The Trip of the Baseball Team as Well as the Playing of the Minnesota Game on the Home Field Jeopardized.

"We, the undersigned agree to purchase the number of baseball season tickets set opposite our names, at $2.50 each. It is agreed that the Board of Athletic Control may cancel this agreement if less than 400 of said tickets shall be subscribed for by the students in the University. The season tickets shall entitle the purchaser to one admission to the fourteen games to be played by the Iowa team on the home grounds, and provided each member of the University is able to appear on the field at the scheduled time specified below.

It is necessary that the 400 tickets be sold to students, in addition to 200 to citizens, faculty members, and others, in order that the basketball team may take the big trip beginning May 13, and including games with Minnesota, Illinois and Purdue Universities. If this number of tickets can be sold, the entire baseball season tickets will be free and the team will be well equipped without June.

The above is a copy of a circular which is being placed in the hands of students in the various colleges of the university. Spring sports last year raised $4000 dollar bills which was used in the purchase of tickets for the football and basketball teams and of course the band. This year the baseball team has a large and prosperous class of the university and under the leadership of the two men that are in charge the team will be played and the team well equipped without June.

The following letter has been sent out by the choral union and is self-explanatory:

You are probably aware that a choral union for the study of oratorio music has just been organized at the initiative of the Senate Board of Control of Music of the University and under direction of Dr. Grist. The purpose contemplated is to unite the best musical element in both university and town into a permanent organization. Mendelssohn's oratorio 'The Battle' was studied and a concert next June is contemplated for which soloists of high rank will be secured. About forty members have already been asked to take part, and continual pressure on membership is anxious that all of the best singers of the university and town should lend their support to the movement and we wish not only your prospective support, but in what is certain to be considerable moment in April of next year, the university, but your active cooperation.

The committee has with some difficulty selected a small number of names that are known to be interested in music and to be singers of some experience, the time required for a personal invitation to those on this list we are sending this invitation. A prompt answer, either by letter or in person, to the rehersals on Thursday evening will be appreciated.

After Tuesday, Feb. 14th, all students interested in taking part in the chorus will be asked to meet the examining committee, but an acceptance of the place by the individual student must be transmitted together with an appearance at rehearsals will constitute you a member of the chorus. A membership fee will be paid of $2.00 for the term. The society meets on Tuesday evenings in the Comstock room on the first floor of the liberal arts building. The rehearsals adjourn promptly at eight so as not to interfere with evening engagements.

We earnestly urge you to give us your active support in this matter, even at the expense of some slight extra effort. We should be glad to consider the names of others of whom you may have been invited and suggestions that will help to give the new organization the stronger number of members possible.

Amusements

The famous comedy, "David Harum," will be produced by Charles Frohman here on Thursday, Feb. 6, at the opera house, with all special scenery and effects as near as possible identical with Mr. Frohman's original production at the Garrick Theatre, New York, last year, where it ran the entire season. In transplanting the story from the book to the stage three sets have been made and all its scenes are laid at Harum's country home. It is said few, if any, liberties are taken with the original story, with the exception that, the comedy is far more dramatic than the novel.

The only novelty looked for in an early presentation here—if a rewritten version of an ever welcome offering may be so designated—is "Next Door," that famously funny conception built to exploit the marvelous undertakings of the world's greatest acrobats, the Bros. Royer. This merry medley will be seen at the opera house, on February 8, not only in a new dress from a line and incident standpoint, but by a number of the famousHoyers, with new and improved ideas, amusing and novel costume, and an augmented cast, among them the original and only Bros. Royer.

Regent Joe Allen

Joe Allen, of the Allen Store, who has recently honored his alma mater by becoming one of her regents was a prominent figure in the melee that took up the students of the student body while he was in school from 1897 to 1903. He was editor-in-chief of the ‘Oklahoma’ and with his friendly ways was very popular with the student body. In having a smile that made his friends everywhere. Socially he was a member of the Psi Delta fraternity.

Joe is fully six feet four inches in height and very well developed physically. He played right guard for the ‘Oklahoma’ and is now 20 years old. In college with the Kansas game which was played on the local gridiron that fall. The Kansans were quite badly outweighed but ‘never-the-less had managed to give the ‘Oklahoma’ a hard time. The Kansas guards were quite naturally smaller in size than Joe and a couple of Jayhawks took to ‘Joe’ about it between halves, applying to his great size some epithets that were unflattering and complimentary. Joe said nothing, but the wordy things were not preventing. He started across the gridiron toward his interlocutors at a rapid walk, which his good size did to them and some were fearing trouble. Joe gathered one of them firmly under each arm and carried them over to the other side of the gridiron to the immense amusement of all present.
