NEW PHYSICS COURSES.

They Will be Made Possible by the Expanding of the Department.—Many Changes Planned.

The physics department of the university, which has long been cramped into the ground floor and basement of North Hall, has lately been granted, in addition, the use of the second floor of that building, formerly occupied by the general library. This added space will enable the department to better handle the branches already taught and to conduct some lines of study and experiment before impossible.

Plans for the expansion of the department have been submitted to the board of regents who have unofficially approved them, intimating that only the lack of funds prevented their immediate execution. These plans contemplate the constructing of a lecture room on the second floor of the same general arrangement as the present lecture room only larger, the new amphitheatre to accommodate two hundred people. Besides the amphitheatre, there will be on this floor an apparatus and preparation room, a recitation room, and a large elementary laboratory to take the place of the present one in the north-west room of the ground floor, which is much too small.

The ground floor of the building will be subdivided and rearranged for special laboratories, seminary rooms and library room. The present lecture room will be made into three smaller rooms and the present library room will be divided by a partition, into two, one of which will be used to accommodate the library.

In addition to these needed changes in the interior of the building, it is proposed to construct a stairway which will give easy access to the roof. This is for the purpose of meteorological work. A station will be fitted up there with special recording instruments and a complete set of government meteorological apparatus. With this equipment the department will be prepared to conduct experiments on air currents and air pressures and also offer courses in meteorology and atmospheric changes.

Professor Veblen, head of the department, who is now voluntary government observer in this city, states that there is probability of this becoming a regular government meteorological station with a paid officer in charge when the new observation rooms are completed.

Golf.

A tournament is being arranged between teams representing the university and the Iowa City Golf club for Friday, October 11, at the links north of the city. The university team will be selected from the following players who have signified their willingness to participate, R. H. Finkbine, Arthur Gordon, W. O. Coast, E. H. Carpenter, J. G. Berryhill and E. C. Hull. The players for the Iowa City club have not yet been nominated.

EXCURSION--DES MOINES.

S. U. I. Band and Many Iowa Rooters Will Accompany Team Friday to Drake.

The Drake-Iowa football game will be played on the Ninth Street grounds in Des Moines next Friday afternoon. Arrangements to this end and for a special train to carry the Iowa band and rooters to Des Moines, were perfected in that city yesterday.

Much difficulty was experienced in securing suitable grounds for the game. The Des Moines baseball park had been offered, but was rejected for the reason that the management of the Horse Show refused to allow the immense telegraph pole supporting the electric light to be removed from the middle of the field. The fair grounds were unavailable, as a cattle-roping contest is in progress there. As the only alternative, it was decided to use the old Y. M. C. A. grounds, which are admirably adapted to the purpose, although a canvas fence will have to be erected as the old fence has been removed.

The game will begin at 3 P. M. with Rinehart of Detroit as umpire and Hayner of Chicago as referee. The use of these excellent officials will give no occasion for such trouble as arose in the Drake-Grinnell game Saturday night. The head linesman and timer have not yet been selected.

The game promises to be a hot contest, as Drake is determined to score, while Iowa is equally determined to save its uncrossed goal-line.

The special train carrying the band and rooters will leave the C. R. I. & P. station here at 6:30 a. m. Friday. In order to permit the Iowa City people to enjoy the Seni-Omsec-Carnival and the Horse Show in the evening, the train will not leave Des Moines returning till 10:00 p. m.

President MacLean will excuse absence of all students who register in the S. U. I. register at the Savery House where the team will be quartered.

Cadet Notice.

October 7, 1901.

ORDER NO. 7:

I. Those cadets who have not complied with orders Nos. 5 and 6, these headquarters dated the 2, instant, will be reported absent at all formations until they do, or until they have received the limit of demerits, when the regulations applicable in such cases will be enforced.

II. The disposition manifested by some members of the battalion to ignore altogether official communications posted in the usual place, say on the campus bulletin board, or who through neglect or indifference fail to promptly comply with same, will without further notice result in the strict application of paragraph I. of this order to the case in question.

By order
Capt. Geo. R. Burnett, U.S.A.
Commandant.

CO-EDUCATION UPHELD.

President MacLean Defends the System—Better Than That of Harvard and Columbia.

In his address before the women of the "U" at the opening of the women's drawing room Saturday President MacLean took the opportunity to say a good word for co-education. His address in part was, that last year he had been criticised for attempting to say that which Dean Young had said much better than he could and he did not intend to again encroach on her province. President Hadley, of Yale is quoted as saying that co-education is a failure in the larger colleges and universities of this land and holding that co-ordination is the better way of educating the two sexes, designating thereby the system of maintaining separate colleges for men and women but under the same head and employing the same teachers, as is done at Radcliffe and Barnard. He, President MacLean did not agree with President Hadley that co-education was unsuccessful and said that the world was looking to us, the University of Iowa and her sister state universities for the fulfillment of the highest good of co-education. As we are examples of the system, we must take care to show it in its perfection.

Continuing he said that he believed in being perfectly frank and telling people their good as well as their bad qualities while they were still alive, that he agreed with one of the professors who had said that the students this year were the best looking set he had seen. Especially was this so and he hoped would be further demonstrated to be true, on the principle that handsome is as handsome does.

In conclusion, the President called the attention of Mrs. Ranney, a stanch and prominent alumna present, to his beautiful flower garden made up of the audience before him.

Tennis Work.

A rather informal tournament is being held at the courts this week for the purpose of selecting the men to play against Cornell Saturday. Cornell reports Ferris and Yoran of last year's men back, with much good new material, so the matches will probably be close. Last night a series of doubles were played off between Bailey and Ellis against Marsh and Mather, resulting in victory for the former by two sets out of three, as follows: 6-4; 7-9; 6-3.

L. H. Kepler, L '04, of Mt. Vernon, is pledged to Phi Kappa Psi.

George Carter '98, who is now on the staff of the Daily Nonpareil, is visiting friends at the university.

L. E. Marshall '01 is enrolled as a special student in the Law department of Harvard university.

ASSAULTED OFFICIAL.

Referee Lane Struck from Behind and Felled to the Ground Because of his Rulings on the Game.

Des Moines, Ia, Oct. 8. [Special.]—"Kill him! kill him! Let us at him! Stand away there!"

So sang out a maddened crowd of Drake university players and students around the ticket office at the league baseball grounds Saturday night. As they sang these college songs, they surged against the doors of the office which were protected by three policemen detailed by Captain Livingston, Grinnell football players in uniform and Harry Elliott, the manager of the grounds. The man inside the ticket office was Wm. G. Lane of Yale. He had refereed the football game, which went against the blue and white, and the belligerent Drake youths cried aloud for a chance to get at him.

Grinnell had clearly the best of the argument in the first half, scoring a touchdown and goal. Drake made a place kick in the same half soon after Grinnell had scored. Drake had gone into the game with a great deal of offside play and though referee, Lane, blinded his eyes to much of it, he was frequently obliged to penalize Coach Best's men. The offside work of Drake university continued with greater frequency in the second half when the game was quite even between the two teams. Toward the end of the half Grinnell had held Drake for downs near her goal and sent Don Evans around the end for a ten yard gain that took the ball out of the danger limit. Evans called down and the referee blew his whistle. When the scrimmage cleared, Julius Bacon, captain of the Drake team, had the pigskin under his arm and was making straight for the Grinnell goal.

No Grinnell players offered to stop him. Evans had shouted to them that the ball had been stolen. Referee Lane called the ball back to where he had called it down. The ruling raised a storm of protests from the Drake sympathizers, and someone in the crowd ran up behind Lane and hit him a terrific blow in the neck knocking him to the ground. The claim is made that the blow was struck by a Drake player who was not playing in this game, but it is understood that the man in question denies having struck the blow and Drake is expected to enter a formal denial of the charge.

The officers detailed to the game formed around the prostrate official and the Grinnell players assisted in making a cordon. County Superintendent, Jim Brenton, who is a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor forced his way to Lane's side and directed the wedge-shaped formation that carried the wounded official off through the crowd to the ticket office.

A crowd surged around the ticket office for a while, but melted away, and in half an hour

The new gridiron was not dedicated with any such score as the new field was last year. However it will get used to big scores soon.

The merchants of the city showed their loyalty and patriotism by decorating in Normal and Iowa colors Saturday. The townspeople are every whit as loyal to the team as the student body, and the students know and appreciate the fact.

Those who try to roast a man for rooting at a football game are, to quote a well-worn phrase, "sticking a knife into the side of the university." If you can't get up enough enthusiasm to root yourself you should be glad some one else can, else there would be a prolonged silence, and an Iowa crowd never permits that to occur.

Timely Rooting.

There was the poorest exhibition of rooting at Saturday's game that could be imagined. When the team was going through its opponents line for good gains some enthusiasm was vented in a few yells, but in the second half when try as they would our line men could not stop Normal's rushes, the big crowd in the stand sat as if at a funeral and between the plays you could have heard a pin drop, the silence was so intense. What rooting there was, and it was all in the first half, was illtimed because then our team had the ball and was liable to mistake the signal from the noise. In the second half when Iowa was not doing so well, the crowd kept still.

The men on the field were trying their best to keep their opponents from gaining ground and each such attempt had its failure recorded by a deeper silence on the side lines. When the team is losing is the time the fellows in the bleachers should stand up and shout for Old Iowa with all their breath. Then is the time to encourage the men on the team, for then they need it. Save your voice when we are winning; but if things begin to look bad, remind the players that they are playing for the university, that the university looks to them to uphold its honor and win or lose it is behind them. Then, rather than when we are winning, is when the call should be made for the team's greatest exertion, and this can be done in no way so surely and completely as by rooting. The kind of rooting that tells them that looking on are thousands who are hoping, wishing and striving for them to win, is the kind that counts. We have won so long that some of the student body possibly do not know what to do when we are losing. There is only one thing to do and that is, yell. If the officers of the athletic union want to do something to make a winning football team, they will call a mass meeting and appoint yell masters for the next game whose business it will be to provide yells and lead the rooting for the old gold.

Season Tickets.

A great number of the season tickets to the football games have been sold. They are proving very popular, as the holder of one will be admitted to the games on an average of thirty-three and a third cents. When otherwise he would pay one dollar for one of them. They will be on sale for a short time only and should be procured at once by all that have not done so. They can be had today at the ticket stand.

the last student had left the grounds. Then the referee was placed in a cab and driven to his home.

Great doubt is being commonly expressed about Des Moines as to whether Drake university will be able to schedule any more football games in Des Moines. The excitement over the assault on Referee Lane is still at a white heat.

Coe Tied.

Clarence Spencer Macy was elected captain of the second team at Cedar Rapids, Saturday, and in the game that followed, he proved himself worthy of the place. Coe's team outweighed the second team and were playing before their own crowd, yet they were outplayed from start to finish. In the first half, Coe made some good gains round the ends but never seriously endangering our goal line. In the second half, line smashes directed at center and smashes carried the ball steadily and surely towards Coe's goal. Once we lost the ball on downs within one yard of the line and again within three yards. The men who carried the ball in these plays were Captain Macy, Clearman and the tackles, Fordyce and Commack.

At the end of the two twenty minute halves neither side had scored. After practice, yesterday, Dr. Knipe complimented the second team men on their hard, consistent work in this, their first game.
