MacLean is subject to continual requests for lectures at all points in the state. He accepts as many of these requests as his engagements will allow and has delivered a large number in the course of the year. The subject of his addresses differ very widely according to the requests of his audiences.

Professor A. A Veblen, the head of the Physics department and Professor of Electrical Engineering, has delivered a number of lectures on electrical subjects. Besides these lectures, he has a very popular illustrated lecture on Fingerprints, where he takes up the method of identifying criminals first suggested in literature by Mark Twain in Puddin' Head Wilson and develops it into a most interesting science. The lecture is illustrated with lantern slides of many of the finger prints of university students, so that if they ever go wrong, there is in Professor Veblen possession an unfailing method of identifying them.

One of the latest lectures in the department of university extension is an address on Higher Commercial Education by Professor I. A. Loos. This was delivered recently in Iowa City before the Political Science Club and was very well received, provoking a great deal of discussion and favorable comment. It deals with one of the new problems of higher education—the preparation of men for the higher business requirements of the day. The lecture is especially prepared with reference to delivery before boards of trades and chambers of commerce in this state.

The fee charged by the professors who lecture under the auspices of the university extension department is ten dollars per lecture and expenses. President MacLean charges no fee for his lectures in the state. When the committees for whom he has lectured mention the matter of pay he always makes this statement to them and tells them of the Resolving Loan Association which he has established for the help of needy and deserving students from the proceeds of voluntary contributions of the lecture committees for whom he appeared. If the committee desires, it can contribute to this fund what it wishes Many of the committees do contribute to this fund and many poor students are helped through the university in this way. President MacLean says that as yet there has been no loss whatever to this fund from the loans, the sums when due being promptly paid and then loaned to some other needy applicant.

David K. Gross, an alumnus of Indiana of the class of '87 has founded a school at Strasburg, Germany, for the purpose of preparing German students for entrance into Harvard, Yale and other American colleges.

HIGH SCHOOL INSPECTION

Work Being Done by University Inspector McConnell and Assistants—Preparation of List of Accredited Schools

One of the busiest departments of the University at present is the High School Inspector's office. The head of this department, Professor J. J. McConnell, and his assistant, Mr H. C. Dorcas, and other assistants are at work examining the high schools and all the secondary schools of the state and compiling the material gath ered by their visits to these schools for the meeting of the University Senate committee on secondary schools, which will pass upon the applications of high schools and other preparatory institutions for admission to the University's list of accredited schools. The privilege enjoyed by these schools is the entrance of their graduates into the freshman class without examination, except the test in English which is required of all matriculants There are now one hundred and twenty seven accredited schools on the university's list and seventy-four more whose credentials are partially accepted, making over two hundred schools in all There are a number of new applicants this year for places on the list.

The inspection of secondary schools by the university includes examination of the courses of study offered, the methods of teaching, and the facilities for instruction The expenses of examination are borne by the university. The inspection usually lasts one day, the inspector arriving at the high school in the morning and leaving at night The inspector is often asked to address the pupils of the school and his address is generally an appeal to the students for higher education. The visits of the inspector happen at any time, the high school anthorities being notified a short time in advance or, as not infrequently happens, being given notice of the visit of the inspector by his appearance at the superintendent's office on the morning convenient to the examiner.

Within the last ten days, Professor J. J. McConnell, the High School Inspector, has visited Monticello, Anamosa, Independence, Oelwein, West Union, Wilton, and Marengo. Mr H. C. Dorcas, the University Examiner, has visited during the past week the schools at Mediapolis, Eldon, Farmington, Afton, and Emerson. Professor T. H. Macbride is now in the northern part of the state visiting a number of schools, including those of Hartley and Sanborn.

The Committee on Secondary Schools of the University Senate will meet in Professor McConnell's office next week to consider the requests of high schools to be placed upon the list of accredited schools. The schools recommended by the committee will make up the university's list of accredited schools. Following this meeting of the University Committee will occur the meeting of the Committee on Secondary Schools of the State Teachers' Association. This committee is composed of the following members: Professor J. J. McConnell, of the University of Iowa; Professor Thomas Nicholson, of Cornell College; President J. H. T. Main, of Grinnell College; President R. C. Hughes, of Tabor College; President C. E. Shelton, of Simpson College; and Professor Bell of Drake University. This committee meets in Iowa City on February 7th. Following this meeting the colleges of the State Teachers' Association make up their list of accredited schools.

The University Examiner's office is nearly connected with that of the High School Inspector's. If the scholars of any high school show a deficiency in any one study or group of studies in the first years of their university course, this argues some defect of preparation in the high school or preparatory school from which they come and the university informs the school of this and asks that the defect be remedied if possible. Many students on entering the university are much frightened when going up to take their examination in English, now required of all applicants for admission. They usually find that there is little cause for alarm as the test required is a simple one for any student that has the training in English that is to be reasonably expected from high school graduates Ten or more of the applicants for admission this fall, however, failed on this examination and were refused admission to the university. On taking the examination this winter term, all the applicants passed successfully.

The university receives to advanced standing the graduates of the State Normal School, the graduates of the four year's course being received to full junior standing and those of the three year's course to full shphomore standing. The same is done with the graduates of all the colleges in the state except the agricultural college, where on account of the entrance of students into that school from both the high schools and the grammar schools without discrimination, an examination of the secondary credentials is required. The agricultural college, according to the report of F. W. Trost, of Ottumwa, who this fall entered that college from the university, is trying to work this plan both ways. requiring an examination of Mr Trost in studies passed at the university. A large number of advanced students are received every year from schools like the state normal. They prove among the best students that the university has, winning often prizes in scholarship and Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi memberships.

Michigan's Base Ball Prospects

Capt. McGinnis is hopeful for Michigan's base ball team this season, and, in fact, matters seem much brighter than they did at this time last year. Many of the old men are back and a number of new ones come with good records from other colleges or high schools. The pitcher's position is the most important and for that there is "Jerry" Utley and Cutting. Among the new aspirants may be mentioned Weber, Tracy, Fischer and Burgindal, with records to point to. In addition to these, there are something like twenty candidates for the place and some of those may be found winners. Two old catchers are back, Whitney and Bennett. On first we have Condon; on second, Blencoe, on third, Flesher. Mathews, who was Northwestern's best shortstop last year, is in college and will probably fill that position on this year's nine. Center field will hold McGinnis and left Snow Davis is back to play right field.

A slight change is to be made this year in indoor practice. The pitcher's and catchers will be given exclusive possession of the net for the first two weeks. In this way it is thought considerable time and energy will be saved and more accurate handling of the ball developed.—U. of M. Daily.

SOPHOMORES GOING HOME

Resolutions Passed in Their Honor—1903 Gives Them a Farewell Party They are Sorry to go

The classes of the university except the freshman class have now all adopted resolutions of sympathy with the sophomores and asking the faculty to take them back before the first of September, the panishment announced by the faculty. The sophomore class met and decided to adopt resolutions which the whole class should sign. They were in such a hurry to have the members all sign that they waived the formality of having the resolutions and petition drawn up before they were signed, but signed some blank sheets of paper, relying on the committee to fill in the space at the top of the first sheet with appropriate words and phrases. The junior class refused to pass the resolutions adopted by the senior class, which said that the class had no sympathy with the custom of kidnaping. The class unanimously resolved that this declaration would have to be left out. The resolutions as finally adopted by the juniors and presented to the faculty are:

"Whereas certain members of the sophomore class of the College of Liberal Arts have been suspended for the remaining two terms of the college year, for the offense of kidnaping certain members of the freshman class, it is hereby resolved by the members of the junior class of the College of Liberal Arts:

"1. That we recognize the necessity of some action by the faculty.

"2. That we recognize that there may be degrees of guilt, and that in the recent action of the Collegiate faculty above mentioned, punishment has been meted out that we consider extremely severe.

"We therefore respectfully ask that the President and the Collegiate faculty take some action calculated to mitigate the severity of the punishment inflicted."

No meeting of the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts held yesterday afternoon, owing to the fact that the required quorum, a majority of the Collegiate professors was not present. The resolutions and petitions of the classes in behalf of the sophomores will therefore probably not be considered until next Friday.

The class of 1903 held its second sociable of the year at the Woodman hall, Thursday evening Nearly every member of the class was present, it being the best attended of any class meeting this year. This may have been partly due to the fact that it was a sort of farewell party to ten members of the class, who as one of them expressed it were compelled by the force of superhuman circumstances to leave the congenial surrounding of the university and be deprived of educational facilities

It was not a banquet. The evening was intended for pleasure and such it undoubtedly was. During a lull in the dancing, the ten departing members were called upon for speeches. In spite of the bravado with which some of them spoke, down at heart there was not one of them who did not feel sorry that he was leaving the university, sorry that he was leaving the class of 1903. Somehow university ties are not easily broken, and Mr Greene spoke their true sentiments when he said: "I am sorry I am going." Mr Stiles, (who has been the cause of all the excitement in the university) said: "This is the second time I have been entertained by sophomores. They have treated me kindly and my associations with them have been pleasant, if exciting. They are my friends, and if I were not a freshman, I would be a sophomore.

EDITORIAL.

THE different companies of the Nebraska cadet battalion give dances during the college year. The company B hop will be held about March 1.

"DEBATORS CHOSEN," runs a big black head in the current number of the Nebraskan-Hesperian. We would be inclined to take the negative of that.

THE Kansas University Weekly says:

The University of Pennsylvania will lose by graduation two of her best men, Captain Hare and McCracken.

We believe there will be a few good men left, however.

IN refusing to embody in their resolutions of sympathy with the suspended sophomores, the first section of the senior resolutions declaring no sympathy with the custom of kidnaping, the junior class established at least a reputation for consistency.

THE Coe College Cosmos prints as its leading editorial this month a description of the six days of creation. The editorial extends over three pages and is quite good, except that it is open to the objection that the subject has been done well before.

THE newspapers of the state with practical unanimity uphold the action of the president and the collegiate faculty in suspending the ten sophomores for their late pranks. President MacLean, who has returned from several trips over the state, said this morning that the alumni of the university who understand the spirit of the sophomores, and every one who has mentioned the affair approve the suspension of the sophomores. Every one thinks it high time that the kidnaping of freshmen be suppressed.

The Fairbanks Lectures

The university lectures now being delivered in the physics lecture room every Thursday afternoon by Professor Fairbanks are excellent opportunities for the students of the university. The lectures are among the most finished and scholarly that have been delivered to college students. The provision of the university that makes admission to them free will allow every student to attend. The lecture room was well filled last Thursday afternoon but a larger room can be secured if the size of the audiences so demands By the side of such lectures as those given by Dr Fairbanks, the university lecture course lectures pale into insignificance. The university is to be congratulated upon the plan of these lectures It is to be hoped that many more similar courses by university professors and by other gentlemen of learning and reputation will be arranged

YOUNG PEOPLE WANTED

To Learn the Jewelry Trade

We need a large number of young people, from twelve to twenty-two years old, as students of the manufacturing jewelry business, to begin immediately.

An especially fine corps of instructors have arrived from Providence, Rhode Island, ladies and gentlemen who are experts in his own department, together covering all departments, and are gifted with the special faculty called aptness to teach.

Students who develop a faculty for that branch will secure special instruction in hand engraving, by an expert in that specialty.

Do not delay, but send in your name, age and address to W. F. Main Co., Iowa City, Iowa. The winter months are at hand, and this is the time to begin. Thoroughly master any department of this work, and you are always in demand, always independent, always command a good salary.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Well it seems as far as the Uncle Tom's Cabin business is concerned, that everything lies in the name of Stetson, since the present tour of Stetson s Uncle Tom's Cabin Co, opened, they have met with succession of packed houses, an illustration of the fact that the public have not forgotten the name of Stetson, a name that gladdens the heart of the amusement lover, for one can always count on witnessing a first class entertainment under that trade mark. The great Stetson's Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. will appear in its entirety on Monday the 28th.
