COE OPENS INTERCOLLEGIATE BASEBALL SEASON

Presbyterians will bring a Strong Nine from Cedar Rapids—Conditions of Admission to Inter-collegiate Rivalry Satisfactory for Candidates for the Team

The inter-collegiate baseball season will now open on Iowa field to-morrow afternoon when Iowa meets Coe College of Cedar Rapids. Coe has a strong team, "its reported from the Rapids. They have been training for some time under experienced coaches and have developed some strong players. They are strong in the box and at the bat. Last year the Presbyterians came to Iowa to win, but Iowa's experience and practice, even in that one game, have given them the upper hand. Their confidence this year will start them off with as strong a spirit as last year.

The Iowa team has been growing up fairly well in the daily practice games for a week past under the direction of Rock Island team of the Three League. Miles, Doe, Voss and Story have shown themselves to be men who are more than need good support to win their games. The glaring needs of the team are a catcher able to hold the pitchers and a short-stop in the field when Voss is given his chance. More than the space of the practice games will be required to win the games, but the practice of the management in occasionally playing inter-collegiate games will have given the team a taste of victory over the variety and it is highly probable that their confidence this year will start them off with as strong a spirit as last year.

The teams will be provided with a list of members of the team, a complete list of games for the season and a statement of the rules governing the season. The list of members of the team will be made available to the public at the season opening game.

Conference Rules

The university senate yesterday gave its approval to the rules of the conference. The rules are designed to provide for the fair and equal treatment of all members of the conference. The rules include provisions for the conduct of inter-collegiate games, the selection of teams, and the determination of the points to be awarded for victories and defeats.

for the usual class play. Why not? The university will be in a position to furnish the canvas and if the affair is a "homing success" certainly no commencement visitor would be so unkind as to inspection that choice rather than necessity selected the scenes of place of the usual comedy, or that the members of the class were more familiar with the cracks of a ringmaster's whip than with the airs of the comedian.

The determination of the executive committee of the board of regents to construct the new medical building fire-proof, modern in every respect, and second to none in the west, meets with ready favor among Iowa students and alumni. The Iowa faculty is generally considered as having no superior in the west and it is their due that they should be provided with the best of buildings and equipment for the furtherance of their work.

The unusually large attendance at the early practice games lends encouragement to the members of the team and is incidentally one of the good results of Manager McCutchen's plan to sell season tickets.

The innovation of publishing the pictures of the class presidents in the Hawkeye may be a popular joke but a great many students will wonder why this practice was limited to the college of liberal arts.

The printer's editorial setting out the points wherein this year's annual excels the last one printed in Des Moines is about due now.

Some parts of the junior annual seem to signify that the book has been a long time in the process of formation.

There are a number of good jokes about the institution that did not figure very prominently in the annual.

beginning to stand, for peace and the rights of others. Other nations ask the question, 'Where does the United States stand?' China remained whole because John Hay said 'No.' John Hay trained by Lincoln whom I consider the greatest living diplomat.

"The language of diplomacy in the past was Latin. It is now French. There are several reasons for this: One has said, because we can say so many intimate things and not hurt anyone's feelings. And this is true; a diplomat gives as his reason, because we can say so much and yet say nothing. This is the nearest to the true reason.

"The diplomatic relations which go on to details of dress of ambassadors, are sometimes amusing. Yet they are serious, and the social duty is no small part of a diplomat's work."

"We must get rid of our narrowness and provincialism. We must know and feel one's influence. It was the French soldiers of Saratoga and Yorktown that kindled the fires of the French Revolution. Let us make our influence then for peace and prosperity."
