FRESHMAN KIDNAPPED

Sophomores Finally Overpowered and

FRESHMAN RELEASED FROM KIDNAPPERS

William Gorden Allen of Brooklyn, New York, toastmaster of the freshman class of Cornell University, was kidnapped in the sophomore halls on Thursday night and up to the next Wednesday was confined at the Wheelock Hotel, a desolate hotel about half a mile from the city. He was kidnapped to prevent him from addressing at the annual banquet of the freshman class to be held at the Lyceum theater Friday night of this week.

The situation was brought to climax by release of Allen from his prison and the severe penalty given to the sophomore class by Professor Schurman of the university.

Monday night a rescuing party that had been organized sneaked into the doors of the prison. The guards put up a resistance, but were overpowered. The rescuers found Allen in the cellar, hand-cuffed to one of his keepers.

The handcuffs were clipped off and the tomaster released.

The Whitney Society will meet on Monday, evening, March 3, at 7:30 p.m. in the Greek lecture room. Professor Schurman will present a paper entitled "The New Light on the Athens Relief," and will answer questions.

A chapter of Beta Theta Pi was established at the University of Iowa last night. The new chapter begins life with sixteen members.

Dr. A. J. Burge Reads a Highly Sci.

entific Paper on "The Web of Po.

erties and Qualities of Blood"

The paper at Baconian last evening was presented by A. J. Burge on the subject "Blood in Health and Disease." The speaker told of this great field of study recently opened up by the devoted lives of such men as Ehrlisch, has given us a new and a rich field of scientific medicine—haematology.

The application of various methods of blood investigation were shown and the structure and elements of blood in health and disease were well illustrated by charts of numerous topics.

In addition a number of stained preparations of blood diseases were shown microscopically which the speaker had prepared while working in Vienna with Neusser, a pioneer in the field in blood work.

His consideration of the blood in actual blood diseases, considerable attention was given to the recognition of abnormal microscopic changes in the blood grounds of advancing scientific medicine today. Especially true is that the use of the pathological work in new functions and activities of the blood, which subject forms one of the battle citadels for next year. The course consists of four numbers given by some of the most dramatic and fascinating in the United States.

It is extremely fortunate that we get these people here and that they here were only necessary because of the fact that they were personal friends of Miss Katherine Jewell Everts. Mr. Fawcett, who is an expert on high among American impersonators, will give two recitals. Mrs. Baker, who is considered by Miss Katherine Everts as the finest reader among our American women, will also give two recitals. Mr. King, who came to this country to lecture on Shakespeare at Johns Hopkins University, is ranked by the critics as the best of the present day interpreters of Shakespeare. Two other recitals will be given by Miss Everts, who has for some time been popularly known as the "Queen of the Vampires of poisonous and bacterial origin—a subject that is of scientific medicine looks with hope of eventually combating and eliminating deadly diseases whose onward march has as yet proven invincible.

Following the paper Mr. Albert of the department of pathology gave a report on investigations on "Phagocytes," the power of the white blood corpus-cle to injest living bacteria, and presented slides showing such activity.

A drill program was then given by the club members, assisted by Miss Edna Boerner and brother. After this, successive peanuts were played, Mr. Norton and Mr. Owy being the steadiest of hand.
