SATURDAY'S GAME

Since the game Saturday, it is to be hoped that the "backs" had better put their work into the line and keep up the play. It was plain to the best that the "backs" could not play their positions. Long runs which started slowly and afforded the Iowa back-halfs the best of opportunities to stop with a loss were successfully made by Drake. The Ohio ends did their part in taking care of the interference but the half-backs were wanting.

Both imps at full-back played an active game and will undoubtedly be seen in the line-up next Saturday. Jones ran the team on the half line and stopping opposing gains than he was in the first practice game. Briggs passed the ball cleverly from center and did valiant work in Iowa's second line of defense. Donovan and McCloud made excellent work of the grand game. They held their positions strongly and aided the tackles materially in the assault made on them. Buckley and Curtlough bore much of the heaviest work of the game and stood it well. Buckley showed his all star offensive ability in the grand game by grabbing Main's fumble in the first half and running forty-five yards with the ball. Siberts and Hollebeck played fine games both on defense and offensive. Many of the longest gains were made by them and they were of no great advantage. The tackles were next to the pass play.

Captain Hollebeck stated after the game to reporters who accounted the back team that the score was not just the variety of the "backs" and was even more of a best at helping the runner and stopping opposing gains than he was in the first practice game. The TACKLES WORK

The Tackle's Position a Very Hard One—On the Opposing Tackle and End is Against Him.

"Of course every member of a football eleven has a certain amount of work to perform, and each is to a certain extent justified in thinking that he has his share of work to perform, but the tackle has a hard row to hoe if the opposing tackle and end know how to play the game. This is especially true when a tackle is on the defensive. The end on his side naturally plays way out, so that he is left alone. The business of the end and the tackle on the other side is to see that he doesn't get into the play, especially if it be around his end. Thus the defensive tackle has two men opposed to him, and he must get by both and not get beat out. So some idea of work required of a tackle may be had. He must not play so far in near the center that he can be shut in by the end and tackle—boxed, it is called; on the other hand he must not play so far out that it is possible to put a play through in the side of him, near the goal line. And on the offensive he must run with the ball, form part of the interference and get down the field on kicks almost as quickly as the ends. He must be at once light and quick and thoroughly aggressive. One realizes he has that, and his playing, if good, is seen by all, and he has the applause of the spectators as some compensation. The center men, on the other hand, are less conspicuous, and although they may be working hard in defense and otherwise, their work is not so good, nothing of the tackles that of the tackles."—New York Journal.

THE NEW BACKS

Mack and Durkee seem to be the new half-backs. They were tried at left and right positions last night and worked well in them. Mack showed more life than any other man on the team. Both men will need a deal of coaching before their education at half back is completed but they show ability to learn fast. Sheehan was tried at left half later in the practice and White also at the position for a few minutes. Other new men in the varsity line-up of the different times were Ross at left end, Roy Buckley at fullback and Johnson at center. Johnson was particularly apt to breaking through the scrub's line and tackling the runner. Buckley played fullback for awhile and Sterry was at left tackle part of the time.

Drake and Mr. Stipp seem to have sapped much of the vim and life that the varsity had when it went into the game Saturday. The eleven was dead Monday evening. Toward the end of the practice, there were a few live moments but most of the movements were half-like. The reserves plunged great holes in the varsity line of the tackles. The center and guards played excellent games. Atkinson and Dunbar seem to have hit the proper pace and if they keep it up will be able to give trouble to any wide men who oppose them this year.

The three reserve elevens were pitiful against the varsity in turn last evening. Captain Hollebeck kicked both teams' work to score touchdowns. Captain Hollebeck kicked both teams' work to score touchdowns.

Prexie on the Assembly

President MacLean expresses future outlook for the University Assembly.

President MacLean when seen in his office this morning expressed the following sentiment in regard to the University Assembly, "I wish to thank heartily the members of the university, of its faculties and student body, for their cooperation in sustaining the university. The day of the week for holding the assembly may be shifted from time to time in order to accommodate speakers from abroad. Therefore the students should watch the announcements on the bulletin board.

"Heads of departments and students are directed to send notices of general interest to my office by noon of the day preceding the assembly in order they may be printed on the announcements. It is intended that each notice shall be so good that one cannot afford to miss even one. The outlook for meetings and exercises shows an embarassment of choice, and the presid­ents intention to change the day for the assembly in order to give students the best of chances to hear the great speakers who from time to time visit the university."

Among other things President MacLean wishes to express his gratitude to the faculty and student body for their hearty co-op­eration in the painful duty of vac­cination.

Senior Laws Elect

Senior Laws met on call of President MacLean, Monday, at 1:30 p.m., for the election of officers. The meeting was called to order and the election was held.

On informal ballot the following candidates were named: Bordner, Miss Grossen­baugh, Clagg, McCulla, McGuire and Bisr. Three interesting formal ballots were necessary to name the winner, placing the gravel into the hands of R. L. Bordner, who accepted in a felicitous manner.

On motion the rules were sus­pended and the remaining officers elected were as follows: V. F. W. Crockett, Sec. Miss Grossen­baugh, Treas. W. N. Pomeroy, Ser­gent-at-arms J. M. Hunter and C. C. R. Hunter, Delegate to Pres. J. T. Tilden.

Upon adjournment, peace and harmony prevailing, the "Sons of Thems" repaired in a body to Clapp's Smoke House, while street and campus resonated with, "Who are? Who are? We are the Laws of 1902!"

The following from the New York Evening Journal seems to indicate that the rich as well as the poor have their troubles in getting through college. — "New Haven, Oct. 12—Reginald Vanderbilt, according to all accounts, has passed his recent examination in elementary law at Yale, and is now entitled to a diploma and the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, which will be conferred at the next commencement. Young Mr.
Vanderbilt,"ranked" in that study last May, and, therefore cut no

Drake University played a college game on Iowa field Sat­ day. Her players put up an excellent contest against the Var­sity and are deserving of credit for their grit an perseverence.
Their tactics in delaying the game were deserving of censure, but this was apparently a fault in their coaching. On the whole the Christians made a showing highly creditable to their Univer­sity. Their next appearance on Iowa field will be awaited with interest by Iowa Students.

Professionalism

"Approves the accusation mad­ last year by Yale against Harvan's and vice versa, or in any football year, as far as the practice is concerned, the following from the Chicago Record-Herald's interesting. "Players are of two kinds—the amateur and professional. The amateur player is one who gets transportation from his home to the training camp, his room rent free, his board at rates reduced to nothing, pays no tuition and gets a job sweeping out the gymnasium at $2 per week. A professional player is one who won a silver dollar in a foot race at a Fourth of July pic­ cnic when he was a boy."

"The Secret Dispatch" is another successful drama written by Mr. David Higgins, the successful writer of American plays, who has the name of putting into his dramas the something called atmosphere, the mark that breathes life into his characters and naturalness into his situations it may be because he gets both his stories, and his men and women from actual life, experience as he has said, but anyway there they are the whole thing is, you can always tell one of his dramas whether you like them or not, they are his and he can t
make them any other way.

Miss Podzim, the Coloratura soprano who is to sing at the opera house, Oct. 29, is really one of the greatest. The most brilliant proof of her art is shown in her renditions of selections such as the Legenda from Lakome by Delibes, a royal piece in which the composer himself declared he had introduced new and difficult realizations which most coloratura singers find impossible to execute, but which Miss Ross sings with magnificent ease. Miss Stecchino in the most rapid tempo, she holds trills in crescendo and decrescendo as high as all of which are given with a perfection of phrasing.

Columbia this year comes out with a daily paper called 'The Columbia Spectator.' It is a morning instead of evening paper and goes to press at midnight.

President MacLean will receive the Annual National Meeting of the Northeastern Teacher's Association during its assembly at Cedar Falls, on Oct. 16, 17 and 18. While in the normal town President and Mrs. MacLean will be the guest of President and Mrs. Secretar.

The opera house should be packed tonight to its full capacity, the play, good, the company fine and the Elks who bring this entertainment are worthy of patronage. Buy your seats in advance and get a gallon of red rose oil.

The opera was so pronounced a success upon its first performance that the piece comes with the stamp of metropolitan success upon it and is presented by a splendid cast.

No drama this present season has been so pronounced a success as 'The Silver Dagger' by Mark E. Swan. Every member of the excellent cast was selected with a view to their special fitness and the ensemble is not perfection as it is possible to attain. 'The Silver Dagger' will be seen here tonight.

A good light to study by is a comfort and not a necessity to a night student. Throw away the miserable kerosene you are burning and get a gallon of red rosin.

No smoke, no smell, no chared wick and a light like gas. It can be had only at the following places.
