MICHIGAN'S THREE TEAMS

A GREAT BATTLE

SEVEN GREAT INSTITUTIONS
MEET IN ORATORICAL CONTEST

The N. O. L. Contest Takes Place
Tonight in Chicago, Ill. Each Has A Long Line of Oratorical Contests Win-
Three of These Three
Appeared Before

The Iowa delegation which will represent us at the Northern Oratorical League conference tonight left for Chicago yesterday. The party was composed of our orator, E. K. Brown and the two men who took second and third in the home contest, W. H. Anderson and H. E. Hadley respectfully. Besides these there were Thomas Kennedy, the representative of the league and Professor Gordon.

The contest tonight promises to be the greatest oratorical oratorical contest ever held. Interest is being increasing every year. The league compos- ed as it is of seven of the great oratorical educational institutions of the country has become the largest and the strongest oratorical union in the United States. Orators representing all seven student thousands will compete.

The contest this year, besides being an oratorical battle between great institutions, is a contest in several instances of the best orators that these institutions have produced in recent years. The records of the contestants show victory after victory won in home and in state contests. Besides three men on the contest have had the experience of appearing in the contests of the league.

Bertram G. Nelson, who appears first on the program is probably the best student orator that Chicago has ever produced. Besides winning many minor contests this is the first time he has taken part in the N. O. L. Two years ago he took fifth place while last year he ran up a close second. The subject of his oration is, "The World's Greats."

Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota, is the next speaker, and he also comes with a good record. In the Minnesota state contest in 1898 he took first place and last year in the N. O. L. he took fifth place. He speaks upon, "The Genius of Patriotism."

George W. Maxey will represent Michigan this year. This year he is entitled, "Webster's Reply to Calhoun's address as used in 1800 with the result of third place in the league. Besides a fine first place in 1800, Maxey has represented Michigan upon two of her inter-state debates, those with Kansas and the Chicago; last year, Mr. Maxey was editor-in-chief of the Michigan Daily News. In the Northwestern is represented this year stronger than she has been for years. It is made Dr. Hobs will not take an alf offer to act as coach and that an offer similar had been received from a college in Chicago.

The Greeks should be expected to have played an important role in the development of baseball, as they were known for their love of sports and competitive spirit. The game of baseball, which originated in the 18th century, was first played in America in the early 19th century and quickly became popular due to its accessibility and simplicity. By the mid-19th century, baseball had become a national pastime, with teams and leagues being established throughout the country. The game was especially popular among young men, who saw it as a way to socialize and build camaraderie. As the game gained popularity, the rules and regulations were continually refined to ensure fair play and a level of competition that was both challenging and enjoyable for all participants. The legacy of the Greeks can still be seen in the way baseball is played today, with the emphasis on teamwork, strategy, and individual skill. Whether it's a local pickup game or a professional match, the spirit of the Greeks lives on in the form of America's favorite pastime.
