MICHIGAN THE CHAMPION

TWO GREAT TEAMS THIS YEAR

Expert Comparison of Play on Thanksgiving Day Shows that Michigan Excels Wisconsin—The Seconds of the Season.

The football season just closed has produced many strong teams in the west with the championship undecided. The supporters of the Crimson are claiming the Western pennant, while the admirers of the Maize and Blue are equally strong in voicing their belief in Michigan's primacy. Both Wisconsin and Michigan are very strong teams. Either would defend the standard of western football with credit against the strongest teams of the east.

The first desideratum in picking a champion team is to find one that has neither been defeated nor tied throughout the season. Judged by this, Wisconsin and Michigan are both claimants. Wisconsin made a total of 317 to her opponents 5; Michigan broke all football records by scoring the grand total of 501 points with nothing to the credit of her opponents. After picking the unbeaten teams, comparison of scores is unreliable. Either Wisconsin or Michigan could be picked as champion on the Beloit score of 89 by Michigan to 40 by Wisconsin, or on the Chicago defeats of 22 by Michigan and 35 by Wisconsin. In each case, circumstances and conditions were so changed as to make reliance on the "dope" untenable if not ridiculous.

The test between Michigan and Chicago showed the playing of each team when at its best. This is found at Chicago on Thanksgiving day. The displeasure of Coach Stagg at the infringement of his divine right to the territory embraced in the environs of Chicago and the District of Lake Michigan did not operate to prevent the free use of cabs and quick transit connections to permit the sight of the Michigan-Iowa game and the last half of the Wisconsin-Chicago game, the half in which Wisconsin was at her best.

Comparison of the two teams as they played on Thanksgiving day gives the laurels unquestionably to Michigan. Yost's team has done work far superior to that of King's. Wisconsin has more individual stars than Michigan, but the eleven Badgers do not make the team that the Wolverines do. In formations, resource and the grand strategy of football Michigan is far ahead of Wisconsin, while the swiftness of her execution is also greater than Wisconsin's. Wisconsin would never be able to stop the line plunges of Michigan while on end runs the play would be closer. The wonderful team work of Michigan makes her runs count more regularly than do the dashes of Wisconsin. Larson of Wisconsin is a greater halfback than Heston, but Cochems does not support him as Heston was supported. Cochems is a great runner when he has the ball and a good start, but he would fail against Michigan, for Captain White's team would not allow him to get started. Michigan has a wonderful faculty for stopping plays before the backfield players get a chance to tackle. In punting Sweeley and Driver are about equal, while Wisconsin would excel on the return of punts.

The score of a Michigan-Wisconsin game played in Chicago Thanksgiving day would possibly not have been over 30 to 0, but it would have ended in a clear victory for the University of Michigan, the Champion of the West for 1901. With apologies to the University of Minnesota, whose schedule issued September read: "Nov. 28. Illinois at Champaign. Nov. 29. University of Minnesota Champions of the west."

Following is the record of the champions of 1901:

Michigan	50, Albion o.
"	57, Case o.
"	33, Indiana o.
"	29, Northwestern o.
"	128, Buffalo o.

Junior Debate.

The Irving Junior debaters, Ward C. Henry, George E. Hill and L. J. Reed, have submitted the following question to the juniors of Zetaganian society: "Resolved, that reciprocity is a better means of modifying our protection policy than reduction of the tariff." Messrs C. H. Edmundson, G. E. Greene, and Shanahan, have been elected by the Zets to represent them. This contest will be one in which the men who are to be Iowa's interstate debaters next year have a chance to exhibit their forensic ability. The debate will occur the last of next term.

B. U. M. S.

The meeting of the senior girls secret society, which was called for yesterday, was postponed until this afternoon. Besides important secret work a constitution was adopted and officers elected. Plans for the initiation of members were also made. Black and light blue were chosen as colors. The name adopted is represented by the four letters, B. U. M. S. which are the initial letters of the words composing it.

Athletic Union Election.

There will be a meeting of the Athletic Union Monday evening December 16th in room 5A Liberal Arts building, for the purpose of electing officers. All nominations must be made to the president of the Union, signed by twenty members before Friday, December 6th.

THE CONFERENCE MEET.

RULES MADE MORE STRINGENT

At a Very Important Meeting the Conference Strengthens its Own Powers—Draws Eligibility Rules Tighter

The meeting of the big nine Conference association, which met at the Victoria hotel in Chicago last week brought together the greatest gathering of athletes and athletic authorities ever held in the West. Football stars were there in force. Athletic managers of the various college teams were busy and many prospective dates for football and base ball games were talked over. Perhaps the most interesting group was that of the coaches who got together and talked over the work of the various teams during the past season.

The faculty members, who are the great governing body of our intercollegiate athletics, passed some very important regulations, both in regard to the association itself and in regard to the athletes.

The first proposition passed was that any rule passed by the conference must be ratified or rejected by the individual members within sixty days after the meeting. If one or more colleges reject the rule it must again be voted upon, and if carried by a two-thirds vote the second time becomes a law. Any college refusing to accept it after that time will be suspended from the association.

It was unanimously voted that the conference did not sit as a board of pardons hereafter, as it did in the case of Clyde Williams this fall. Hereafter any member of a team who is protested will be compelled to wait for the annual meeting of the conference before seeking reinstatement.

It was decided to hold as ineligible any student who plays in a so called semi-professional or professional base ball game where gate money is, or where prizes, premiums, or prizes are offered.

Another rule was passed to the effect that "four years" in college athletics means the four years in the aggregate and not four years on any one team.

No team shall be called together before from within two weeks of the opening of school.

Terse Locals.

Yale's football receipts for this year were $70,000.

Harvard took in $87,000 and expended $19,000.

H. E. Bowman, M '04, visited relatives in Cedar Rapids yesterday.

Minnesota's receipts in the Nebraska, Iowa and Wisconsin games were $31,000.

Mr. Bush was unable to meet his French classes today on account of illness.

Wisconsin have selected their debaters who will meet Iowa about the last of the winter term.

THE SCHEDULE.

ARRANGEMENTS PROGRESSING

The Probabilities are that It will be About the Same as This Year with One of the Big Games on the Home Grounds.

"The preparation of the Iowa football schedule for 1902 is now being made by Manager McCutchen, who finds it a comparatively easy task. Despite the rumors that have been spread about from a certain source that Iowa would have hard work to schedule games this year with members of the conference, Iowa has now more games scheduled for next year than any other member of the conference. Owing to the fact that the absolute dates of some of the games have not been settled as yet, the official announcement of the schedule of the Hawkeye team will not be made until some time in January.

The past schedule has been more successful in a financial way than any other season of the Hawkeye team. The board of athletic control will probably find itself in debt at the close of the calendar year owing to the extensive improvements on Iowa field, but the football season itself shows a larger profit than any other season under Manager McCutchen's management.

There is a possibility of Iowa's Thanksgiving game for 1902 being with the University of Minnesota at Iowa City. Iowa City has not had a big Thanksgiving day game for some time and it is thought that it is about the city's turn to demand such a game, a demand that Minnesota and Iowa have informally discussed with satisfactory conclusions, the principal issue being whether Manager McCutchen will desire to play the Minnesota game at Iowa City on the turkey day date. Illinois has suggested quite frequently the advisability of Iowa playing her Thanksgiving game at Champaign. This will be considered by the Iowa board of control. The probability, after all, is strong that Iowa's final game next year as well as this year will be with the University of Michigan."—Chicago Chronicle.

When his attention was called to the above, Manager McCutchen admitted that the question of which team Iowa would play Thanksgiving day, 1902, is still unsettled. The game with Michigan this year resulted so favorably financially and the relations between Michigan and Iowa for past two years have been so very pleasant in every way, that the Thanksgiving game would probably be with Michigan if Iowa had her way, the question of location of the game to be determined by agreement with the Michigan management after careful consideration of all the existing conditions.

In case the Michigan game is scheduled for an earlier date, however, the strong desire for a Thanksgiving game on the home

Caspar Whitney, the great football critic, seems to be greatly impressed with the showing of the great western teams and gives out the statement that their work compares very favorably with the best teams playing in the East. While the statement has in it nothing new for the West, it is a source of satisfaction to have the acknowledgement from the great eastern authority.

The actions of the Conference Association in drawing the eligibility rules still tighter may appear to be somewhat harsh and over stringent, yet on the whole they were necessary in order to maintain a purely amateur standing, both technically and in spirit. The new requirements in regard to baseball players and to the four-year rule will no doubt work hardship and seeming injustice in individual cases, yet a line must be drawn somewhere. To keep athletics free from every resemblance of professionalism, hard and fast rules must be made.

These new rules, as well as the old ones, should be studied carefully by every athlete and the technical meanings understood in order to protect themselves from violating the letter of the law, although they are strictly amateurs in spirit.

Student Delegates.

Every student organization recognized by the university is entitled to representation by a delegate in a board of student delegates. The following classes of organizations have been recognized: the classes in all colleges, the classes in all colleges, the literary and professional societies, fraternities sororities, various clubs.

These bodies are requested, if they have not done so, to choose their delegates and to leave the names of the delegates at the president's office during the week. Where no delegates are chosen, the president of an organization will be considered as a delegate. It is important that the list of delegates be completed this week as it is hoped to call a meeting of the board some time during the ensuing week.

grounds makes it probable that Minnesota will be requested to play the Turkey day game at Iowa City, as the contract made with the Gopher management this year provides for a return game here next year, and it is thought that Minnesota will play here on the date they are wanted, as Iowa this year played in Minneapolis on the date requested by Minnesota.

It has not been definitely decided, however, not to play the Illinois game at Champaign, for which contract was made last year, on Thanksgiving day. There are a number of conditions favorable to this solution of the matter.

At the same time the probability is strong that Iowa's schedule next year will be just about the same as this year's with the alteration in the location of the Illinois and Minnesota games, the location of the Michigan game to be agreed on, and the possible addition of a game with one more Conference University.
