A Sad Story

A story of blighted friendship is now being told on the campus. Two popular members of the class of 1915 were so closely akin that they were always together. Their presence on the campus was known as "Dar and Pyth." They were such a part of each other that "Dar and Pyth" were always together in what they did. Now "Dar and Pyth" seem to have been divided for the semester. "Dar" has not been seen on the campus for some time. The story of how "Dar" and "Pyth" are working hard to get back together is not known. But it is clear that the split is real and will not be repaired until "Dar" and "Pyth" are once again united.

IOWA CITY VOCAL INSTITUTE

LORTNANCE MACK \n
The Institute of Vocal Science, in cooperation with the American Institute of Vocal Science, will be held on November 5-8 under the direction of Dr. Jean Murphut, director. The institute will consist of a series of lectures and recitals by noted vocalists and teachers. The lectures will cover topics such as vocal technique, breathing, and emotional expression in singing. The recitals will feature performances by the institute's participants. The institute is open to all singers and music educators interested in improving their vocal skills.
