The controversial contest this year promises to be uneventful from the fact that all the composers appear to have about equal chances for victory. The principles of the composers are as follows: John A. B. Williams will compose a March that will be played by the Band, and James G. Melcher will compose a March of a more popular character. The Band will play both the compositions, and the audience will decide which is the best. The contest will be held in the Opera House on Friday night, March 8.

The financial system of the University of Iowa is in a state of confusion. The Board of Administration has recently passed a resolution authorizing the purchase of $50,000 worth of bonds. The bonds will be used for the purpose of paying the salaries of the professors and the maintenance of the university. The resolution was passed with the approval of all the members of the Board. The university has a large endowment fund, and the proceeds of this fund will be used to pay the interest on the bonds.
