WASHINGTON SATURDAY

ST. LOUIS TEAM TO PLAY IOWA

Washington University's Team Started on Tour at a Gain in Funds to Support It—Need of Gymnasium

Washington University, of St. Louis, comes to Iowa field Saturday for her first game with Iowa. Washington has a strong team this year and the game will be one of the best of the season on Iowa field.

Washington has made great efforts this year to develop a strong team, $35,000 was raised during the past year to spend on the football team this fall. White of Michigan, who was elected to coach the team and the best advantages in every way have been made for the team.

Washington to kick her game with Iowa Saturday as—one of the biggest contests of the season. While Iowa will doubtless be able to call some of her best men, Washington has the advantage of the varisty to a lot of trouble before the game ends.

The attendance in any case when a game should be large, as the varisty needs a great deal of encouragement at the present time and the athletic treasurer needs every admission which can be obtained.

NEED OF A GYMNASIUM

The need of the university for a gymnasium was strikingly emphasized by the result of the Michigan-Iowa game Saturday. The game was one of a strong university spirit among our athletes, the spirit that will make our players work their hardest and do their utmost to prevent their university from losing. This spirit can best be developed in a large gymnasium, where fore or dairies can be come together every day and find enthusiasm and spirit in their athletes.

There are fifty candidates for the football team—every student can come in contact with a healthy developed enthusiasm developed by the candidates, there would be more spirit of the do or die order that has made our athletic teams in the past.

Iowa can only develop her students partially and can only develop her university spirit partially as long as she has no gymnasium. In every department of our athletics is illustrated continually the great and crying need of the university for a gymnasium.

VARIETY PRACTICE

Coach Knipe shook up the team last night at the practice on Iowa field in an attempt to better the playing of the varisty. Coulthard was elected to tackle and Walkenhorw who played Conrath's end so well after he was sent in to take his place in the Michigan game, was played at right end. Stoltenberg was elected to guard back. The Buckleys began at halfback but were changed around in other places during the practice. Many men were tried in several positions and some new men at almost every place on the team.

The signal practice was fast and without let-up. Jones was at center directing the work of the varisty and almost every regular player and substitute was out.

Captain Melner of the reserve team gave his team chances of signals in preparation for today's game and the varisty.

"We are going to defeat Capt. Hollebeck's team," said Capt. Melner at the conclusion of last night's practice. We are going to show people which team is the varisty eleven.

Sibert's hand is getting better rapidly and hopes are entertained that he may be able to play soon.

He will strengthen the team very much when in is able to get out on the line-up, both by his individual playing and by his example. He is the only survivor of the champion team and he has the spirit in his work that made that team the great team it was.

A RUMOR OF QUITTERS

There are slight rumors about quitting the varisty on the varisty who have determined to quit after the Michigan defeat. Iowa truly sincerely hopes that the appearance of the men with whose names these rumors are associated at the daily practice will soon stamp the rumors as without foundation. Coach Knipe will be able to find men to play football for the university whether the men quit or not; but the man who quits after having received the instruction for weeks that have been given him in having caused the university to rely and count upon his services is entitled to very little consideration from his master. It is to be hoped that there is no student at the university who desires to join the Blackmores of the '98 team. It has been hard to forget and forgive the few men who have quit in the past, but they will be hard to forgive and men who may quit today. The very least we can ask of the football men is that they keep on trying.

CANNOT FOOL Parents Now

An information bureau is being organized at Michigan. One has existed at Harvard for some time it is understood. They are private detective agencies to keep track of the work of students and to notify the parents of students concerning their work in college. In some ways they have access to university records and by this means, make regular reports to the parents of the students. This is a great help to the parents in guiding their sons and keeps them informed of what they receive so much for all information furnished. It is said that in large schools it is quite possible for the authorities to keep track of so many students and this scheme has been proved perfectly satisfactory by the respective parents.

Y. M. C. A. Lecture Bureau Secures Talented Singer for Extra Numbers on the Course

The Y. M. C. A. lecture bureau has been fortunate in securing an open date in the concert tour of Mr. Eugene Cowles and his company. Mr. Cowles comes heralded near and far as one of the greatest living basso ex- except Delakesske and the fact that in his two weeks, itinerary in the middle west, Iowa is the smallest place in population visited would seem to show that we are especially favored in being allowed to hear him. He will be accompanied by a talented company composed of Signora Gila Ciaparelli, Miss Clara Farrington and Signor Gaetano Merola.

Mr. Cowles was for many years leading basso with the Bostonians and afterwards took on the leading roles with Alice Neilson in the "Fortune Teller." Mr. Cowles will appear at the opera house on Tuesday Nov. 18 under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course. Tickets can be obtained at Carnegie and some book store.

TODAY'S ASSEMBLY

Diversity in Program—A Musical Number

A diversity was given in to-day's assembly program in the presentation of a musical number. The aim is to make the assembly programs varied and interesting. The president assured the student body that other musical numbers might be expected. This morning's program consisted of a flute number entitled "An Alpine Scene" by C. Schenck. This was followed by two vocal solos "When the Heart is Young" by Mr. Clark and "An Open Secret" by Miss Anna Close. The medical quartet then gave "Legends" from "Parks." The next assembly will be on Thursday, November 20.

John R. Kochne D. D. will deliver a series of nine lectures on "The Reasonableness of Chris- tianity," beginning November 10. The Sunday lecture will be in the Presbyterian church, and the others in the Congregational. These lectures are scientific rather than religious, and by common consent are the most powerful on the American platform. No admission will be charged.

In B. F. Pelton, L. 01 was elected clerk of the district court of Linn County at the recent election. Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lambert have arrived in the city, and have located at their new home on Clinton street.

The Sophomore medical class will begin dissection tonight.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

All of Last Year's Team Back—Will Schedule College Teams

The outlook is bright for a winning basketball team this winter. Ross, Parsons, Farrell, Schenck and Brock are back again this year and will try for places on the team. Regular basketball work has not begun yet, but will start the first week in December, in Close Hall gymnasium.

A great many offers of games have been received at Close Hall from various teams such as company H of Monmouth, Ill, Upper Iowa University, Rock Island Y. M. C. A., and Burlington, Y. M. C. A. No games have been scheduled as yet, but the policy this year as last will be as far as possible to invite only college teams. Last year's team played through their schedule and won all but two games, with all of that team back again in addition several promising alliance of merit who will try for the team, the immediate future of a basketball looks rosy.

The Constitution
In the first number of the University Reporter issued thirty-four years ago there is an editorial telling of the hopes, ambitions and objects of that early publication. These ideals in the passing of the years have crystallized into the history of the Reporter and its successors, the Vidette-Reporter and the Iowan. These ideals are today observed and honored on the Iowan as much as when they were first promulgated. The article referred to, follows:

"How our Paper is Conducted.
The Reporter is published by the students of the Iowa State University. Our columns are open to all the students and teachers of the university as well as to the graduates and friends of the institution throughout the country. No subject is excluded save politics, which we will discuss only as a science, our doors being permanently bolted against all political quibbles."

The above might well be called the "Constitution" of university newspapers.

Every five years the University of Wisconsin publishes a general catalogue of officers and graduates. We would suggest to the university editor and publisher of Iowa the value of such a work. To compile such a catalogue requires a vast amount of labor, but the alumni would find fully the effort.

The time of the year has arrived, when the freshmen must be advised, that it is the custom of the university to have a freshman banquet.

Large Majority
The following piece of mathematics shows a very natural but none the less ludicrous mistake. It comes from the New York Tribune.

"At the hour of writing indications are that the republicans will have 210 out of a total membership of 386, giving them a comfortable working majority of 176.
