LECTURE COURSE

FAMOUS MEN COMING

Bourk Cochrane and William Jennings Bryan among the Number—Statement by the Management—No Lecture Course

No lecture course ever offered in Iowa City promises to be so popular, to furnish such uniform pleasure and to maintain such a high order of excellence as the State University lecture and Reading Course for the coming season. We shall hear comedies never before given here such as "Nance Oldfield," by Chas. Reade; "My Lady's Ring," by Alice Brown, written especially for Miss Everts and as yet unpublished; and Lord Chumley by Belasco and DeMille with its ten characters and uninterrupted flow of wit. Tragedy will be represented by the new French play "L'Aiglon" and by "Hamlet." Monsieur Beaucaire" by Booth Tarkington a story which Richard Mansfield has made famous and that noble poem "The Spanish Gypsy" complete a list of entertaining performances of unsurpassed power.

Albert Shaw says of Mrs. Baker our first reader that she is of "measureless superiority. Julia Ward Howe found that the best adjective to describe the Work of Samuel Arthur King was "brilliant." Mr. Everts and Mr. Powers are Iowa City favorites. Messrs Cochran & Bryan are national favorites.

We have been able to arrange for two extra numbers by Samuel Arthur King which will be free to the first 300 students purchasing season tickets.

Fraternities and Sororities can get seats together for the course by notifying the manager, Arthur C. Gordon, how many seats are needed.

For the ten regular performances, nine of which are guaranteed, the season ticket is two dollars and fifty cents or an average of twenty-five cents per entertainment,

Com.

The lecture bureau for various reasons has decided to allow itself to grow into dissuetude and will offer no course this year so that the course given under the auspices department of public speaking as outlined above will be the only one available to students and Iowa Cityans.—Ed.

To Be Kappa Sigs

THE IOWAN has it on the best authority that the local fraternity Phi Upsilon, formerly Phi Upsilon, chapter of Alpha Chi Rho has secured a charter from Kappa Sigma and that the installation will take place Saturday. The future Kappa Sigs have moved into the Porter property on Bloomington Street which has been completely remodelled and overhauled for them and will make them a delightful fraternity home in every way.

NEW DEAN INAUGURATED

PROF. JEPSON SPEAKS

Pres. MacLean asks Medics to Help Jolly up the Convocation this Afternoon—Much Advice to Future Physicians

The faculty and students of the college of medicine assembled this morning at eight o'clock in the amphitheater of the medical building. Rather the students assembled first and proceeded to initiate the verdant "fresh" by passing them down, after which the faculty came in for their part.

President MacLean opened the meeting by reminding his hearers that this was the beginning of the 34th year of the college of medicine, a college with a grand past, a great present, and a greater future.

He introduced Dean Guthrie who said in part:

"Fellow students; we bid you welcome; all welcome to a season of earnest, untiring, devoted work; to a season of study, of development, of evolution. There is no room for the idler. He that would keep abreast of the high tide of advancement must be up and doing with all earnestness. The evolution that has taken place in the last 15 years along the line of medical education is more marked than that of any other branch of education.

"By means of higher entrance requirements and longer undergraduate courses, the over crowding which is complained of in the medical profession will be cured. Adaptability to a profession is one of the greatest requirements to success in that line. Civility, punctuality, economy of time, duty, devotion and ambition, with a life devoted to truth, will lead the student to the heights of his profession."

Introduced by Dean Guthrie Mr. J. T. McClintock elected lecturer on physiology, devoted a few moments to the eulogy of his department.

Dean Guthrie then introduced the newly elected professor of surgery, Dr. William Jepson, of Sioux City, who was forced to read his address owing to the shortness of the notification given

BURRIER DEAD

Last Year's Field Captain and General Varsity Athlete Succumbs to Typhoid

A gloom was thrown over the campus and sadness reigned in the hearts of old students as the news spread of the death of Emmet F. Burrier. Burrier's death was sudden and came as a thunderbolt to his friends, occurring as the result of typhoid fever which attacked him but four days previous.

Emmet F. Burrier entered the University in 1897 as a member of the class of '01, and played his first football on the freshman class team of that year. Next year he won his place on the varsity by hard conscientious playing and he continued to play a steady consistent line position on the great eleven of '99 and '00 and on that of '01. Burrier also worked with the weights, on the track team and still has to his credit the dual meet record in the shot put. The interment takes place today from the deceased's home in Farmington, Iowa. The football squad sent a costly floral tribute.

The Clinton Street Smoke House has a full line of the best tobaccos and cigars.

THE DEAN'S ADVICE

"My advice to all students and especially freshmen would be, subscribe for your college paper. It keeps you truly in touch with student life. Keep a file and have them bound and in after years they will be a source of great pleasure to you as my old Dartmouth papers have been to me."

Dean Amos N. Currier.

Greeting

After three months we gather together on the old campus under the noble old trees which have waved their high tops above throngs of students for half a century and take up the work where we left off. Part have left, not to return and many new faces of beginners appear.

To new and old, THE IOWAN gives greeting. May the year bring you pleasure and knowledge and all the good things you expect of it! THE IOWAN while working under a different editor-in-chief retains its purpose and object unchanged. We quote from Vol. I, No. 1 of Sept. 29 1902.

"It shall be the aim of THE IOWAN to publish unbiased the news of the University; to represent each and every college thereof; and to further the interest of the whole by every honest and laudable means."

All of the above applies as well this year as last.

The editorial board were proud indeed of the success of last year's IOWAN. Starting out a new daily in a university unused to any thing more up-to-date than a tri-weekly, THE IOWAN was given a hearty welcome by the student body and it was our ambition to be worthy of this loyal support. Our efforts now will be bent toward improving on our past.

We bespeak from faculty and students aid and co-operation in our work. THE IOWAN is conducted by, of, and for the University and we ask from faculty and students the loyalty which is the due of University undertakings. In return we promise you a paper as near worthy of the University as we can make it.

Judge Wade a Candidate

Being non-partisan in politics the Iowan is free to express itself upon a certain subject without fear that its utterances will be suspected of political bias, and while we have no ambition to dabble in the general political affairs, of the community in which we are located, yet when an issue or candidate is such as to touch the University we shall not be any more backward about expressing our opinion than upon any other student question.

The subject referred to is Judge Wade's candidacy for Congress. No student who has listened to his learned and interesting lectures in the law college, but must have been impressed with his wisdom. No one who has had the fortune to meet him personally, either in class or elsewhere but has been charmed with his personality. Judge Wade has the respect, honor and personal friendship of thousands of the students and alumni of the University. It is only expressing the unanimous sentiment of this large constituency to say that no more able, hard working, conscientious man, no man more open or genial, no more public spirited man is running for congress in Iowa this fall than Judge Wade.

We desire that our subscribers shall get the Iowan regularly and on time from the very first and to this end no effort will be spared. Old subscribers and new ones will confer a favor by leaving their new addresses at THE IOWAN office or with some member of the board at once.

The student body will welcome the re-establishment of high grade assembles at the University by Miss Mable R. Morgan whose announcement appears in another column.

Coach Paul Tratt, of White-water, Wisconsin, has returned to Grinnell this fall and resumed charge of the Iowa college football eleven.

him that he would be expected to deliver one. Prof. Jepson's words conveyed the deepest and most beautiful thoughts and were illustrated with several magnificent figures. His delivery was unfortunately not so charming. A few of his thoughts were:

"There are some traits that might be called the foundation stones of professional success. These are: do all things in the best possible manner, inexactness in minor matters breeds the same habits in greater ones. Economize your time, have a sacred reverence for your obligations; observe sobriety; be a gentlemen in every sense.
