pin is preferable to each class selecting some design of its own as its whim may dictate. This being granted, do the seniors in their wisdom think they can select a pin of such beauty that coming generations will take it up as the senior pin of their own accord? That has been the pipe dream of seniors classes for years but it has never come true. The plan last year inaugurated by all the classes in the university was a good one. An emblematic design of the letter "I" was selected and agreed to by every class. Honesty and good faith call upon those who selected the pin to stand by their acts.

The Student: I Store

The I. S. C. Student in its story of last Saturday's game gives vent to the following:

"Although we lost the game it consoling to think that we didn't make our touchdown by stealing distance every time the line was moved."

This is a misrepresentation and it is inexcusable. If there was any tendency to overreach each other between the lines-men, Saturday, it was introduced by Ames. At, all, bl, the time keeper said had been trained for two years to hold line. This man in his attempts to pull the line along when Iowa had the ball, twice broke the chain between the two sticks and he showed his two years training in his ability as a ground gainer. Ames should be above trying to win by such means. The Iowan would suggest that if that fellow is coming back to school then we take him."

In the proportion that the number of students enrolled at Michigan bears to that of Iowa must our loyalty, enthusiasm and generosity toward athletics bear to those of Michigan for Iowa to compete with Michigan on an equal footing.

The elder Cato ended every speech with the phrase, however irrelevant to the matter he was speaking of, "Carthago delenda est." This Iowan is contemplating making similar use of "We must have a gymnasium."
