IOWA WELCOMES HER DISTINGUISHED GUESTS

Nearly Three Hundred Guests Visit the Athens to See the University and Be Present at the Dedication of Iowa's New Hall

Interesting Addresses Made by the Governor and Our Legislators at the Eleventh University Convocation

At 10:30 this morning Governor A. B. Cummins, Senator J. P. Doliver, thirty-three senators, eighty-six representatives and stars of the legislative party numbering in all two hundred and forty, arrived at Iowa City for the second bimural visit of the General Assembly of the state to the University of Iowa. As the train bearing these distinguished guests arrived in sight of the waiting students at the depot, the shouts, cheers, college pride and glory songs that awakened the echoes of the Athens of Iowa began. The university battalion and band, commanded by Major Bennett, and the legislators at the depot, with arms at present, as the guests formed parties of four and waded in the waiting cars and carriages, the battalion executed fours right and began the march of the procession to the open house. Between double rows of students, arranged by colleges from the depot to the open house, the legislative party rode while the students sang their songs and shouted their yells, the noises not forgetting their seventy-five-room medical building.

The legislators were seated on the stage of the open house, then the co-eds were admitted, and following them came the students by colleges, as many as could crow into the building. The flag bearers and a goodly number of rosters from each class were admitted. Downstairs and upstairs, standing room was packed to its fullest capacity, but fully half of the seats were in the procession were turned away.

The legislative party left Des Moines at 5 o'clock this morning. They were met at Marengo by Prof. Lowry, Asst. Prof. Smith, Dr. Eastman, and Messrs A. E. Fawcett, Bush, McCutchen and Cook. Judges commemorative of the day and the programs were distributed among the party by the train reached Iowa City. Fully seventy-five of the legislators were accompanied by their wives and families and many a youthful page of the house and senate seat today for the first time the old capitol building where lawmakers of early time mostly ran their own errands. Many regents of the University, state, officers, and prominent alumni of Iowa were among the guests on the train.

When the capacity of the open house had been taxed to its utmost, President Geo. E. MacLean called to the eleventh convention and the second one in which the university has welcomed the state's law makers. The visitors were welcomed by Iowa's president in behalf of the city, the university and her alumnus. President MacLean referred to the pride and pleasure with which the university acknowledged Governor A. B. Cummins, an honored friend of the university, as the president of her board of regents.

"Governor Cummins," he said, "as the president of the board of regents, then took the chair and was presented, by Mr. S. A. Swisher, with a university gavel made from the wood of Iowa's first capitol building.

Judge Walter I. Babb made the formal report of the university building committee and reported the completion of the first university building worthy of the great state of Iowa. Judge Babb called attention to the fully of erecting cheap buildings and announced the total cost of the new structure and its furnishings as $83,126. He said that the university felt the immediate need of a medical building, an assembly and big hall, an adequate gymnasium, a library building and a fire-proof museum. In conclusion he presented Governor Cummins with the key of the new hall of liberal arts.

Governor Cummins, in accepting the key to the hall of liberal arts, said that he accepted it as emblematic of the authority to be exercised over the new hall as said that he was here to speak at length, in fact he was only to and its needs are given heed. But the strength of the University is not the help it receives from the legislature or the faculties but the enthusiasm of its young menhood and womankind.

"I have been glad to hear your shouts and your yells; glad to see your strength and your joy in it; glad to hear your voices ring out loud and clear, though I notice that you are a bit more familiar with 'Rocking on the Hullos' and other songs than you are with 'Ow'ard,' Christian Soldiers.' (Cheers and laughter.)

"We are not to dedicate this building to Iowa alone. In thirty years the Iowa Varsity will be the greatest institution in the United States. In the same time Iowa the commonwealth will soon be the richest state in our Union; there is no reason why we should not dedicate our resources to the cause of uplifting the lives and character of our youth. We will dedicate this building to America, to all our people, for their good.

Speaker W. L. Eaton assured the students that every member of the Twenty-Fifth General Assembly believes that the standard of Iowa University should be advanced until, instead of the position it now occupies, it would lead all institutions of its kind.

Senator Garst, chairman of the appropriations committee, was confident that the purse strings of the senate would be handed over to the university, but felt there that the committee would find it necessary to retain the purse. Senator Junkin, chairman of the ways and means committee, an alumnus of Iowa, announced that Senator Garst had informed him that he had decided to recommend that the state give the University the $25,000 for the new medical hall. In his opinion Iowa should endow and support her university in such a

Those in authority who are responsible for the plans and arrangements of the Dedication exercises are to be congratulated on the most complete success.

How About Your Feet

Hope they are not worrying you. No man can develop the better part of his nature while his feet ache. Aside from making himself disagreeable to others he loses considerable of life's sunshine.
