FOOTBALL SITUATION.

Team Steadily Improving but Not Yet in Good Condition.

The football practice yesterday afternoon developed no surprises of any kind. There is the same ragamuffin look to the practice as there has for the past week. The players, however, were not quite so cheerful, if we may infer from the fact that many of them were at the offices of the law school, where the practice is scheduled to begin.

The college football season starts this year a firm believer in the policy of expansion. In every college town under the sun, college football is this time around, and it was formalized that the practice is scheduled to begin.

The dean's office is on the first floor in the room formerly occupied by Professor Wilson and his German classes. The dean's office is about to be furnished with tables and chairs of oak, and several sets of state reports and digest will be placed there.

The law library has been greatly increased last year. It now in a large room instead of being partitioned off in small ones. The library is as good for all the books as there is a gallery extending around the four sides of the room. At both east and west sides are stairs by which access to the gallery can be obtained. Oak furniture has been ordered for the library and is expected to arrive in a few days. In all, the college of law indicates progress in its every movement.

The Iowa at Michigan.

The Daily Iowa is one of the few college papers that is worth reading. It is a lively, newsy, up-to-date paper and will do much to help the reputation of western college journalism. There are now 21 newspapers published throughout the country, fifteen college papers, and the Daily Iowa ranks well up in the list. It is not as large a paper as the Daily News — the Daily News is the largest college newspaper in the country, but it does have a cartoon, but the style, the arrangement and subject matter of pages carries on to please its readers and is of a high standard.

W. T. Shepard, '94, of Harlan, Iowa, in the city of the college was well guarded. "Why, it's a wonderful change," he said. But the change is not so much a change in the hot weather, but a change in the style of the newspaper.

It is essential that all the men in the football squad should appear before the board of eligibility. All men on the squad may present themselves to Professor Z. W. Wilcox at the central union before any day between 2 and 5 P.M.

Professor A. G. Smith will be on hand to help the men with their work on the sports. There is a great deal of work to be done on the football season.

Miss Esther Ashby, ex '02, is visiting friends in the city.

CHANGES FOR LAWS.

Preliminary Debates and Questions Chosen.

Iowa motifs Wisconsin and Minnesota: February.

At this time the necessity of a football season is greatly dealt with. The Debating League is already laying plans and making the necessary preliminary arrangements. The league will meet prior to the football season with Wisconsin and Minnesota which will take place about the middle of the winter term.

The men for the preliminaries have been chosen and they have already selected their questions and begun to collect material and data for the home contests.

The question for the Wisconsin preliminary is: "Resolved: That the Iowa system of taxation, which is the order of the day, but his duties with a vim and vigor, is now a firm believer in the policy of expansion. In every college town under the sun, college football is this time around, and it was formalized that the practice is scheduled to begin.

THE DAILY IOWAN

IOWA CITY, IOWA

This Issue by A. G. Remley

Granting that the Cleveland program for the dedication of the new building of the college of Liberal Arts, was a newspaper fake story, yet all agree that it would be just the thing to have Grover Cleveland here on that day. He would be most cordially welcomed by the University.

Saturday at the foot-ball game every old student should assist in showing the new men as well as the visitors how we treat our opponents in athletic and like contests. In the midst of the words of encouragement to the supplicants of the honor of old gold, we can do nothing more to our credit than to urge the Normalites to do their best, for, by doing this it will be evident to them that we wish to win by fair means only. Many athletic teams have the determination to be victorious whether the means are fair or foul, it matters not which. Iowa's past and future purpose has always been to treat its opponents as friends rather than foes, and to wear their college colors and give their yells as enthusiastically as our own. The result is that all the sister colleges who come here leave the city with a feeling of good will for us.

The Athletic Union is much gratified over the fact that so many of the students are availing themselves of the opportunity to purchase season tickets to the football games. Some boys these tickets to make evident their faith in Iowa's team and to do all within their power to make athletics a financial success at the university. Others secure them to save money, for the average cost of each game will be but $3.375. At the Illinois game alone the regular admission price is to be $5.00, which is one third the price of a season ticket. No matter what the motive is, those who purchased them will never regret having done so.

Cadet Notice.

October 2, 1901.

Order No. 1: All students whatever, who under the rules of the University, are required to take military instruction, excepting those who have been excused by the battalion surgeon, will be required to drill until their applications have been acted upon by the Military Committee of the Faculty and they have been officially notified of the result. All authority to the contrary is hereby rescinded.

By Order of Commanadant.

Order No. 61. All students desiring to be exempt from drill, no matter what grounds, and whether they have previously made applications or not, must obtain a blank from the commandant immediately, before or after drill, and submit their petition in the manner described therein.

II. Cadets desiring to be excused from any particular drill must make a formal application in writing on the form provided, stating the prescribed reason, theretofore, before or after drill hour. If too sick to comply with this requirement they must produce a doctor's certificate in their explanations. All explanations must be in writing after the prescribed form and submitted on or before the next drill following the offense.

By Order of Commanadant.

Amusements

A splendid company will appear at the opera house on Saturday evening, Oct. 5th, in the great success "When We Were Twenty One." Dick Carewe, the leading character, is the quiet bachelor of the period. But he doesn't remain one long! O no.

The play ends with his head bowed to the yoke of matrimony, and after the most charming four acts ever penned, Dick Carewe ambles gently in double harness, side by side with the beautiful Phyllis Ericson. We don't wish to anticipate pleasure, so the plot of the play we will keep until we give our further view of the players, but this we say without fear of contradiction: "When We Were Twenty One" will make our mind and heart better in every way, so don't fail to see it.

While the comedy "Two Merry Tramps" as presented by Wood & Ward's company has been pronounced a bright satire by the press throughout the country during the past two years, the play itself is of minor importance, the specialties and musical numbers introduced almost continuously during the comedy being the features that have placed this organization at the head of its class. Some sixty pleasing, tuneful and novel specialties are given, among the most noted being the "Hobo " by Wood and Ward and the Elmore Sisters, the rage of New York; "Tell us Pretty Ladies," as sung in "Florodora," My Blushing Rosy," with choruses by entire company; "The Big Detective," a musical satire on Sherlock Holmes; the Bowery Quartette in "The East Side Belle," the Italian Opera and numerous individual specialties. The abundance of bright and pretty costumes, dashy, tuneful music, and scenery make the production of the "Two Merry Tramps" so closely resemble an elaborate extravaganza that theatre-goers scarcely realize that they are witnessing a farce comedy so different from the ordinary play of its class.

Resolutions.

The supreme class at its meeting this afternoon adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas in the wisdom of our Heavenly Father, Daniel L. Zwilling has been called from this life to the life beyond; and,

Whereas, it is our desire as members of the Class of 1904 of the State University of Iowa to express our high appreciation of and esteem for our departed classmate;

Resolved That in Daniel L. Zwilling, we found a classmate and a gentleman abounding in love, sympathy and helpfulness;

Resolved, That in the departure of our dear classmate, we, as a class, have sustained a loss individually felt by each member; and that to his bereaved parents and friends we extend our love and sympathy in this their great sorrow;

C. P. Schenck, W. M. Ball, Secretary,
Wing Committee.
