WHAT WILL MICHIGAN DO
IOWA TO BE SHOWN TUESDAY

Hawkeye Team Leaves Tomorrow Morning—Much Confidence over Team's Chances.

What will the harvest be? Will Michigan run over Iowa by forty to nothing or will the contest be close with possibly a victory for Michigan by a single touch-down or will Iowa win out by something like 6 to 3?

These are the questions agitating Iowa today. Tomorrow they will be talked of by all the state and a good part of the West. Iowa believes for the most part that the score of the game Thanksgiving morning at the West Side base ball park will be very close at best and that there is every chance for the Hawkeyes to win if they play the game that is in them.

It is quite possible that Michigan will jump on her but instead jumps a bit quicker herself all along the line, there is no reason why Coach Knipe's tactics should not keep Michigan away from Iowa's goal and lead to a probable score by the Hawkeyes in the second half. This is a conservative estimate of what may be expected. And the same may be said made because Iowa is always conservative in her statements of her prospects in football.

Coach Knipe pledged himself after the Michigan defeat that he would account of what he could do. His latest utterance has to the effect that he would not be surprised if Iowa would win if the men played the game that they are capable of. This is a long way, however, from making any prediction on the game, such as Jack Coakley did before the Michigan-Beloit game, saying that he expected Iowa to win that game of which he said Iowa was worthy.

However this objection was ruthlessly disregarded and a month ago was carried to appoint a committee of five to have general charge of the banquet. The president appointed Misses MacDill, Louis, Messrs O'Connell, Snodgrass and Anderson. Some socially inclined individual then got up and moved that another social be held later. This raised a storm of opposition; objections being interposed that it was poor policy to hold a second social till the first was paid for. However the class showed that it is not to be stopped in her career in any such way and the social was voted.

Before adjourning the assembly bethought themselves a moment of the various enterprises that had been launched and appointed a committee of three to assist the treasurer in collecting. The committee consisted of Miss C. J. Chase, Messrs Seydel and Bur- bank.

The Delta Gammas will enter- tain the 1901 football team and substitute players and other members of the team. The sweaters and variety letters will be presented to the fortunate ones. The team will take the team to the campus. Everybody come.

Senior Society.

A meeting of the senior girls was held yesterday afternoon for the purpose of organizing the senior society. A committee of seven was appointed on constitution, select work, insignia and colors. The society will be a sister society to the famous A, O, Z, E, D, and I. T. societies of past classes.

FOOTBALL MASS MEETING
EVERYBODY OUT.

Team Will be Awarded their Letters— Give them a Send-off—Tomorrow Morning at 9 a.m.

There will be a mass meeting; a great big rally of every student at the central building at 9 a.m. new building yesterday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. President Lambert called the meeting to order and after the usual preliminaries called for the report of the social committee. This report contained among other things, music, decorations, all of them like one of $15.00 for the banquet, which did not seem unreasonable, to anyone present. The banquet was said to be a fine one, rather unusual but it was paid for the dinner, however.

Here the matter of the freshmen banquet was brought up but no number was on his feet in an instant to try and head off such reckless extravagance. He re- minded the class that they had all just been spending 25 cents apiece on the social and thought the banquet should be paid for by the class.

CADY ON TILLMAN.

PRESENTS THE OTHER SIDE.

Congressional Minister in Masterful Oration Shows the Weakness of Black's Argument.

The Congressional church was crowded to its fullest capacity yesterday afternoon by the throng that came to hear Rev. Geo. W. Cadby discuss "Tillman and the Negro Problem." The people were not satisfied with one side of the question and Rev. Cadby presented the other side in a way that answered the southern fire-eater's arguments conclusively. He said in part, "I am going to speak on the subject of Mr. Tillman's view of the race question. I have heard some people criticize the lecture which I gave last year for bring Mrs. Tillman to Iowa City but I wish to thank the bureau for giving me the most interesting evening I have spent in a long time.

"Mr. Tillman's work was most ardently. He told you, and by bright remarks and smooth sayings, you applauded, to faiacally and the most outrageous statements which should have been received in silence. They were very easily to be enough to appeal to.

"I will concede two things in the beginning, first that it was a mistake to grant the franchise to the negro at the time when it was given. Secondly that the eight years reign of carpet bags was most monstrous. These are large concessions but they are not sufficient to uphold half of the statements made by Tillman.

"When Tillman said the men of South Carolina tore up the fourteenth and fifteenth amendment, what were the North doing? They were reaping the benefit of the fat waste basket that was treason; and as for those who say the civil rights movement gave them out of the window that was secession, and when he said they would take shot guns and massacre the negroes if things went on as they were likely to, that was beastly brutal.

"Among the plain fallacies which Mr. Tillman made second most plausible, is the statement that the negro cannot be educated. Two hundred years ago the negro was brought from Africa with chains clanking on his wrists, without religion or language worthy the name. Now he has a few citizen of the United States. If their fifty years freedom have done so much for the negro, I wish the negro would who took it a thousand years of the first things we were going to produce in Tillman's question a case of self- restored development.

"It was stated that the negro is destitute of moral, and that law is the only thing that will protect the negro. In this regard the white men of the South are rapping on the head of the negro for his treatment of the negro. In all the history of the Tuskegee Institute the negro student arrested by the civil

Every loyal Iowan, and there are about fifteen hundred of them, should turn out and give the team a rousing send-off Wednesday morning. Then go in to the game Wednesday night and cheer the team on to victory.

With the library open thirteen hours each day there will be only one serious impediment to its use and that is the four flights of stairs that have to be mounted to get to it. The reading room of the book room is truly the "mount" of knowledge. It is an old saw that there is no royal road to learning but there is such a thing as making the difficulties in the way of the learner greater than necessary. One who climbs up to the library is tried before he arrives. There certainly should be an elevator in the new building. There is room for one in the hollow center left by the stairways. Either this or the library should be moved to a more accessible place.

Many inquiries are made by students and much wonderment is expressed as to the reason why the university still clings to the old three term year. That four of the six colleges of the university have already adopted the semester system is a movement in the right direction and stamps the colleges of medicine, dentistry, homoeopathic medicine and pharmacy as progressive and alert to beneficial innovations. Two of the colleges still hold tenaciously to the old three term plan though both reason and experience has demonstrated its inferiority. The semester year is used by such universities as Michigan, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Minnesota and with unvarying good results. This system gives time for more complete courses, brings the examinations in a time when the student's attention is not distracted by the approaching holidays and altogether offers many advantages over the other system. Moreover it is the system used by all the large high schools of the state and it would thus offer better opportunities for students to enter the university. No small minor consideration as the labor of rearranging courses should be allowed to stand in the way of this needed change.

All those who intend to go to the Iowa-Michigan game in Chicago, Thanksgiving day on the 85 rate should reserve in the section reserved for the Iowa rooters. The seats in this section, which are the best on the grounds being directly opposite the 55 yard line, are on sale at Wieneke's Monday morning.

Changes in North Hall.

Many changes are being made in the arrangement of North hall in carrying out the plans for the enlargement of the physics department as outlined in the Iowan.

A stairway has been built rising from the center hallway to the second floor. In the southeast corner of this floor, photographic rooms have been fitted up with complete apparatus and accommodations for developing plates.

The general laboratory has been moved from the first to the second floor.

Officers Elected.

At a business Saturday the following officers were elected to fill the vacancies in the Y. M. C. A. cabinet: recording secretary, P. W. Bailey, vice R. M. Fagan, re-elected; vice president college of dentistry, Ed. Bailey; alumni member advisory committee, J. H. Fellingham, of Marshalltown, vice I. E. Hunger, of the class of 95, re-elected.

Phil-o-Octave Social.

Last Saturday evening, about fifty of the members of the Philo-mathian and Octave Thonet societies, together with a number of invited guests were very pleasantly entertained at the Philo-mathian hall. A guessing contest, recitations, games and short toasts caused the evening to pass quickly. Light refreshments were served.
