ARCHAEOLOGY SCHOOL
IOWA SEeks TO JOIN THE SCHOOL AT ATHENS

Part of Admission Fee Has Been Raised
"The Iowa Society-Museum of the Work"

An effort is being made to place the State University of Iowa on the list of universities supporting the American School of Classical Studies at Athens. This school is under the general supervision of the Archaeological Institute of America, an association which aims to unite those who are interested in all branches of archaeology. Members of the institute pay $8 a year and receive in return the American Journal of Archaeology. The membership fee is made large enough to yield a moderate income to the Institute, an income which is used first to carry on excavations and explorations, secondly to support fellowships, the holders of which are trained in archaeology, and thirdly to publish the results obtained by these fellowships and by the different schools under its care. The total membership of the Institute was formed last year with a fund of $5,000, and the interest on this amount is expected to support the work of the institute, and they of the different universities. The universities which carry on the school are responsible for a part of the salaries of the members of the school from their own funds.

New Fraternity House Opened Yesterday With Amauroth and Evening Parties.

The local chapter of Sigma Nu entertained their friends of the university and town yesterday afternoon and evening at their new home on College Hill. The house which was built during the last summer especially for the fraternity and upon plans drawn up by themselves is suitably fitted for chapter purposes in every way. The first floor contains a large hall and library room, a hugging room, parlor and large rooms. The evening reception hall and library are arranged with two, wide, cased openings so that they make an excellent dancing floor. The room of the first floor is finished in selected red oak and the floors are of the same material. The dining room in which forty can be served at once is in the basement, against the kitchen, pantry and porter's rooms. The second stories of the lots where the houses are given over to study rooms of which there are eleven capable of use in every way.

Yesterday the dining room was prettily draped and darkened and the table where coffee was poured was beautifully decorated. While Marshall Niel roses and smilax graced the fresco's colors, both white and gold furnished the color scheme for the tables and service, producing a lovely effect.

President MacLean speaks tomorrow at 7 o'clock before a meeting of the teachers of Linn county in Cedar Rapids.

The senior laws commence an eight week's course in the subject of Trusts under Professor Richards today.

The National Association of State Universities will meet in Washington, D.C., Jan. 10 to 15. President MacLean, who is a member of the executive committee will attend the meeting and read a paper presented to the Cecile Rhodes Fund.

The varity "I'll men met last night at Close Hall to take their final examinations. The editorial committee was appointed to consider plans for permanent organization. At this meeting it was decided that the committee will report soon. It is intended to form an "I' fraternity having for its object the promotion of Iowa athletics.

A Painful Parallel

Says the Daily Iowan in a recent editorial:

"The elder Cato ended every speech with the phrase, however irrelevant to the matter he was speaking of—'Carthage delenda est.' The Iowan is contemplating similar use of 'We must have a gymnasium.'"

Keep at it brother. Northwestern students have been making the same observation for something under a decade of years, and the gym is in sight, albeit somewhat shadowy. Yet there is really no telling when it will materialize. Perhaps next year. Perhaps in 1950. Stand to the guns, nevertheless. It is a paltry cause that cannot outlast a few years of defeat. Perhaps the day of realization is not too far distant, after all. The 75-0 and 107-0 scores may yet tip the other way.

It is a long fight and a hard fight, but it is worth the candle. --The Northwesterner.

All Freshmen Team

The abolition of class teams in the University while dictated by sound policy and the result of one of the saddest events in our history is yet to be regretted by all lovers of football for the reason that it cuts off the greatest channel of supply, of material for the varsity. Class teams and particularly the freshman team, were the kindergarten where men were taught the rudiments of football and a great many players came out to try for the class team on this account who would never think of going to varsity practice. In many instances these men gradually learned the game and came to fill places on the first team. If the class team could be re-instituted without its accompanying danger of injury to the players, certainly much good would result. Place the class teams under the supervision of an old player as regular coach who would have power to keep any man from playing, make the class team men get in condition the same as first team players and all objections to the class team would be removed. If this cannot be done with all the classes, certainly a freshman team could be organized. This would be the team which would get out the most new material and could be made to include the freshmen of all colleges.
