Graduate Club Meets.

The Graduate Club met last night for the first time this year in Prof. Loomis' old room in the central building. They held an executive committee which due to the pressure of work will be to map out the plans of the club for the year. The officers for the year are President-Methodist, of Iowa; Secretary, Mable Williams; President, of Iowa; Treasurer, Henry Albert; and Librarian, Mrs. Lea A. Crockett. A complete list of the new officers will be furnished in the next number.

Library.

Selections, on the Philippine Islands; to Public Libraries. Today the library of the School of the Philippine Islands is open only one day a week, and at those times the doors are always closed. The library has been receiving so many books from abroad that it is now necessary to place the men on probation before the games with Yale. The responsibility of the loss of the Yale eleven will be due in a large measure to those men who, in failing to fulfill their college duties, failed of their duty to their class. It would have been much better if such men had not competed with the rest. And of course the cause time spent in coaching them was a most serious one.

Members of the University and Freshmen athletic squads must be absolutely regular in attendance at lectures while in Cambridge. Two years ago the Athletic Committee was obliged to prevent Freshman teams from playing outside of New England because of a large number of interference cuts taken by members of the teams while they were in Cambridge. To the college athletes, academic standing is as essential as physical ability.

Library. The Herpetarians publish the following unique program for their first meeting of the year to be held Saturday night.

Library. The twelfth annual meeting of the Iowa State Library Association was held at Burlington yesterday and today. Yesterday the report of the Literary School of the university's summer session was made and received very enthusiastically. The question was so satisfactory that it was decided to hold another library session, to be airm. Friday.

Library. One of the features of the association yesterday was the rally of the librarians who attended the summer session. This rally took the form of a general library conference and went off enthusiastically. Miss Harriet Wood, chief cataloguer of the university, tonight will give a talk on the history of libraries. Mr. George Woodruff, of the Library, will read a well prepared paper on "The Relation of Women's Clubs to Public Libraries." The, Public Library has been invited to Bertha Ridgeway read one of the principal papers on "The Machinery of the College Library." President MacLean, who attended the association yesterday, secured a promise from the librarians of Congress to send the university library in the near future.

W. H. Adams, 65, is an applicant for an appointment as teacher in the Philippines.

In the near future, the government will have a permanent system of education, both in offense and defense and today there is still an effort to keep it up by names that means nothing. During the season of 1901 we find Yale vacuuming a new play that to my certain knowledge has been used at two universities the previous year. This play, which can hardly be called even a modification of "guards-back", proved effective against Harvard, yet the fact is that all the universities to which that play was practically the same system of football and the effort to appropriate certain plays has the effect of turning a different system, and can deceive only those who of necessity are ignorant. That the tackles should be brought behind the line right or left of center, and only when the player is in a position of interference behind the line. "Guards-back", so called, is the name given to the system of play that has for its fundamental idea the forming of the interference before the ball is snapped. In the older styles of offense, the protective men running left or right of center, and the ball carrier in the line, they found it is this style of play which is given the name of "guards-back," irrespective of the position from which the men are drawn.

This style of play was originated at the University of Pennsylvania by Mr. George Woodruff and became prominent in 1894. It was the natural development of the "flying interference" that was legislated out of existence by the rules committee the previous year and had for its underlying mo- tive the placing of the ball carrier in the line, the guards usually ahead of the man with the ball. The result was that he was pitched in the "flying interference" by permitting the men, and not the ball carrier, to start before the ball was put in play, but by doing away with the placing of the ball carrier in the line, the guards usually ahead of the man with the ball, the result was that he was pitched in the "flying interference" by permitting the men, and not the ball carrier, to start before the ball was put in play, but by doing away with the placing of the ball carrier in the line, the guards usually ahead of the man with the ball, the result was that he was pitched in the "flying interference" by permitting the men, and not the ball carrier, to start before the ball was put in play, but by doing away with the placing of the ball carrier in the line, the guards usually ahead of the man with the ball, the result was that he was pitched in the "flying interference" by permitting the men, and not the ball carrier, to start before the ball was put in play, but by doing away with the placing of the ball carrier in the line, the guards usually ahead of the man with the ball, the result was that he was pitched in the "flying interference" by permitting the men, and not the ball carrier, to start before the ball was put in play, but by doing away with the placing of the ball carrier in the line, the guards usually ahead of the man with the ball, the result was that he was pitched in the "flying interference" by permitting the men, and not the ball carrier, to start before the ball was put in play, but by doing away with the placing of the ball carrier in the line, the guards usually ahead of the man with the ball, the result was that he was pitched in the "flying interference" by permitting the men, and not the ball carrier, to start before the ball was put in play, but by doing away with

The social life offered by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. in their receptions and regular work is of great benefit to the students and especially to the new ones. At these functions, where stiff formality is done away with, both students and professors come in closer contact and come to know each other better than they could otherwise. To the new students these receptions and meetings are of especial benefit and importance. Here they meet their fellow classmen and students in general and many of them are made to feel for the first time that the university has really a place and home for them.

While everyone is shouting and yelling for our first team at Des Moines today, let us not forget that tomorrow our scrubs will meet Drake's second team on our home grounds. But let us not only remember this game but also remember that every loyal student, who possibly can, owes it to the team and to the university to be on the bleachers with just as many yells of encouragement as there would be were it to be a first team game. This is the second first team game on our home grounds this season and if hearty support and enthusiasm is shown it will do much towards enthu­

The gym is in better condition this year than before and is being patronized quite freely but yet the classes in physical training are not so large as they should be. It is a danger of college life, that proper exercise and physical training is much too often overlooked. Look among your fellow students and you can pick out those who are suffering for bodily exercise. They have a listless manner and how their work halts heartedly. Physical health is necessary to good university work. Let us not make the mistake but let us don our gym suits and get to work.

Fresh Medics Organize.

The medics of '05 met in the medical amphitheatre and effected a permanent organization last evening. In view of the fact that they have a representative in the varsity's second eleven and a number and baseball players, they deemed it necessary to create a new office—that of athletic manager—which move was a very good one. The following officers were elected: president, H. V. Kahler; secretary, Miss-Hurst; treasurer, W. F. Curtis; sergeant-at arms, A. R. Richey, J. R. How
all; athletic manager, L. W.
Brown; mascot, C. T. Bernatz.
After the meeting adjourned the boys elected showed their apprecition of the honors paid them by taking the class to the Clinton Street Smoke House and treating them with a good smoke.
