The second annual course of dramatic readings and lectures under the auspices of the drama club of public speaking has been arranged for. It will be given during the fall and winter months of the coming school year. The opera house has been made for eight numbers of rare literary and artistic excellence.

Miss Katherine Jewell Everts of Booth, whose work in last winter's course was of such excellence as to create unusual enthusiasm, will appear tonight. Although many requests have been made that she repeat "Jocelyn Leigh," these requests have been refused because Miss Everts brings something better. Mrs. E. Burke and the famous and intimate friend of Miss Everts, has written a comedy especially for her, "My Lady's Ring," in the style of the play. There are some characters and characters as Miss Everts delights to portray. For her second recital Miss Everts has presented her arrangement of George Eliot's "Spanish Gypsy." Leland T. Powers and "his invisible company," the second attraction of the course, will give us two of his greatest plays. He has promised to give his latest success, "Monsieur Beauregard," a dramatic romance in three parts which Richard Mansfield made famous by his presentation this last season. Mr. Powers' second number will be either "Lord Chandos" or "David Garrick" works, which are high class comedies.

Mrs. Bertha Kuns-Baker comes to us with a fame as an authority and a lover of great literature which surpasses the fame of any living woman. She has been a frequent visitor in the house of President Rood and so brings a rare social prestige. For her first number Mrs. Baker will give "Nell in Oldfield," an arrangement of a work by that name by Charles Reade. Her second number will be Rand's masterpiece, "Cyrano de Bergerac." For another number on the list of giant artists, Samuel Arthur King, M. A., University of London, has been secured for two recitals. He is one of the greatest interpreters of Shakespeare's tragedies on the platform today. He has secured for his first recital a programme made up of selections from Shakespeare's comedies and tragedies. As a second number he will present the greatest of all English tragedies, the play of Hamlet.

At the recent meeting of the state board of law examiners only fourteen out of twenty men examined failed to pass the bar and but five of these received high marks. Only six of the examinations were given these were those who succeeded in convincing the board of their fitness for the practice of law.

these had high marks. Seven of the students who took the examination had not even a high school education and but one of these men passed. A regular course of procedure such as the above on the part of the law examiners will make a law degree obtained in Iowa signify what it should in the way of preparation and it will be endorsed by the profession all over the state. Such examinations will not only raise the standard of the profession but they will put these so-called "law schools," where the "flunkers" from other institutions are welcomed and passed through for the sake of their tuition, on their proper basis. Students from these latter schools will come to know that the right to practice law in Iowa means something more than two years' tuition and a degree of L. R. B.

The course of entertainments promised for next year by Professor Gordon is one which will meet with favor among the students and faculty members. Professor Gordon believes, as this paper has always urged, that the university people want to hear the noted men of our country and not the common ones under the charge of lecture bureaus.

Sigma Nu vs Phi Psi

The Sigma Nus won their way up to the top of the list Saturday by defeating Phi Psi by a score of 10-6. The Sigma played good steady ball throughout the game, but the Phi Pals who have played such good ball in previous games certainly had a day off and the game on their side was one of errors, not a few but many. The record began early in the first inning and at the close of the game but one man was totally execut and several hit three or four to their credit. Octobiter proved his usual steady game and allowed but eight hits. Waterman and Spangler made an excellent battery for the Sigs and the Phi Pals found the "aquarium" for but nine hits. The score by innings follows:

Sigma Nu 2 0 2 0 0 0 3
Phi Kappa Psi 2 0 0 0 0 0 0

Phi Delta vs Chi Rho

The Alpha Chi Rho played the Phi Delta yesterday. Hotten-bacher, a new pitcher for Phi Delta, was in the box and rather bolstered up that team. The Chi Rho's had a good lead, needed at the first inning and easily held it. The score by innings follows:

Alpha Chi Rho 2 0 1 2 2 3 5 3 7 2
Phi Delta Theta 0 5 0 3 2 1 0
