GOVERNOR AND STAFF AT BALL AND REVIEW

University Battles Entertain Governor as Queen of Honor at Grand Military Ball—Battalion Review—Governor's Visit to University

Governor A. B. Cummins and staff visited the university yesterday as guests of honor of the university, and gave a review of the cadets on the campus in the afternoon and the military ball at the armory in the evening. The governor's party included: Governor and Mrs. A. B. Cummins, Maj. W. M. Davis, Maj. H. H. Byers and Miss Byers, Colonel and Mrs. Pratt, of Deer Moines; Colonel W. M. Davis, of Iowa City; and Major Joe Beeson, of Cedar Rapids.

Governor Cummins and party arrived on the afternoon train from Des Moines yesterday, and were met by President and Mrs. G. E. MacLean, and Governor Burnett, and dress parade. Governor Cummins and the members of his staff complimented the battalion parade upon its excellent execution and the beauty of the uniforms, and said, "This is the finest parade of its kind ever seen in Iowa." The people present were highly pleased at the reception given the governor and his party. The governor and his party were escorted to the armory by Mayor O'Brien and the city officials.

The exercise of the university battalion, after the cadets, included a battalion inspection, with the cadets facing the east, in column of companies, battalion review by the Governor and staff, President MacLean, and Governor Burnett, and dress parade. Governor Cummins and the members of his staff complimented the battalion parade upon its excellent execution and the beauty of the uniforms.

The cadets were present at the parade, a circumstance showing the deep interest of the members of the battalion in the Governor and party.

The drill lasted from four until seven o'clock, during this time by a large crowd of people who showed no sign of fatigue as they watched the exercise. Several local companies, officers and cadets assisted in the evolutions. The Governor's review was a gala affair for the co-eds and many fine young men were present on the campus during its continuance. The rain that came up during the party部分的内容被遮挡了，无法完整地读取。
The short, intermittent showers of yesterday afternoon in conjunction with an imagination which stretches to the hot-dates of late May and early June, drive us to suggest to our loyal student body that a cover, temporary or otherwise, would be an acceptable addition to the grandstand in the ball park.

The military ball, to say the least, was a success and speaks well for the arduous labor expended in the preparations for it. The cadets will no longer debate whether life is worth living in the military department. They will, with the pleasant memory of this social function in mind, put renewed energy into their already enthusiastic work and give the university the finest battalion in her history. Next comes the distribution of medals. Up and after them, boys.

Amusements

There is an absence of anything offensive and an abundance of wholesome fun in the performance of Richards & Fringle's mammoth minstrel organization that plays the opera house, Saturday, April 19. This big attraction caters to the most refined, the most luxurious, and furnishes hours of solid enjoyment without a suggestion of unseemliness during the whole performance, and its fifty performers are selected from the best in the colored minstrel line, and every act presented is bright, brisk and original and sure to please at the most critical. This season's organization is pronounced the strongest and most satisfactory enterprise from far and near ever put into the amusement field. See the magnificent parade, 8:30 and 10 P.M.

FORENSIC ASPIRATIONS

Laws will soon have a Debating League of their own—so report rumors this morning.

During the past month the members of the Hammond Law Senate and the Forum have been discussing a law debating league which should hold annual debates. Committees were appointed from both societies to look up the matter and they have since been confering together and writing other institutions in an endeavor to make a compact with some law school.

Negotiations have so far progressed that an agreement will doubtless soon be made with the students of the law department of Northwestern university. That institution has signified its desire for such debates, and there is but little doubt that the senate and forum members will have a debate with the Northwestern laws sometime next year.

The manner of debate is being thoroughly discussed, the trend of opinion in the Senate last night being in favor of the system provided for in the Illinois compact of the Philomathians, while quite a number in the Forum rather choose the Zet-Irving method of debate. Whatever our law students choose to do, Iowa may rest assured that they will hold up their end of the burden of proof.
