The attendance at the University of Iowa for the year 1900-1901, as reported by the registrar, is an increase of 908 over the previous year. In 1900-1901, 5,244 students were enrolled, as against 4,336 in the previous year. The increase is attributed to the fact that the University has opened its doors to students of all states and countries, and it is expected that this trend will continue in future years.

The William's Club is a literary organization of the university formed in 1891 and continued under the name of Young Men's Business Association. The club is composed of students who are interested in the study of literature and are desirous of improving their general knowledge. The club meets weekly, and each meeting is devoted to the discussion of some literary work.

The Minnesotan is a literary magazine published by the Student Body of the University of Iowa. The magazine is issued biweekly, and it contains articles, poems, and reviews by students of the university. The magazine is intended to provide a forum for the expression of the thoughts and ideas of the students of the university.
