TO PRACTICE WITH SCRUBS ON IOWA FIELD TOMORROW

All Students Asked to Cheer— Admission Free—Nyle Jones, Hero— Redeeming Features of the Game

Dr. Knipe will line up the varsity against the reserve team for two thirty minute halves on Iowa field tomorrow afternoon. The game is designed to give the varsity an opportunity to regain confidence in its own ability and every student should be present to yell himself hoarse in encouraging the team. The larger the score the better it will be, and the louder the yelling the more will the object of the game be accomplished. Admission will be free to all. The only thing that will be asked the students is that they fill the grandstand and keep off the field.

The varsity schedule is well arranged to give the team a chance to round up the season in improved form. The Washington game Saturday is the easiest of the three remaining games, the Missouri game the week following is a little harder and the Illinois game Thanksgiving day is the hardest of all. Dr. Knipe has not given up hope of a turn in the affairs of the varsity. He will work the rest of the season without let-up, doing the very best he can with the candidates for the team. The IOWAN feels sure that every student will support him loyally. More men at the open practices, more students who show that they care deeply for the success of the team, is the way to help the coach and the university. The opportunity is now greater than ever.

MICHIGAN'S GREAT MATERIAL

The University of Michigan has gathered about Coach Yost the greatest collection of football material ever collected in the west. Stars of the first magnitude are as plentiful at Michigan as they are rare at Iowa. The Hawkeyes have had but one star, Clyde Williams, in late years, but Michigan has five players on her team, Heston, Hernstein, Weeks, Sweeley and Maddock, who are as light and shifty on their feet as Clyde Williams was. Michigan's offense is the greatest machine ever seen in the west. It is superior to that of Iowa's Champions of '99 and '00, though the Hawkeye defense of those years was better than Michigan's of today. The Iowa team entered the game Saturday facing great odds and the difficulties under which they labored might well have appalled the stoutest heart among them. There was Maddock, tearing down the field like a wild automobile, who jumped over Jones when he went to tackle him—a man as big as Faulk and as fast and shifty as Clyde Williams. There was Sweeley, who was almost as bad as Maddock and nine other men who were close behind Maddock and Sweeley in the great playing of the game. There was much to excuse Iowa's showing under those odds. Michigan played the greatest game, the hardest game, without mercy and without let-up that has ever been seen on a western gridiron.

NYLE JONES THE HERO

Nyle Jones was the hero of the Iowa team. From start to finish of the game he played without let-up, always doing his best and never sparing himself. Time and time again he stood in Iowa's backfield with not a thing between Iowa's goal line and the terrible runner that approached save himself. Time and again he made wonderful tackles of those swift runners, tackled them when they had interference running in front of them as well as when they ran alone and only twice did he miss his man. Then it was because interference made it impossible to tackle him. Under difficulties that might have caused the stoutest to despair, he did his best with himself and with the team. He is a hero whose bravery should be remembered at Iowa as long as that awful score remains in Hawkeye memories.

There were others who did bravely for Iowa too. The score was very, very black but it was not all dark for Iowa on Ferry field. Every one of the Iowa players who came from the field at the end of the awful slaughter had done some good work, had played at times in a manner to merit praise and to save his record from an unredeemed black mark. Roy Buckley, too, who left the field an account of injury during the second half, had twice gained five yards on Michigan and had made many good tackles of Wolverine runners. Before the first touchdown was made, Iowa advanced the ball from her own 45 yard line to Michigan's 45 yard line, a distance of 30 yards which was more than Wisconsin could gain at any one time against Michigan. The first-half ended just as Iowa had held Michigan on the Hawkeye ten yard line. In the second half Iowa twice braced and held Michigan to small gains. Michigan was twice held for downs by Iowa and five times compelled to punt on their third down.

Donovan played a strong hard game at guard and McGowan did his best at tackle. Berry gained against Michigan several times and Ross made a number of good tackles. Walker, who went in as end at the end of the first half, played a good game throughout. Captain Hollenbeck played a better game than he has previously played this year. The Buckley brothers gained considerable ground for Iowa and made many fine stops of the Michigan runners and White made a hard, low tackle of Sweeley when that irrepressible runner seemed to have gotten loose for a touchdown. Briggs and Johnston both passed the ball well.

MINNESOTA SPY CAUGHT SAW PRACTICE AT UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

Gopher Track Athlete Caught Spying on Badger Football Practice and Ducked in the Lake

A Madison dispatch in this morning's Record-Herald tells of the ill-fortune which attended a Minnesota track athlete during a visit to Wisconsin. Many Iowa students will remember Robertson who ran the middle distances for the Gophers in last spring's dual meet.

It seems that Mr. Robertson was sent to Madison to learn what might be of the style of play, signals, etc., of the Wisconsin football team. His interest in pure athletics lead him to rent a room overlooking the football practice field and make himself otherwise conspicuous.

He was captured on the field by men who noticed his over anxious interest in the practice. On being recognized and called by name by one of Wisconsin's track men who chanced to be present, Mr. Robertson confessed the object of his visit.

He was taken into custody by several substitutes until after practice and then given a thorough ducking in Lake Mendota. Later he was allowed to change his clothes and depart.

This incident will recall to the minds of many of the older students the similar experience with Mr. Caldwell of St. Paul which nearly resulted in the rupture of forensic relations between Iowa and Minnesota.

Proposition for Debates with Illinois Turned Down

The league proposed by Illinois, to enter with Iowa, Wisconsin and Indiana into a four cornered debate each year was turned down by the debating league, at their meeting last night. The universal sentiment seemed to be that such a league would lower our standards. The league, however, are anxious for new fields to conquer in the debating world. Last night they ordered the secretary to send a challenge to Michigan.

Dr. Humphrey, H. M. '95, one of the most successful practitioners of medicine in Iowa, was visiting in the city the past week with his brother-in-law, P. G. Ingersoll, H. M. '05, and renewing old acquaintances. Dr. Humphrey is president of the Homeopathic Medical Association of Iowa, and as such is serving the profession very creditably.

L. B. Green, H. M. '04, suffered an operation for appendicitis last Friday morning. His father came Thursday evening to be with him during the operation. Mr. Greene is recovering rapidly and will be able to attend classes again in a few days.

POWERS TOMORROW

Lord Chumley, Monsieur Beaucaire, the Gambler, Afternoon and Evening

Powers is an American and an artist of the first rank. He has the power to reach the heart, to arouse the imagination, to excite laughter, and to paint his pictures with such power that he is forgotten and his auditors live in the world of the artist's making.

One of the best things in his whole repertoire is Lord Chumley which he gives in the afternoon, Wednesday. In the evening he will give Monsieur Beaucaire, a dramatic romance, the most captivating of all his programs. Every student ought to hear Mr. Powers at one or the other of these occasions if he cannot hear both for there will be no better entertainments at the opera house this season than these two. Reserved seats can now be had at Wieneke's for 35 and 50 cents.

Lambert-Leavitt

The marriage of Byron J. Lambert and Miss Helen Leavitt took place Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents in Waterloo. The groom is a well known member of the faculty of the civil engineering school. He and his bride will be at home in the Dr. Johnson flats at 24 N. Clinton street.

A Retrospect

During Dr. Knipe's first year as coach at Iowa several thorough shake-ups in the varsity were necessary before a winning team, the nucleus of the teams of 1899 and 1900 was developed. The defeat by the State Normal School in that year was followed by a shake-up in the varsity which sent to the first team Clyde Williams, Joe Warner, Jim Brockway, Emmett Burrier, Buck Morton, and Mark Baker.

At the close of the season of 1898 ten of the afterward championship team of 1899 had found places on the varsity. Scarcely three of these had been in the games early in the season.

Don't Knock

During his occasional visits to the campus since Saturday the editor of the IOWAN has been astonished to hear considerable knocking on Dr. A. A. Knipe. Certainly it is hard enough for a coach to see his team give up during a big game without having the blame and ignominy of that defeat heaped upon his own head. If blame there is, it is certainly not with coach Knipe who has worked untiringly throughout the season to develop the team which shall at least do credit to the university.

By following the tactics of 1898 Dr. Knipe may yet bring out a team which will be, as in that year, the winner on Thanksgiving Day.

If Iowa is to do anything in the way of football the remainder of the season it will be necessary for the student body to turn out at practice and by encouragement rather than knocking, help Dr. Knipe to develop the team.

Week of Prayer

TO PRACTICE WITH SCRUBS

The quality most needed by the varsity just now is a fierce determination not to have the varsity lose and the students of the university can aid in cultivating this by everyone taking an intense interest in the varsity's success. More spirit, much more spirit is needed. A great love for the university, a desire to work their hardest and fiercest that Iowa might not lose made Iowa's great team of '99 and '00. The university never had the stars that Michigan has, but it has had men who loved their alma mater and who would work like everything for her. It is more and more of these men that are needed at Iowa.

The university can forgive and forget to a great extent. It will not give up. Coach Knipe, whose ability and fitness for the hard task he has at Iowa has many times been tried and proven, will keep working away until the last moment of the football season, trying to make a team out of the candidates which are given him. To the football player who quits now, little sympathy or consideration can be extended and the man who knocks on the coach is in the same boat. But the IOWAN does not believe that any Hawkeye player will quit or knock. Everyday for the rest of the season, it is up to the Iowa students to support the team with hearty interest and to make a spirited demand for good playing by the team.
