MINNESOTA OR IOWA—WHICH

MANY THINGS MAY HAPPEN

Gophers Rely on Strength and Have the Stone Wall Idea Down Pat—
Iowa Relies on Quickness and Players Have it Yet—Gophers Look Like Winners

A hard close contest is expected on Iowa field tomorrow afternoon when Iowa and Minnesota play their third football contest. The previous games resulted in favor of Minnesota, one in 1884 which is beyond the memory of present players. The second was one on Northrup field a year ago, lacking one day. Last year's game will be remembered for some time by Iowa the feel-ups growing out of the Gopher's try for the Big Ten championship, the interest in tomorrow's battle Iowa has sworn to defeat Minnesota and defeat her badly if possible.

Minnesota brings to Iowa field tomorrow a team that has been undoubtedly improved by defeat Last Saturday's contest with Nebraska in which Minnesota kept the Nebraskans on the defensive the last twenty minutes of the game. Even five minutes before the final whistle there was no score. Minnesota's defeat was due out to any great lack of development in her style of play. Two men who were the side lines during that game will be in the contest tomorrow.

The Gophers have been improving steadily this week in the little points in their play which were somewhat ragged last week. This will present Iowa team tomorrow a team which is just as strong as the one she presented on Northrup field a year ago. The style of play is the same. She does not try to make her strength her game. She wants her team going at a neck and neck to make her steady gains. If she defeats Iowa the score will not be anything much, because the game for the Gopher team can not score more than that number of points in the seventy minutes of play. Her line men are a tower of strength. They lean up against each other like stone walls and their charges are heavy. Some reports have, indeed, come from Northrup field to the effect that lighter men in the backfield will give a more open style of play to Minnesota tomorrow but it is difficult to believe. The Dr. Harry Williams would or could change in a week the style of play which he has chosen for his teams for the three years he has coached Min n. ts. If he has made any change it may prove disastrous to Iowa, for while the Hawkeye center is strong, almost impregnable, the Iowa ends are weak so that almost anything can run around them.

Iowa knows exactly what she has to meet tomorrow. She is known for it several weeks, for a year, in fact. There is a possibility that she will meet it. Coach Knipe has been working wonderfully hard on the men and they have been doing their best to improve under his directions. So far as seen in practice, however, that best has not been of a quality which will spell victory tomorrow. The Gophers are slow, they play high in the air, they do not slip, their interference is ragged. They lack the vim, the dash, the fire, the enthusiasm which has made football players under Knipe. Those who remember the recklessness and abandonment with which the champions of '99 and '00 played their football have noticed the great difference between their playing and the playing of the present Iowa team. This week it has been very, its conscientiousness, it is doing everything required of it in the best way it can, but it hasn't yet shown the winning mark of the men who were against hope that the team will show it tomorrow: that there may be something in the battle against a team superior to anything they have yet met which will force the men to fight their very best and play the game Knipe wants them to play. He is a man who in fifty years to do that and it is possible they may do it. Minnesota, with her reliance on her own ability and her sympathy to win her battles. She has never had it and it is not in her style of play. Minnesota may win tomorrow without playing the fine quality of football which is required of Iowa in order to win. Even if Iowa is defeated tomorrow there is yet hope that the team may develop the winning quality in its later games, for it is an objection but that it is in the men.

There is always the possibility that Minnesota may happen to win the game. Iowa may get the advantage of Minnesota tomorrow and under spur of that advantage she may scare and keep up the victorious pace. Minnesota may suddenly from her form. The game may be very close and decided by a flies. Signals when Iowa stands as much show to make as Minnesota. Neither team will be absolutely sure of victory until after final whistle blows. Both teams will go into the game prepared for a hard contest There is enough in the Iowa team to fight her own game and Minnesota is sure not to allow a victory go down against her with out a fierce struggle. Minnesota fights to redeem herself from defeat a week ago at a non-confer­ ence college. Iowa fights for a chance at the western championship and to even up with Minnesota.

The best wishes of all Iowa will be with the old gold eleven in Iowa field tomorrow afternoon.

And as for the result, we shall see what we shall see.

HANDS THE WINNER

IN FIRST CONTEST RUN

A bunch of fifty runners faced the starter in the first of the contest series of the cross country runs yesterday. Prof. C. W. Eastman, J. V. Westfall and H. H. Bush judged the start and finish while Max Meyer held the stop watch. W. L. Baugh registered the runners at the turning point. The start was made at 4:15 p.m., the men going off at a swinging trot. The course lay from the V. M. C. A. to the Min­ nehaha hotel and return, a distance of a little over four miles. The best previous time over the course was 35 minutes but in yester­ day's contest Hands was a point ahead against his hopes that the team will show it tomorrow: that there may be something in the battle against a team superior to anything they have yet met which will force the men to fight their very best and play the game Knipe wants them to play. are a splendid innovation or rather innovation of an old custom.

Along with her athletic prestige Iowa wishes to maintain her reputation for continuous treatment of visiting athletic teams. Freshmen in particular should be warned that any approach at rowdism or unfair treatment of opposing athletes is not practiced by Hawkeyes and will not be tolerated. Victory is shrills by such tactics and defeat rendered disgraceful.

No loyal student will fail to attend the mass meeting tonight. It is called for 10 o'clock sharp and the program will be short so as to allow those who have engagements later in the evening to keep them. Much of the spirit with which Iowa goes into tomorrow's game depends on tonight's meeting.

At Cornell University yesterday the student body met and marched to football practice in order to encourage the team. This would seem to be a good scheme and points to an intensely loyal student body.

The cross country runs are popular as shown by the crowd of starters last night, and they are also of inestimable benefit to distance runners.
